Talladega May Issue Bonds.

It is proposed that the city of Talladega issue bonds to the extent of $60,000 with which to buy the plants and franchise of the Talladega Gas, Light and Water Company and to erect an electric light plant in Talladega. This is the outcome of the differences between the municipality of Talladega and the company in question.

Engram Murder Case.

The grand jury at Eufaula has adjourned after finding twenty-four true bills. Among these are indictments against Solon Moore, John Brazier, Robert Stevens, John Miller, Gertrude Howard and Anna Vaughan, charged with the murder of Jared Engram, and they are lodged in jail there. The trial will be one of the most interesting and exciting ever witnessed in Eufaula. It will be heard this week.

Three Men Killed.

James O. Stewart was killed at Bruce mines, five miles from Oakman, by a fall of slate. He had arrived at the mines only two days before, and had gone to work.

Charles Evans, a white miner, was killed in the mines at Adger by falling coal. The man was at work with others when the coal tumbled down on him without warning, crushing his life out.

Monroe Ward, age 18, while working at the Goethite mines, was run over by a tram car and so badly injured that he died.

Health Conditions of Alabama.

Dr. W. H. Sanders, state health officer, in an interview a few days ago stated that outside of smallpox, which prevails in a number of places, the general health conditions of Alabama are good. He added that wherever proper measures are being taken to keep down the smallpox excellent results are attained and the disease is being rapidly eradicated; but there are many places where little is being done, hence the disease has not been stamped out. Dr. Sanders has just completed a tour of North Alabama in connection with the smallpox situation.

BRIEFLY NOTED.

The sad news has reached Selma of the death of Mr. Baker Mangum of yellow fever at San Geronimo, Isthmus Tehauntepec, Mexico.

It seems almost certain that Demopolis is to have a $100,000 cotton mill. Northern capitalists will unite with local business men, and the mill is assured.

Governor Johnston has accepted an invitation to go to New Hampshire on the occasion of the presenting of a testimonial to the battleship Alabama.

Messrs. Bob and Will Scott and Bob Harper were given preliminary trials at Livingston for the shooting of R. H. Seymour several days since. Justice C. B. Hightower presided and fixed the bail at $5,000 each.

W. P. Braden died at the home of his father near Seddon. Mr. Braden was about 24 years old, and for several years had been in the military service of the United States. He was a member of Company M, First Alabama volunteers. After his discharge he joined the regular army.

Miss Lucile Baker, who has filled the office of register in chancery in Morgan county, has resigned, and Chancellor William H Simpson has appointed Hon. L. P. Troup to fill the vacancy. Miss Baker had the distinction of being one of the three women registers in chancery in the state of Alabama.

The cotton crop in the section around Demopolis is in fine condition. The crops in the overflowed district are all up, and, except for a set-back of two weeks, are excellent. Much trouble is being encountered by the farmers in regard to laborers. The country negroes are moving "to town," and labor is getting scarce on the farms.

Duel to the Death.

A duel to the death was fought by Emmett Coy and Boniface Perez, cowmen, in Hidalgo county, Texas, at 100 yards. Winchesters were used. Both men fell dead in their tracks.

The United States senate has passed Senator Pettus' bill amending the act granting the Mobile Shoals Power Company the right to erect and construct a canal and power station at Muscle Shoals.

Verdict of Guilty.

S. A. Lide, charged with the murder of A. B. Johnston, in Montgomery county, some weeks ago, was found guilty by the court and given the life penalty. Lide killed Johnston because of alleged insults to his (Lide's) wife.

Died of Hydrophobia.

The 5-year-old boy of C. C. Pharr, who lives near Phoenix City, died of hydrophobia Monday morning. The boy was bitten several days ago by a mad dog. A madstone was applied to the wound, but developments proved that the treatment was ineffective. During the last few days of illness any attempt to even moisten the child's lips would bring on convulsions.

Murderer Sentenced.

Judge Samuel Greene of the criminal court at Birmingham, Monday, passed sentence upon the two men convicted of the murder of Police Officer J. H. Adams, fixing Friday, July 6, as the date of Miller's execution, and in accordance with the jury's verdict formally sentenced Duncan to life imprisonment. Pending an appeal to the supreme court, sentence was suspended.

Decoration Day at Athens.

Monday was Decoration day in Athens, and all Athens turned out to the city cemetery to witness the Daughters of the Confederacy, members of the Joseph E. Johnston chapter, decorate the graves of the confederate soldiers who are buried in this place, among the number being many whose names are unknown, but whose memories live ever green in the hearts of the people who watch over and tend their graves.

A Peculiar Death.

Near Warrior, Will Washington, an old and respected negro of that place, met a peculiar death a few days ago. He was returning from the Warrior river, where he had been fishing and had reached a point about 100 yards from the railroad bridge. At this point a train came along and a big rock, weighing about forty pounds, was hurled from a dump car in the train and struck the negro a terrific blow in the side. Those with him carried him to his home and he died in about three hours.

Developing Manganese Ore.

An extensive deposit of manganese ore near Piedmont is being developed and the ore shipped to furnaces in the Birmingham district. The mines are located on the East & West railroad in Cleburne county, about eight miles east of Piedmont and are operated by J. H. Mountain. Ten cuts varying in length from 10 to 20 feet have been run into the mountain side in all of which has been found large deposits of ore. Samples taken from these cuts have been analyzed and assay from 42.01 to 53.61 pure manganese. Two of the openings which are 300 feet apart show solid manganese. Ore from one of these cuts with a 15-foot face assays at the top 76.75 and at the bottom 48.12.

Confederates in Louisville.

The Confederates have begun to invade Louisville. Although only the advance guard have arrived up to Monday night, every incoming train will bring great crowds, and by Wednesday morning it is believed there will be fully 100,000 visitors in the city, including 10,000 veterans of Grand Army of the Republic.

THIS IS ASTOUNDING.

AMERICAN ARMY OFFICERS RECOGNIZE SLAVERY.

Return Slaves to Their Masters and Shoot Down Those That Try to Escape—Is This the Republicanism of Lincoln?

Parang Parang (Mindanao) letter. Slavery more hideous in its form than anything that marked the great American tragedy of 30 years ago, flourishes under the protection of the American flag. Not alone, be it understood, in the territory of the Sultan of Sulu, as many writers and public men would have the people of the United States believe, but throughout one-third of the entire Philippine group—the islands that are now a portion of the United States, subject to their constitution and laws. And American officers have been compelled to give at least tacit approval to the institution for the reason that they believe failure to do so would result in the massacre of their little commands.

Throughout Mindanao the holding of slaves marks the man of rank, power and position. Slavery is rooted thoroughly into the social fabric, and it even extends to the fireside of the best element—if any such there be—of the Morro poplation. Slaves are acquired by purchase, by inheritance or gift, by capture and by the inability of the individual to keep his head above the flood of misfortune.

One of the interesting scenes taken from life in this portion of the moral vineyard was enacted here upon the afternoon of January 19.

Shortly after dinner a native appeared at the quarters of the captain commanding the garrison leading by a rope another citizen of the expanded United States. The rope was securely tied around the captive's neck. The captain was bidden to join in holding court, with the captive as the defendant. Seated under a small tree the Sultan of Mindanao, the Dati Baqui and the captain began the hearing. Under the existing circumstances the two savage leaders had forborne to cut the victim's head off and had insisted that he be tried before an officer of the American army.

The court began its hearing. No charge was read to the prisoner, but the Dati, through an interpreter, told the harrowing details of the man's crime. He was a slave—that was all—and he had dared to escape from his master in a mad effort to rejoin the people from whom, many years before, he had been taken by force of arms. The Dati was his master.

The Dati finished his statement, a few words were exchanged by the members of the court, and the prisoner, now permitted to speak, mumbled a few words.

In a moment a lieutenant directed that a sergeant of the guard and one man be sent to him. The prisoner was turned over to his armed escort, and sent to work in an old fort that is being prepared for occupation of the American soldiers.

His sentence was: "To be confined for an indefinite period at hard labor." His crime was: Attempting to take advantage of the rights given him by the American constitution, promulgated by Abraham Lincoln in his famous emancipation proclamation, and sealed with the blood of a million men. And this sentence was passed by a captain of the army of the United States—a man who knew better, but who feared the result of openly affronting the Morro chieftains, knowing that by so doing he would subject his company to the possibility of immediate attack from forces of what size he knew not. Thus has the American government openly recognized the existence of slavery in the Philippines. And let this idea not become confused in the minds of the people. The place where this scene was enacted, where these conditions exist, is not the domain of the Sultan of Sulu, where the United States has no soverignty, but it is on the Island of Mindanao, second in size and importance of the whole group for which the United States paid $20,000,000, and over which the stars and stripes float as a token of ownership.

Every one who knows anything at all of the "conciliation" brought about by the officials with the Morros knows it is simply a system of extensive bribery, by which Sultans and Datis receive so much good American money for no service except forbearance in the matter of cutting American throats.

So far no attempt has been made to take the southern situation by the horns. The Morros are in command of the situation—complete masters of it. They stand in the light of a people who, for a monetary consideration only, permit troops of another power to exist upon their territory. The rights of the United States, south of Luzon, are, with a few exceptions, less than their extra territorial rights in any other foreign country.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

(The slave afterward escaped. A corporal who told the sentry not to fire at the fugitive was reduced to the ranks.)

Hauling Down the Flag.

Several exchanges contain the following "desecration of the flag," which is too valuable an argument against trusts to lose:

"It has been discovered that the government is having its flags made in New York sweat shops by poverty-stricken foreigners, who are paid less than 50 cents a day for twelve hours' work. The fact came out through the medium of a strike of some of the ill-paid employes of a Washington concern, who were paid only 27 cents for the sewing of the forty-five stars into the union blue of the emblem of freedom. At this rate the expert workers, who finish only three flags a day, earned about 80 cents by a day's work.

"When they protested they were coolly informed that the same work was being done under contract for the army and navy departments in New York shops for one-half that price, and they could take it or leave. They left, and their places were immediately filled from a horde of applicants who struggled for an opportunity to earn, as unskilled workers, less than 50 cents a day apiece.

"This is one of McKinley's contracts, and the favored Republican contractor has paid his political contribution from the sweat and blood of his flag-making serfs. Thus is Mark Hanna enabled to rally his cohorts 'round the flag' in support of the adminstration."

COST OF IMPERIALISM.

The McKinley administration—for the last fiscal year and for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1901—on the estimates already made, and appropriations now pending, will cost in round figures $300,000,000 a year more than the administration of the three fiscal years preceding these mentioned. That's the money difference between the empire and the republic. Three hundred millions of dollars a year in taxes, added by the McKinley administration as the price of Imperialism! This year the cost of the war establishment, plus the cost of pensions, will be $4.16 for each man, woman and child in the United States. And yet the President, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy—all the officers of the cabinet, in fact—insist that the insurrection in the Philippines is over. Not including the pension cost in the estimate, the maintenance per man of the American army will cost the country this year $1,503. Including the pension appropriations—which is the basis used by all European countries in estimating the cost of the military establishment—the United States will this year pay out in cash for each soldier carried on the payrolls just $3,240! And as there are now 90,000 enlisted soldiers, it follows that the army payrolls will cost this fiscal year $291,600,000. Add to this nearly $10,000,000 for executive administration expenses and the result is approximately what the empire costs over the republic in the military branch. For many years before McKinley was elected the annual cost of the military branch was below $25,000,000.—Jerry Simpson's Bayonet.

Almost a Dogma.

Senator Teller issues a declaration of faith that is held by a majority of the people. He says:

"I can conceive of no reason or possible excuse for anyone who refused to support the Republican party on the silver question in 1896 supporting that party now.

"I believe the Hon. William J. Bryan will be nominated on a platform acceptable to all true Democrats, silver Republicans and Populists, and if so nominated I will give him my hearty support."

"In" for a Purpose.

From the recent ruling of the treasury department, Porto Rico is "in" the United States far enough for bonded warehouse purposes, but not enough to be part of the United States, it would seem that the island is merely taken in for skinning purposes.

AN ARMY ON THE MARCH.

A Siegle Corps Extends Over Thirty-four Miles of Road.

Few persons have any notion of the vast length of an army on the march. A single battalion of infantry, 1,000 strong—which is the strength of an English battalion—takes up a road length of 525 yards, including about eighty yards for stragglers. A battery of field artillery takes up 200 yards, and a regiment of cavalry takes when marching four abreast, 650 yards. An army corps with its staff, wagons, guns, hospitals, etc., would extend over thirty-four miles of road.

An army marches slowly on the best of roads. It is much more tiring marching in a crowd than walking alone. Soldiers go at the rate of about two and one-half or two and three-quarter miles an hour, and in the English army they do a good day's march when they cover thirteen miles. This accounts for the fact that when news is printed of an army marching to attack surprise is expressed that the attacked layed so long. It takes a day or more for all the men to assemble on the battlefield.

The rates of march for the various arms differ, of course; but the fastest arm has to suit its pace to the slowest. Here are the English official rates: Infantry in small bodies, three miles an hour; infantry in large bodies, two and a half to two and three-quarter miles; cavalry, walking, four miles; cavalry, trotting, nine miles; cavalry, galloping, fifteen miles; artillery, walking, three miles; artillery, trotting, eight miles.

In our army the average march for infantry is from fifteen to twenty miles a day. When troops move in large bodies, and particularly in the vicinity of the enemy, the march is conducted in several columns so as to diminish the depth of the column and to expedite the deployment into line of battle. In large commands the roads, if possible, are left to the artillery and trains. When long distances have to be covered rapidly, it is done by changing gaits. The most favorable ground is selected for the double time, but care is taken not to exhaust the troops immediately before engaging the enemy.

A Royal Architect and Gardener.

Kings are generally supposed to owe their distinction to their exalted position. It is said of King Leopold of Belgium, however, that if he were not King of the Belgians, he would be a king among architects, or among landscape gardeners.

His taste in these directions is probably more marked than his taste for ruling, for it is well known that he detests the ceremonials of royalty, and is never so happy as when inspecting and correcting designs for a new building or planning the laying out of an estate.

Brussels has much cause to be grateful to him in this respect, since it is to the keenness of his eye for the beautiful in landscape that she owes many of her open spaces from which delightful views of the country can be obtained.

The summer palace of the King and Queen of the Belgians is at Laeken, a suburb of Brussels. It is an estate of about 300 acres, and the park and grounds plainly show the influence of the King's love of horticulture and floriculture. They have been so beautifully laid out that they are the pride and delight of his subjects. The King himself superintended the opening of every glade and the arrangements of every group of trees.

Since the Queen shares with her husband a great fondness for flowers, and since Laeken is her favorite residence, it is not surprising that the conservatories there are said to be the finest private conservatories in the world. They were begun in 1874, and have been added to from time to time since.—Youth Companion's.

Every Man is a King.

Only one people and one little valley south of the equator whose sovereignty has not been claimed by some European power now remains. It is the valley of Marotse, fifty or sixty miles wide, north of Litauli, in South Africa, and the only reason why the Marotse, who inhabit it, have preserved their independence is that England and Portugal both claim it, and, therefore, the work of "civilization" is at a standstill.

It may not be as easy to conquer the Marotse when the time comes, for they are a tall, well set up race, very black of skin.

In manners they are very courteous, and in bearing dignified. Every full-blooded Marotse is by birthright a king, and takes his place in the aristocracy of the empire. In fact, as every one is king, there is no head ruler.

The bare fact that he is a Marotse insures the respect of the subservient tribes, and as he grows to manhood a sense of superiority usually implants in the native the dignity of self-respect. All the labor is done by slaves, who have been captured from neighboring tribes.

We are impelled to say we fully endorse the position taken by Judge Adams in declining the nomination. To be consistent he could not do otherwise. Since his name was first mentioned he has taken every opportunity to say he could not accept the nomination.

JUDGE ADAMS DECLINES THE NOMINATION

Clanton, Ala., May 31, 1900

To Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Chairman Populist Campaign Committee.

Dear Sir.—Had I had the opportunity on yesterday afternoon to have respectfully declined the honor tendered me by the State Convention for the nomination of the high office of Governor of Alabama. I would then have done so. While I greatly appreciate the confidence and trust reposed in me by the people, as evidenced by this nomination, my official duties are such as compel my constant attention to them. I have from the first intimation by my friends that they contemplated offering me the nomination, repeatedly declared that it would be impracticable for me to accept. This fact was fully made known by me to the Convention yesterday in my speech made before the nomination.

The clause in the platform which declared that "It was inexpedient at this time to nominate a State ticket," and which was stricken out by the Convention, was in full accord with my views.

To accept the nomination for Governor and make a canvass is against my judgement at this time. And under all the circumstances I therefore most respectfully decline to accept the nomination.

Thanking my friends for the confidence thus expressed,

I am yours very truly,

S. M. Adams.

Populist State Convention

committee was elected, with G. B. Deans of Shelby, chairman.

First district, A. J. Hearne of Washington.

Second district, Frank Baltzell of Montgomery.

Third district, B. P. McDuffie of Geneva.

Fourth district, John P. Pearson of Shelby.

Fifth district, E. A. Phillips of Clay.

Sixth district, E. E. Williams of Tuskaloosa.

Seventh district, N. B. Spears of St. Clair.

Eighth district, C. H. Cooper of Morgan.

Ninth district, Dr. G. B. Crowe of Jefferson.

The following electoral ticket was nominated: G. B. Crowe of Jefferson, J. E. Watson of Calhoun, M. W. Howard of Dekalb, J. H. Wilson of Talladega, J. P. Gaines of Tuskaloosa, J. C. Hicks of Bibb, A. F. Davis of Perry, L. S. Knight of Crenshaw, C. H. Spencer of Jefferson, Dr. D. W. Day of Morgan, H. R. Golson of Elmore.

Dr. Crowe offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That the members of the Populist party in any county where the officers of the party or the members of the executive committee fail to do their duty, be and they are hereby authorized under a call of three or more members of the party to meet and reorganize and select the executive county committee, and that a majority of the state executive committee is authorized to select a new chairman or members of the committee if occasion therefor from any cause arises."

A motion extending the thanks of the convention to the daily papers of Birmingham for the fairness they had shown the Populists in their reports of the conventions was adopted, as well as a resolution of thanks to Sheriff O'Brien for the use of the court room in which to hold the convention.

A motion to ratify the nomination of Whorton Barker for president and Ignatius Donnelly for vice-president by the Cincinnati convention was adopted. Mr. Barker and Mr. Donnelly were invited to come to Alabama during the campaign.

On motion the convention adjourned.

POPULIST STATE CONVENTION.

On Wednesday, 30th inst., the Populist State Convention met in adjourned session in the city of Birmingham. During the session there was probably some fifty Populists present.

Chairman S. M. Adams called the convention to order at 12:20 p.m., and named N. B. Spears of St. Clair as temporary chairman and Frank Crichton of Chilton as temporary secretary.

On motion, a committee of five on credentials, consisting of L. H. Reynolds of Chilton, S. M. Adams of Chilton, A. W. Cooper, of Coosa, Mr. Merritt of Dale and T. B. Pearson of Shelby, was appointed.

The following committee on platform and resolutions was appointed: S. M. Adams of Chilton, Mr. Merritt of Dale, G. B. Crowe of Jefferson, Z. Savage of Fayette and A. W. Cooper of Coosa.

On motion the convention took a recess until 1:20.

On reassembling at 1:25 the committee on credentials reported recommending that the temporary organization be made permanent and that all populists present be entitled to sit in the convention. The report was adopted.

The committee on platform and resolutions reported the following platform:

We, your Committee on Platform and Resolutions, recommend:

1st. That we reaffirm our allegiance to the principles of the People's Party as enunciated in the National platform.

2d. That we deem it inexpedient at this time for the Party to nominate a state ticket.

3d. That we recommend in each county where the Populist Party has failed to nominate a county ticket that one be put out at once; we urge and insist upon this being done, and more especially in regard to a candidate for the Legislature.

4th. That we advocate, and urge upon all voters who are opposed to the liquor traffic, the necessity of supporting candidates who favor the dispensary system as an improvement upon the license system.

5th. That we condemn in unmeasured terms the proposed Constitutional Convention as being inimical to the best interests of the people of Alabama.

6th. That we condemn the resolution passed by the late Democratic convention which recommends that defeated Democratic candidates for the Legislature be consulted in regard to local legislation; such a resolution being unconstitutional, undemocratic, and eminently unfair to the people.

7th. That we endorse the administration of Governor Joseph F. Johnston as having been conducted in the interests of all the people, and having improved the state of Alabama, and been exceedingly economical.

Mr. J. G. Johnson of Dallas moved an amendment designating the national convention held in Cincinnati on May 9 as the convention alluded to the first clause. The amendment was accepted.

Dr. Crowe of Jefferson moved to strike out the second clause which was unfavorable to the nomination of a state ticket.

Judge S. M. Adams of Chilton gained the eye of the chairman and argued in support of the original clause. He opposed the nomination of a state ticket claiming that the party would jeopardize its interests in some counties where the local tickets had some chance to win. In support of his position he said:

"As to reasons why we should not nominate a state ticket. Let us see. In 1892 we elected our ticket by a majority of from 50,000 to 75,000. There is no well informed democrat in the state who denies it. There may be some difference of opinion of our ticket in 1894, but none denies that our ticket was elected in 1892. If we elect our man this year by 100,000 majority they would count us out. The democrats now want a constitutional convention and say it is for the purpose of placing the ballot in the hands of the white man only. They say they want to educate the white people. If we have no state ticket this year we stand a better chance to elect our candidates for state senators and representatives in the different counties. What can be the plea of any man for putting out a state ticket in the face of conditions that prevail? In some counties we have an equal chance, but not so in others. If there is anything in the world to be gained by nominating a state ticket go ahead and name it, and I will give it my heartiest support. Not a man but knows what the result would be in the state. In Chilton county our ticket will win in the August election by 1,200 majority, and yet not a man in the county but knows what the result will be in the state. Some men in that county who go to church and pray and who would like to see a Populist ticket, will not vote for it because they say if they do them they loose all chance of getting the dispensary law. They are slaves to the democratic party.

"The party has in the past taken men from other parties and put them on the ticket. I didn't think it best, but the party said do it and I agreed to it. I dare say if we had elected and seated Kolb in 1892 and renominated him and elected him again in 1894, he would have been here to day. I oppose putting out a state ticket because I fear it will endanger the local tickets in several counties."

After several other gentlemen had spoken on the question, the motion to strike out the section was carried, and it was stricken out.

Section 3 was adopted after considerable discussion.

The clause condemning a constitutional convention was adopted by a rising vote, and the clause condemning the resolution adopted by the State Democratic convention calling on the next legislature to consult defeated Democratic candidates where such candidates are defeated in matters of local legislation, took the same course.

The clause endorsing the administration of Governor Johnson was read. Mr. Spears said that but for Joe Johnston a large part of the white people of Alabama would not be able to go to the polls and vote in August. He said that but for Joe Johnston the right of exemption and the homestead would be nothing of the past in Alabama. He said Governor Johnston had been their greatest friend and stood for the rights of the people.

L. H. Reynolds of Chilton told of the efforts to have a constitutional convention and of the appeals made to Governor Johnston to reconvene the legislature for the purpose of repealing the constitutional convention act. He appealed to the Populists to adopt the resolution.

The motion to adopt the resolution was carried by a rising vote, Mr. Johnson of Dallas voting no.

Mr. Spears said as the convention had endorsed the dispensary he wanted the money to be derived from that source divided equally between the common schools and the old Confederate soldiers. This was embodied in a resolution by Mr. Johnson of Dallas and the resolution was adopted.

The platform as amended was on motion adopted as a whole.

The following State ticket was unanimously nominated by a rising vote:

For Governor—S. M. Adams of Chilton.

For Secretary of State—T. W. Powell of Culman.

For Auditor—M. W. Whatley of Clay.

For Attorney General—LeRoy Watson of St. Clair.

For Treasurer—A. G. Dake of Chilton.

For Commissioner of Agriculture—J. M. Askew of Elmore.

For Superintendent of Education—J. E. Pater of Coosa.

L. H. Reynolds of Chilton was unanimously elected chairman of the campaign committee, with plenary powers to choose the other members of the committee, and to conduct the campaign in the manner he may deem best.

Mr. Johnson of Dallas moved that the state executive committee be reorganized and that it be composed of one member from each congressional district and that the member from each congressional district shall be chairman of the district committee. The motion was adopted.

The following State Executive should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

FIRST—Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.

SECOND—Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.

THIRD—Because, if the father or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.

FOURTH—Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it. It can be taken in summer as well as in winter.

CONFEDERATE PENSIONS.

I have on hand the following State warrants for Confederate pensions, in favor of P. G. Killingsworth, Mrs. C. E. Garner, Thomas R. McCarry, W. T. Jones, Mrs. Lucinda Gray, J. W. Dennis.

The law requires these warrants to be returned to the State Auditor by June 1, 1900, and it is not called for in a few days will be returned.

S. M. ADAMS,
Judge of Probate.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale in my show case, asked me to tell her about it. I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore, and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smiling and informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Biliousness is a condition characterized by a disturbance of the digestive organs. The stomach is debilitated, the liver torpid, the bowels constipated. There is a loathing of food, pains in the bowels, dizziness, coated tongue and vomiting, first of the undigested or partly digested food and then of bile. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets allay the disturbances of the stomach and create a healthy appetite. They also tone up the liver to a healthy action and regulate the bowels. Try them and you are certain to be much pleased with the result. For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Doramus Verbena.

Biliousness is a condition characterized by a disturbance of the digestive organs. The stomach is debilitated, the liver torpid, the bowels constipated. There is a loathing of food, pains in the bowels, dizziness, coated tongue and vomiting, first of the undigested or partly digested food and then of bile. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets allay the disturbances of the stomach and create a healthy appetite. They also tone up the liver to a healthy action and regulate the bowels. Try them and you are certain to be much pleased with the result. For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus Verbena.

AUTOMOBILES WIN IN COURT.

If They Frighten Horses and Cause Runaways That is No Cause for Action.

County Judge Sutherland recently decided a case at Rochester in favor of Jonathan West, who has invented a gasolene horseless carriage, and who was sued by the proprietor of the Swiss Laudry for damages done to the company's wagon by a runaway. The horse drawing the laundry wagon became frightened at West's horseless vehicle and ran away. The laundryman obtained a judgment for $42.95 in the municipal court, and the appeal was argued before Judge Sutherland. The court says:

"If one should find it desirable to go back to primitive methods and trek along a city street with a four-ox team and wagon of the prairie schooner variety, it would possibly cause some uneasiness in horses unused to such sights. Yet it could not be actionable, in my opinion, if a runaway should result, provided due care were shown not unnecessarily to interfere with the use of the highway. Horses may take fright at conveyances that have become obsolete as well as at those which are novel; but this is one of the dangers incidental to the driving of horses, and the fact cannot be interposed as a barrier to retrogression or progress in the method of locomotion. Bicycles used to frighten horses, but no right of action accrued. Electric street cars have caused many runaways. Automobiles operated without steam by storage batteries or by gasolene explosion engines, running at a moderate speed, may cause fright to horses unused to them, yet the horse must get used to them or the driver take his chances.

"It will not do to say that it is proper to run any kind of a contrivance upon the street in which persons may be carried. A machine that would go puffing and snorting through the streets, trailing clouds of steam and smoke, might be a nuisance, but this is not such a case. The temporary inconvenience and dangers incident to the introduction of these modern and practical modes of travel upon the highway must be subordinate to the larger and permanet benefits to the general public resulting from the adoption of the improvements which science and inventive skill have perfected. The judgment appealed from is reversed."

Advice for Nervous People.

"Persons whose nerves are in any way out of gear should not pick hair," observed a well-known specialist in nervous diseases recently, "and, indeed, I am almost willing to go further and to say that they should not handle mattresses or pillows stuffed with hair. The tactile nerves, the nerves that are located in the ends of the fingers, seem to be specially affected by handling of hair or animal wools of any kind. Many good housewives do themselves great injury in picking hair in the repair or alteration of mattresses, and, while they think they will save money by doing such work themselves, they often find out that, besides the personal suffering in consequence, they pay out many times in doctors and medicine bills what they save from the mattress makers. I know of some persons, men more frequently than women, however, who would be thrown into nervous spasms if they were compelled to handle velvet for fifteen minutes; that is, to handle it on the fuzzy or velvety side. Those who are unpleasantly affected by velvet know it and therefore avoid it as much as possible."—Washington Star.

A Pistol as a Pen.

A great deal is being written about the wonderful marksmanship of the Boers, and it is stated as a fact that when a boy reaches the age of eighteen he is presented with a fine rifle by the Transvaal government.

But no men in the world are so accomplished in the use of firearms as our own Texan cowboys. One of these, Petmeeky by name, is the son of a gunsmith and only a boy in years. His favorite rifle trick and probably the most remarkable on record is to throw a brick high in the air breaking it into two pieces with one shot and then with two succeeding shots he shatters each of the two pieces and all before the fragments reach the earth.

Joseph Tumlinson, a famous Texan, was very proud of writing his initials on a tree with a six shooter as he galloped along on his broncho.

Even more astounding is the performance of still another Texan, Adolph Loepperwein, who draws portraits on a board by a rapid succession of revolver shots. Among artists he should rank as an impressionist; certainly he makes an impression on the board.

The Legend of Indian Rock.

The storied valley of the romantic Wissahickon teems with legends handed down from the noble Indians who occupied the woods and dales now forming the most picturesque portion of Fairmount Park. Probably there is no prettier story in literature than the simple legend of Indian Rock, a bold promontory of granite that in one of nature's upheavals has fallen away from the hillside and overhangs the dashing waters of the Wissarickon.

This rock gets its name from the pretty story of the simple hearted love of an Indian maiden. She was, according to the legend, the only daughter of a noble chieftain, whose band of warriors had through their prowess and strength, retained possession of the ever inviting and fertile valley which was named Wissahickon. She was bold of spirit and beautiful. She grew into perfect womanhood and her heart inclined toward a handsome youth and warrior of a tribe that had for years been at war with her own. Many scalps had been torn off in the bloody conflict, and "great heap blood" had been shed. Once, when still a boy, her future lover had been taken prisoner and her girlish heart went out to him. He was finaly ransomed by his tribesmen, but the love seeds had fallen in both hearts and he had pledged himself to return.

Year after year she waited, and he did return only to learn her father was going to compel her to marry the son of a friendly chieftain. Still undaunted, the first lover proposed to her father, a race between him and his rival, the winner to receive the heart and hand of his daughter. The old warrior consented, but the first lover was defeated, and the girl was consigned to wed the man she did not love.

Rather than prove faithless she and her first lover climbed to the top of the famous rock and plunged to their death in the waters of the creek. That is the story of Indian Rock.—Philadelphia Press.

ONE AMERICAN FAMILY.

The Joys Expanded Across the Continent In 245 Years.

James R. Joy writes as follows in the Chautauquan: The founder, Thos. Joy, came over from England as a young, unmarried man of twenty-five, with his fortune to make. He settled in Boston, married the daughter of a bay pilot and Indian trader, and begat sons and daughters, whose births and baptisms, marriages and deaths, are written in the records of the town and church, and printed in the precious "Report of the Boston Record Commissioners."

Four generations have brought us down to 1750, and the great-great-grandchildren of the emigrant have not yet left the tidewater region; it was not until the seventh generation that the family began to spread abroad. The fifth and sixth show slight wanderings from the seaboard into the new inland tiers of townships, for which lands were being granted to the older settlers, after the cessation of the French and Indian wars in 1763. In the seventh generation New England becomes too small. One man goes to Ohio and makes a fortune in farm implements. Three brothers go to Morgan County, Illinois, in 1838, to spy out the land. Settling there with other neighbors from New Hampshire, they create a little prairie colony of New England farmers, clustering about a white Congregational meeting-house. Their children and grandchildren have crossed the Mississippi and settled in Colorado, and California, as merchants and professional men. Another man of the seventh generation finds his life work in Detroit. Still another of the Salisbury families, after turning northward into New Hampshire, and later trying its fortune in Maine, goes to Chicago in the seventh generation and achieves prosperity. The children in the ninth generation from Thomas, the emigrant, are now in their cradles or in school, and three out of every four of them have been born beyond the limits of New England. It was not until 1880 that the first scion of this branch touched the Pacific coast at San Francisco. Tht family had been 245 years in crossing the continent.

The Chameleon's Revenge.

"Mercy! What is that crawling thing?" shrieked four young ladies in the Walnut Hills floral bazaar, as they pointed to a diminutive lizard-like reptile crawling on the cup of atulip.

"That," said Roswell Brooks, with the air of one who knows, "is a chameleon from Brazil, ladies. We received it this morning. Observe, ladies, if you please, that the reptile changes color to accord with that of the object upon which it is placed. It is at present crimson in color because it is crawling on a crimson tulip."

"Dear me!" said the girls, in chorus. "How strange!"

"I now take the chameleon from the tulip," said Brooks, with the air of a professor of natural history, "and place it against my cheeck. What color is it now?"

"Green!" cried the girls.

And so it was. The animal had turned a light shade of green, in spite of Brooks' furious blushes. Scientific gentlemen in the neighborhood were unable to account for the color it assumed, as Mr. Brooks is anything but green.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

People Scattered in Porto Rico.

Charles E. Buell, who was secretary of the United States Special Commission, points out the need in Porto Rico of village communities.

Mr. Buell says that only 19 per cent. of the total population of Porto Rico live in towns the remainedr, 81 per cent. live dispersed in the country, not in villages even, but singly. This scattered state of the people makes it difficult to spread the educational system. The children cannot be sent to school, because they have long distances to go. Thus, so long as the present conditions prevail the extension of public instruction seems impossible. The solution is to group the country people in villages.—San Juan News.

The Man Without Conceit.

The man who doesn't brag about the salad dressing he can make hasn't go conceit enough to care if his hat is smashed in.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

How to Ebonize.

If you would like to convert a plain deal table, or any other similar article into a thing of beauty, try what ebonizing it will do. First of all, you must clean the wood and rub it down with sandpaper. Then sponge it with a pint of water to which you have added a teaspoonful of vitrol. When dry, rub it down with sandpaper once more. It is then ready for the ebonizing solution, which is made as follows: Boil half a pound of logwood chips in three quarts of water (using any old iron saucepan) until the liquid has been reduced to one-third. Then throw in a handful of walnut peelings. Continue to boil gently until the liquid is about half its original bulk, and, lastly, add one pink of vinegar. Now take a brush or sponge and apply a good even coat of the mixture while still hot. When the surface is nearly, but not quite dry, apply another coat, and then a third. When the third coat is nearly dry, lay on a decoction of one ounce green copperas dissolved in a pint of boiling water. A beautiful black will be the result.

Household Knowledge of Food.

In planning for variety in the daily bill of fare, the housewife should not only make a choice of that which will prove appetizing, but of that which gives strength to all the different parts of the body. Many housewives seem to have very little understanding of the daily catering from this standpoint, yet it is not a difficult matter to keep in mind a list of foods that will minister to the various requirements of the body, if the matter is given a little study.

That part of our food which best supplies muscular waste is termed nitrogenous, that which is heating and fat-forming, carbonaceous; while the brain-forming is phosphatic.

Among vegetable foods and cereals, oats supplies the largest proportion of muscle-forming food; beans supply twenty-five per cent. of the muscle-forming principle, while peas supply twenty-three and four-tenths parts; apples supply five parts; eggs supply sixteen per cent. of muscle-giving food; oysters ten parts; fish give about fourteen per cent. of muscle-giving food; oysters ten parts; fish give about fourteen per cent. of muscle-forming food; chicken supplies twenty parts; beef, fat and lean, about fifteen per cent. of muscle-forming food; veal, ten and five-tenths; mutton, twelve and five-teuths; pork, ten parts of muscle food.

This is information every housekeeper should possess and every meal should be served with a variety of food that will give heat, muscle and brain food to the body.

Another point to be understood, especially when there is one or more in the family who suffers from that common ill—indigestion—is the selection of a variety of food that is easily digested. The length of time required to digest various articles of food differ very considerably, and it should be remembered that the longer the process is going on the greater the demand of the digestive powers, and consequently the weaker the stomach becomes. The question then to be considered is what food will most readily digest in the shortest length of time, thus causing the system to remain vigorous by being properly nourished and never overtaxed.

Recipes.

Buttermilk Griddle Cakes—Beat one egg until light, stir into one quart of buttermilk and one teaspoonful of salt; add one teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in two teaspoonfuls of boiling water; mix well, then stir in enough flour to make a good pouring batter. Beat well and bake on a hot griddle.

Cheese Eggs—Take the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs and pound them in a mortar with half a cream cheese, a tablespoonful of grated cheese and a little tomato catsup; add a dust of cayenne and when the mixture is smooth fill the whites of the hard-boiled eggs with it, molding it into the form of a cone. Place the pieces of egg on a small dish and garnish them with plenty of water-cress (or small cress), which has been moistened slightly with oil and vinegar.

Angel Cream—Put in a double boiler one pint of new milk, saving out enough to rub smooth three heaping teaspoonfuls of corn starch. Add to hot milk with one-half cupful of sugar. Take it from the fire and add ten drops of almond extract and whipped whites of three eggs. Mould and pour over, when serving, a rich boiled custard made of one and one-half cupfuls of milk, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and the yolks of three eggs. Flavor the custard with vanilla.

Green Tomato Sauce—Chop fine three large green peppers and two or three onions and mix with a peck of green chopped tomatoes. Saturate the mixture with half a pint of salt and let stand twelve hours; then drain off the juice and put the chopped mixture into a kettle with enough vinegar to cover. Add one cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful each of nutmeg, cinnamon and powdered cloves, and half a teaspoonful each of mace and allspice. Cook soft. Stir often. Put up in jars when cold.

Smothered Chicken, with Spaghetti Balls—Split a two-pound chicken up the back as for broiling. Keep on ice for at least twelve hours, and when ready to cook dry well and dust lightly with flour; sprinkle over with a teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of black pepper. Dot with butter, using two ounces. Put into a moderate oven, and when the butter has melted pour in a half cupful of hot water and cover tightly. The secret of success lies in long, slow cooking and frequent basting. At the end of an hour and a half it will be tender, with a delicious, game-like flavor.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: Labor Strikes—A Question of Present Import Treated in a Way Aimed to Bring About a Better Feeling Between Employer and Employe.

[Copyright 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—At a time when in various districts labor troubles are existing or impending the efforts Dr. Talmage makes in this discourse to bring about a better feeling between both sides of this difficult question is well timed; texts, Galatians, v., 15, "But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another," and Philippians ii., 4, "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others."

About every six months there is a great labor agitation. There are violent questions now in discussion between employers and employes. The present "strikes" will go into the past. Of course the damage done cannot immediately be repaired. Wages will not be so high as they were. Spasmodically they may be higher, but they will drop lower. Strikes, whether right or wrong, always injure laborers as well as capitalists. You will see this in the starvation of next winter. Boycotting and violence and murder never pay. They are different stages of anarchy. God never blessed murder. The worst use you can put a man to is to kill him.

The worst enemies of the working classes in the United States and Ireland are their demented coadjutors. Years ago assassination—the assassination of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke in Phœnix Park, Dublin, in the attempt to avenge the wrongs of Ireland, only turned away from that afflicted people millions of sympathizers. The attempts to blow up the house of common, in London, had only this effect—to throw out of employment tens of thousands of innocent Irish people in England. In this country the torch put to the factories that have discharged hands for good or bad reason, obstructions on the rail tracks in front of midnight express trains because the offenders do not like the president of the company, strikes on shipboard the hour they were going to sail, or in printing offices the hour the paper was to go to press, or in the mines the day the coal was to be delivered, or on house scaffoldings so the builder fails in keeping his contract—all these are only a hard blow on the head of American labor and cripple its arms and lame its feet and pierce its heart. Traps sprung suddenly upon employers and violence never took one knot out of the knuckles of toil or put a farthing of wages into a callous palm.

Frederick the Great admired some land near his palace at Potsdam, and he resolved to get it. It was owned by a miller. He offered the miller three times the value of the property. The miller would not take it because it was the old homestead, and he felt about as Naboth felt about his vineyard when Ahab wanted it. Frederick the Great was a rough and terrible man, and he ordered the miller into his presence, and the king, with a stick in his hand—a stick with which he sometimes struck the officers of state—said to the miller, "Now, I have offered you three times the value of that property, and if you won't sell it I'll take it anyhow." The miller said, "Your majesty, you won't." "Yes," said the king; "I will take it." "Then," said the miller, "if your majesty does take it I will sue you in the chancery court." At that threat Frederick the Great yielded his infamous demand. And the most imperious outrage against the working classes will yet cower before the law. Violence and defiance of the law will never accomplish anything, but righteousness and submission to the law will accomplish it.

But gradually the damages done the laborer by the strikes will be repaired, and some important things ought now to be said. The whole tendency of our times, as you have noticed, is to make the chasm between employer and employe wider and wider. In olden time the head man of the factory, the master builder, the capitalist, the head man of the firm, worked side by side with their employes, working sometimes at the same bench, dining at the same table, and there are those here who can remember the time when the clerks of large commercial establishments were accustomed to board with the head men of the firm.

All that is changed, and the tendency is to make the distance between employer and employe wider and wider. The tendency is to make the employe feel that he is wronged by the success of the capitalist and to make the capitalist feel: "Now, my laborers are only beasts of burden. I must give so much money for so much drudgery; just so many pieces of silver for so many beads of sweat." In other words, the bridge of sympathy is broken down at both ends.

That feeling was well described by Thomas Carlyle when he said: "Plugson of St. Dolly Undershot, buccaneerlike, says to his men: 'Noble spinners, this is the hundredth thousand we have gained, wherein I mean to dwell and plant my vineyards. The hundred thousand pound is mine; the daily wage was yours. Adieu, noble spinners! Drink my health with this groat each, which I give you over and above.'"

Now what we want is to rebuild that bridge of sympathy, and I put the trowel to one of the abutments to-day, and I preach more especially to employers as such, although what I have to say will be appropriate to both employers and employes.

The behavior of a multitude of laborers toward their employers during the last three months may have induced some employers to neglect the real Christian duties that they owe to those whom they employ.

Therefore I want to say to you whom I confront face to face and those to whom these words may come that all shipowners, all capitalists, all commercial firms, all master builders, all housewives, are bound to be interested in the entire welfare of their subordinates.

Years ago some one gave three prescriptions for becoming a millionaire: "First, spend your life in getting and keeping the earnings of other people; secondly, have no anxiety about the worriments, the losses, the disappointments of others; thirdly, do not mind the fact that your vast wealth implies the poverty of a great many people."

Now, there is not a man here who would consent to go into life with those three principles to earn a fortune. It is your desire to do your whole duty to the men and women in your service.

First of all, then, pay as large wages as are reasonable and as your business will afford; not necessarily what others pay, certainly not what your hired help say you must pay, for that is tyranny on the part of labor unbearable.

The right of a laborer to tell his employer what he must pay implies the right of an employer to compel a man into a service whether he will or not, and either of those ideas is despicable.

When any employer allows a laborer to say what he must do or have his business ruined, and the employer submits to it, he does every business man in the United States a wrong and yields to the principle which, carried out, would dissolve society.

Look over your affairs and put yourselves in imagination in your laborer's place and then pay him what before God and your own conscience you think you ought to pay him.

"God bless yous!" are well in their place, but they do not buy coal nor pay house rent nor get shoes for the children. At the same time you, the employer, ought to remember through what straits and straius you got the fortune by which you built your store or run the factory. You are to remember that you take all the risks and the employe takes none or scarcely any. You are to remember that there may be reverses in fortune and that some new style of machinery may make your machinery valueless or some new style of tariff set your business back hopelessly and forever. You must take all that into consideration and then pay what is reasonable.

Do not be too ready to cut down wages. As far as possible, pay all, and pay promptly. There is a great deal of Bible teaching on this subject. Malachi, "I will be a swift witness against all sorcerers and against all adulterers and against those who oppose the hireling in his wages." Leviticus, "Thou shalt not keep the wages of the hireling all night unto the morning." Colossians, "Masters, give unto your servants that which is just and equal, knowing that ye also have a Master in heaven." So you see it is not a question between you and your employe so much as it is a question between you and God.

Do not say to your employes, "Now, if you don't like this place, get another," when you know they cannot get another. As far as possible, once a year visit at their homes your clerks and your workmen. That is the only way you can become acquainted with their wants.

You will by such process find out that there is a blind parent or a sick sister being supported. You will find some of your young men in rooms without any fire in winter and in summer sweltering in ill ventilated apartments. You will find much depends on the wages you pay or withhold.

Moreover, it is your duty as employer, as far as possible, to mold the welfare of the employe. You ought to advise him about investments, about life insurance, about savings banks. You ought to give him the benefit of your experience.

There are hundreds and thousands of employers, I am glad to say, who are setting in the very best possible way the destiny of their employes. Such men as Marshall of Leeds, Lister of Bradford, Akroyd of Halifax and men so near at home it might offend their modesty if I mentioned their names—these men have built reading rooms, libraries, concert halls, afforded croquet lawns, cricket grounds, gymnasiums, choral societies for their employes, and they have not merely paid the wages on Saturday night, but through the contentment and the thrift and the good morals of their employes they are paying wages from generation to generation forever.

Again, I counsel all employers to look well after the physical health of their subordinates. Do not put on them any unnecessary fatigue. I never could understand why the drivers on our city cars must stand all day when they might just as well sit down and drive.

It seems to me most unrighteous that so many of the female clerks in our stores should be compelled to stand all day and through those hours when there are but few or no customers. These people have aches and annoyances and weariness enough without putting upon them additional fatigue. Unless these female clerks must go up and down on the business of the store, let them sit down.

But above all I charge you, O employers, that you look after the moral and spiritual welfare of your employes. First, know where they spend their evenings. That decides everything. You do not want around your money drawer a young man who went last night to see "Jack Sheppard!" A man that comes into the store in the morning ghastly with midnight revelry is not the man for your store. The young man who spends his evening in the society of refined women or in musical or artistic circles or in literary improvement is the young man for your store.

Do not say of these young men, "If they do their work in the business hours, that is all I have to ask." God has made you that man's guardian. I want you to understand that many of these young men are orphans or worse than orphans, flung out into society to struggle for themselves.

Employers, urge upon your employes, above all, a religious life. So far from that, how is it, young men? Instead of being cheered on the road to heaven some of you are caricatured, and it is a hard thing for you to keep your Christian integrity in that store or factory where there are so many hostile to religion. Ziethen, a grave general under Frederick the Great, was a Christian. Frederick the Great was a skeptic. One day Ziethen, the venerable, white haired general, asked to be excused from military duty that he might attend the holy sacrament. He was excused. A few days after Ziethen was dining with the king and with many notables of Prussia, when Frederick the Great in a jocose way said, "Well, Ziethen, how did that sacrament of last Friday digest?" The venerable old warrior arose and said: "For your majesty I have risked my life many a time on the battlefield, and for your majesty I would be willing any time to die; but you do wrong when you insult the Christian religion. You will forgive me if I, your old military servant, cannot bear in silence any insult to my Lord and my Saviour." Frederick the Great leaped to his feet, and he put out his hand, and he said: "Happy Ziethen! Forgive me, forgive me!"

Oh, there are many being scoffed at for their religion, and I thank God there are many men as brave as Ziethen! Go to heaven yourself, O employer! Take all your people with you. Soon you will be through buying and selling, and through with manufacturing and building, and God will ask you: "Where are all those people over whom you had so great influence? Are they here? Will they be here?" O shipowners, into what harbor will your crew sail? Oh, you merchant grocers, are those young men that under your care are providing food for the bodies and families of men to go starved forever? Oh, you manufacturers, with so many wheels flying and so many bands pulling and so many new patterns turned out and so many goods shipped, are the spinners, are the carmen, are the draymen, are the salesmen, are the watchers of your establishments working out everything but their own salvation? Can it be that, having those people under your care five, ten, twenty years, you have made no everlasting impression for good on their immortal souls? God turn us all back from such selfishness and teach us to live for others and not for ourselves. Christ sets us the example of sacrifice, and so do many of His disciples.

One summer in California a gentleman who had just removed from the Sandwich Islands told me this incident: You know that one of the Sandwich Islands is devoted to lepers. People getting sick of the leprosy on the other islands are sent to the isle of lepers. They never come off. They are in different stages of disease, but all who die on that island die of leprosy.

On one of the islands there was a physician who always wore his hand gloved, and it was often discussed why he always had a glove on that hand under all circumstances. One day he came to the authorities, and he withdrew his glove, and he said to the officers of the law: "You see on that hand a spot of the leprosy and that I am doomed to die. I might hide this for a little while and keep away from the isle of lepers, but I am a physician, and I can go on that island and administer to the sufferings of those who are further gone in the disease, and I should like to go now. It would be selfish in me to stay amid these luxurious surroundings when I might be of so much help to the wretched. Send me to the isle of the lepers." They, seeing the spot of leprosy, of course took the man into custody. He bade farewell to his family and his friends. It was an agonizing farewell. He could never see them again. He was taken to the isle of the lepers and there wrought among the sick until prostrated by his own death, which at last came. Oh, that was magnificent self denial, magnificent sacrifice, only surpassed by that of Him who exiled Himself from the health of heaven to this leprous island of a world that He might physician our wounds and weep our griefs and die our deaths, turning the isle of a leprous world into a great blooming, glorious garden. Whether employer or employe, let us catch that spirit.

BREAKFAST FOOD PARTISANS.

It Is Funny How Every Crank Swears by His Particular Mess.

"Hello, my boy," cried Haddock, cheerily, as he stepped into the grocery store, "what are you out and getting so bright and early this morning?"

"Hello, old man, how are you?" responded Juddock, cordially. "I'm getting some nutty-nut, the finest breakfast food made."

"Tshaw. Why don't you use grainy-grain?" asked Haddock. "Nutty-nut's not in it with it."

"Nonsense, old chap," replied Juddock, earnestly. "There is only one breakfast food, and that is nutty-nut."

"Pooh, pooh, my dear fellow, eat grainy-grain, if you want the ideal dyspepsia averter," advised Haddock, positively.

"Grainy-grain?" sneered Juddock. "No, thank you. I don't intend to poison myself and family. I prefer something that is fit food for human beings, like nutty-nut."

"Only a willful ignoramus without knowledge or regard for the laws of health, would put such an indigestible, tasteless, unwholesome, poultice mess as nutty-nut into his stomach," asseverated Haddock, heatedly.

"Only an infatuated idiot would persist in ruining his digestion with such a disgusting, sickening, abhorrent, gluey mess as grainy-grain," retorted Juddock, hotly.

"Nutty-nut's rank poison, and a nauseating poison at that," shouted Haddock, fiercely.

"Grainy-grain's a revolting abomination," howled Juddock, frantically.

"Take some of your loathsome nutty-nut; you besotted fool," yelled Haddock, grabbing a package of it from a pile on the counter and flinging it at the other.

"Go fill your crop with your gagging chicken feed, you obstinate ass," roared Juddock, seizing in his turn a package of grainy-grain and hurling it at the other.

The next minute the air was filled with flying packages of the rival breakfast foods, mingled with angry cries of "Nutty-nut!" and "Grainy-grain!" together with objurgations and vilifications. Nor was it until the stock of ammunition and the combatants were completely exhausted that the grocer dared venture within the zone of hostilities and attempt to separate the frenzied champions. At last, however, they were persuaded to depart, each firmly clutching a bundle of his favorite and vowing that the other was a misguided monomaniac to prefer the rival breakfast food.

"Humph!" observed the grocer, as he charged several tons of the breakfast foods up to each of the late warriors. "It's blamed funny how every crank swears by his particular mess, when buckwheat cakes an' sausage is the only breakfast fit fer a man."—Alex Ricketts, in Life.

The Historic Castle of Canossa.

The other day the celebrated castle of Canossa, where, in 1070, when belonging to the famous Countess Mathilda, the Emperor IV humbled himself for three days before Pope Gregory VII, was on the point of being sold at public auction.

The castle, originally an impregnable fortress built by Albert Azzo, the first Marquis of the Este family, is now reduced to a ruin, only a few rooms, more or less preserved, remaining. From the descendants of the Countess Mathilda, who took the name of Canossa and became extinct in 1783, it passed to the Counts of Baldrighi, whose heirs, having received many offers to buy the historical remains, especially from foreign archæological societies, decided to put it up at public auction. The Italian government, however, stepped in, forbidding the sale and reserving the option of buying it for the state.—Rome Correspondence in Pall Mall Gazette.

GEN. JACOB S. COXEY.

FAMOUS LEADER OF THE COMMONWEAL.

Is Now a Quarry Operator and Is Rapidly Piling Up a Fortune—Food for Every Tramp but He Must Work for It.

A notable change has come over Gen. Jacob S. Coxey of commonweal fame. From the day that he was ordered off the grass at the national capital he became a new man. He turned his attention from politics to finance, and is now making money at the rate of four figures a day. He is operating a stone quarry five miles from Massillon, Ohio, which is as profitable as a small gold mine. Setting up as a large employer of unskilled labor, Gen. Coxey has had a chance to demonstrate the practicability of his commonweal theories. His son, Jesse Coxey, a stalwart young fellow, has also figured extensively in the solution of the great "hobo problem."

It is the policy of Coxey not to turn away any man who wants work. There is a steady run of men who come and go from the quarry property. At present there are fifty employes at the plant, and among these are only two of the "hoboes" of the original commonweal army, but there are plenty of recruits from the ends of the earth. The story of Coxey's quarry has been circulated among tramps all over the country. They are sure of a welcome, a day's rations, and a chance to leave when work becomes too onerous. "De ole man's easy, but keep yer eyes peeled fer Jesse," is the word lately passed around. Some time ago three stout tramps arrived on Saturday evening late and applied for work. They were so hungry, they said, they didn't know where to stay all night.

"You know me; my name's Coxey, Gen. Coxey of the commonweal army," said the old man, heartily. "Make yourselves at home, eat all you want, and do a day's work Monday."

So on Saturday night and all day Sunday the tramps feasted and rested from their roadside wanderings. Monday morning, after a phenomenal breakfast, they took the highway promptly in a direction opposite to the general's quarry. This was the last straw. The thing had happened so often that young Jesse Coxey took matters in his own hands, commonweal or no commonweal. He struck the trail, and, single-handed, started in pursuit. Four miles away he came upon the three commonwealers resting on the ties of a railroad track.

"Walk," said Jesse Coxey, briefly, as he leveled a gun on the trio. He marched them back to the quarry and compelled them to do a day's work for their Sunday lodgings, when they were allowed to depart in peace.

Coxey claims a part in making the good armor of American ships. He says he furnishes sand for the big armor-plate plants of the land, and adds that his has been found to be the best. So the "general" has taken credit unto himself for recent American naval victories, and announces in flaming colors on posters pasted on the cars that American naval supremacy is due to Coxey's good sand. The "general" has found there are dollars in the sand, and he is not anything if he is not a good advertiser of his wares. His commonweal fame attracts the public to him wherever he goes. He does no especially court conversation on the march he made for the lost cause, neither does he shrink when the matter is brought before him. At present he evidently does not care to risk any more army trips, even for the sake of the principles which he has long advocated. He is too busy. His wealth is piling up in conical form like a little pile of sand from his crushers. Besides the quarry he owns lead mines in Missouri and is preparing to put up a steel plant soon.

But Coxey has with him relics of his political canvass. On the switch near his profitable quarry stand four coaches. The one, a Pullman palace car, is used by Jesse Coxey, wife, and little daughter, as a dwelling place. A second car is used as kitchen and store-room for workmen at the quarry. The dining room is in a third car, the one used by Coxey in his political tour over the United States. The sides of the car are decorated with attractive printing, telling of the principles advocated by Coxey on non-interest-bearing bonds, good roads and other questions. But the interior of the car has been changed.

A long table of plain boards in in the center of the coach. This is to seat the hungry men as they come to their meals. Tin cups and plates are always spread ready for meal time. There is little style when the hoboes and other workmen eat, but they seem withal to be a happy set and fairly well contented with their lot. This non-interesting-bearing car is also used as a sleeper. Every man has his bunk. There are lower and upper berths, plain, but warm, and, no doubt, comfortable to the man who has swung a big sledge for 8 hours in crushing stone. The clothing on these beds is of plain grade, but the beds are kept in cleanly condition, and the men express themselves satisfied with their sleeping quarters. Coxey's home, at present, is near the quarry. He has a combination frame and log dwelling house.

Auburn, N. Y., churches have united to war on the treating habit.

DEGENERATE DOG.

Many Diabolical Tricks Played by the Viciously Aberrant Animal.

Now and then there is a degenerate dog, just as there are degenerate men. I once knew a dog of that kind. He was a handsome fellow, a Scotch collie, black, with white breast, and lower forelegs and tip of tail also white. His father was a gentlemanly dog, and his mother was also reputable. At an early age this dog took to killing chickens, and would mouth and kill a whole brood of downy chickens in less than a minute from the first alarmed screech of the mother hen. A little later he killed, as a daily recreation, chickens of all sorts and conditions. Many attempts were made to shoot him, but he seemed bullet-proof. He would run into the street, seize a horse by the nose, and, swinging clear of the pavement, would hang there, while the terrified horse would vainly try to dislodge him. When a man on horseback came along, he would proceed to have fun with him by seizing his horse's tail. No whip could reach him, and when the rider would dismount the dog would beat a successful retreat. He killed all the cats in the neighborhood. When a peddler with samples of potatoes or apples entered the yard of his owner he would greet him with a friendly wagging tail and escort him to the door, but when the same peddler turned his back to go he never failed to take a bite at the calf of his leg. The dog's conduct finally raised the neighbors against him, and the owner was informed that if he did not get rid of him the dog would be shot. To save his life the owner gave him to a butcher. In his new environment he lasted but one day. He bit the butcher's daughter and the butcher killed him

QUAIL HUNTING IN EGYPT.

A Million a Year Are Ensnared by the Natives by Ingenious Methods.

Much has been said lately of the capture of quail in Egypt, touching the protest made by Frenchmen against carrying the birds across French territory for English use. Until this matter rose nobody seemed to know that quail existed in Egypt; but they do—by the million. The passage of bands of quail over the coast of the delta of the Nile, from Port Said to Alexandria, begins in September and last a month and a half, the birds arriving in little groups and alighting on the dunes. Generally, the chase is made by means of nets of five meters high, which the natives extend on cords fastened to poles, in the fashion of curtains gliding on their rods. In reality the net is double. The first near the side of the sea is of meshes very large and loose, but on the back is another net where the bird will really come and perch itself in the folds formed by this second net of small meshes. There is another method of capture which is more picturesque. Rows of dried branches are placed on the shore. At the foot of each branch is disposed a tuft of fresh herbs in the middle of which is arranged an opening which ends in a snare. The quail, tired by its journey, takes refuge in the branch, then in the bunch of herbs, naturally, without figuring to itself that it is going to put itself into a trap where a native will surprise it and kill it. With these perfected means of destruction, it is not astonishing that each year more than half a million of these poor little birds are taken.

Wearing Out Needlessly.

Many people wear themselves out needlessly; their conscience is a tyrant. An exaggerated sense of duty leads a person to anxious, ceaseless activity, to be constantly doing something, over-punctual, never idle a second of time, scorn to rest; such are in unconscious nerve tension. They say they have no time to rest, they have so much to do, not thinking they are rapidly unfitting themselves for probably what would have been their best and greatest work in after years.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE.

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

Death of a Young Boy

It was on Friday evening, June the 1st, that the angel of death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Broadhead, and removed that which is immortal of Carl, their sixteen year old son, to aerial height beyond the sunshine and shadows of this earthly life. For several days Carl was prostrated with a severe attack of congestion and on last Friday evening death came to relieve his suffering. The burial service took place at Providence cemetery on last saturday afternoon. Death in any place brings sadness, but it brings double sadness when it visits the home of the young and beautiful. Carl's days here on earth were few, but he had many friends who loved him, and as they laid his young body to rest on last Saturday afternoon there were many hearts touched with the feelings of profound sorrow, and thrilled with that awe test of all human hopes at the open grave, that some day they would meet again beyond the sunset and the sky.

GRAND GIFT DISTRIBUTION.

A Forty-Cent Sugar Shell Free to Every Married Lady.

Editor Banner—We believe that the most effective advertising we can do is to get samples of our goods into the hands of the people. Therefore, we are sending an elegant sterling silver-plated sugar shell, such as we sell regularly at 40c each, to every married lady in the United States who writes for it. There is nothing to pay. The gift is absolute. You will confer a favor upon your lady readers by making this announcement in your paper. Each lady will send her name only, as this is too valuable a gift to send to persons who don't ask for it themselves. We give choice of any of our 40c designs, and will send illustrations from which selection may be made.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and I respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

Clanton, Ala., June 1, 1900

Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Chairman People's Party Campaign Committee.

Dear Sir: While I greatly appreciate the honor conferred on me by the Convention of the People's Party of Ala. in nominating me for the important office of State Treasurer and thank them very much for their high esteem I must nevertheless decline to accept the nomination for the reason I am the nominee of the party in this county for re-election to the position of County Treasurer and otherwise be utterly unable to make the race, being too poor a man to meet the expense of such a campaign, and would ask that you place some other and better man on your State ticket in my place, recognizing as I do the importance of having a State ticket in the field and believing that with the issues before us, we have the best opportunities for success we have ever had. Again thanking you and the gentlemen of the Convention for their high esteem

I am yours repectfully,
ALEX G. DAKE.

City Farmers.

It is wonderful how many city men are directly interested in farming or stock breeding, says National Stockman. There is something in the blood of many people which draws them to the soil. As soon as they are able they invest in farms and take the deepest interest in everything that related to them. Such people are of two classes. Those of the first class are wealthy and run their farms for amusement, for a country residence or to carry out some pet theory. They are becoming more numerous every year. Those of the second class are business men who look closely after the business side of their farm enterprise. They go in to make it pay, and some of them succeed in a degree that surprises those who sneer at "city farmers" or "book farmers." We know several men, city born and bred, who have been able to give many of these self styled practical farmers an object lesson in real practical farming, which is the kind that gets there. Some people have an idea that practical farming is free from books, papers and science, or that it needs none of these things. Not so. The true practical farmer is the man who carries on his operations successfully, no matter who he is or where he came from or how he got his knowledge. The man who has farmed all his life and still doesn't know how is much further from being a practical farmer than the city man who goes out and learns and succeeds.

ANTI-TRUST BILL PASSED.

Only One Vote in the House Against Littlefield's Measure.

Only one vote was cast in the house Saturday against the Littlefield anti-trust bill to amend the Sherman act of 1890 to make it more effective in the prosecution of trusts and combinations, their agents, officers or attorneys.

Mr. Mann (rep., Ills.,) cast the negative. The bill, according to statements of republican leaders, goes to the limit of the authority of congress under the constitution. All the democratic minority amendments except one were defeated. That was an amendment declaring that nothing in the act should be construed to be applied to trades or labor organizations. All except eight republicans voted for it. The bill amends the Sherman anti-trust law so as to declare every contract or combination in the form of trust or conspiracy in restraint of commerce among the states or with foreign nations illegal, and every party to such contract or combination guilty of a crime punishable by a fine of not less than $500 or more than $5,000, and imprisonment not less than six months nor more than two years.

It provides that any person injured by a violation of the provisions of the law may recover three-fold damage.

COTTON ACREAGE

Shows an Increase of About 18 Per Cent. Over Last Year.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat prints cotton reports from about one hundred and fifty special correspondents throughout the cotton belt, the men being especially selected for their fitness for the work, and the points, because of the avenues of information centering there.

The replies to the circular of instructions show various increases in the acreage as compared with last year. In some sections there has been no increase, but this is very exceptional. Correspondents generally report from 5 to 10 or 15 per cent. increase in acreage, and in some cases as high as 20 per cent. Ashton Phelps, taking the reports, figures out about 8 per cent. increase in acreage for the whole belt.

The estimates take into consideration the losses by the heavy April rains, which caused much replanting to be done in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, and especially in Texas.

THREE AMERICANS CAPTURED

And Three Killed in Luzon--Two Rebel Leaders Bagged.

The following dispatch was received at the war department from General MacArthur at Manila:

"Small surrenders continue in the department of Northern Luzon. Corino, fugitive governor, Benguet, rich, active friend of Aguinaldo, captured near Cabayan; important. While scouting near San Miguel De Mayumo (Luzon) May 29, Captain Charles D. Roberts, Privates John A. McIntyre and Lyel W. Akens were captured; Sergeant John Gallen, Privates Joseph McCourt and John A. Green, killed; George Kinger wounded, thigh. All of Company I, Thirty-fifth Regiment United States Volunteers."

Explosion on Steamship.

As the steamship Boliva was preparing to sail from Key West, Fla., an explosion occurred in the boiler room, that almost lifted the vessel out of the water. Chief Engineer John Thompson, Pablo Feal, a fireman, and a boy named Willie Hancock were horribly scalded and died shortly afterward.

Philippine Commission Arrives at Manila

The United States transport Hancock, from San Francisco April 17, arrived at Manila Sunday with the members of the Philippine commission. The members of General MacArthur's staff welcomed the commissioners on board the Hancock. At noon the commissioners landed and drove to the palace, escorted by General MacArthur's staff, a band and two companies of the Twenty-sixth Infantry, with artillery.

AGUINALDO REPORTED SHOT

Americans Believe That the Famous Insurgent Has Been Killed.

SHOT FROM HIS HORSE AS HE RETREATED

Saddle Bags Containing Aguinaldo's Diary and Papers Found—Insurgent Followers Succeeded in Removing the Body.

A cable dispatch from Manila says: Major March, with his detachment of the Thirty-third regiment, overtook what is believed to have been Aguinaldo's party, on May 19, at La Gat, about 100 miles northeast of Vigan. The Americans killed or wounded an officer, supposed to be be Aguinaldo, whose body was removed by his followers. Aguinaldo had 100 men, and Major March 125. The American commander reached La Bogan, where Aguinaldo had made his headquarters, on May 17. Aguinaldo had fled seven hours before, leaving all the beaten trails and traveling through the forests and along the beds of streams. Toward evening, May 19, Major March struck Aguinaldo's outposts, about a mile outside of La Gat, killing four Filipinos and capturing two. From the latter he learned that Aguinaldo had camped there for the night, and, although half starved, Major March's men entered La Gat on the run. They saw the insurgents scattering into the bushes or over the plateau. A thousand yards beyond the town, on the mountain side, the figures of twenty-five Filipinos, dressed in white, with their leader on a gray horse, were silhouetted against the sunset. The Americans, on reaching the spot, caught the horse, which was richly saddled. Blood from a badly wounded man was on the animal and on the ground.

The saddle-bags contained Aguinaldo's diary and some private papers, including proclamations. One of these was addressed "To the Civilized Nations." It protested against the American occupation of the Philippines. There was also found copies of Senator Beveridge's speech, translated into Spanish and entitled, "The Death Knell of the Filipino People."

Major March, believing that the Filipinos had taken to a river, which is a tributary to the Chico, followed it for two days, reaching Tiao, where he learned that a party of Filipinos had decended the river May 27 with the body of a dead or wounded man upon a litter covered with palm leaves. Major March reviewed his command, shoeless, exhausted, and picked twenty-four of the freshest men, with whom he beat the surrounding country for sixty-eight hours longer, but without any trace of the insurgents. The Americans pushed on and arrived at Aparri May 29.

The officer shot was either Aguinaldo or his adjutant, and as the horse was richly caparisoned it is a fair presumption that it was Aguinaldo.

Big Fire in Tampa, Fla.

A disastrous fire, that will involve a loss of at least $200,000, broke out in Tampa, Fla., Saturday in the building occupied by the dry goods house of Cohen, Friedman & Co., and that block and the Jackson block, adjoining, were soon in ruins. The latter block was occupied by Vaterlin & Co., dealers in shoes, and Mason & Co., dry goods, whose stocks are practically ruined. Cohen, Friedman & Co.'s stock is valued at $125,000, insurance 50 per cent. Origin of the fire is unknown.

HOMES FOR BOERS.

Proposition to Bring Them to the Valley of the Platte.

A special from Denver says: Governor Thomas has given his indorsement to a gigantic proposition, having for its object the bringing of the defeated Boers to the Valley of the Platte in Colorado. The Union Pacific Land Company proposes to give 1,000,000 acres of land to be taken up under the Carey land act on the Julesberg and Wyoming divisions.

There is to be no charge for the gift and the company will undertake to transport the Boers to Colorado, being paid on the installment plan.

Hilliary Herbert, Jr., Appointed.

Among those who have been authorized to appear for examination for appointments as second lieutenants of the marine forces are the following: Hilliary Herbert, Jr., of Alabama, Thomas M. Clinton of Maryland, Chandler Campbell of West Virginia and Edward A. Greene of Georgia.

IN MEMPHIS NEXT.

Confederates Will Meet in the Tennessee City.

The tenth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans came to an end at Louisville Friday afternoon. There was a long debate just prior to the adjournment as to whether or not there should be a parade Saturday. General Poyntz, commander of the Kentucky division, announced that it was the opinion of the local committees that there should be no parade on account of the rain. He was greeted with loud cries of "no," and a vote was taken with the result that it was decided to have the parade Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Three cities were competitors for the honor of entertaining the veterans next year. The claims of Memphis were presented by Gen. G. W. Gordon, who made an eloquent plea for the Tennessee city, and he resived several seconding speeches to his own. The claims of Buffalo were presented by Z. L. Smith, who made an excellent impression on the convention. Dr. Williams, of Jacksonville, spoke for that city. The final vote showed for Memphis, 1,520; Jacksonville, 256; Buffalo, 26. A vote of thanks was extended for the kind invitation of Buffalo.

Friday the ladies' committee having in charge the collection of funds for the building of the Davis monument in Richmond were very active in securing pledges of money, and, in addition to that secured Thursday, raised about $3,500 more.

The scenes at Thursday night's ball at Reunion hall were repeated on a more elaborate scale Friday night, when the big reunion ball was given. Of the 25,000 persons entitled to admission, it is estimated that 7,500 had visited the ball by midnight. The grand march, at 9 p. m., was led by General John B. Gordon, of Georgia, and Mrs. Pickett, widow of the general that led the charge at Gettysburg.

The attendance at the reunion, which is estimated at 63,000, would have been much larger but for the bad weather of Friday, which prevented the coming of thousands of persons from local points who had intended to see the parade originally set for that day.

JOHANNESBURG QUIET.

Commandant Botha, His Field Cornet and 100 Prisoners Captured.

Lord Lansdowne, secretary of state for war, has received the following from Lord Roberts, dated Orange Grove, June 3.

"Johannesburg is quiet. The people are surrendering arms and ponies. Only three Boer guns were left in the fort.

"The Queenslanders captured May 30, a Creusote with eleven wagons of stores and ammunition.

"Commandant Botha, of Zoutpansberg, his field cornet and 100 prisoners were taken in the fighting around Johannesburg, some belonging to the foreign contingents and the Irish brigade.

SITUATION OMINOUS.

Miss Mary Porter Writes of Conditions in China.

Among the Missionaries in Pekin, China, and adjoining regions being terrorized by the Boxers is Miss Mary Porter, of Chicago. In a letter received Sunday Miss Porter says: "The outlook is most ominous. Both the military and civil officers who did anything efficient against the Boxers have been degraded by the governor of the province, and all the men arrested have been released by his orders. As his brother is viceroy at Tien Tsin, and both are nephews of the Empress Dowager, appeals seem not promising."

52,631 Census Enumerators.

The exact number of census enumerators now at work is 52,631. Pennsylvania leads the list with 4,676; New York comes next with 4,492. Among the numbers assigned to the different states and territories are the following: Alabama, 1,211; Arkansas, 921; Georgia, 1,258; Indian Territory, 186. Kentucky, 1,318; Louisiana, 717; Mississippi, 842; Missouri, 2,262; New Mexico, 179; North Carolina, 1,226; South Carolina, 878; Tennessee, 1,492; Texas, 1,806.

Killed His Manager.

As a result of a dispute over the settlement of certain business accounts, John a Graham, of Savannah, Ga., capitalist and senior partner of the Graham Lumber company at St. Marks, twenty miles south of Tallahassee, Fla., shot and killed City Councilman John Bradford, of Tallahassee, who was manager of Graham's large saw mill at St. Marks.

BIG LAND DEAL NEAR HUNTSVILLE

Primary Ordered in Fourth District. Mr. Adams Declines Populist Nomination--Bimetallic Clubs to Meet—Other News Notes.

The Belle factory property, ten miles northeast of Huntsville, on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, and Three Forks of Flint river, has been virtually sold to northern capitalists, who will spend probably two million dollars in developing it. A deal has been under way for several weeks between Col. N. F. Thompson, of the Thompson Land and Investment Company, in behalf of the owners, and prominent wool and cotton men. The property consists of two thousand acres of rich agricultural lands, and a substantial mill building within three-quarters of a mile of three water powers of several hundred horse power each.

The purchasers of the property will erect a mill at each of the three water powers, utilize the old mill building by equipping it with new machinery, and establish a new town of about 5,000 inhabitants. Attorneys are now examining the titles to the lands, and when they are proved to be perfect the formal transfer will be made.

Bimetallic Clubs to Meet.

A conference of the bimetallic clubs of Alabama will be held in Birmingham on June 8, the same day the State Democratic Executive and Campaign Committees will meet. The call for the meeting has been issued.

The conference will send delegates to their National Bimetallic Convention, which meets in Kansas City at the same time the National Democratic Convention does. Four delegates from the state at large and one from each local club will be chosen.

Primary Ordered in Fourth District.

The fourth district democratic executive committee met at Columbiana and ordered a primary throughout the district by a vote of seven to five. The committeemen from Dallas and Cleburne and one from Calhoun voted against the proposition. August 20 was named as the date of the primary.

Home for Disabled Confederates.

The movement to build a home for disabled confederate soldiers at Columbiana, Shelby county, is assuming definite shape, and the work of raising the money will begin at once. A. P. Longshore, probate judge of Shelby county, has consented to act as treasurer for the fund.

WILL NOT MAKE THE RACE.

Full Text of Mr. Adams' Letter Declining Populist Nomination.

Following is the full text of Rev. Sam M. Adams' letter, declining the populist nomination for governor:

CLANTON, ALA., May 31, 1900.

To Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Chairman Populist Campaign Committee:

Dear Sir—Had I had the opportunity on yesterday afternoon to have respectfully declined the honor tendered me by the state convention for the nomination for the high office of governor of Alabama I would then have done so. While I greatly appreciate the confidence and trust reposed in me by the people, as evidenced by this nomination, my official duties are such as compel my constant attention to them. I have, from the first intimation by my friends, that they contemplated offering me the nomination, repeatedly declared that it would be impossible for me to accept. This fact was fully made known by me to the convention yesterday in my speech, made before the nomination.

The clause in the platform which declared that "it was inexpedient at this time to nominate a state ticket," and which was stricken out by the convention, was in full accord with my views.

To accept the nomination for governor and make a canvass is against my judgment at this time. And, under all the circumstances, I therefore most respectfully decline to accept the nomination.

Thanking my friends for the confidence thus expressed, I am yours very truly, S. M. ADAMS.

$300,000 Hotel for Birmingham.

It is regarded as practically certain that Birmingham will have a new $300,000 hotel on the old First Methodist church lot at the corner of Nineteenth street and Fourth avenue. One of the promoters stated Saturday that all but $20,000 of the money had been raised, local capitalists subscribing for the majority of the stock.

Advocates of Dispensary Organized.

A conference of the advocates of the whisky dispensary system in Jefferson county was held in Birmingham Saturday, with about forty persons present. Captain James E. Webb presided. He expressed the opinion that if the system was adopted generally in the state $1,000,000 revenue for the public schools would be derived. He believed that the best thing the state could do with the money which the drunkard deprived his family of was to devote the profit to the education of that man's children.

A committee on plan of organization was appointed and it recommended the creation of an executive committee of fifteen, naming seven and then leaving these seven to appoint the balance. A resolution prevailed pledging the earnest resistance of those present to the open saloon, pledging confidence in the representatives in the state legislature and recommending that the executive committee take steps to form an organization in behalf of the dispensary in the state at large.

Huntsville's Sixth Cotton Mill.

Huntsville's sixth cotton mill will be built this year and will be in operation before next winter. It will be the Lowe mill, owned by Arthur H. Lowe, of Fitchburg, Mass.

Trecey W. Pratt, president of the chamber of commerce, has been negotiating with Mr. Lowe for the past three years, and Mr. Lowe has finally decided to build a $300,000 cotton mill of 10,000 spindles, bleachery and print works in West Huntsville. The enterprise will employ 700 persons, a majority of them being skilled mechanics and commanding good wages. It is the purpose of Mr. Lowe to invest about $2,000,000 eventually in a mill of 50,000 spindles, but the building season has so far advanced that only $300,000 will be invested this year.

Educational Matters in North Alabama.

State Superintendent of Education John W. Abercrombie has returned to Montgomery from North Alabama, where he has been visiting the schools and attending the closing exercises of the state institutions at Florence and Huntsville and the public schools at Moulton. He speaks encouragingly of the educational outlook in that section and is much gratified with the condition of those schools. The enthusiasm and interest of the masses was never greater for the education of the children, and he says that the proposed new buildings at Huntsville is to be erected at once at a cost of $25,000.

Meeting of All Reformers Called.

J. H. Vandergrift, of Branchville, who has been appointed state committeeman for Alabama for the United Christian party, has called a meeting of all reformers in the state to assemble in Birmingham on July 4 next, for the purpose of organizing a branch of the party in the state, and to take action in regard to the choice of the supporters of the principles for president and vice president of the United States.

Floor Gave Way.

A special from Gurley says while the closing exercises of the Beech Grove school were in progress the house was packed to its utmost capacity, when the floor gave way without warning and fell to the ground, six feet below. Men, women, children and benches fell in a heap and the greatest confusion prevailed. Several persons had narrow escapes, but one was injured, Mrs. Robert Woody, who had her ankle dislocated.

Four Arrests Made.

Andrew, Chris and Nicholas Colias and Alex Kontas, four Greeks, and Tom Kendricks, a negro man, were arrested on the charge of being implicated in the killing of George Lambrakis, the well-known Greek who was assassinated at Birmingham a few days ago.

Two More Lime Furnaces.

The Lagarde Lime and Stone of Anniston and New Orleans has made wonderful strides in developing its large quarries at Hamilton. It has let contracts for the erection of two more furnaces.

Were Found Guilty.

The jury in the Engram murder case at Eufaula returned a verdict as follows: "We, the jury, find Solon Moore, Anna Vaughan, Gertrude Howard and John Brazier guilty of murder in the second degree, and recommended for Solon Moore and Anna Vaughan thirty years each, Gertrude Howard twenty-five years and John Brazier twenty years in the penitentiary."

SUNDAY RIOT IN ST. LOUIS

One Boy Fatally Wounded and Shattered Cable Cars.

A riot of small proportions occurred in St. Louis, during the progress of which a boy was fatally shot, a dynamite explosion marred what otherwise would have been a quiet Sabbath. As a car on the Grove line of the Transit company was passing a car barn the strike sympathizers on the rocks at it. An unknown man from one of the windows and fired a shot toward the unruly crowd. The shot sped over the heads of the crowd and lodged in the breast of a 16-year-old boy who was standing in the doorway of his father's house interested spectator of the demonstration. The boy died as a result of the wound which proved fatal.

At a late hour last night a terrific explosion of dynamite shook the cable conduit and car tracks on the Olive street line at the corner of Maryland and Kingshighway. No one was injured but the damage to the end of the line building is considerable. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

IN MEMORY OF JEFFERSON DAVIS

Exercises Held in Reunion Hall to Celebrate His Birthday.

The last exercises of the tenth annual reunion of the United Confederate veterans in Louisville Sunday when the second anniversary of the birth of Jefferson Davis was observed in union hall, with services in memory of Mr. Davis. Winnie Davis, "Daughter of the Confederacy," the Confederate dead, thousands of the Confederate visitors had left the city, but thousands persons attended the exercises. They were largely of a memorial acter, but nevertheless had a pleasure at times from the singing. Mrs. Hayes, the daughter of Jefferson Davis, and her daughter, Varina Hayes, were on the platform.

BRYAN ON THE SITUATION

Says This Country Needs Loving People.

In answer to the New York dispatch to W. J. Bryan asking his views on the invitation to invite the Boers to America, Mr. Bryan said:

"The Boers are industrious, intelligent and have shown themselves lovers of liberty. If they will fight for independence, they will come to the United States and they would come soon enough to save this country from the spirit of imperialism that is driving them from Africa. A small part of the money now being expended on warfare would, if spent in irrigating arid lands, furnish homes for the Boers and thousands of others besides.

"I wish there were more like them in this country. They could fill the place of a good many people who believe in the imperialistic policy of Great Britain."

Nicaraguan Canal Commission.

December 10 is the date fixed for the consideration of the Nicaraguan canal bill, says a Washington dispatch. This is the second session of the present congress, finding opposition to action this session, and a determination to adjourn being so strong as to make it impossible to accomplish anything now.

While Alabama congressmen will not give the names of the rivers and harbors which they will go, every effort will be made to have the appropriation made to Alabama after an investigation by the committee. The Coosa river will understand its needs.

Recovered the Money.

The postoffice department has received information that the money since the postoffice at Pine Apple was robbed of a large amount of money stamps and postal blanks. A man was apprehended on suspicion of being the robber. An attack was made on the prisoner by a complice of the prisoner, but the chase was given to the man who was attempting to assist the prisoner, who dropped a satchel in which was found all the money and stamps, numbering 122. Later developments showed that all the money and stamps had been recovered.

Peace Convention Ended.

Queen Wilhelmina has issued the Hague peace convention has been done likewise at the request of Germany and Great Britain. The delegates expected immediately.

JOHANNESBURG TAKEN.

General Roberts Reports the Occupation of the Gold City.

ORANGE FREE STATE ANNEXED.

British Flag Now Flying Over the Government Buildings in Johannesburg—Boers Surrendered the City to General Roberts Without Offering Any Resistance—Gold Mines Unharmed.

London (By Cable).—General Roberts sent a dispatch to the War Office stating that he had taken possession of Johannesburg. General Roberts's dispatch follows:

"Johannesburg. — Her Majesty's forces are now in possession of Johannesburg, and the British flag floats over the Government buildings."

General Roberts also sent the following dispatch:

"In answer to a flag of truce I sent to Johannesburg Wednesday morning the commandant came to see me. He begged me to defer entering the town for twenty-four hours, as there were many armed burghers still inside. I agreed to this, as I am most anxious to avert the possibility of anything like disturbance inside the town and as bodies of the enemy are still holding the hills in the immediate neighborhood, from which they will have to be cleared off beforehand.

"Rundle reports that he attacked a large party of Boers near Senekal (Orange Free State). He said his casualties were not heavy.

"Brabant reports that two of his patrols, consisting of two officers and forty men, were cut off by the enemy and taken prisoners."

WILL NOT DESERT AFRICA.

Boers Cannot, Says Mr. Fischer, Accept Any Offer of Land in America.

Boston (Special).—Mr. Fischer of the Boer delegation was asked about the reported offer of a Western railway of 1,000,000 acres of land for the Boers to settle on. He replied:

"I have heard that some such offer is to be made, but know nothing of it officially. While we would thank the American people and the railroad officials for their generosity and kindly spirit, we would have to decline it. I think our people would prefer to remain and work out their own salvation, even though they were forced to do this under the English flag. If we should be crushed this time, it will only be for a brief time, for liberty must and shall prevail in South Africa. Patriotism never dies out."

ORANGE RIVER COLONY NOW.

Annexation Proclamation Read in the Market Square at Bloemfontein.

Bloemfontein (By Cable). — The annexation of the Orange Free State to Great Britain was formally proclaimed in the market square. General Pretyman, the Military Governor of Bloemfontein, read the proclamation of General Lord Roberts, annexing the Free State and renaming it the Orange River Colony. The proclamation, in announcing the annexation, referred to the Orange Free State as "having been conquered by her Majesty's forces."

There were tremendous cheers when this portion was read. The people sang the British national anthem and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

Pro-Boer Resolution Shelved.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—In the Senate Mr. Bacon, of Georgia, spoke at length on the Teller resolution expressing sympathy for the Boers, after which, on motion of Senator Davis, the resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations by a vote of 40 to 26.

Mob Attacks a Dispensary.

A free dispensary in Chicago was attacked by a crowd of infuriated Bohemians and Lithuanians. Stories of bodies being dissected in the dispensary had created terror among the foreigners, who gave the place a wide berth. When a boy disappeared a companion started a story that he had been killed by the doctors. It was not long before a mob was demolishing the building. Later the boy was found unharmed.

European Station Re-Established.

The Navy Department has decided to re-establish the European station.

Dynamite Kills Six Persons.

A dynamite explosion in the house of August Broehm, near Forest Junction, Wis., killed six members of the family. The house was completely wrecked. The dead are: William Broehm, Mrs. William Broehm, three Broehm children and John Stebbins, a brother of Mrs. Broehm. Broehm was a wealthy farmer.

Lieutenant-Colonel Hayes Resigns.

Lieutenant-Colonel Webb C. Hayes, son of ex-President Hayes, has resigned from the Army.

FOREIGN TROOPS IN PEKIN

Powers Land Marines For the Protection of Their Legations.

Preponderance of Russian Forces at Taku Excites European Chancelleries and United Action is Urged.

Pekin, China (By Cable).—The first of the foreign guards for the legations entered the city at eight o'clock Friday evening, the Americans marching ahead, followed by the Russians, Japanese, French, Italians and English, in the order named. The entire force numbered 390.

The American force, commanded by Captain McCalla, of the cruiser Newark, consisted of six officers and fifty marines. The men arrived at the legation of the United States covered with dust.

RUSSIA'S SHOW OF FORCE.

Nine Warships and Eleven Thousand Troops at Taku.

Shanghai, China (By Cable).—Twenty-three warships are now at Taku, nine Russian, three British, three German, three French, two American, two Japanese and one Italian.

In addition to their crews, the Russians have on board their wrashipe eleven thousand troops from Port Arthur, with field equipment. Fourteen thousand Russian troops are held in readiness at Port Arthur.

The Powers Seem Alarmed.

London (By Cable).—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says:

An active exchange of dispatches is going forward among the Great Powers relative to China. The colossal superiority of Russia's representation at Taku is regarded as significant. The Triple Alliance advocates united action by Europe to protect common interests.

NEW JERSEY DEMOCRATS MEET.

Delegates Sent to the Kansas City Convention Uninstructed.

Trenton, N. J. (Special).—The Democratic State Convention to elect delegates to the Kansas City Convention on July 4 was held in the Taylor Opera House here.

Colonel C. Meyer Zulick, once Governor of Arizona Territory, was temporary and permanent chairman. Efforts were made to have the delegates instructed to vote for Bryan as the nominee for President, but they were unsuccessful.

The resolutions avoided any reference to the Chicago platform or any declaration about Mr. Bryan as a candidate. Mr. Bryan was, however, eulogized as a great Democrat, worthy of the highest confidence of the Democrats of the nation.

The platform declares for bi-metallism and against imperialism. It denounces the postal frauds in Cuba, asks for freedom from oppression for the Cubans and Filipinos, expresses sympathy with the Boers and severely arraigns the Republican Administration for its attitude toward trusts.

CAPTAIN ROBERTS'S CAPTURE.

Filipinos Promise to Treat Their Prisoners Well—Funston in Pursuit.

Manila (Special).—Later reports show that the rebels who captured Captain Roberts and six men of the Thirty-fifth Volunteer Infantry attacked them while they were lunching outside of San Miguel. The insurgents sent one of the wounded Americans back on a sled to an outpost where he was left. He had a letter addressed to the Provost Marshal from the rebel commander promising that the prisoners would receive good treatment.

A woman brought a letter written at San Miguel by Captain Roberts to his wife. In the letter the American officer said that the prisoners were being kindly treated and would possibly be exchanged.

General Funston is chasing the band that captured Captain Roberts, and has routed seventy of them from the summits of rocky hills. He has failed to find any trace of Captain Roberts, however.

Bull Routs Ohio Troops.

A mad bull chased Company C of the Seventh Regiment National Guard out of a twenty-acre field as they were marching home from a funeral. Captain V. M. Boyle rallied his troops, and ordering a bayonet charge put the bull to flight.

Steel and Wire Mills Close.

Three of the big Cleveland (Ohio) mills of the American Steel and Wire Company have been shut down. One thousand men are thrown out of employment. It is not known how long they will be closed, as the resident trust officials are reticent beyond saying that business conditions impelled the shut-down.

Japanese Touring In.

Japanese immigrants to the number of 900 arrived at Victoria, British Columbia, destined for this country.

MONEY AND CAPITAL.

GOV. JOHN LIND EXPLAINS THEIR FUNCTIONS.

Money Is Never Capital But Is Merely the Medium by Which Capital May Be Obtained — A Plea for Government Ownership of Railroads.

Money is never capital. It simply commands capital. If every dollar in money should be destroyed the world would have just as much capital as before, but those who now have the money would lose their power to command capital through that medium. If this conception be correct, then capital is always good, and never a menace to the people, although its improper use may become so. We cannot have too much capital, and it would make but little difference who owned, if only the results of its use were fairly divided between those who owned and those who performed the labor. It is the use of capital that is of vital importance, and not its ownership.

There must be public capital, such as parks, public buildings, streets, etc. And with this kind of capital I class railroads. I maintain that they are public capital, simply held in trust for the people, and the time is coming when they will be public capital in the fullest sense. Private ownership of land has been undoubtedly best under the civilization we have had, but advancement in civilization is teaching us more and more that even the land is simply held in trust by the owners for all the people, and it is theirs as soon as they demand it. No man's land is exempt from condemnation for public use now.—John Lind, Fusion Governor of Minnesota.

A "GENTLEMAN" FARMER.

Another of those idiotic misconceptions of Markham's famous poem, "The Man With the Hoe," is floating through the plutocratic press. This one tells of an intelligent looking, well-dressed, clean-shaven man, who seemed quite at home amid the surroundings of a magnificent hotel. When interviewed by a reporter he expressed great anxiety to know whether he looked like a man with the emptiness of ages in his face, or seemed to be bearing on his back the burdens of the world, or was "dead to rapture or despair, a thing that grieves not and never hopes," or showed a loosened or let down jaw, a brow slanted back, a darkened brain, or the mien of one stolid and stunned—a brother to the ox. He asked these questions, he said, because he wanted to learn if Markham knew what he was talking about when he wrote "The Man With the Hoe." For said this splendid American toiler:

"I raised on my farm in Illinois last year 10,000 bushels of wheat, 12,000 bushels of oats, 40,000 bushels of corn and 1,000 head of cattle, to say nothing of other stuff and stock, and I'm just back from a European trip."

He raised! Why he raised nothing. What he did was to let other men raise those things for him and to pay them a trifle out of the product for doing it; pretty much as the tramp offered to allow all comers to catch drift wood in the Mississippi on shares. This is not Markham's man with the hoe. This is only the kind that makes Markham's kind. And he would know it if his brow were not somewhat slanted and his brain a little darkened. He is the type of man upon whom Markham calls when he addresses the "masters, lords and rulers in all lands." To him the degraded man with the hoe stands in the relation of effect to cause; stands as the slave to the master, ast the serf to the lord, as the robbed to the robber.—The Public.

IS NOT ABOVE REPROACH.

Neither have we a right to say that the Philippine people must be held to be incapable of independent government if they cannot form an ideal republic, in which liberty and peace and order and honesty will reign in unclouded sunshine. They may easily be as orderly as Kentucky, and as honestly governed as the city of New York. What if they have their troubles and turmoils? They may be like some South American republics, or develop into something like the orderly dictatorship in Mexico. Do we question the title of those countries to their independence? Let us not indeed "scuttle away" from the Philippines, like baffled thieves, but assist and protect them until they stand upon their own feet; and if this is done in perfect good faith, difficulties now deemed ever so formidable will vanish like morning mist.

Besides, it is not the most important question how perfect their government will be. More important is it that their government should be their own, and more important still that the American people should not become unfaithful to the fundamental principles of their democracy; that they should not lose high ideals of liberty, right and justice; and that they should wash from the escutcheon of the republic the foul blot with which the great perfidy to our late allies has defiled it.—Hon. Carl Schurz, at Anti-Imperialist Conference in Philadelphia.

The Curse of Private Monopoly.

If we were to sum up in one word the cause of the social evil of the times, no better could be given than "monopoly."

There are the municipal monopolies of street railways and gas and electric plants; there is the railroad monopoly and the telephone monopoly; and there are the trust monopolies—each and every one of which is the foundation of colossal private fortunes and each and every one of which is rooted and grounded in special privileges.

The form of monopoly most attracting public attention is that commonly known as the trust. Within the past two years we have not only seen a most phenomenal growth of trusts, but we have experienced an extraordinary and rapid rise in the prices of trust products.

While the actual capital invested is less than five billions of dollars, the trusts are capitalized at more than ten billions and to pay dividends on their fictitious capitalization, the annual tribute extorted by them in excess of reasonable returns on the capital invested, is more than $300,000,000 per year.

Blind to Our Undoing.

"From recent reports coming from the Pacific coast, it would seem that not only is the exclusion law being openly violated, but that a regular slave market is flourishing in San Francisco, the current price of a human chattel being placed at about $2,800," says the Boston Globe. "The East is surging harder and harder upon us. A whole shipload of Japanese were recently landed at Seattle, without let or hindrance, and a regular inundation seems to have set in. The swindle seems to be easily carried out by the steamship companies, who aid the organized rings of sharpers engaged in the slave trade. Chinese men are let in as 'native sons' of California, and 'native daughters' find little trouble in getting by the federal laws and being landed in the slave market at some 'Oriental boardinghouse.' The problem of keeping the Orientals from flooding the far West grows more and more difficult. There is little doubt that the masters of the Pacific Mail steamships are in league with the powerful rings of slave traders who are reaping an illegitimate profit out of an illegal trade that nets many thousand dollars a month. The nefarious business should be nipped in the bud."

Who Civilized Us?

There is a plea that we must give these poor people a higher civilization. We must make them improve. I am inclined to think that we have an inadequate idea of the civilization of the Philippines and that we have been willfully kept in the dark about the attainments and capabilities of the Filipino, but granting that they are not so civilized as we think they should be, is that any reason why they should not be allowed gradually to advance, to work out their improvement in a natural way, as we have done? We were not always civilized in the modern sense; we were very rude. As Cowper says:

Time was then clothing sumptuous or for use,
Save their own painted skins, our sires had none.

Why should we not be willing to assist the Filipinos by the use of our superior attainments, as we have assisted other nations, notably Japan, without subjugating them?—Henry Budd, at Philadelphia Conference.

Joke on Canucks.

That was a great joke on our Canadian friends at Windsor, Ont., who thought to rebuke some American school children for sending a message of sympathy to Oom Paul, by encouraging their school children to send a like message to Aguinaldo. So many Americans recognized the propriety of such a proceeding, not as a rebuke to any of their fellow citizens, but as a tribute to one of the weaker peoples fighting for liberty, that the school authorities at Windsor were over-whelmed with encouraging letters from the states. This incident may forcibly help our patriotic Canadian brethren to understand that some at least of the sympathy of this country for the South Africans, whose independence is threatened by British jingoes, is inspired by no traditional antipathy to Englishmen, but springs from the same Democratic impulse that finds expression at home in sympathy for Aguinaldo's people whose independence is threatened by American jingoes.

Benevolent Assimilation.

The Moros of the Mohammedan belt under our jurisdiction have reserved for them a melancholy fate, in the opinion of the very latest thinkers on the spot. "Many American officers," declares an Associated Press letter from the Philippines, "say that the Moro destiny is extermination." Having reached this conclusion, the detail of the operation is already taking shape in the far-seeing military mind. For, says the same correspondent, "the American officers are convinced that the cheapest way to deal with the Moros, who are at heart savages of the most bloodthirsty character, will be to show them no mercy when once they become hostile, even if some innocent lives have to be sacrificed for the general good." Glorious, isn't it? A wonderful statesmanship it was that saddled us with the islands of the Mohammedan belt.—Springfield Republican.

Pooh!

"Not a guilty man shall escape punishment—those responsible for Cuban postal frauds will be brought to trial," say the McKinley organs. It sounds, for all the world, like one of Governor Roosevelt's campaign speeches on the canal frauds. When was the Republican party ever known to bring Republican rascals to justice?—Albany Argus.

BRITISH ENTER PRETORIA

Occupation Effected at 2 O'clock Tuesday Without Bloodshed.

ALL ENGLAND REJOICING OVER THE NEWS

General Botha Sent Word That the City Would Surrender, and Asked Protection for the Women, Children and Property.

At 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon almost eight months after the declaration of war Lord Roberts entered Pretoria. While the commander-in-chief of the greatest army Great Britain ever put in the field was fulfilling the promise he made to the guards at Bloemfontein, to lead them into the capital of the Transvaal, England was celebrating with wild enthusiasm.

Through the length and breadth of the country the news spread. Based on the recollection of recent European wars, when the occupation of the enemy's capital signified the end of hostilities, Lord Roberts' terse telegram was taken to mean the practical finish of the war, which has tried Great Britain's military resources as they were never tried before.

The Surrender.

The war office in London has received the following from Lord Roberts:

"PRETORIA, June 5.—Just before dark yesterday the enemy was beaten back from nearly all the positions they had been holding, and Ian Hamilton's mounted infantry followed them to within 2,000 yards of Pretoria, though they retreated hastily.

"De Lisle then sent an officer with a flag of truce in the town, demanding its surrender in my name. Shortly before midnight I was awakened by two officials of the South African republic—Sandberg, military secretary to Commandant-General Botha, and a general officer of the Boer army—who brought me a letter from Botha, proposing an armistice for the purpose of settling the terms of surrender.

"I replied that I would gladly meet the commandant-general the next morning, but that I was not prepared to discuss any terms, as the surrender of the town must be unconditional. I asked for a reply by daybreak, as I had ordered the troops to march on the town as soon as it was light.

"In his reply Botha decided not to defend Pretoria, and that he trusted women, children and property would be protected. At 1 o'clock today, while on the line of march, I was met by three of the principal officers with a flag of truce, stating their wish to surrender the town. It was arranged that Pretoria should be taken possession of by her majesty's troops at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

"Mrs. Botha and Mrs. Kruger are both in Pretoria. Some few of the British prisoners have been taken away, but the majority are still at Waterval. Over a hundred of the officers are in Pretoria. The few I have seen are looking well."

BRYAN ENDORSED

By New York Democrats But Did Not Reaffirm Chicago Platform.

The New York democratic state committee Tuesday elected these delegates at large to the national convention: David B. Hill, Richard Croker, Edward Murphy, and August Van Wyck. Alternates: Frank Campbell, Jacob Rupert, Jr., C. Morgan Sanford and James Helvin.

Electors-at-Large: Frederick Cook, of Rochester, Robert C. Titus, of Buffalo.

The platform adopted contains no reaffirmation of the Chicago platform of 1896, but a declaration that the party in the state will support the platform of the Kansas City convention. The platform declares against war taxes in the time of peace; declares for parity of gold and silver as currency; demands abolition of all customs and tariffs between Porto Rico and the United States; condemns trusts and monopolies and entangling alliances; demands just and liberal pensions laws and election of United States senators by the people, and favors the nomination of William J. Bryan.

Wheeler Now a Brigadier General.

General Joseph Wheeler, of Alabama, is now a brigadier general in the regular army having been confirmed by the senate at midnight Tuesday. He is the first ex-confederate to receive that rank, two medical officers being the only ex-confederates who secured rank in the regulars.

CONGRESS is expected to adjourn to-day.

SINCE the death of Mr. R. Ehrman Chilton county has been without a tax commissioner.

SOME of our good friends have been worrying about registering. Don't worry, dear boys, it's only in cities of 5000 inhabitants and over that are concerned in registering now. So long as your name is already on the registration list, and you still reside in the same beat as when you registered you are alright. If you move into another beat, or become twenty-one years old since the last election, then you will be required to register on the day of the general election in Aug.

THE State convention of the People's Party at Birmingham last week was a disappointment to most of us, and the non-acceptance of two of the principle nominees is not to be wondered at. In the early part of May, when the convention was originally called, there was about forty members of the Populist Party attended, and it was then decided that the representation being so small it was inadvisable to put out a State ticket and the consequence was the consequence was the convention adjourned and a new call was issued.

The new call was of such an open character it was hoped the respouse would be of such a nature that it would be possible to re-unite the people on the great questions confronting them.

Emanating from a Populist source it was hoped the Populists would rally together again; then it was hoped that those favoring the dispensary would at least attend the convention, and try and reach an understanding with us, more especially as they can have no hope through any other party. The opponents of a constitutional convention, whose name is legion, are apparently not sufficiently interested to stem the tide, and it appears that while there are innumerable Democrats who openly anon their detestation of the notorious resolution of the late Democratic convention which places local legislation at the mercy of the defeated Democratic candidate for the legislature, they are not capable of trying any means to defeat it except through the Democratic party. Under all the circumstances it seems to us it was not advisable to nominate a State ticket. The attendance was too small, and the best policy the Populist party can follow is one of waiting for developments. That the old Populist principles are still alive we are fully aware, but the people are prosperous now, and not willing to exert themselves until such time as they again feel the yoke of the Democratic party, then, and not till then, there will be an uprisal.

THE British-Boer war in South Africa is practically over. The British have taken possession of both the capitals of the two republics. Bloemfontein, the capital of the Orange Free State is no longer in existance, it has been annexed to British territofy and is to be known in future as the Orange River colony. Pretoria, the capital of the Transvaal will probably be officially declared British territory in the course of a few days. There seems to be some uncertainty as to what the Boers purpose doing, but it looks very much as if they were contemplating another trek and will seek fresh fields and pastures new. There may be guerilla warfare for some time, but the big battles are over.

The Output of Our Great Northwest.

The State of Minnesota alone produces approximately about 80,000,000 bushels of wheat, or about one thirty-seventh of the total production of the world. Of this she is able to export two-thirds. Of the Dakotas, not having begun to reach their limit of productiveness, North Dakota raised in 1898 55,000,000 bushels, and South Dakota 42,000,000. Oregon produced 24,000,000 bushels. The modern farming methods in the Northwest challenge the admiration of the world. Steam and electricity are made to serve the farmers purpose. He plows, reaps, thrashes by machinery. He telephones from his farmhouse to his granaries. Sometimes he receives the latest grain quotations over a private telegraph wire in his dwelling. Often the acreage of his farm is expressed in the thousands, sometimes in five figures. He comes from the poor places of the earth, and finds a home and self respect. He sends his products to Europe, Asia, Japan, even China. He furnishes a traffic that provides work for tens of thousands of employees of transportation lines. He keeps a procession of grain ships moving to the Sault Ste. Marie Canal which makes the "Soo" rank ahead of far-famed Suez in point of tonage. Moreover, he is furnishing bone and sinew for this great country of ours which cannot be expressed in figures.—From "James J. Hill, a Builder of the Northwest," by Mary Harriman Severance, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for June.

Starvation never yet cured dyspepsia. Persons with indigestion are already half starved. They need plenty of wholesome food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat so the body can be nourished while the worn out organs are being reconstructed. It is the only preparation known that will instantly relieve and completely cure all stomach troubles. Try it if you are suffering from indigestion. It will certainly do you good. Campbelle Drug Co.

The Cotton Outlook.

1. The average increase of acreage throughout the belt seems to be about 8 per cent. A larger area would undoubtedly, have been sown, had not the diversion of labor to other industries stood in the way.

2. The purchases of fertilizers were very large, but the torrential rains of April effected a very considerable reduction in this item.

3. The forecast of a posible scarcity of seed for planting or replanting is found to have had no baisis of fact.

4 The supply of farm animals has been sufficient for every purpose.

5. The condition of the plant varies greatly, in different localities. The outlook in Texas is, by all accounts, one of the worst of which the records make mention. Elsewhere the elements have been less unkind, but the crop is almost universally backward and will, therefore, be peculiarly sensitive to frost. An open winter will be necessary in order to insure a bountiful harvest; a normal date of frost would keep the yield within very moderate dimensions; an early freeze would imply an absolute disaster. Speculations on these points are absolutely idle; time must be left to tell its story.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active energetic man with a torpid liver and you may know that his liver is torpid when he does not relish his food, or feels dull and languid after eating, often has headache and sometimes dizziness. A few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will restore his liver to its normal functions, renew his vitality, improve his digestion and make him feel like a new man. Price 25 cents. Samples free at Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

BETTER SCHOOLS

To the people interested in better schools.

The people over the county are respectfully requested to meet at their neighborhood school houses on Saturday night June 23rd for the purpose of discussing the special school tax for the county, which was provided by the last legislature. The township trustees will conduct the meetings in their respective neighborhoods. The law provides for a special school tax of the county for not less than 5 cents nor over 25 cents on the $100. A free discussion is expected of the people, that their sentiments may be known and the trustee or chairman of each meeting will make reports as to the number in their meeting for or against the proposed tax. All reports will be made to the County Superintendent. The part taken in these meetings will go a long way towards determining the disposal of the question by the Commissioners Court.

Let all the people turn out.
Respectfully,
COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Mr. W. S. Whedon, Cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ, that will be of value to other mechanics. He says: "I had a carpenter working for me who was obliged to stop work for several days on account of being troubled with diarrhoea. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I Deramus, Verbena.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

How to Make Pretty Rugs—Window Seat and Shelves—The Use of Cooking Butter.

"Times are too hard" is a poor plea to offer in defense of not having made an effort to make home beautiful or at least comfortable. By making a few pretty things which can be constructed out of stray bits of things and found in every household, though they may not always prove useful, they may be decorative and pleasing to the eye, thus helping to lighten the heart, a good and essential weapon with which to brave life's battle.

To begin with the lowliest material—rugs. What comfort a large, well made rug suggests made of scraps, to which the smallest piece may add beauty. Among the many ways of making rugs of rags there are none so neat, durable and as easily made as those crocheted (unless woven like a rag carpet), yet that does not offer as many varieties of forms.

A neighbor bought 12 yards of challe at a great bargain, but when she examined it at home found it was not suitable for a dress, strong enough for a comfortable or pretty enough for a curtain, so she decided to make a rug of it. Tearing into strips the entire length, just wide enough to hold together, she wound it into a ball. Making a chain five inches long, she worked all around in single stitch, widening here and there enough to keep it flat. The color was brown. It has been in use six years, and unless closely examined no one would suspect its origin.

One made of scraps of gray dress lining, for want of better material, is named the polka-dot. With a very narrow bright strip make four chains and join; one row single stitch all around, join the gray, work five rounds. Make next round at regular intervals, make four stitches of some bright color. On the next row six stitches of the bright over the four on the last row, six stitches over the bright in the next row, four stitches over the six in last row; they form the "dot." Each dot may be a different color. Proceed to the end in same way until large enough.

Another, oval in form, is shaded from pink to garnet. The foundation chain and first two rows are a delicate pink; next three rows a shade darker; next six rows still darker, and so on. The greater part of this one was made of scraps carefully sorted; an old white shawl, colored, together with an old garnet plush cover. Both had "seen their best days," but completed the last two rows of this pretty rug.

Still another made hit and miss: Make a chain 20 inches long, work 22 rows round and round. This makes one narrow strip; make three in the same way, and sew together, leaving three nice rounding scallops on each end. —Mrs. A. B. Carl in Housekeeper.

Our eclipse was not as our trains often are but was surely "on time" and was viewed with great interest through smoked glass here, those who doubted our learned astronomers are now assured that they know a "thing or two."

The North has not treated us right lately in neglecting our "Little Fighting Joe" but nature kindly gave us the best view of the wonderful eclipse to make some amends.

The weather has been very favorable for vegetation, and our farmers are hustling "hunting hands" to chop cotton and some biblically speaking have laid their hands to the plow and hoe and looked not back we hope will be rewarded.

A Good Cough Medicine.

It speaks well for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy when druggists use it in their own families in preference to any other. "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past five years with complete satisfaction to myself and customers," says Druggist J. Goldsmith, Van Etten, N. Y. "I have always used it in my own family both for ordinary coughs and colds and for the cough following la grippe, and find it very efficacious." For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. Neglect is the short step so many take from a cough or cold to consumption. The early use of One Minute Cough Cure prevents consumption. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. It cures all throat and lung troubles. Children all like it and mothers endorse it. Campbelle Drug Co.

Moody and the Sinless Man.

Some time ago a man who claimed perfection went to Evangelist Moody and commiserated him on his low level of Christian experience. Mr. Moody in a kind manner asked his caller if he never sinned nor did any wrong.

"No; I have not sinned for years; neither have I done anything that was wrong," was the prompt reply.

"Well, I'm glad to know it," said Mr. Moody, "but before I am convinced I would like to ask your wife."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Preferred a Solo.

A gushing, sentimental girl and her matter of fact aunt sat on a green hillside, the aunt endeavoring to enjoy nature, while her niece discoursed of things far and near without a noticeable pause for breath.

At last she spoke of the beauties of the landscape at great length. "I love to listen to the music of that brook as it babbles on and on," she said unwisely.

"Yes," said the aunt, seizing her first opportunity, "the babbling of a brook is a pleasant sound, my dear. I think I prefer it as a solo, however, rather than with another part. I don't care so much for a babbling duet."

Then for a few delightful moments there was silence on the green hillside. —Youth's Companion.

"At no time," said the cornfed philosopher, "is a man so willing to take the burden from the weak shoulders of frail woman as when she is harassed with the care of a large and paying property."—Indianapolis Journal.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call on Clanton Drug Store and get a trial bottle free, Regular size 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed, or price refunded.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Victor's Shout—The Joy of Overcoming Difficulties—The Satisfaction Expressed by Christ on the Outcome of His Earthly Labors.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage shows in an unusual way the antagonisms that Christ overcame and finds a balsam for all wounded hearts; text, John xvii., 4, "I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do."

There is a profound satisfaction in the completion of anything we have undertaken. We lift the capstone with exultation, while, on the other hand, there is nothing more disappointing than, after having toiled in a certain direction, to find that our time is wasted and our investment profitless. Christ came to throw up a highway on which the whole world might, if it chose, mount into heaven. He did it. The foul mouthed crew who attempted to tread on Him could not extinguish the sublime satisfaction which He expressed when He said: "I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me do."

Alexander the Great was wounded, and the doctors could not medicate his wounds, and he seemed to be dying, and in his dream the sick man saw a plant with a peculiar flower, and he dreamed that that plant was put upon his wound and that immediately it was cured. And Alexander, waking from his dream, told this to the physician, and the physician wandered out until he found just the kind of plant which the sick man had described, brought it to him, and the wound was healed. Well, the human race had been hurt with the ghastliest of all wounds—that of sin. It was the business of Christ to bring a balm for that wound—the balm of divine restoration. In carrying this business to a successful issue the difficulties were stupendous.

In many of our plans we have our friends to help us; some to draw a sketch of the plan, others to help us in the execution. But Christ fought every inch of His way against bitter hostility and amid circumstances all calculated to depress and defeat.

In the first place, His worldly occupation was against Him. I find that He earned His livelihood by the carpenter's trade, an occupation always to be highly regarded and respected. But you know as well as I do that in order to succeed in any employment one must give his entire time to it, and I have to declare that the fatigues of carpentry were unfavorable to the execution of a mission which required all mental and physical faculties. Through high, hard, dry, husky, insensate Judaism to hew a way for a new and glorious dispensation was a stupendous undertaking that was enough to demand all the concentrated energies even of Christ. We have a great many romantic stories about what men with physical toil have accomplished in intellectual departments, but you know that after a man has been toiling all day with adz and saw and hammer, plane and ax, about all he can do is to rest. A weary body is an unfavorable adjunct to a toiling mind. You, whose life in purely mechanical, if you were called to the upbuilding of a kingdom, or the proclamation of a new code of morals, or the starting of a revolution which should upturn all nations, could get some idea of the incoherence of Christ's occupation with His heavenly mission.

In His father's shop no more intercourse was necessary than is ordinarily necessary in bargaining with men that have work to do, yet Christ, with hands hard from use of tools of trade, was called forth to become a public speaker, to preach in the face of mobs, while some wept, and some shook their fists, and some gnashed upon Him with their teeth, and many wanted Him out of the way. To address orderly and respectful assemblages is not so easy as it may seem, but it requires more energy and more force and more concentration to address an exasperated mob. The villagers of Nazareth heard the pounding of His hammer, but all the wide reaches of eternity were to hear the stroke of His spiritual up-building.

So also His habits of dress and diet were against Him. The mighty men of Christ's time did not appear in apparel without trinkets and adornments. None of the Cæsars would have appeared in citizen's apparel. Yet here was a man, here was a professed king, who always wore the same coat. Indeed it was far from shabby, for after He had worn it a long while the gamblers thought it worth raffling about, but still it was far from being an imperial robe. It was a coat that any ordinary man might have worn on an ordinary occasion.

Neither was there any pretension in His diet. No cupbearer with golden chalice brought Him wine to drink. On the seashore He ate fish, first having broiled it Himself. No one fetched Him water to drink; but, bending over the well in Samaria, He begged a drink. He sat at only one banquet, and that not at all sumptuous, for to relieve the awkwardness of the host one of the guests had to prepare wine for the company.

Other kings ride in a chariot; He walked. Other kings, as they advance, have heralds ahead and applauding subjects behind; Christ's retinue was made up of sunburned fishermen. Other kings sleep under embroidered canopy; this one on a shelterless hill, riding but once, as far as I now remember, on a colt, and that borrowed.

His poverty was against Him. It requires money to build great enterprises. Men of means are afraid of a penniless projector lest a loan be demanded. It requires money to print books, to build institutions, to pay instructors. No wonder the wise men of Christ's time laughed at this penniless Christ. "Why," they said, "who is to pay for this new religion? Who is to charter the ships to carry the missionaries? Who is to pay the salaries of the teachers? Shall wealthy, established religion be discomfited by a penniless Christ?"

The consequence was that most of the people that followed Christ had nothing to lose. Affluent Joseph of Arimathea buried Christ, but he risked no social position in doing that. It is always safe to bury a dead man.

Zaccheus risked no wealth or social position in following Christ, but took a position in a tree to look down as He passed.

Nicodemus, wealthy Nicodemus, risked nothing of social position in following Christ, for he skulked by night to find Him.

All this was against Christ. So the fact that He was not regularly graduated was against Him. If a man come with diplomas of colleges and schools and theological seminaries and he has been through foreign travel, the world is disposed to listen. But here was a man who had graduated at no college, had not in any academy by ordinary means learned the alphabet of the language He spoke, and yet He proposed to talk, to instruct in subjects which had confounded the mightiest intellects. John said, "The Jews marveled, saying, How hath this man letters, having never learned?" We, in our day, have found out that a man without a diploma may know as much as a man with one and that a college cannot transform a sluggard into a philosopher or a theological seminary teach a fool to preach. An empty head, after the laying on of hands of the presbytery, is empty still. But it shocked all existing prejudices in those olden times for a man with no scholastic pretensions and no graduation from a learned institution to set Himself up for a teacher. It was against Him.

So there have been men of wonderful magnetism of person. But hear me while I tell you of a poor young Man who came up from Nazareth to produce a thrill which has never been excited by any other. Napoleon had around him the memories of Marengo and Austerlitz and Jena, but here was a Man who had fought no battles, who wore no epaulets, who brandished no sword. He had probably never seen a prince or shaken hands with a nobleman.

The only extraordinary person we know of as being in His company was His own mother, and she was so poor that, in the most delicate and solemn hour that comes to a woman's soul, she was obliged to lie down among drivers grooming the beasts of burden.

Again, I remark, there was no organization in His behalf, and that was against Him. When men propose any great work, they band together, they write letters of agreement, they take oaths of fealty, and the more complete the organization the more and complete the success. Here was one who went forth without any organization and alone. If men had a mind to join in His company, all right; if they had a mind not to join in His company, all well. If they came, they were greeted with no loud salutation; if they went away, they were sent with no bitter anathema. Peter departed, and Christ turned and looked at him; that was all.

All this was against Him. Did any one ever undertake such an enterprise amid such infinite embarrassments and by such modes? And yet I am here to say it ended in a complete triumph. Notwithstanding His worldly occupation, His poverty, His plain face, His unpretending garb, the fact that He was schoolless, the fact that He had a brief life, the fact that He was not accompanied by any visible organization—notwithstanding all that, in an exhilaration which shall be prolonged in everlasting chorals, He declared, "I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do."

Is the eye infirmary now many diseases of that delicate organ have been cured? But Jesus says to one blind, "Be open!" and the light of heaven rushes through gates that have never before been opened. The frost of an ax may kill a tree, but Jesus smites one dead with a word. Chemistry may do many wonderful things, but what chemist at a wedding, when the wine gave out, could change a pail of water into a cask of wine? What human voice could command a school of fish? Yet here is a voice that marshals the scaly tribes until, in a place where they had let down the net and pulled it up with no fish in it, they let it down again; and the disciples lay hold and began to pull, when, by reason of the multitude of fish, the net broke. Nature is His servant. The flowers—He twisted them into His sermons; the winds—they were His lullaby when He slept in the boat; the rain it hung glittering on the thick foliage of the parables; the star of Bethlehem—it sang a Christmas carol over His birth; the rocks—they beat a dirge at His death. Behold His victory over the grave! The hinges of the family vault become very rusty because they are never opened except to take another in. There is a knob on the outside of the door of the sepulcher, but none on the inside. Here comes the Conqueror of Death. He enters that realm and says, "Daughter of Jairus, sit up!" and she sits up. To Lazarus, "Come forth!" and he came forth. To the widow's son He said, "Get up from that bier!" and he goes home with his mother. Then Jesus snatched up the keys of death and hung them to His girdle and cried until all the graveyards of the earth heard Him: "O death, I will be thy plague! O grave, I will be thy destruction!"

No man could go through all the obstacles I have described, you say, without having a nature supernatural. In that arm, amid its muscles and nerves and bones, were intertwisted the energies of omnipotence. In the syllables of that voice there was the emphasis of the eternal God. That foot that walked the deck of the ship in Gennesaret shall stamp kingdoms of darkness into demolition. This poverty struck Christ owned Augustus, owned the sanhedrin, owned Tiberias, owned all the castles on its beach and all the skies that looked down into its water—owned all the earth and all the heavens. To Him of the plain coat belonged the robes of celestial royalty. He who walked the road to Emmaus the lightnings were the fire shod steeds of His chariot. Yet there are those who look on and see Christ turn water into wine, and they say, "It was sleight of hand!" And they see Christ raise the dead to life, and they say: "Easily explained; not really dead; playing dead!" And they see Christ giving sight to the blind man, and they say, "Clairvoyant doctor!" Oh, what shall they do on the day when Christ rises up in judgment and the hills shall rock and the trumpets shall call, peal on peal? In the time o' Theodosius the Great there was a great assault made upon the divinity of Jesus Christ, and during that time Theodosius the Great called his own son to sit on the throne with him and be a copartner in the government of the empire, and one day the old bishop came and bowed down before Theodosius, the emperor, and passed out of the room, and the emperor was offended, saying to the old bishop, "Why didn't you pay the same honor to my son, who shares with me in the government?" Then the old bishop turned to the young man and said, "The Lord bless thee, my young man," but still paid him no such honor as he had paid to the Emperor. And the Emperor was still offended and displeased when the old bishop turned to Theodosius the Great and said to him, "You are offended with me because I don't pay the same honor to your son, whom you have made copartner in the government of this empire, the same honor I pay to you, and yet you encourage multitudes of people in your realm to deny the Son of God equal authority, equal power, with God the Father."

My subject also reassures us of the fact that in all our struggles we have a sympathizer. You cannot tell Christ anything new about hardship. I do not think that wide ages of eternity will take the scars from His punctured side and His lacerated temples and His sore hands. You will never have a burden weighing so many pounds as that burden Christ carried up the bloody hill. You will never have any suffering worse than He endured when, with tongue hot and cracked and inflamed and swollen, He moaned, "I thirst." You will never be surrounded by worse hostility than that which stood around Christ's feet, foaming, reviling, livid with rage, howling down His prayers and snuffing up the smell of blood. O ye faint hearted, O ye troubled, O ye persecuted One, here is a heart that can sympathize with you!

Again, and lastly, I learn from all that has been said to-day that Christ was awfully in earnest. If it had not been a momentous mission, He would have turned back from it disgusted and discouraged. He saw you in a captivity from which He was resolved to extricate you, though it cost Him all sweat, all tears, all blood. He came a great way to save you. He came from Bethlehem here, through the place of skulls, through the charnel house, through banishment. There was not among all the ranks of celestials one being who would do as much for you. I lay His crushed heart at your feet to-day. Let it not be told in heaven that you deliberately put your foot on it. While it will take all the ages of eternity to celebrate Christ's triumph, I am here to make the startling announcement that because of the rejection of this mission on the part of some of you all that magnificent work of garden and cross and grave is, so far as you are concerned, a failure. Helena, the Empress, went to the Holy Land to find the cross of Christ. Getting to the Holy Land, there were three crosses excavated, and the question was which of the crosses was Christ's cross. They took a dead body, tradition says, and put it upon one of the crosses, and there was no life, and they took the dead body and put it upon another cross, and there was no life; but, tradition says, when the dead body was put up against the third cross it sprang into life. The dead man lived again. Oh, that the life giving power of the Son of God might dart your dead soul into an eternal life, beginning this day! "Awake, thou sleepest, and rise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee life!" Live now! And live forever!

Novel Fruit-Piece For the Table.

Here is an idea that may appeal to an entertainer. It is an evident fact that the time-honored fruit-dish, with its assortment of fruit, no longer has any place on a modern table each kind of fruit is put by itself on a separate silver dish artistically arranged. Any one who has a little taste can imitate the arrangement. Take four plates of equal size; put on them some green leaves—bay-leaves, geraniums, or whatever one happens to have at hand—and arrange the fruits to suit the different kinds. Make a pyramid of bright red apples, with four apples for a base, three on top, and one on top of all, with the leaves in between. Arrange oranges in the same way, but on the third plate lay bunches of grapes carelessly on leaves, and on the fourth put bananas. Lo! with the four plates at the four corners your table is dressed at once. Nuts may be used instead of fruit on one plate, and figs and dates on the other, but beware of the old-fashioned fruit basket or dish if you wish your table to be up to date. —Woman's Home Companion.

When You Hang Your Pictures.

By hanging pictures low you increase the apparent height of the room.

Colored pictures should not be hung in hallways or on staircases unless there is plenty of light for them. In such places strong photographs, engravings and drawings in black and white go best.

A picture should not be hung from one nail; the diamond lines formed by the cord have a very discordant effect. Two nails and two vertical cords, or, what is far more safe, pieces of wire cordage, should be used instead of the single cord.

Picture cords should be as near the color of the wall upon which they are put as possible, so that they may be but little seen. When one picture is hung beneath another the bottom one should be hung from the one above, and not from the top; thus we avoid multiplying the cords, which is always objectionable.

A good hue for walls where prints or photographs are to be hung is a rich yellow brown or a leather color. Luster to the black of the print of the tone of the photograph is thus imparted. The wall paper should have no strongly defined pattern.

The centre of the picture, as a rule, should not be much above the level of the eye.

Cream of Barley Soup (Mrs. Rorer)—Scald two tablespoonfuls of barley, drain, cover with fresh water and boil three hours; strain. Put one pint of veal or white stock with one pint of milk to boil, add barley, a tablespoonful of salt, and one-fourth of a tablespoonful of white pepper. Beat the yolks of two eggs lightly, put them in the soup tureen, pour over the boiling soup and serve at once.

Cream Rhubarb Pie—Requires one cup of milk, one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of flour and one cup of rhubarb, cut in very thin slices, the yolks of two eggs. Make a custard of these ingredients, pour into a shell of pie crust and bake. Make a meringue of the whites of the eggs, cover the pie with this, and return to the oven until slightly browned. The slices of rhubarb will be found floating on the top of the custard.

Escalloped Meat—Butter a baking dish. Put in it alternate layers of chopped meat, bread crumbs and sprinkle over each layer chopped parsley, salt, pepper and a few drops of onion juice. Pour over the top enough white sauce to moisten all. Melt a little butter. Add to it some bread crumbs. Mix them thoroughly in the butter and spread them over the meat. Bake in a quick oven and when brown remove. Any cold meat may be used.

"Moonshines," "Nothings" or "Trifles"—To one egg beaten add a pinch of salt and stir in flour enough to make a stiff dough. Roll thin as paper, cut with good-sized cake cutter and fry in boiling fat, as doughnuts. Mix sugar and spice and sift over them while hot. They will blister and assume various shapes in cooking. If you drop them into the fat sidewise they will fold and curve. Then sift only sugar over them and call them "fairy shells."

Rice Croquettes—Plain, but nice and tender. For one cup of boiled rice use one teaspoonful butter, half an egg and no salt, if rice was well salted when boiled. Mix while warm and make into small balls, wetting the hands slightly when necessary in cold water. Roll in beaten egg, then powdered bread crumbs, and fry in boiling fat, about three at once. When golden brown skim out, lay on brown paper. Keep in warm place till all are fried. Then serve in hot dish.

ALABAMA NEWS SUMMARY.

Passenger Train Wrecked.

Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis passenger train No. 86 left the track near Alabama City, turning over two coaches and demolishing them. One or two passengers were slightly bruised, but none seriously.

Frank Culverhouse Resigns.

Associate State Mine Inspector Frank Culverhouse has tendered his resignation to the governor, which has been accepted. Mr. Culverhouse resigned from the state service to accept the position of superintendent of the Underwood Coal company, which will open new mines on the Attalla and Oneonta branch of the Louisville & Nashville in Etowah county.

Steamship Deal at Mobile.

The Munson steamship line, one of the largest of American steamship companies, has contracted with the Mobile & Ohio railroad company to absorb the Mobile & Cuban steamship company, which, since the Spanish war, has done a successful trade out of Mobile port. The Munson company will take charge July 2. It agrees to increase the facilities and also to do business out of Mobile to a number of other ports in the islands and in South America and Mexico.

The Death Penalty Imposed.

With a life sentence already hanging over him, Alonzo Williams, a negro convict serving sentence in Coalburg prison, was convicted in the criminal court at Birmingham of the murder of a fellow convict, and the death penalty imposed. Some months ago Williams murdered John Richardson, another convict, in an encounter in the stockade, while serving a life sentence for the murder of another convict.

County Officers Nominated

In the democratic primary held in Lee county for the selection of candidates for county officers, the following ticket was nominated: For sheriff, A. P. Hodge; for treasurer, A. H. Slaughter; for tax collector, R. B. Booker; for tax receiver, J. I. Bedell; for state senator, E. L. Baker; for representatives, Berrien T. Phillips and L. C. Jones; for superintendent of education, J. O. Warren; for commissioners, J. T. Sadler and J. F. Newsom.

Crushed by Machinery.

A young man named Burton, aged about 20 years, was accidentally killed at Blossburg Sunday, while working at the coke ovens of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, at that place. Burton had charge of the stationary engine used at the coke ovens, and, while working with some of the machinery, was caught by the fly wheel and his body badly crushed and mangled. Burton was the son of T. J. Burton, former probate judge of Cleburn county.

Shot Through the Heart.

Nat Hammond was shot and almost instantly killed by Mack Morton at Ashville over a trivial difference Saturday night. Both of the men were prominent citizens of the community, and had previous to the shooting been friends. Hammond and Morton met and soon became engaged in a quarrel. Morton suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and advanced on Hammond. The weapon snapped twice, but on the third attempt fired, the ball penetrating Hammond's heart. He walked away a few feet and fell dead.

New Lines in Alabama.

Twenty miles of the right of way of the Florida, Alabama and Northern railroad have been surveyed and located, and the contract for the construction of that portion of the road will probably be let within the next four or five weeks. The Florida, Alabama and Northern will run from Florala, a point on the line between Alabama and Florida, by way of Green Bay and Bullock, Ala., to Troy, a distance of fifty-five miles. E. E. Reese, Laurel Hill, Fla., is the general manager of the road.

Eight miles of the Carrollton Short Line, being built from Carrollton to Reform, Ala., have been graded and three miles of track laid. The entire length of the road is ten miles.

STATE BREVITIES.

Dave McCollough, a negro, was hanged at Brewton last week for killing Policeman Gallaspie December 23.

News comes from Snead, in Blount county, that Jack Miller, a young farmer there, was killed while plowing in the field by a bolt of lightning. A mule was killed and a man named Thomas shocked at the same time.

BLOODY TRAGEDY IN TEXAS.

Three Men Killed as the Result of an Old Feud.

At San Augustine, San Augustine county, Texas, Monday, a pitched battle between the Wall faction on the one side and the Brooks on the other, resulted in the death of Felix G. Roberts, his brother Sidney Roberts and the fatal wounding of Noe Roberts, sheriff of the county and brother to the dead men.

The feud grew out of politics and has been brewing for some years. A few weeks ago Ned Wall, the sheriff, was shot and killed by King Borden at San Augustine. Borden fled, but afterward surrendered and was admitted to bail. Noe Roberts was appointed sheriff. Last Saturday Eugene Wall, brother to the dead sheriff, shot to death Ben Brooks, a kinsman of Borden. Monday the factions met when the examining trial of Wall was to be held, and every man came to the court house armed.

Hostilities began with the appearance of Sheriff Roberts and his brother, who fell at the first volley from a score of guns.

Application was at once made to the governor for troops, and the Stone Fort Rifles were ordered from Nacogdoches. The is much excitement and more trouble is feared.

CLAYTON-BULWER TREATY.

Morgan Says It Must Go if It Blocks Government's Way.

Congress is in the last gasps of the long session, and its expiration, apparently, is to be quite perfunctory. Unless something extraordinary occurs, no further general legislation of national importance will be enacted before adjournment.

Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, reported from the committee on inter-oceanic canals a resolution declaring the Clayton-Bulwer treaty abrogated. The resolution as reported reads:

"That the treaty known as the Clayton-Bulwer treaty between Great Britain and the United States, which was concluded on the 5th of April, 1850, is abrogated."

In presenting the resolution Mr. Morgan made a written report traversing the grounds for the abrogation of the treaty in detail.

The report is practically a plea for the Nicaragua canal. In it Senator Morgan says "that if the Clayton-Bulwer treaty stands in the way of our government it must give way to the paramount law" if the house bill is enacted into a statute of the United States.

Republicans Carry Oregon.

Meagre returns from Monday's election in Oregon indicate that the republicans have carried the state by from 5,000 to 8,000 plurality. It is estimated that C. W. Wolverton, republican for justice of the supreme court, will have a plurality of 8,000, and J. W. Bailey, republican, for food and dairy commissioner, is elected by 6,000. In the Second Congressional district the plurality for Moody, republican, is estimated at from 5,000 to 7,000. According to the returns the fusionists have gained in the legislature.

Gen. Wheeler to Be Brigadier-General.

A Washington dispatch says: General Wheeler's friends rejoice at the president's intention to appoint him a brigadier-general in the regular army. The appointment will probably go in Wednesday. General Wheeler serves as a regular only until September 10, when he becomes 64 years of age.

The appointment will without doubt be promply confirmed. It seems to mean General Wheeler's retirement from active politics.

Gomez Will Be Honored.

On arriving at his house in Havana Monday General Gomez made a brief address, in the course of which he said he had kept his promise to return to Cuba, and that he had never intended to turn his back upon her people. A large demonstration in his honor will be given.

Gen. Hastings Dead.

Silas Wright Hastings, late colonel of the One Hundred and Forty-second New York volunteer infantry and brigadier general United States volunteers by brevet, died in Washington Monday.

General Manager Metcalf Resigns.

J. G. Metcalf, general manager of the Louisville and Nashville railroad company, has tendered his resignation to the president of the company to take effect in July. He will accept a similar position with the Denver and Rio Grande, with headquarters at Denver. His successor will in all probability be W. M. Newbold, now superintendent of the South and North division.

BLOODY TRAGEDY IN TEXAS.

Two Men Killed as the Result of an Old Feud.

At San Augustine, San Augustine county, Texas, Monday, a pitched battle between the Wall faction on one side and the Brooks on the other, resulted in the death of Felix Roberts, his brother Sidney Roberts and the fatal wounding of Noel Roberts, sheriff of the county and another to the dead men.

The feud grew out of politics and has been brewing for some years. A few weeks ago Ned Wall, the sheriff, was shot and killed by King Borden, of San Augustine. Borden fled, but afterward surrendered and was admitted to bail. Noel Roberts was appointed sheriff. Last Saturday Eugene Wall, brother to the dead sheriff, shot to death Ben Brock, a deputyman of Borden. Monday the factions met when the examining trial of Wall was to be held, and every man came to the court house armed. Hostilities began with the appearance of Sheriff Roberts and his brother, who fell at the first volley from a score of guns.

Application was at once made to the governor for troops, and the Stone rifles were ordered from Nacogdoches. The is much excitement and more trouble is feared.

CLAYTON-BULWER TREATY.

Morgan Says It Must Go If It Blocks Government's Way.

Congress is in the last gasps of the long session, and its expiration, apparently, is to be quite perfunctory. Unless something extraordinary occurs, no further general legislation of national importance will be enacted before adjournment.

Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, reported from the committee on inter-oceanic canals a resolution declaring the Clayton-Bulwer treaty abrogated. The resolution as reported reads:

"That the treaty known as the Clayton-Bulwer treaty between Great Britain and the United States, which was concluded on the 5th of April, 1850, is abrogated."

In presenting the resolution Mr. Morgan made a written report tracing the grounds for the abrogation of the treaty in detail.

The report is practically a plea for the Nicaragua canal. In it Senator Morgan says "that if the Clayton-Bulwer treaty stands in the way of our government it must give way to the paramount law" if the house bill is enacted into a statute of the United States.

Republicans Carry Oregon.

Meagre returns from Monday's election in Oregon indicate that the republicans have carried the state by from 5,000 to 8,000 plurality. It is estimated that C. W. Wolverton, republican for justice of the supreme court, will have a plurality of 8,000, and J. W. Bailey, republican, for food and dairy commissioner, is elected by 6,000. In the Second congressional district the plurality for Moody, republican, is estimated at from 5,000 to 7,000. According to the returns the fusionists have gained in the legislature.

Gen. Wheeler to Be Brigadier-General.

A Washington dispatch says: General Wheeler's friends rejoice at the president's intention to appoint him a brigadier-general in the regular army. The appointment will probably go in Wednesday. General Wheeler serves as a regular only until September 10, when he becomes 64 years of age.

The appointment will without doubt be promptly confirmed. It means to mean General Wheeler's retirement from active politics.

Gomez Will Be Honored.

On arriving at his house in Havana Monday General Gomez made a brief address, in the course of which he said he had kept his promise to return to Cuba, and that he had never intended to turn his back upon her people. A large demonstration in his honor will be given.

Gen. Hastings Dead.

Silas Wright Hastings, late colonel of the One Hundred and Forty-second New York volunteer infantry and brigadier general United States volunteers by brevet, died in Washington Monday.

General Manager Metcalf Resigns.

J. G. Metcalf, general manager of the Louisville and Nashville railroad company has tendered his resignation to the president of the company to take effect in July. He will accept a similar position with the Denver and Rio Grande, with headquarters at Denver. His successor will in all probability be W. M. Newbold, now superintendent of the South and North division.

Communion Wine.

It has always been our opinion that we should not use fermented wine for communion purposes if the pure juice of the grape could be procured. We should use such as has no alcohol in it. Recently in this state—Cleburne county—a company has been organized known as the Fruithurst Grape Juice company. This company presses the grape, gets the pure juice, and immediately bottles it, making the bottles air tight, and so long as the bottle is kept tightly stopped the contents will keep pure and sweet.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our preachers and deacons to this grape juice that they may secure it for communion purposes. Let us not put any strong drink to the mouth of our brother, for we know not to what it may lead. Let us not tempt him by using fermented wine. This grape juice can be purchased from the above named company. Let us suggest that you write a postal card to E. B. Hammitt, manager, Fruithurst, Cleburne county, Ala., for prices and circular. If you do this we feel sure that your church will use the juice instead of the saloon wine, which intoxicates.—Alabama Baptist.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DI VINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Victor's Shout—The Joy of Overcoming Difficulties—The Satisfaction Expressed by Christ on the Outcome of His Earthly Labors.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage shows in an unusual way the antagonisms that Christ overcame and finds a balsam for all wounded hearts; text, John xvii., 4, "I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do."

There is a profound satisfaction in the completion of anything we have undertaken. We lift the capstone with exultation, while, on the other hand, there is nothing more disappointing than, after having toiled in a certain direction, to find that our time is wasted and our investment profitless. Christ came to throw up a highway on which the whole world might, if it chose, mount into heaven. He did it. The foul mouthed crew who attempted to trend on Him could not extinguish the sublime satisfaction which He expressed when He said: "I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me do."

Alexander the Great was wounded, and the doctors could not medicate his wounds, and he seemed to be dying, and in his dream the sick man saw a plant with a peculiar flower, and he dreamed that that plant was put upon his wound and that immediately it was cured. And Alexander, waking from his dream, told this to the physician, and the physician wandered out until he found just the kind of plant which the sick man had described, brought it to him, and the wound was healed. Well, the human race had been hurt with the ghastliest of all wounds—that of sin. It was the business of Christ to bring a balm for that wound—the balm of divine restoration. In carrying this business to a successful issue the difficulties were stupendous.

In many of our plans we have our friends to help us; some to draw a sketch of the plan, others to help us in the execution. But Christ fought every inch of His way against bitter hostility and amid circumstances all calculated to depress and defeat.

In the first place, His worldly occupation was against Him. I find that He earned His livelihood by the carpenter's trade, an occupation always to be highly regarded and respected. But you know as well as I do that in order to succeed in any employment one must give his entire time to it, and I have to declare that the fatigues of carpentry were unfavorable to the execution of a mission which required all mental and physical faculties. Through high, hard, dry, husky, insensate Judaism to hew a way for a new and glorious dispensation was a stupendous undertaking that was enough to demand all the concentrated energies even of Christ. We have a great many romantic stories about what men with physical toil have accomplished in intellectual departments, but you know that after a man has been toiling all day with adz and saw and hammer, plane and ax, about all he can do is to rest. A weary body is an unfavorable adjunct to a toiling mind. You, whose life in purely mechanical, if you were called to the upbuilding of a kingdom, or the proclamation of a new code of morals, or the starting of a revolution which should upturn all nations, could get some idea of the incoherence of Christ's occupation with His heavenly mission.

In His father's shop no more intercourse was necessary than is ordinarily necessary in bargaining with men that have work to do, yet Christ, with hands hard from use of tools of trade, was called forth to become a public speaker, to preach in the face of mobs, while some wept, and some shook their fists, and some gnashed upon Him with their teeth, and many wanted Him out of the way. To address orderly and respectful assemblages is not so easy as it may seem, but it requires more energy and more force and more concentration to address an exasperated mob. The villagers of Nazareth heard the pounding of His hammer, but all the wide reaches of eternity were to hear the stroke of His spiritual up-building.

So also His habits of dress and diet were against Him. The mighty men of Christ's time did not appear in apparel without trinkets and adornments. None of the Cæsars would have appeared in citizen's apparel. Yet here was a man, here was a professed king, who always wore the same coat. Indeed it was far from shabby, for after He had worn it a long while the gamblers thought it worth ruffling about, but still it was far from being an imperial robe. It was a coat that any ordinary man might have worn on an ordinary occasion.

Neither was there any pretension in His diet. No cupbearer with golden chalice brought Him wine to drink. On the seashore He ate fish, first having broiled it Himself. No one fetched Him water to drink; but, bending over the well in Samaria, He begged a drink. He sat at only one banquet, and that not at all sumptuous, for to relieve the awkwardness of the host one of the guests had to prepare wine for the company.

Other kings ride in a chariot; He walked. Other kings, as they advance, have heralds ahead and applauding subjects behind; Christ's retinue was made up of sunburned fishermen. Other kings sleep under embroidered canopy; this one on a shelterless hill, riding but once, as far as I now remember, on a colt, and that borrowed.

His poverty was against Him. It requires money to build great enterprises. Men of means are afraid of a penniless projector lest a loan be demanded. It requires money to print books, to build institutions, to pay instructors. No wonder the wise men of Christ's time laughed at this penniless Christ. "Why," they said, "who is to pay for this new religion? Who is to charter the ships to carry the missionaries? Who is to pay the salaries of the teachers? Shall wealthy, established religion be discomfited by a penniless Christ?"

The consequence was that most of the people that followed Christ had nothing to lose. Affluent Joseph of Arimathea buried Christ, but he risked no social position in doing that. It is always safe to bury a dead man.

Zaccheus risked no wealth or social position in following Christ, but took a position in a tree to look down as He passed.

Nicodemus, wealthy Nicodemus, risked nothing of social position in following Christ, for he skulked by night to find Him.

All this was against Christ. So the fact that He was not regularly graduated was against Him. If a man come with diplomas of colleges and schools and theological seminaries and he has been through foreign travel, the world is disposed to listen. But here was a man who had graduated at no college, had not in any academy by ordinary means learned the alphabet of the language He spoke, and yet He proposed to talk, to instruct in subjects which had confounded the mightiest intellects. John said, "The Jews marveled, saying, How hath this man letters, having never learned?" We, in our day, have found out that a man without a diploma may know as much as a man with one and that a college cannot transform a sluggard into a philosopher or a theological seminary teach a fool to preach. An empty head, after the laying on of hands of the presbytery, is empty still. But it shocked all existing prejudices in those olden times for a man with no scholastic pretensions and no graduation from a learned institution to set Himself up for a teacher. It was against Him.

So there have been men of wonderful magnetism of person. But hear me while I tell you of a poor young Man who came up from Nazareth to produce a thrill which has never been excited by any other. Napoleon had around him the memories of Marengo and Austerlitz and Jena, but here was a Man who had fought no battles, who wore no epaulets, who brandished no sword. He had probably never seen a prince or shaken hands with a nobleman.

The only extraordinary person we know of as being in His company was His own mother, and she was so poor that, in the most delicate and solemn hour that comes to a woman's soul, she was obliged to lie down among drivers grooming the beasts of burden.

Again, I remark, there was no organization in His behalf, and that was against Him. When men propose any great work, they band together, they write letters of agreement, they take oaths of fealty, and the more complete the organization the more and complete the success. Here was one who went forth without any organization and alone. If men had a mind to join in His company, all right; if they had a mind not to join in His company, all well. If they came, they were greeted with no loud salutation; if they went away, they were sent with no bitter anathema. Peter departed, and Christ turned and looked at him; that was all.

All this was against Him. Did any one ever undertake such an enterprise amid such infinite embarrassments and by such modes? And yet I am here to say it ended in a complete triumph. Notwithstanding His worldly occupation, His poverty, His plain face, His unpretending garb, the fact that He was schoolless, the fact that He had a brief life, the fact that He was not accompanied by any visible organization—notwithstanding all that, in an exhilaration which shall be prolonged in everlasting chorals, He declared, "I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do."

In the eye infirmary now many diseases of that delicate organ have been cured? But Jesus says to one blind, "Be open!" and the light of heaven rushes through gates that have never before been opened. The frost of an ax may kill a tree, but Jesus smites one dead with a word. Chemistry may do many wonderful things, but what chemist at a wedding, when the wine gave out, could change a pail of water into a cask of wine? What human voice could command a school of fish? Yet here is a voice that marshals the scaly tribes until, in a place where they had let down the net and pulled it up with no fish in it, they let it down again, and the disciples lay hold and began to pull, when, by reason of the multitude of fish, the net broke. Nature is His servant. The flowers—He twisted them into His sermons; the winds—they were His lullaby when He slept in the boat; the rain it hung glittering on the thick foliage of the parables; the star of Bethlehem—it sang a Christmas carol over His birth; the rocks—they beat a dirge at His death. Behold His victory over the grave! The hinges of the family vault become very rusty because they are never opened except to take another in. There is a knob on the outside of the door of the sepulcher, but none on the inside. Here comes the Conqueror of Death. He enters that realm and says, "Daughter of Jairus, sit up!" and she sits up. To Lazarus, "Come forth!" and he came forth. To the widow's son He said, "Get up from that bier!" and he goes home with his mother. Then Jesus snatched up the keys of death and hung them to His girdle and cried until all the graveyards of the earth heard Him: "O death, I will be thy plague! O grave, I will be thy destruction!"

No man could go through all the obstacles I have described, you say, without having a nature supernatural. In that arm, amid its muscles and nerves and bones, were intertwisted the energies of omnipotence. In the syllables of that voice there was the emphasis of the eternal God. That foot that walked the deck of the ship in Gennesaret shall stamp kingdoms of darkness into demolition. This poverty struck Christ owned Augustus, owned the sanhedrin, owned Tiberias, owned all the castles on its beach and all the skies that looked down into its water—owned all the earth and all the heavens. To Him of the plain coat belonged the robes of celestial royalty. He who walked the road to Emmaus the lightnings were the fire shod steeds of His chariot. Yet there are those who look on and see Christ turn water into wine, and they say, "It was sleight of hand!" And they see Christ raise the dead to life, and they say: "Easily explained; not really dead; playing dead!" And they see Christ giving sight to the blind man, and they say, "Clairvoyant doctor!" Oh, what shall they do on the day when Christ rises up in judgment and the hills shall rock and the trumpets shall call, peal on peal? In the time o' Theodosius the Great there was a great assault made upon the divinity of Jesus Christ, and during that time Theodosius the Great called his own son to sit on the throne with him and be a copartner in the government of the empire, and one day the old bishop came and bowed down before Theodosius, the emperor, and passed out of the room, and the emperor was offended, saying to the old bishop, "Why didn't you pay the same honor to my son, who shares with me in the government?" Then the old bishop turned to the young man and said, "The Lord bless thee, my young man," but still paid him no such honor as he had paid to the Emperor. And the Emperor was still offended and displeased when the old bishop turned to Theodosius the Great and said to him, "You are offended with me because I don't pay the same honor to your son, whom you have made copartner in the government of this empire, the same honor I pay to you, and yet you encourage multitudes of people in your realm to deny the Son of God equal authority, equal power, with God the Father."

My subject also reassures us of the fact that in all our struggles we have a sympathizer. You cannot tell Christ anything new about hardship. I do not think that wide ages of eternity will take the scars from His punctured side and His lacerated temples and His sore hands. You will never have a burden weighing so many pounds as that burden Christ carried up the bloody hill. You will never have any suffering worse than He endured when, with tongue hot and cracked and inflamed and swollen, He moaned, "I thirst." You will never be surrounded by worse hostility than that which stood around Christ's feet, foaming, reviling, livid with rage, howling down His prayers and snuffing up the smell of blood. O ye faint hearted, O ye troubled, O ye persecuted One, here is a heart that can sympathize with you!

Again, and lastly, I learn from all that has been said to-day that Christ was awfully in earnest. If it had not been a momentous mission, He would have turned back from it disgusted and discouraged. He saw you in a captivity from which He was resolved to extricate you, though it cost Him all sweat, all tears, all blood. He came a great way to save you. He came from Bethlehem here, through the place of skulls, through the charnel house, through banishmeat. There was not among all the ranks of celestials one being who would do as much for you. I lay His crushed heart at your feet to-day. Let it not be told in heaven that you deliberately put your foot on it. While it will take all the ages of eternity to celebrate Christ's triumph, I am here to make the startling announcement that because of the rejection of this mission on the part of some of you all that magnificent work of garden and cross and grave is, so far as you are concerned, a failure. Helena, the Empress, went to the Holy Land to find the cross of Christ. Getting to the Holy Land, there were three crosses excavated, and the question was which of the crosses was Christ's cross. They took a dead body, tradition says, and put it upon one of the crosses, and there was no life, and they took the dead body and put it upon another cross, and there was no life; but, tradition says, when the dead body was put up against the third cross it sprang into life. The dead man lived again. Oh, that the life giving power of the Son of God might dart your dead soul into an eternal life, beginning this day! "Awake, thou sleepest, and rise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee life!" Live now! And live forever!

HOUSEHOLD HINTS:

Novel Fruit-Piece For the Table.

Here is an idea that may appeal to an entertainer. It is an evident fact that the time-honored fruit-dish, with its assortment of fruit, no longer has any place on a modern table; each kind of fruit is put by itself on a separate silver dish artistically arranged. Any one who has a little taste can imitate the arrangement. Take four plates of equal size; put on them some green leaves—bay-leaves, geraniums, or whatever one happens to have at hand—and arrange the fruits to suit the different kinds. Make a pyramid of bright red apples, with four apples for a base, three on top, and one on top of all, with the leaves in between. Arrange oranges in the same way, but on the third plate lay bunches of grapes carelessly on leaves, and on the fourth put bananas. Lo! with the four plates at the four corners your table is dressed at once. Nuts may be used instead of fruit on one plate, and figs and dates on the other, but beware of the old-fashioned fruit basket or dish if you wish your table to be up to date. —Woman's Home Companion.

When You Hang Your Pictures.

By hanging pictures low you increase the apparent height of the room.

Colored pictures should not be hung in hallways or on staircases unless there is plenty of light for them. In such places strong photographs, engravings and drawings in black and white go best.

A picture should not be hung from one nail; the diamond lines formed by the cord have a very discordant effect. Two nails and two vertical cords, or, what is far more safe, pieces of wire cordage, should be used instead of the single cord.

Picture cords should be as near the color of the wall upon which they are put as possible, so that they may be but little seen. When one picture is hung beneath another the bottom one should be hung from the one above, and not from the top; thus we avoid multiplying the cords, which is always objectionable.

A good hue for walls where prints or photographs are to be hung is a rich yellow brown or a leather color. Luster to the black of the print of the tone of the photograph is thus imparted. The wall paper should have no strongly defined pattern.

The centre of the picture, as a rule, should not be much above the level of the eye.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Cream of Barley Soup (Mrs. Rorer)—Scald two tablespoonfuls of barley, drain, cover with fresh water and boil three hours; strain. Put one pint of veal or white stock with one pint of milk to boil, add barley, a tablespoonful of salt, and one-fourth of a tablespoonful of white pepper. Beat the yolks of two eggs lightly, put them in the soup tureen, pour over the boiling soup and serve at once.

Cream Rhubarb Pie—Requires one cup of milk, one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of flour and one cup of rhubarb, cut in very thin slices, the yolks of two eggs. Make a custard of these ingredients, pour into a shell of pie crust and bake. Make a meringue of the whites of the eggs, cover the pie with this, and return to the oven until slightly browned. The slices of rhubarb will be found floating on the top of the custard.

Escalloped Meat—Butter a baking dish. Put in it alternate layers of chopped meat, bread crumbs and sprinkle over each layer chopped parsley, salt, pepper and a few drops of onion juice. Pour over the top enough white sauce to moisten all. Melt a little butter. Add to it some bread crumbs. Mix them thoroughly in the butter and spread them over the meat. Bake in a quick oven and when brown remove. Any cold meat may be used.

"Moonshines," "Nothings" or "Trifles"—To one egg beaten add a pinch of salt and stir in flour enough to make a stiff dough. Roll thin as paper, cut with good-sized cake cutter and fry in boiling fat, as doughnuts. Mix sugar and spice and sift over them while hot. They will blister and assume various shapes in cooking. If you drop them into the fat sidewise they will fold and curve. Then sift only sugar over them and call them "fairy shells."

Rice Croquettes—Plain, but nice and tender. For one cup of boiled rice use one teaspoonful butter, half an egg and no salt, if rice was well salted when boiled. Mix while warm and make into small balls, wetting the hands slightly when necessary in cold water. Roll in beaten egg, then powdered bread crumbs, and fry in boiling fat, about three at once. When golden brown skim out, lay on brown paper. Keep in warm place till all are fried. Then serve in hot dish.

ALABAMA NEWS SUMMARY.

Passenger Train Wrecked.

Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis passenger train No. 86 left the track near Alabama City, turning over two coaches and demolishing them. One or two passengers were slightly bruised, but none seriously.

Frank Culverhouse Resigns.

Associate State Mine Inspector Frank Culverhouse has tendered his resignation to the governor, which has been accepted. Mr. Culverhouse resigned from the state service to accept the position of superintendent of the Underwood Coal company, which will open new mines on the Attalla and Oneonta branch of the Louisville & Nashville in Etowah county.

Steamship Deal at Mobile.

The Munson steamship line, one of the largest of American steamship companies, has contracted with the Mobile & Ohio railroad company to absorb the Mobile & Cuban steamship company, which, since the Spanish war, has done a successful trade out of Mobile port. The Munson company will take charge July 2. It agrees to increase the facilities and also to do business out of Mobile to a number of other ports in the islands and in South America and Mexico.

The Death Penalty Imposed.

With a life sentence already hanging over him, Alonzo Williams, a negro convict serving sentence in Coalburg prison, was convicted in the criminal court at Birmingham of the murder of a fellow convict, and the death penalty imposed. Some months ago Williams murdered John Richardson, another convict, in an encounter in the stockade, while serving a life sentence for the murder of another convict.

County Officers Nominated

In the democratic primary held in Lee county for the selection of candidates for county officers, the following ticket was nominated: For sheriff, A. P. Hodge; for treasurer, A. H. Slaughter; for tax collector, R. B. Booker; for tax receiver, J. I. Bedell; for state senator, E. L. Baker; for representatives, Berrien T. Phillips and L. C. Jones; for superintendent of education, J. O. Warren; for commissioners, J. T. Sadler and J. F. Newsom.

Crushed by Machinery.

A young man named Burton, aged about 20 years, was accidentally killed at Blossburg Sunday, while working at the coke ovens of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, at that place. Burton had charge of the stationary engine used at the coke ovens, and, while working with some of the machinery, was caught by the fly wheel and his body badly crushed and mangled. Burton was the son of T. J. Burton, former probate judge of Cleburn county.

Shot Through the Heart.

Nat Hammond was shot and almost instantly killed by Mack Morton at Ashville over a trivial difference Saturday night. Both of the men were prominent citizens of the community, and had previous to the shooting been friends. Hammond and Morton met and soon became engaged in a quarrel. Morton suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and advanced on Hammond. The weapon snapped twice, but on the third attempt fired, the ball penetrating Hammond's heart. He walked away a few feet and fell dead.

New Lines in Alabama.

Twenty miles of the right of way of the Florida, Alabama and Northern railroad have been surveyed and located, and the contract for the construction of that portion of the road will probably be let within the next four or five weeks. The Florida, Alabama and Northern will run from Florala, a point on the line between Alabama and Florida, by way of Green Bay and Bullock, Ala., to Troy, a distance of fifty-five miles. E. E. Reese, Laurel Hill, Fla., is the general manager of the road.

Eight miles of the Carrollton Short Line, being built from Carrollton to Reform, Ala., have been graded and three miles of track laid. The entire length of the road is ten miles.

STATE BREVITIES.

Dave McCollough, a negro, was hanged at Brewton last week for killing Policeman Gallaspie December 23.

News comes from Snead, in Blount county, that Jack Miller, a young farmer there, was killed while plowing in the field by a bolt of lightning. A mule was killed and a man named Thomas shocked at the same time.

BLOODY TRAGEDY IN TEXAS.

Three Men Killed as the Result of an Old Feud.

At San Augustine, San Augustine county, Texas, Monday, a pitched battle between the Wall faction on the one side and the Brooks on the other, resulted in the death of Felix G. Roberts, his brother Sidney Roberts and the fatal wounding of Noel Roberts, sheriff of the county and brother to the dead men.

The feud grew out of politics and has been brewing for some years. A few weeks ago Ned Wall, the sheriff, was shot and killed by King Borden, at San Augustine. Borden fled, but afterward surrendered and was admitted to bail. Noel Roberts was appointed sheriff. Last Saturday Eugene Wall, brother to the dead sheriff, shot to death Ben Brock, a kinsman of Borden. Monday the factions met when the examining trial of Wall was to be held, and every man came to the court house armed.

Hostilities began with the appearance of Sheriff Roberts and his brother, who fell at the first volley from a score of guns.

Application was at once made to the governor for troops, and the Stone Fort Rifles were ordered from Nacogdoches. The is much excitement and more trouble is feared.

CLAYTON-BULWER TREATY.

Morgan Says It Must Go if It Blocks Government's Way.

Congress is in the last gasps of the long session, and its expiration, apparently, is to be quite perfunctory. Unless something extraordinary occurs, no further general legislation of national importance will be enacted before adjournment.

Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, reported from the committee on inter-oceanic canals a resolution declaring the Clayton-Bulwer treaty abrogated. The resolution as reported reads:

"That the treaty known as the Clayton-Bulwer treaty between Great Britain and the United States, which was concluded on the 5th of April, 1850, is abrogated."

In presenting the resolution Mr. Morgan made a written report traversing the grounds for the abrogation of the treaty in detail.

The report is practically a plea for the Nicaragua canal. In it Senator Morgan says "that if the Clayton-Bulwer treaty stands in the way of our government it must give way to the paramount law" if the house bill is enacted into a statute of the United States.

Republicans Carry Oregon.

Meagre returns from Monday's election in Oregon indicate that the republicans have carried the state by from 5,000 to 8,000 plurality. It is estimated that C. W. Wolverton, republican for justice of the supreme court, will have a plurality of 8,000, and J. W. Bailey, republican, for food and dairy commissioner, is elected by 6,000. In the Second Congressional district the plurality for Moody, republican, is estimated at from 5,000 to 7,000. According to the returns the fusionists have gained in the legislature.

Gen. Wheeler to Be Brigadier-General.

A Washington dispatch says: General Wheeler's friends rejoice at the president's intention to appoint him a brigadier-general in the regular army. The appointment will probably go in Wednesday. General Wheeler serves as a regular only until September 10, when he becomes 64 years of age.

The appointment will without doubt be promply confirmed. It seems to mean General Wheeler's retirement from active politics.

Gomez Will Be Honored.

On arriving at his house in Havana Monday General Gomez made a brief address, in the course of which he said he had kept his promise to return to Cuba, and that he had never intended to turn his back upon her people. A large demonstration in his honor will be given.

Gen. Hastings Dead.

Silas Wright Hastings, late colonel of the One Hundred and Forty-second New York volunteer infantry and brigadier general United States volunteers by brevet, died in Washington Monday.

General Manager Metcalf Resigns.

J. G. Metcalf, general manager of the Louisville and Nashville railroad company, has tendered his resignation to the president of the company to take effect in July. He will accept a similar position with the Denver and Rio Grande, with headquarters at Denver. His successor will in all probability be W. M. Newbold, now superintendent of the South and North division.

A Long, Long Time.

"How long will it be before Higbee recovers from his injuries?"

"It will depend on when the railroad company settles."—Puck.

Helping a Fellow Along.

Ferdy—"She says I am dull."

Percy—"You should crack a few jokes occasionally. Ask her to marry you, or something like that."—Puck.

Hoping For the Best.

Benham—"Everybody says that baby looks like me."

Mrs. Benham—"But he may outgrow it, dear."—Harper's Bazar.

Too Indefinite.

Mudge—"Don't you believe in man's superiority to woman?"

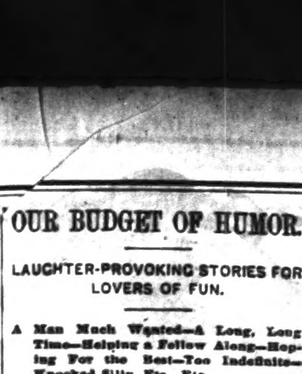
Wickwire—"Superiority in what? In using a hammer or a hairpin?"—Indianapolis Press.

Knocked Silly.

"My dear," said Growells, "you are simply talking nonsense."

"I know it," replied his better half, "but it's because I want you to understand what I say."—Chicago News.

Nothing to Fear From Him.



Fish—"That's all right, mister. Don't be so scared; I won't hurt you."—Judge.

Would Not Sugar-Coat the Pill.

Mrs. Young—"Don't you believe in managing one's husband by letting him think he is having his own way?"

Mrs. Strong—"Decidedly not! Man should be made to feel his inferiority."—Puck.

Cannot Be Satisfied.

Mrs. Poplin—"Mr. Chiffon may be a very wealthy man, as you say, but I know this much, that his wife does not have money enough to dress on."

Mr. Poplin—"Of course not. No woman ever did."—Boston Transcript.

And He Meant So Well!

"A woman is as old as she looks, Mr. Gilley," said Miss Smirk.

"O, Miss Smirk," replied Mr. Gilley, who generally makes a muss of it when he tries to pay a compliment, "surely you are an exception to the rule."—Detroit Free Press.

Too Realistic.

"This story won't do at all," said the publisher to the ambitious writer. "The detective chases a man all over the world and never catches him."

"Well, you see, it's a realistic story," explained the writer. But the explanation was unsatisfactory.

His Worst.

"Colonel," said the romantic maiden who doted on hearing thrilling stories, "what was the most agonizing half hour of your life?"

"It was the one I spent the other day reading a bundle of letters I wrote to my wife before we were married," the grizzled warrior answered.

The Way to Be Saved.

Slopsy—"I don't seem to get any better, doctor."

Dr. Kraft—"You worry too much; that's what's the matter."

Slopsy—"Oh! I don't think I do."

Dr. Kraft—"Ah! but I think you do. Now, there's that last year's bill of mine. Don't you think you'd feel better if you had that off your mind?"

A Rude Awakening.

"Shumleigh says his first love was his school teacher."

"Indeed."

"Yes. But he says love's young dream was shattered the first time she took him on her lap."

"That seems funny."

"Not at all. He was face downward at the time."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Quick Work.

Medder—"What is that electrical contrivance you have on your folding-bed?"

Darker—"A device to ring an alarm-bell whenever the bed doubles up."

Medder—"Where do you have the bell?"

Darker—"In the undertaker's office."—Harper's Bazar.

Artful.

"Shrewd fellow, that Bliggins," said one young man. "He's a natural diplomat."

"How did you find it out?"

"I asked him to lend me a dollar."

"And he got away from it?"

"No. He said he hadn't a dollar, but he'd lend me five. I might forget about one dollar. But he could remind me of five."—Washington Star.

Communion Wine.

It has always been our opinion that we should not use fermented wine for communion purposes if the pure juice of the grape could be procured. We should use such as has no alcohol in it. Recently in this state—Cleburne county—a company has been organized known as the Fruithurst Grape Juice company. This company presses the grape, gets the pure juice, and immediately bottles it, making the bottles air tight, and so long as the bottle is kept tightly stopped the contents will keep pure and sweet.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our preachers and deacons to this grape juice that they may secure it for communion purposes. Let us not put any strong drink to the mouth of our brother, for we know not to what it may lead. Let us not tempt him by using fermented wine. This grape juice can be purchased from the above named company. Let us suggest that you write a postal card to E. B. Hammitt, manager, Fruithurst, Cleburne county, Ala., for prices and circular. If you do this we feel sure that your church will use the juice instead of the saloon wine, which intoxicates.—Alabama Baptist.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 500

BILE BLOAT

Puffs under the eyes; red nose; pimple-blotched, greasy face don't mean hard drinking always as much as it shows that there is BILE IN THE BLOOD. It is true, drinking and over-eating overloads the stomach, but failure to assist nature in regularly disposing of the partially digested lumps of food that are dumped into the bowels and allowed to rot there, is what causes all the trouble. CASCARETS will help nature help you, and will keep the system from filling with poisons, will clean out the sores that tell of the system's rottenness. Bloated by bile the figure becomes unshapely, the breath foul, eyes and skin yellow; in fact the whole body kind of fills up with filth. Every time you neglect to help nature you lay the foundation for just such troubles. CASCARETS will carry the poisons out of the system and will regulate you naturally and easily and without gripe or pain. Start to-night—one tablet—keep it up for a week and help the liver clean up the bowels, and you will feel right, your blood will be rich, face look clean, eyes bright. REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DI

TINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Victor's Shout—The Joy of Overcoming Difficulties—The Satisfaction Expressed by Christ on the Outcome of His Earthly Labors.

[Copyright 1896.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage shows in an unusual way the antagonisms that Christ overcame and finds a balsam for all wounded hearts; text, John xvii., 4, "I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do."

There is a profound satisfaction in the completion of anything we have undertaken. We lift the capstone with exultation, while, on the other hand, there is nothing more disappointing than, after having toiled in a certain direction, to find that our time is wasted and our investment profitless. Christ came to throw up a highway on which the whole world might, if it chose, mount into heaven. He did it. The foul mouthed crew who attempted to tread on Him could not extinguish the sublime satisfaction which He expressed when He said: "I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me do."

Alexander the Great was wounded, and the doctors could not medicate his wounds, and he seemed to be dying, and in his dream the sick man saw a plant with a peculiar flower, and he dreamed that that plant was put upon his wound and that immediately it was cured. And Alexander, waking from his dream, told this to the physician, and the physician wandered out until he found just the kind of plant which the sick man had described, brought it to him, and the wound was healed. Well, the human race had been hurt with the ghastliest of all wounds—that of sin. It was the business of Christ to bring a balm for that wound—the balm of divine restoration. In carrying this business to a successful issue the difficulties were stupendous.

In many of our plans we have our friends to help us; some to draw a sketch of the plan, others to help us in the execution. But Christ fought every inch of His way against bitter hostility and amid circumstances all calculated to depress and defeat.

In the first place, His worldly occupation was against Him. I find that He earned His livelihood by the carpenter's trade, an occupation always to be highly regarded and respected. But you know as well as I do that in order to succeed in any employment one must give his entire time to it, and I have to declare that the fatigues of carpentry were unfavorable to the execution of a mission which required all mental and physical faculties. Through high, hard, dry, husky, inessuate Judaism to hew a way for a new and glorious dispensation was a stupendous undertaking that was enough to demand all the concentrated energies even of Christ. We have a great many romantic stories about what men with physical toil have accomplished in intellectual departments, but you know that after a man has been toiling all day with adz and saw and hammer, plane and ax, about all he can do is to rest. A weary body is an unfavorable adjunct to a toiling mind. You, whose life is purely mechanical, if you were called to the upbuilding of a kingdom, or the proclamation of a new code of morals, or the starting of a revolution which should upturn all nations, could get some idea of the incoherence of Christ's occupation with His heavenly mission.

In His father's shop no more intercourse was necessary than is ordinarily necessary in bargaining with men that have work to do, yet Christ, with hands hard from use of tools of trade, was called forth to become a public speaker, to preach in the face of mobs, while some wept, and some shook their fists, and some gnashed upon Him with their teeth, and many wanted Him out of the way. To address orderly and respectful assemblages is not so easy as it may seem, but it requires more energy and more force and more concentration to address an exasperated mob. The villagers of Nazareth heard the pounding of His hammer, but all the wide reaches of eternity were to hear the stroke of His spiritual up-building.

So also His habits of dress and diet were against Him. The mighty men of Christ's time did not appear in apparel without trinkets and adornments. None of the Cæsars would have appeared in citizen's apparel. Yet here was a man, here was a professed king, who always wore the same coat. Indeed it was far from shabby, for after He had worn it a long while the gamblers thought it worth raffling about, but still it was far from being an imperial robe. It was a coat that any ordinary man might have worn on an ordinary occasion.

Neither was there any pretension in His diet. No cupbearer with golden chalice brought Him wine to drink. On the seashore He ate fish, first having broiled it Himself. No one fetched Him water to drink; but, bending over the well in Samaria, He begged a drink. He sat at only one banquet, and that not at all sumptuous, for to relieve the awkwardness of the host one of the guests had to prepare wine for the company.

Other kings ride in a chariot; He walked. Other kings, as they advance, have heralds ahead and applauding subjects behind; Christ's retinue was made up of sunburned fishermen. Other kings sleep under embroidered canopy; this one on a shelterless hill, riding but once, as far as I now remember, on a colt, and that borrowed.

His poverty was against Him. It requires money to build great enterprises. Men of means are afraid of a penniless projector lest a loan be demanded. It requires money to print books, to build institutions, to pay instructors. No wonder the wise men of Christ's time laughed at this penniless Christ. "Why," they said, "who is to pay for this new religion? Who is to charter the ships to carry the missionaries? Who is to pay the salaries of the teachers? Shall wealthy, established religion be discomfited by a penniless Christ?"

The consequence was that most of the people that followed Christ had nothing to lose. Affluent Joseph of Arimathea buried Christ, but he risked no social position in doing that. It is always safe to bury a dead man.

Zaccheus risked no wealth or social position in following Christ, but took a position in a tree to look down as He passed.

Nicodemus, wealthy Nicodemus, risked nothing of social position in following Christ, for he skulked by night to find Him.

All this was against Christ, so the fact that He was not regularly graduated was against Him. If a man come with diplomas of colleges and schools and theological seminaries and he has been through foreign travel, the world is disposed to listen. But here was a man who had graduated at no college, had not in any academy by ordinary means learned the alphabet of the language He spoke, and yet He proposed to talk, to instruct in subjects which had confounded the mightiest intellects. John said, "The Jews marveled, saying, How hath this man letters, having never learned?" We, in our day, have found out that a man without a diploma may know as much as a man with one and that a college cannot transform a sluggard into a philosopher or a theological seminary teach a fool to preach. An empty head, after the laying on of hands of the presbytery, is empty still. But it shocked all existing prejudices in those olden times for a man with no scholastic pretensions and no graduation from a learned institution to set Himself up for a teacher. It was against Him.

So there have been men of wonderful magnetism of person. But hear me while I tell you of a poor young Man who came up from Nazareth to produce a thrill which has never been excited by any other. Napoleon had around him the memories of Marengo and Austerlitz and Jena, but here was a Man who had fought no battles, who wore no epaulets, who brandished no sword. He had probably never seen a prince or shaken hands with a nobleman.

The only extraordinary person we know of as being in His company was His own mother, and she was so poor that, in the most delicate and solemn hour that comes to a woman's soul, she was obliged to lie down among drivers grooming the beasts of burden.

Again, I remark, there was no organization in His behalf, and that was against Him. When men propose any great work, they band together, they write letters of agreement, they take oaths of fealty, and the more complete the organization the more and complete the success. Here was one who went forth without any organization and alone. If men had a mind to join in His company, all right; if they had a mind not to join in His company, all well. If they came, they were greeted with no loud salutation; if they went away, they were sent with no bitter anathema. Peter departed, and Christ turned and looked at him; that was all.

All this was against Him. Did any one ever undertake such an enterprise amid such infinite embarrassments and by such modes? And yet I am here to say it ended in a complete triumph. Notwithstanding His worldly occupation, His poverty, His plain face, His unpretending garb, the fact that He was schoolless, the fact that He had a brief life, the fact that He was not accompanied by any visible organization—notwithstanding all that, in an exhilaration which shall be prolonged in everlasting chorals, He declared, "I have finished the work which Thou gavest Me to do."

Is the eye infirmary now many diseases of that delicate organ have been cured? But Jesus says to one blind, "Be open!" and the light of heaven rushes through gates that have never before been opened. The frost of an ax may kill a tree, but Jesus smites one dead with a word. Chemistry may do many wonderful things, but what chemist at a wedding, when the wine gave out, could change a pail of water into a cask of wine? What human voice could command a school of fish? Yet here is a voice that marshals the scaly tribes until, in a place where they had let down the net and pulled it up with no fish in it, they let it down again, and the disciples lay hold and began to pull, when, by reason of the multitude of fish, the net broke. Nature is His servant. The flowers—He twisted them into His sermons; the winds—they were His lullaby when He slept in the boat; the rain it hung glittering on the thick foliage of the parables; the star of Bethlehem—it sang a Christmas carol over His birth; the rocks—they beat a dirge at His death. Behold His victory over the grave! The hinges of the family vault become very rusty because they are never opened except to take another in. There is a knob on the outside of the door of the sepulcher, but none on the inside. Here comes the Conqueror of Death. He enters that realm and says, "Daughter of Jairus, sit up!" and she sits up. To Lazarus, "Come forth!" and he came forth. To the widow's son He said, "Get up from that bier!" and he goes home with his mother. Then Jesus snatched up the keys of death and hung them to His girdle and cried until all the graveyards of the earth heard Him: "O death, I will be thy plague! O grave, I will be thy destruction!"

No man could go through all the obstacles I have described, you say, without having a nature supernatural. In that arm, amid its muscles and nerves and bones, were intertwisted the energies of omnipotence. In the syllables of that voice there was the emphasis of the eternal God. That foot that walked the deck of the ship in Gennesaret shall stamp kingdoms of darkness into demolition. This poverty struck Christ owned Augustus, owned the sanhedrin, owned Tiberias, owned all the castles on its beach and all the skies that looked down into its water—owned all the earth and all the heavens. To Him of the plain coat belonged the robes of celestial royalty. He who walked the road to Emmaus the lightnings were the fire shod steeds of His chariot. Yet there are those who look on and see Christ turn water into wine, and they say, "It was sleight of hand!" And they see Christ raise the dead to life, and they say: "Easily explained; not really dead; playing dead!" And they see Christ giving sight to the blind man, and they say, "Clairvoyant doctor!" Oh, what shall they do on the day when Christ rises up in judgment and the hills shall rock and the trumpets shall call, peal on peal? In the time o' Theodosius the Great there was a great assault made upon the divinity of Jesus Christ, and during that time Theodosius the Great called his own son to sit on the throne with him and be a copartner in the government of the empire, and one day the old bishop came and bowed down before Theodosius, the emperor, and passed out of the room, and the emperor was offended, saying to the old bishop, "Why didn't you pay the same honor to my son, who shares with me in the government?" Then the old bishop turned to the young man and said, "The Lord bless thee, my young man," but still paid him no such honor as he had paid to the Emperor. And the Emperor was still offended and displeased when the old bishop turned to Theodosius the Great and said to him, "You are offended with me because I don't pay the same honor to your son, whom you have made copartner in the government of this empire, the same honor I pay to you, and yet you encourage multitudes of people in your realm to deny the Son of God equal authority, equal power, with God the Father."

My subject also reassures us of the fact that in all our struggles we have a sympathizer. You cannot tell Christ anything new about hardship. I do not think that wide ages of eternity will take the scars from His punctured side and His lacerated temples and His sore hands. You will never have a burden weighing so many pounds as that burden Christ carried up the bloody hill. You will never have any suffering worse than He endured when, with tongue hot and cracked and inflamed and swollen, He moaned, "I thirst." You will never be surrounded by worse hostility than that which stood around Christ's feet, foaming, reviling, livid with rage, howling down His prayers and snuffing up the smell of blood. O ye faint hearted, O ye troubled, O ye persecuted One, here is a heart that can sympathize with you!

Again, and lastly, I learn from all that has been said to-day that Christ was awfully in earnest. If it had not been a momentous mission, He would have turned back from it disgusted and discouraged. He saw you in a captivity from which He was resolved to extricate you, though it cost Him all sweat, all tears, all blood. He came a great way to save you. He came from Bethlehem here, through the place of skulls, through the charnel house, through banishment. There was not among all the ranks of celestials one being who would do as much for you. I lay His crushed heart at your feet to-day. Let it not be told in heaven that you deliberately put your foot on it. While it will take all the ages of eternity to celebrate Christ's triumph, I am here to make the startling announcement that because of the rejection of this mission on the part of some of you all that magnificent work of garden and cross and grave is, so far as you are concerned, a failure. Helena, the Empress, went to the Holy Land to find the cross of Christ. Getting to the Holy Land, there were three crosses excavated, and the question was which of the crosses was Christ's cross. They took a dead body, tradition says, and put it upon one of the crosses, and there was no life, and they took the dead body and put it upon another cross, and there was no life; but, tradition says, when the dead body was put up against the third cross it sprang into life. The dead man lived again. Oh, that the life giving power of the Son of God might dart your dead soul into an eternal life, beginning this day! "Awake, thou sleepest, and rise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee life!" Live now! And live forever!

HOUSEHOLD HINTS:

Novel Fruit-Piece For the Table.

Here is an idea that may appeal to an entertainer. It is an evident fact that the time-honored fruit-dish, with its assortment of fruit, no longer has any place on a modern table; each kind of fruit is put by itself on a separate silver dish artistically arranged. Any one who has a little taste can imitate the arrangement. Take four plates of equal size; put on them some green leaves—bay-leaves, geraniums, or whatever one happens to have at hand—and arrange the fruits to suit the different kinds. Make a pyramid of bright red apples, with four apples for a base, three on top, and one on top of all, with the leaves in between. Arrange oranges in the same way, but on the third plate lay bunches of grapes carelessly on leaves, and on the fourth put bananas. Lo! with the four plates at the four corners your table is dressed at once. Nuts may be used instead of fruit on one plate, and figs and dates on the other, but beware of the old-fashioned fruit basket or dish if you wish your table to be up to date. —Woman's Home Companion.

When You Hang Your Pictures.

By hanging pictures low you increase the apparent height of the room.

Colored pictures should not be hung in hallways or on staircases unless there is plenty of light for them. In such places strong photographs, engravings and drawings in black and white go best.

A picture should not be hung from one nail; the diamond lines formed by the cord have a very discordant effect. Two nails and two vertical cords, or, what is far more safe, pieces of wire cordage, should be used instead of the single cord.

Picture cords should be as near the color of the wall upon which they are put as possible, so that they may be but little seen. When one picture is hung beneath another the bottom one should be hung from the one above, and not from the top; thus we avoid multiplying the cords, which is always objectionable.

A good hue for walls where prints or photographs are to be hung is a rich yellow brown or a leather color. Luster to the black of the print of the tone of the photograph is thus imparted. The wall paper should have no strongly defined pattern.

The centre of the picture, as a rule, should not be much above the level of the eye.

Cream of Barley Soup (Mrs. Rorer)—Scald two tablespoonfuls of barley, drain, cover with fresh water and boil three hours; strain. Put one pint of veal or white stock with one pink of milk to boil, add barley, a tablespoonful of salt, and one-fourth of a tablespoonful of white pepper. Beat the yolks of two eggs lightly, put them in the soup tureen, pour over the boiling soup and serve at once.

Cream Rhubarb Pie—Requires one cup of milk, one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of flour and one cup of rhubarb, cut in very thin slices, the yolks of two eggs. Make a custard of these ingredients, pour into a shell of pie crust and bake. Make a meringue of the whites of the eggs, cover the pie with this, and return to the oven until slightly browned. The slices of rhubarb will be found floating on the top of the custard.

Escalloped Meat—Butter a baking dish. Put in it alternate layers of chopped meat, bread crumbs and sprinkle over each layer chopped parsley, salt, pepper and a few drops of onion juice. Pour over the top enough white sauce to moisten all. Melt a little butter. Add to it some bread crumbs. Mix them thoroughly in the butter and spread them over the meat. Bake in a quick oven and when brown remove. Any cold meat may be used.

"Moonshines," "Nothings" or "Trifles"—To one egg beaten add a pinch of salt and stir in flour enough to make a stiff dough. Roll thin as paper, cut with good-sized cake cutter and fry in boiling fat, as doughnuts. Mix sugar and spice and sift over them while hot. They will blister and assume various shapes in cooking. If you drop them into the fat sidewise they will fold and curve. Then sift only sugar over them and call them "fairy shells."

Rice Croquettes—Plain, but nice and tender. For one cup of boiled rice use one teaspoonful butter, half an egg and no salt, if rice was well salted when boiled. Mix while warm and make into small balls, wetting the hands slightly when necessary in cold water. Roll in beaten egg, then powdered bread crumbs, and fry in boiling fat, about three at once. When golden brown skim out, lay on brown paper. Keep in warm place till all are fried. Then serve in hot dish.

ALABAMA NEWS SUMMARY.

Passenger Train Wrecked.

Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis passenger train No. 86 left the track near Alabama City, turning over two coaches and demolishing them. One or two passengers were slightly bruised, but none seriously.

Frank Culverhouse Resigns.

Associate State Mine Inspector Frank Culverhouse has tendered his resignation to the governor, which has been accepted. Mr. Culverhouse resigned from the state service to accept the position of superintendent of the Underwood Coal company, which will open new mines on the Attalla and Oneonta branch of the Louisville & Nashville in Etowah county.

Steamship Deal at Mobile.

The Munson steamship line, one of the largest of American steamship companies, has contracted with the Mobile & Ohio railroad company to absorb the Mobile & Cuban steamship company, which, since the Spanish war, has done a successful trade out of Mobile port. The Munson company will take charge July 2. It agrees to increase the facilities and also to do business out of Mobile to a number of other ports in the islands and in South America and Mexico.

The Death Penalty Imposed.

With a life sentence already hanging over him, Alonzo Williams, a negro convict serving sentence in Coalburg prison, was convicted in the criminal court at Birmingham of the murder of a fellow convict, and the death penalty imposed. Some months ago Williams murdered John Richardson, another convict, in an encounter in the stockade, while serving a life sentence for the murder of another convict.

County Officers Nominated

In the democratic primary held in Lee county for the selection of candidates for county officers, the following ticket was nominated: For sheriff, A. P. Hodge; for treasurer, A. H. Slaughter; for tax collector, R. B. Booker; for tax receiver, J. I. Bedell; for state senator, E. L. Baker; for representatives, Berrien T. Phillips and L. C. Jones; for superintendent of education, J. O. Warren; for commissioners, J. T. Sadler and J. F. Newsom.

Crushed by Machinery.

A young man named Burton, aged about 20 years, was accidentally killed at Blossburg Sunday, while working at the coke ovens of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, at that place. Burton had charge of the stationary engine used at the coke ovens, and, while working with some of the machinery, was caught by the fly wheel and his body badly crushed and mangled. Burton was the son of T. J. Burton, former probate judge of Cleburn county.

Shot Through the Heart.

Nat Hammond was shot and almost instantly killed by Mack Morton at Ashville over a trivial difference Saturday night. Both of the men were prominent citizens of the community, and had previous to the shooting been friends. Hammond and Morton met and soon became engaged in a quarrel. Morton suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and advanced on Hammond. The weapon snapped twice, but on the third attempt fired, the ball penetrating Hammond's heart. He walked away a few feet and fell dead.

New Lines in Alabama.

Twenty miles of the right of way of the Florida, Alabama and Northern railroad have been surveyed and located, and the contract for the construction of that portion of the road will probably be let within the next four or five weeks. The Florida, Alabama and Northern will run from Florala, a point on the line between Alabama and Florida, by way of Green Bay and Bullock, Ala., to Troy, a distance of fifty-five miles. E. E. Reese, Laurel Hill, Fla., is the general manager of the road.

Eight miles of the Carrollton Short Line, being built from Carrollton to Reform, Ala., have been graded and three miles of track laid. The entire length of the road is ten miles.

STATE BREVITIES.

Dave McCollough, a negro, was hanged at Brewton last week for killing Policeman Gallaspie December 23.

News comes from Snead, in Blount county, that Jack Miller, a young farmer there, was killed while plowing in the field by a bolt of lightning. A mule was killed and a man named Thomas shocked at the same time.

BLOODY TRAGEDY IN TEXAS.

Three Men Killed as the Result of an Old Feud.

At San Augustine, San Augustine county, Texas, Monday, a pitched battle between the Wall faction on the one side and the Brooks on the other, resulted in the death of Felix G. Roberts, his brother Sidney Roberts and the fatal wounding of Noel Roberts, sheriff of the county and brother to the dead men.

The feud grew out of politics and has been brewing for some years. A few weeks ago Ned Wall, the sheriff, was shot and killed by King Borden at San Augustine. Borden fled, but afterward surrendered and was admitted to bail. Noel Roberts was appointed sheriff. Last Saturday Eugene Wall, brother to the dead sheriff, shot to death Ben Brock, a kinsman of Borden. Monday the factions met when the examining trial of Wall was to be held, and every man came to the court house armed.

Hostilities began with the appearance of Sheriff Roberts and his brother, who fell at the first volley from a score of guns.

Application was at once made to the governor for troops, and the Stone Fort Rifles were ordered from Nacogdoches. The is much excitement and more trouble is feared.

CLAYTON-BULWER TREATY.

Morgan Says It Must Go if It Blocks Government's Way.

Congress is in the last gasps of the long session, and its expiration, apparently, is to be quite perfunctory. Unless something extraordinary occurs, no further general legislation of national importance will be enacted before adjournment.

Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, reported from the committee on inter-oceanic canals a resolution declaring the Clayton-Bulwer treaty abrogated. The resolution as reported reads:

"That the treaty known as the Clayton-Bulwer treaty between Great Britain and the United States, which was concluded on the 5th of April, 1850, is abrogated."

In presenting the resolution Mr. Morgan made a written report traversing the grounds for the abrogation of the treaty in detail.

The report is practically a plea for the Nicaragua canal. In it Senator Morgan says "that if the Clayton-Bulwer treaty stands in the way of our government it must give way to the paramount law" if the house bill is enacted into a statute of the United States.

Republicans Carry Oregon.

Meagre returns from Monday's election in Oregon indicate that the republicans have carried the state by from 5,000 to 8,000 plurality. It is estimated that C. W. Wolverton, republican for justice of the supreme court, will have a plurality of 8,000, and J. W. Bailey, republican, for food and dairy commissioner, is elected by 6,000. In the Second Congressional district the plurality for Moody, republican, is estimated at from 5,000 to 7,000. According to the returns the fusionists have gained in the legislature.

Gen. Wheeler to Be Brigadier-General.

A Washington dispatch says: General Wheeler's friends rejoice at the president's intention to appoint him a brigadier-general in the regular army. The appointment will probably go in Wednesday. General Wheeler serves as a regular only until September 10, when he becomes 64 years of age.

The appointment will without doubt be promply confirmed. It seems to mean General Wheeler's retirement from active politics.

Gomez Will Be Honored.

On arriving at his house in Havana Monday General Gomez made a brief address, in the course of which he said he had kept his promise to return to Cuba, and that he had never intended to turn his back upon her people. A large demonstration in his honor will be given.

Gen. Hastings Dead.

Silas Wright Hastings, late colonel of the One Hundred and Forty-second New York volunteer infantry and brigadier general United States volunteers by brevet, died in Washington Monday.

General Manager Metcalf Resigns.

J. G. Metcalf, general manager of the Louisville and Nashville railroad company, has tendered his resignation to the president of the company to take effect in July. He will accept a similar position with the Denver and Rio Grande, with headquarters at Denver. His successor will in all probability be W. M. Newbold, now superintendent of the South and North division.

LAUGHTER-PROVOKING STORIES FOR LOVERS OF FUN.

A Man Much Wanted—A Long, Long Time—Helping a Fellow Along—Hoping For the Best—Too Indefinite—Knocked Silly, Etc., Etc.

"Man's made," she mused, "of dust, they say;
The man I want is he
With sand enough to find a way
To make the dust for me."
—Philadelphia Press.

A Long, Long Time.

"How long will it be before Higbee recovers from his injuries?"

"It will depend on when the railroad company settles."—Puck.

Helping a Fellow Along.

Ferdy—"She says I am dull."

Percy—"You should crack a few jokes occasionally. Ask her to marry you, or something like that."—Puck.

Hoping For the Best.

Benham—"Everybody says that baby looks like me."

Mrs. Benham—"But he may outgrow it, dear."—Harper's Bazar.

Too Indefinite.

Mudge—"Don't you believe in man's superiority to woman?"

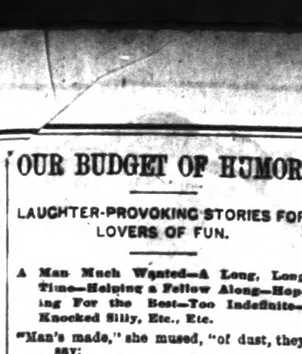
Wickwire—"Superiority in what? In using a hammer or a hairpin?"—Indianapolis Press.

Knocked Silly.

"My dear," said Growells, "you are simply talking nonsense."

"I know it," replied his better half, "but it's because I want you to understand what I say."—Chicago News.

Nothing to Fear From Him.



Fish—"That's all right, mister. Don't be so scared; I won't hurt you."—Judge.

Would Not Sugar-Coat the Pill.

Mrs. Young—"Don't you believe in managing one's husband by letting him think he is having his own way?"

Mrs. Strong—"Decidedly not! Man should be made to feel his inferiority."—Puck.

Cannot Be Satisfied.

Mrs. Poplin—"Mr. Chiffon may be a very wealthy man, as you say, but I know this much, that his wife does not have money enough to dress on."

Mr. Poplin—"Of course not. No woman ever did."—Boston Transcript.

And He Meant So Well!

"A woman is as old as she looks, Mr. Gilley," said Miss Smirk.

"O, Miss Smirk," replied Mr. Gilley, who generally makes a muss of it when he tries to pay a compliment, "surely you are an exception to the rule."—Detroit Free Press.

Too Realistic.

"This story won't do at all," said the publisher to the ambitious writer. "The detective chases a man all over the world and never catches him."

"Well, you see, it's a realistic story," explained the writer. But the explanation was unsatisfactory.

His Worst.

"Colonel," said the romantic maiden who doted on hearing thrilling stories, "what was the most agonizing half hour of your life?"

"It was the one I spent the other day reading a bundle of letters I wrote to my wife before we were married," the grizzled warrior answered.

The Way to Be Saved.

Slopsy—"I don't seem to get any better, doctor."

Dr. Kraft—"You worry too much; that's what's the matter."

Slopsy—"Oh! I don't think I do."

Dr. Kraft—"Ah! but I think you do. Now, there's that last year's bill of mine. Don't you think you'd feel better if you had that off your mind?"

A Rude Awakening.

"Shumleigh says his first love was his school teacher."

"Indeed."

"Yes. But he says love's young dream was shattered the first time she took him on her lap."

"That seems funny."

"Not at all. He was face downward at the time."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Quick Work.

Medder—"What is that electrical contrivance you have on your folding-bed?"

Darker—"A device to ring an alarm-bell whenever the bed doubles up."

Medder—"Where do you have the bell?"

Darker—"In the undertaker's office."—Harper's Bazar.

Artful.

"Shrewd fellow, that Bliggins," said one young man. "He's a natural diplomat."

"How did you find it out?"

"I asked him to lend me a dollar."

"And he got away from it?"

"No. He said he hadn't a dollar, but he'd lend me five. I might forget about one dollar. But he could remind me of five."—Washington Star.

By the repeal of the newspaper tax in Austro-Hungary the imperial treasury will annually lose a million dollars or so, but this loss may be recouped by increased postal revenues.

It requires no experience to dye with PUTNAM FADELESS DYES. Simply boiling your goods in the dye is all that's necessary. Sold by all druggists.

Communion Wine.

It has always been our opinion that we should not use fermented wine for communion purposes if the pure juice of the grape could be procured. We should use such as has no alcohol in it. Recently in this state—Cleburne county—a company has been organized known as the Fruithurst Grape Juice company. This company presses the grape, gets the pure juice, and immediately bottles it, making the bottles air tight, and so long as the bottle is kept tightly stopped the contents will keep pure and sweet.

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our preachers and deacons to this grape juice that they may secure it for communion purposes. Let us not put any strong drink to the mouth of our brother, for we know not to what it may lead. Let us not tempt him by using fermented wine. This grape juice can be purchased from the above named company. Let us suggest that you write a postal card to E. B. Hammitt, manager, Fruithurst, Cleburne county, Ala., for prices and circular. If you do this we feel sure that your church will use the juice instead of the saloon wine, which intoxicates.—Alabama Baptist.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle. So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c

BILE BLOAT

Puffs under the eyes; red nose; pimple-blotched, greasy face don't mean hard drinking always as much as it shows that there is BILE IN THE BLOOD. It is true, drinking and over-eating overloads the stomach, but failure to assist nature in regularly disposing of the partially digested lumps of food that are dumped into the bowels and allowed to rot there, is what causes all the trouble. CASCARETS will help nature help you, and will keep the system from filling with poisons, will clean out the sores that tell of the system's rottenness. Bloated by bile the figure becomes unshapely, the breath foul, eyes and skin yellow; in fact the whole body kind of fills up with filth. Every time you neglect to help nature you lay the foundation for just such troubles. CASCARETS will carry the poisons out of the system and will regulate you naturally and easily and without gripe or pain. Start to-night—one tablet—keep it up for a week and help the liver clean up the bowels, and you will feel right, your blood will be rich, face look clean, eyes bright. Get a 10c box of CASCARETS, take as directed. If you are not cured or satisfied you get your money back. Bile bloat is quickly and permanently

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Jemison, June, 11, 1900

Editor BANNER.—I notice the farmers, merchants and bankers of Georgia have organized themselves into an organization known as the "Cotton Growers Protective Association" for the purpose of controlling the price of cotton.

Now, we are all bound to recognize the fact that in order to control the price of cotton we must first control the cotton, and if all the cotton states will organize under the Georgia plan there is not a doubt but what the price of cotton can be fixed at a reasonable price. One only has to look at who compose the organization (farmers, merchants and bankers) the men that raise it, the men that handle it, the men that furnish the money, etc. Yes, if these three classes put their heads together there is not a doubt of the success of such an organization. Here is the plan. Have bonded warehouses; here comes the farmer with his cotton, say he owes for it; he can put his cotton in said warehouse and draw, say go per cent of the value of his cotton; have it insured; no chance to loose; can have it sold any day he wishes.

Just suppose for one moment that all the cotton states were to put their cotton in warehouses and ask for 10 cents per pound, who could refuse to give their price? Here is the man that produced it, here is the merchant that he owes, if he owes any one; both can get money on it. I know some will say the Farmers' Alliance tried this but the farmers were the only class in this organization and there soon rose up a prejudice between the farmers and merchants, and instead of the merchants trying to help the farmer raise the price of cotton, some tried to break down the organization, and the result a failure. But if this organization will take hold in the cotton states I see a bright day for the farmers ahead.

All white farmers, bankers, merchants, ginners and warehousmen who are willing to unite with this movement for the purposes it has in view are eligible to membership. I hope all the above class will write to Major Culver, Commissioner of Agriculture, for the Georgia plan, and will give him encouragement in organizing such association in Alabama. I hope the newspapers will discuss it, for I believe it to be one of the best things ever suggested for the farmers and merchants.

Very respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

Jemison, June 12, 1900

Editor BANNER.—Please allow me space in your columns to say a few words to the people of the county. First, I wish to say that I have made my final settlement with the State and with the county. I promised the people, when I was elected four years ago, that if they would elect me that I would do my duty, and I am now glad to point the people to my record and let it answer for me. I may have made mistakes, but I have made an honest effort to discharge my duty, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that the money of the county and State has been promptly paid over as the law requires; and I think that I did all that reason or justice required to accomodate the people while collecting the taxes.

And now I wish to reply to some reports that are being circulated in some parts of the county to the effect that I am in favor of stock law. I am satisfied that this report has been circulated to take votes from me, and I will say that I have never said that I favored the stock law, and no man ever heard me at any time say that I did; and I can't see why this report should

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and I respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

There will be speaking by Judge S. M. Adams and others at Highland schoolhouse, 4½ miles south of Clanton, on Saturday June 16, at 2 p.m. Everybody invited.

Judge S. M. Adams and others will speak at Cane Creek, 23d inst., at 2 p.m., and the new schoolhouse near Henry Cox's at night, same date. Everybody and ladies especially invited.

Plantersville.

The health of these parts is good, and crops fine; the oat crop never was better; rain a plenty, and grass a plenty, and fine gardens and a big crop of fruit and the finest berry crop ever has been. I think there is glad tidings ahead. But I am sorry to say the hogs in this portion are all sick and dieing up with some disease.

Mr. Chesterfield Barnes, of North Dallas, had a fine mule killed by lightning a few days ago, the only beast he had.

There is money being subscribed and made up to build a new Baptist church at Plantersville; it will be built just over the Chilton line in Dallas.

There is a large turpentine company making ready to open up a large turpentine works west of Dixie; they will erect one still near Dixie and one near Medline. They say they will give labor to 500 hands, and will commence banding in August, and in November they will be boxing; they have bought a lease on about 15000 acres of pine timber in West Chilton and East Perry.

Well, I suppose there will be a mighty hustling around with the candidates in August, as both parties have a full ticket in the field, all good men on both sides. It will be cut and come, who will and who shall be elected in August. There was about one-third of the voters in the county that did not vote in either primary; perhaps they are independent men, if so they will come to the polls in August, as we have a good independent candidate in the field. Mr. G. F. Martin is a good man, and if elected in August will make us a good sheriff; he is a poor man and needs the office. I have known him all his life. He is alright.

Now a word to our representative whoever he may be: we don't want any stock law, nor we don't need any stock law in Chilton, and we need a dog law and a game law and a better road law.

Good will to all men.
OLD MIKE.

GRAND GIFT DISTRIBUTION.

A Forty-Cent Sugar Shell Free to Every Married Lady.

Editor Banner—We believe that the most effective advertising we can do is to get samples of our goods into the hands of the people. Therefore, we are sending an elegant sterling silver-plated sugar shell, such as we sell regularly at 40c each, to every married lady in the United States who writes for it. There is nothing to pay. The gift is absolute. You will confer a favor upon your lady readers by making this announcement in your paper. Each lady will send her name only, as this is too valuable a gift to send to persons who don't ask for it themselves. We give choice of any of our 40c designs, and will send illustrations from which selection may be made.

A Life And Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung trouble." Regular size 50c and $1.00. FRIDAY.

10 a.m. Devotional exercises. A. L. Foshee.

10:30. Would not the co-operation of the churches in the call of the pastor advance the cause and make the preacher more efficient in his work? Opened by F. M. Woods. Recess.

2 p.m. Devotional exercises, W. A. Mims.

2:30. Is not the annual call of the pastor without scriptual authority, does it not hamper the preacher and militate against the best interest of the cause of Christ? Opened by S. M. Adams.

4. Is it not practical and best for the country churches, and for the pastor that the pastor's salary be paid quarterly, and is it not a false idea on certain lines which presents it? Opened by J. H. Thomas.

SATURDAY.

9 a.m. Devotional exercises, W. H. Conway.

9:30. Is not a miss fit between pastor and church the most fruitful cause of dissentions, and do not the members lapse into a state of indifference and worldy mindedness as a result? Opened by W. H. Shaw.

11. Would it not be better to have county associations than as they now are? Opened by S. Smitherman. Recess.

2 p.m. Devotional exercises, D. Z. Merchant.

Etiquette in the Queen's Presence.

Nobody can sit down in the queen's presence without being requested to do so by her, and in the open air men must not come nearer than three paces to her person. The queen must not be addressed unless she speaks first, and people may not speak to each other in her presence.

A Philosophical View.

A dishonest gardener of the Rev. S. C. Malan had received notice of discharge, and after an unsuccessful attempt to vindicate his character by plausible platitudes said mournfully to the vicar:

DR. BELL'S PINE TAR HONEY CURES COUGHS

Could Not Talk.

Mrs. Smith Woolridge, of this place, who was so afflicted with her throat for over two years that she could not speak above a whisper, after she used the first bottle of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey, could talk as well as ever and the case is such a wonderful cure that her neighbors come in to see her for themselves, and are astonished to hear her talk.—

D. WILSON & Son, Druggists, Kimble, Ky.

FAIR WARNING!

DR. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

is a scientific prescription, carefully prepared from the purest and best ingredients, consequently the most costly cough medicine on the market. In buying Dr. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY you get as big a bottle and more doses for 25 cents than you do of any other, but the druggist's profit is less. Therefore some druggists are cunningly persuading their customers to buy that which to them means greater profit.

DON'T YOU DO IT. DEMAND

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

A sample copy will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Jemison, June, 11, 1900

Editor BANNER.—I notice the farmers, merchants and bankers of Georgia have organized themselves into an organization known as the "Cotton Growers Protective Association" for the purpose of controlling the price of cotton.

Now, we are all bound to recognize the fact that in order to control the price of cotton we must first control the cotton, and if all the cotton states will organize under the Georgia plan there is not a doubt but what the price of cotton can be fixed at a reasonable price. One only has to look at who compose the organization (farmers, merchants and bankers) the men that raise it, the men that handle it, the men that furnish the money, etc. Yes, if these three classes put their heads together there is not a doubt of the success of such an organization. Here is the plan. Have bonded warehouses; here comes the farmer with his cotton, say he owes for it; he can put his cotton in said warehouse and draw, say go per cent of the value of his cotton; have it insured; no chance to loose; can have it sold any day he wishes.

Just suppose for one moment that all the cotton states were to put their cotton in warehouses and ask for 10 cents per pound, who could refuse to give their price? Here is the man that produced it, here is the merchant that he owes, if he owes any one; both can get money on it. I know some will say the Farmers' Alliance tried this but the farmers were the only class in this organization and there soon rose up a prejudice between the farmers and merchants, and instead of the merchants trying to help the farmer raise the price of cotton, some tried to break down the organization, and the result a failure. But if this organization will take hold in the cotton states I see a bright day for the farmers ahead.

All white farmers, bankers, merchants, ginners and warehousmen who are willing to unite with this movement for the purposes it has in view are eligible to membership. I hope all the above class will write to Major Culver, Commissioner of Agriculture, for the Georgia plan, and will give him encouragement in organizing such association in Alabama. I hope the newspapers will discuss it, for I believe it to be one of the best things ever suggested for the farmers and merchants.

Very respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

Jemison, June 12, 1900

Editor BANNER.—Please allow me space in your columns to say a few words to the people of the county. First, I wish to say that I have made my final settlement with the State and with the county. I promised the people, when I was elected four years ago, that if they would elect me that I would do my duty, and I am now glad to point the people to my record and let it answer for me. I may have made mistakes, but I have made an honest effort to discharge my duty, and I have the satisfaction of knowing that the money of the county and State has been promptly paid over as the law requires; and I think that I did all that reason or justice required to accomodate the people while collecting the taxes.

And now I wish to reply to some reports that are being circulated in some parts of the county to the effect that I am in favor of stock law. I am satisfied that this report has been circulated to take votes from me, and I will say that I have never said that I favored the stock law, and no man ever heard me at any time say that I did; and I can't see why this report should

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and I respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

There will be speaking by Judge S. M. Adams and others at Highland schoolhouse, 4½ miles south of Clanton, on Saturday June 16, at 2 p.m. Everybody invited.

Judge S. M. Adams and others will speak at Cane Creek, 23d inst., at 2 p.m., and the new schoolhouse near Henry Cox's at night, same date. Everybody and ladies especially invited.

Plantersville.

The health of these parts is good, and crops fine: the oat crop never was better; rain a plenty, and grass a plenty, and fine gardens and a big crop of fruit and the finest berry crop ever has been. I think there is glad tidings ahead. But I am sorry to say the hogs in this portion are all sick and dieing up with some disease.

Mr. Chesterfield Barnes, of North Dallas, had a fine mule killed by lightning a few days ago, the only beast he had.

There is money being subscribed and made up to build a new Baptist church at Plantersville; it will be built just over the Chilton line in Dallas.

There is a large turpentine company making ready to open up a large turpentine works west of Dixie; they will erect one still near Dixie and one near Medline. They say they will give labor to 500 hands, and will commence handing in August, and in November they will be boxing; they have bought a lease on about 15000 acres of pine timber in West Chilton and East Perry.

Well, I suppose there will be a mighty hustling around with the candidates in August, as both parties have a full ticket in the field, all good men on both sides. It will be cut and come, who will and who shall be elected in August. There was about one-third of the voters in the county that did not vote in either primary; perhaps they are independent men, if so they will come to the polls in August, as we have a good independent candidate in the field. Mr. G. F. Martin is a good man, and if elected in August will make us a good sheriff; he is a poor man and needs the office. I have known him all his life. He is alright.

Now a word to our representative whoever he may be: we don't want any stock law, nor we don't need any stock law in Chilton, and we need a dog law and a game law and a better road law.

Good will to all men.
OLD MIKE.

GRAND GIFT DISTRIBUTION.

A Forty-Cent Sugar Shell Free to Every Married Lady.

Editor Banner—We believe that the most effective advertising we can do is to get samples of our goods into the hands of the people. Therefore, we are sending an elegant sterling silver-plated sugar shell, such as we sell regularly at 40c each, to every married lady in the United States who writes for it. There is nothing to pay. The gift is absolute. You will confer a favor upon your lady readers by making this announcement in your paper. Each lady will send her name only, as this is too valuable a gift to send to persons who don't ask for it themselves. We give choice of any of our 40c designs, and will send illustrations from which selection may be made.

Etiquette in the Queen's Presence.

Nobody can sit down in the queen's presence without being requested to do so by her, and in the open air men must not come nearer than three paces to her person. The queen must not be addressed unless she speaks first, and people may not speak to each other in her presence.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

Three Men Killed and Eight Injured at Anniston.

Three men were killed and eight injured by a boiler explosion at the Duke brick works at Anniston Saturday morning. The dead are: John O. Ryan, white; Will Storey, colored; L. Baker, colored.

Injured—George W. Weitzel, a member of the firm, dangerously; Asa Wilkerson, badly crushed, will probably die; Hosea Williams, colored, will die; B. U. Reaves, white; Lee Simpson, white; Wm. Knight, colored; Chas. Strong, colored; Dan Morgan, colored; Mart Hundley, colored.

The extensive works were wrecked and a house some distance away damaged, but none of its occupants injured. The cause of the explosion is not known.

Ex-Gov. Oates Kills a Negro.

Ex-Gov. Oates shot and killed a negro at his residence in Montgomery. He heard a pistol shot in his kitchen, and on going to investigate found his cook lying dead on the floor, killed by a negro then in the room. The negro, who did the killing, then started toward Governor Oates with his pistol in hand. Not paying any attention to warning not to advance, Governor Oates shot and killed him.

Big Hotel for Birmingham.

Articles of incorporation of the Hotel Hillman company have been filed in the probate office in Birmingham by B. F. Roden, T. H. Molton and M. V. Joseph, the capital stock of which was fixed at $150,000, divided into 1,500 shares of the par value of $100 each. The new hotel, which will be a modern five-story structure, with over 200 rooms, will be erected at the corner of Nineteenth street and Fourth avenue.

Killed From Ambush.

Near Hal's Lake, eighteen miles southwest of Jackson, John Overstreet, a prominent planter, and his young son were riddled with buckshot by some one in ambush on the roadside. The father died instantly. The son lived long enough to tell who he thought the assassin to be.

Contract for New Railroad.

Bids are being submitted by a large number of contractors for twenty miles of construction work on the Ensley Southern railway, commencing at Ensley and extending to the Warrior river. The contract, it is expected, will be let early this week.

Killed by Lightning.

Near Warrior, in the upper part of Jefferson county, Miss Blalock, a young lady between 16 and 18 years of age, was struck by lightning and instantly killed. Her sister was standing near her at the time and received a severe shock.

STATE BREVITIES.

Montgomery is making great progress on its coming street fair.

Governor Johnston appointed Sam Meigs, of Dolomite, associate state mine inspector to succeed Frank Culverhouse, resigned.

Farmers in Madison county are are many days behind with their crops. Intermittent rains continued eleven days, and the weeds have overrun nearly everything.

Deputy Collector John Lanier and Deputy Marshal Arnold made a raid in Jackson county, near Sunset, and destroyed a large illicit still and 400 gallons of beer.

Ben Fitch, a negro boy, was struck by lightning and killed while at work on a farm near Madison. This is the second victim of lightning within three days in that neighborhood.

Business men of Florence will organize a Chamber of Commerce to look after certain interests of the city and assist the Merchants' Exchange in the management of the community affairs generally.

Anniston people are rejoicing at the almost certainty of a public building being erected in that city. The bill allowing $50,000 for this cause has passed both the house and senate, and it is understood the president will attach his signature at once.

BLOODY DAY IN ST. LOUIS

As a Result of the Rioting Three Men Were Killed and Five Injured.

NUMEROUS ENCOUNTERS ON THE SABBATH

Mob of Furious Women Denude a Young Lady and Daub Her With Green Paint—Shop Girls Attacked by Mob.

Sunday in St. Louis was one of the most eventful and bloody since the great strike of the St. Louis Transit company began more than one month ago. There were numerous encounters between strikers and other riotous persons and the constituted authorities, resulting in three deaths and wounding of five or more persons, mostly strikers. One of the latter will die. The dead are:

C. Edward Thomas, striking conductor on the Chouteau avenue line; shot in the breast by deputy sheriff.

George Rine, striking mortorman on Delmar avenue line; shot in abdomen by deputy sheriff.

Fred Boehm, aged citizen; shot and instantly killed while standing in his front yard by deputy sheriff.

Women Taking Part in St. Louis Riots.

A mob of furious women and boys in St. Louis, Mo., beat and denuded Lena Kaenter, a young woman who makes her living by peddling lunches among employés of the California avenue street car line. When the mob had her stripped to the waist one woman daubed her with green paint while two others held her, the jeering boys and women of the mob applauding the outrage and throwing mud.

Two shop girls were attacked by the mob an hour later, and they also were partly denuded before they escaped.

LYNCHING IN MISSISSIPPI.

Mob Acts With Little If Any Proof Against Suspected Murderers.

Lynch law ran rampant in the section around Biloxi Saturday night. Two negro men were lynched for one man's crime, and it is not absolutely certain that either victim of mob law was guilty. Henry Askew and Ed Russ, held as suspects for the murder of Christiana Winterstein, and against whom the proof was infinitely small, if, indeed, it existed at all, were taken out and strung up to a tree in a thicket, just behind the railway station at Mississippi City. The law abiding people, while confident that the necessity existed for vigorous action, deplore and condemn the dual lynching.

Florida Mob Wreaks Vengeance.

Ernest Hardwick, a white farmer, was set upon by a gang of negroes at Sneads, Fla., several days ago and beaten so badly that he died in a few hours. Only one of the negroes were caught and sent to jail. Two nights after the murder a mob went to the house of John Sanders, a supposed accessory to the crime, and shot him to death. Another negro, innocent of the murder, was also killed. Both bodies were literally shot to pieces.

Forest's Cavalry Corps Reunion.

The first general reunion of Forest's cavalry corps was begun Saturday with memorial services at Corinth, Miss. Elaborate preparations have been made by the people in the vicinity of Corinth, Tupelo and Baldwin, Miss., for the reunion, and it is expected that a very large majority of the living members of the famous cavalry command who are able to travel will be on the scene.

Naval Constructor T. F. Ruhm has been detached from the Crescent Ship Yard, Elizabeth, N. J., and ordered to the Naval Station, Cavite, P. I., to relieve Naval Constructor Hobson, who has been ordered to the Naval Hospital, Yokohama, for treatment.

Famous Houseboat Burned.

Pierre Lorillard's famous houseboat, Caiman, was destroyed by fire Thursday while anchored in the river near New Smyrna, Fla. The Caiman was considered the finest boat of her kind afloat. She is said to have cost $100,000 when built.

Two Hundred Miners Entombed.

Two hundred miners were imprisoned at Gloucester, O., a few days ago by an explosion of gas in mine No. 2, and as many more were about to enter the mine. Rescue work was carried on so energetically that all were rescued except three. Evan Joseph, John McClelland and Aaron Swanson were killed.

CHILD'S HEAD CHOPPED OFF.

Causes A Panic Among Workmen When Eight Other Deaths Result.

Some Indian children of the Oneida reservation, near Stockbridge, Wis., saw their mother hack off the head of a chicken. This suggested a new game to their childish minds, the play resulting in the death of nine persons.

The women went out into the yard of her home, where the children were playing, caught a chicken with which she wished to prepare a meal, got a hatchet and chopped off its head. Then she returned to the house, leaving the blood-stained hatchet on the ground.

One of the children suggested that they play chicken, and the suggestion was carried out. One of the smaller children was selected to act the part of chicken. The child was thrown to the ground by its playmates, its head placed on a block of wood and hacked off.

A number of men were engaged on a derrick in the yard raising heavy timbers in the erection of a barn. As soon as the men above noticed the child being beheaded they became panic-stricken and in the confusion the heavy timbers which were being raised fell with a crash, killing eight men.

GEN. PILAR CAPTURED.

One of the Foremost of the Insurgent Leaders.

Gen. Pio Del Pilar, the most aggressive and most persistent of the Filipino leaders, who was captured last Friday, was made a prisoner at Guadaloupe, six miles east of Manila, by some of the Manila native police. Upon information received that Pio Del Pilar was to be at a certain house Capt. Lara and twelve policemen proceeded in a launch to Guadaloupe, where, aided by a detachment of the 21st Infantry, they surrounded the house and captured the general.

The capture of Gen. Pio Del Pilar is a most important one. Pilar was regarded as one of the most active and uncompromising of the rebel chieftains. That his capture has been effected by the native police of Manila, a body numbering some 400, evidences afresh the loyalty of these men to the American cause, so often impugned both by Americans and Filipinos.

ARKANSAS PRIMARIES.

Murphy Leads for Attorney-General of State.

The democratic primary elections were held in thirty-two counties in Arkansas Saturday for state offices. The only offices for which there were contests were attorney-general, secretary of state, auditor and railroad commissioners.

George W. Murphy leads for attorney-general on the returns so far received. The race is a close one between John W. Crocket and E. B. Jett for secretary of state, and between R. W. McFarland and T. C. Monroe for auditor.

In the First congressional district Judge F. G. Taylor leads for congressman.

Texas Primaries.

The returns are coming in slowly from Saturday's democratic primaries in Texas. The figures indicate that R. M. Love has been elected comptroller, while the race for railroad commissioner is very close between J. L. Storey, the present incumbent, and E. P. Curtis, of Bell. Gov. Sayers and all the state administration except comptroller and railroad commissioners are assured of a second term. Congressman Jos. W. Bailey had no opposition for the United States senate.

Detachment Ambushed.

A Manila cable dispatch says: A detachment of the 45th Infantry, scouting near Daet, province of Camarinas Del Norte, were ambushed May 29 and Capt. Albert Steinhauser was wounded three times, two privates were killed, eight wounded and one private is missing. The insurgent loss is reported to be heavy.

Hannah Will Succeed Himself.

It is stated on high authority that Senator Hanna will succeed himself as chairman of the republican national committee, and will conduct the coming campaign.

Disastrous Storm in Oklahoma.

A special from Guthrie, O. T., says: A terrific wind, hail and electrical storm visited this section Friday. Thousands of acres of wheat were ruined by hail and wind, much corn and cotton riddled and many orchards stripped of all fruit. In one township northwest of here many farmers lost all their crops and the damage will aggregate many thousands of dollars.

SUMMARY OF STATE NEWS

Current Events Gathered From all Sections of Alabama.

BI-METALLIC CONFERENCE IN BIRMINGHAM

Coal Company to Develop Coal Lands in Walker County—Murderer Captured In Arkansas. Brief News Items.

A conference of the democratic bimetallic clubs of Alabama was held in Birmingham Friday and a delegation selected to represent the state at the national conference in Kansas City July 4. The following delegates from the state-at-large to the national conference of democratic bimetallic clubs were elected: John W. Tomlinson, of Jefferson; Tennant Lomax, of Montgomery; Nathan L. Miller, of Jefferson, and Gordon McDonald, of Montgomery.

The following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That each democratic bimetallic club in the state is hereby authorized and requested to send a delegation to Kansas City on July 4, 1900, to be composed of as many delegates as it shall determine, to participate in the conference of democratic bimetallic clubs."

New Coal Company Organized.

The Empire Coal and Coke company has been organized and will operate coal lands in Walker county. The capital stock of the company is $700,000, of which $400,000 is preferred and $300,000 common. The incorporators are Charles A. Stillman, local manager for Rogers, Brown & Co.; Henry W. Milner, general manager of the Milner Coal and Railroad company, at Newcastle, and James Weatherly, attorney for the Southern railway.

The company has purchased 14,000 acres of coal lands situated in Walker county, through which runs the Black creek seam. It is understood that the company will develop the property at once and that mines with a daily capacity of 1,500 tons will be operated.

Murderer Arrested in Arkansas.

Luke Sanders, colored, who killed Road Supervisor Will Mullens in Perry county in April, 1899, has been captured and will be brought back for trial. The capture was effected by the sheriff in Oceola, Ark.

There is $500 reward for the capture of Sanders. The crime with which he is charged was one that put that whole country in a turmoil and attracted the attention of the entire state.

It is said the killing of Mullens was the result of a conspiracy, formed by the negroes of Perry county, to kill all the road supervisors. The whole trouble arose over the passage of a new road law.

Mammoth Steel Rail Mill.

While the report lacks official confirmation it is understood that the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway company will within a short time begin the erection of a $1,000,000 steel mill at Ensley, where the big steel plant is located, and that it has already book orders for 75,000 tons of steel rails, delivered to begin the latter part of 1901. The rumor has been in circulation for several days, but the officials of the company refuse to confirm or deny its authenticity. The proposed mill will cover several acres of ground and will represent an investment approximately of $1,000,000. When completed it will give employment to from 750 to 1,000 men.

Birmingham District's Growth.

The annual report of the secretary of the Birmingham Commercial club, just issued, show that industrial improvements aggregating $7,055,000 were made in the Birmingham district during the past year. In addition to this the sum of $1,898,000 was invested in new buildings. The report shows progress in every line of endeavor, a large increase in iron, coal and coke production, a 50 per cent growth in retail trade and 65 per cent in wholesale trade.

Farmer Killed While at Work.

While at work in his field Saturday on his farm near Larkinsville, Jackson county, George Towers a prosperous farmer, was shot and instantly killed by Jim Paradise. The weapon used was a double-barrel shotgun. Paradise and his younger brother, who was with him at the time, made their escape. There is great excitement in the neighborhood.

STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Fixes Qualifications for Voting in Primaries—Contests Settled.

The state democratic executive committee met in adjourned session in Birmingham Friday to consider the protest from Morgan county and such other questions as might be brought before it.

The committee passed a set of resolutions fixing the qualifications for voters in democratic primaries or participants in democratic beat meetings and conventions.

When the committee met it had an even more knotty problem than the Morgan county protest to consider, that of the appeal from the action of the Fourth district congressional committee in ordering a general primary election for the purpose of selecting a nominee for representative in congress from that district. The committee ordered the district committee to reconvene and call a convention to nominate a candidate. The method of selecting delegates to the district convention was left to the executive committees of the different counties.

The Morgan county protest resulted in censuring the committee of that county for the method pursued in selecting delegates to the county convention, but declining to interfere with the new executive committee on the ground that the protestants had slept on their guard. The committee held that as the protestants had failed to file a protest with the committee prior to the primary election and also failing to contest in the county or state convention, the state committee could not now properly take the matter up.

F. L. Pettus, of Dallas offered the following resolutions:

Whereas, All issues which have heretofore divided the democratic party in Alabama have been settled; and

Whereas, The democratic voters now united upon all the principles and policies of the party, and none but disorganizers and disruptionists can now refuse to support the principles and candidates of the party; and

Whereas, This committee has many times extended an invitation to all white voters who believe in the principles, and would support the nominees of the democratic party to participate in our primaries; and

Whereas, This invitation has been many times abused by persons who have participated in our primaries, and afterwards voted against and opposed the nominees; therefore

Be it resolved, That no person who fails to support all and each of the nominees of the democratic party, both state and county, in the coming August election shall be allowed to vote or participate in the nomination of congressmen in any district in the state; and,

Resolved, second, That only those white voters who support all and each of the nominees, having an opportunity to do so for state, county and federal offices, shall be allowed to participate in the primaries and conventions to be hereafter held by the democratic party.

In presenting the resolution Mr. Pettus stated that it was done for the purpose of keeping out of the party primaries and conventions men who refused to support the democratic nominees. "The purpose is," he said, "to allow democrats to make democratic nominees."

The vote on the resolution resulted in its adoption, but one vote being registered against it.

Broke the Record.

The mines at Brookside, four in number, belonging to the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company, during the month of May broke the record and mined more coal than ever before. The record was 52,000 tons, which is the largest output for one month ever attained by 17,000 tons.

A Peculiar Accident.

A peculiar accident happened to Mrs. F. Morse Taylor, at Huntsville. Mrs. Taylor picked up a molasses can to pour out some of the contents and, before she got the can open, the lid flew off, striking her in the face and making an ugly wound. The lid was forced off by the fermentation of the molasses.

Dr. John Braden Dead.

Dr. John Braden, president of Central Tennessee university, died in Nashville Sunday. Dr. Braden was one of the founders of this institution, which is one of the largest in the south, for the education of colored youths and has been at its head for thirty-five years.

Johnson Nominated for Congress.

Tomlinson F. Johnson, collector of customs at Savannah, under Presidents Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland and Harrison, has been nominated for congress by the republicans of the First district of Georgia.

Egypt's Cotton Crop.

It is estimated that this year's cotton crop in Egypt will be equivalent to 1,000,000 American bales.

NEW TRUSTEES APPOINTED.

Gov. Johnston Fills Several Vacancies. Important Military Orders.

Governor Johnston has appointed Colonel R. F. Ligon as a member of the board of trustees of the Polytechnic institute at Auburn to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Colonel Gilchrist. The term expires January 4, 1903.

The governor also appointed Rev. K. C. Jeter, of Opelika, rector of the Episcopal church there, as trustee of the university for the Third district and for the term ending March 1, 1906. Mr. Jeter fills the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of Colonel W. J. Samford.

The governor also appointed Col. Henry B. Foster, of Tuscaloosa, as trustee of the university for the sixth district for the term ending March 1, 1906. He succeeds Dr. John Little, whose term expired March 1. In the Eighth district Thomas C. McClellan, of Athens, was appointed trustee of the university for the term ending March 1, 1906. He succeeds Judge Richardson, whose term expired March 1 last.

Order to Adjutant General.

General order No. 76 has been received by the adjutant general. These orders embrace the provisions of the recent military bill passed by congress. The item which is of vital interest to the citizen soldiery of Alabama, reads as follows:

"On the application of the governor of any state or territory the secretary of war is authorized to replace the quartermaster supplies, which the volunteers from said state or territory carried into the service of the United States army during the recent war with Spain, and which have been retained by the United States exclusive of such supplies as have been allowed for in the office of the war department, and such award accepted by the state."

This means that the large claim by Alabama for quartermaster's supplies will be allowed. It also means that every military company in the state will be fully and amply equipped with quartermaster stores. It will not, however, be available until after June 30.

Pig Iron Shipments.

The report of the southern iron committee for May shows the following shipments for the month.

From the Birmingham district, 70,483 tons of pig iron and 1,350 tons of cast iron pipe.

From Alabama and Tenneasee, 130,000 tons of pig iron and cast iron pipe.

For export from the Birmingham district 17,183 tons of pig iron.

For export from Alabama and Tennessee, 18 260 tons of pig iron.

The Birmingham district embraces all the furnaces and pipe works at Birmingham, North Biamingham, Ensley, Bessemer, Oxmoor, Woodward, East Birmingham, Trussville and Thomas.

First Speech of the Campaign.

The democratic campaign in this state will open by the latter part of this month. The first speech will be delivered by Colonel Samford, nominee for governor, at Calera, on the 29th, and he will at that time outline the issues of the campaign and the policies of the democratic party.

Ex-Governor Oates Was Justified.

The coroner's jury investigating into the death of Aaron Parker, who was killed by ex-Gov. Oates Saturday night, returned a verdict of justifiable homicide, as it was proved that General Oats was compelled to shoot Parker to save his own life.

One-Third as Big Again.

The census of Athens shows an increase of about 33 per cent during the past ten years in the population of Athens.

Patrick Henry is Victorious.

Incomplete returns from the Third Mississippi district held Monday indicate that Judge Patrick Henry, of Vicksburg, has swept the district from end to end. This election was to choose a successor to Hon. Thomas Catchings, who retires at the end of his present term.

Double Tragedy.

At Fort Worth Tex., John Hendricks stabbed his stepfather to death. As a result of this tragedy, Hendricks' mother died an hour later from fright.

Senny Jefferson, a negro 22 years of age, was lynched near Metcalf, Ga., a small village ten miles from Thomasville, by unknown parties Monday.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

Among the more important of the new industries reported by the Tradesman during the week ending June 9 are a belting manufactory and a broom factory in North Carolina; a canning factory in Georgia; coal mines in Alabama, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia; a coal briquette plant in Texas; cotton seed oil mills in Louisiana and North Carolina; cotton mills in Georgia, Louisiana and Virginia; flouring mills in North Carolina, Tennessee; a foundry in Tennessee, a furniture factory in Virginia; granite quarries in Texas; a handle and spoke factory in Tennessee; a hardware company in North Carolina; a knitting mill in Georgia; lead and zinc mines in Arkansas; limestone quarries in Alabama; lumber mills in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Texas and West Virginia; machine shops in Mississippi; a paper box factory in Virginia; rice mills and irrigation works in Louisiana and Texas; telephone exchanges in North Carolina and West Virginia; a $75,000 woodworking plant in Georgia; a woodworking machinery manufactory in Virginia.

BOTH PRINCIPALS KILLED.

Prominent Men Shoot Each Other to Death Near Nagodoches.

Dr. Taliaferro and Wiley Wilkins shot each other to death at Michelli, twelve miles south of Nagodoches, Tex., last week.

Taliaferro was the employed physician of the Michelli mills, and Wilkins a son of the superintendent of the same establishment. Taliaferro became angered because another physician was called to minister to the Wilkins family, and is alleged to have made remarks which caused the elder Wilkins to seek an apology. During a dispute which followed young Wilkins came upon the scene. Taliaferro opened fire, which was returned by Wiley Wilkins, and both were killed.

Fatal Fight at a Wake.

Rev. J. F. Humphreys, pastor of the colored Cumberland Presbyterian church, at Huntsville, Ala., and for many years principal of the colored city school, dropped dead. Heart disease was the cause of death.

During the progress of a wake over the pastor's remains in the church, Dicey Nobles, a negro woman, and John Lacey, engaged in a quarrel, and Lacey knocked the woman in the head and cut her several times with a knife. He wounds are considered fatal. The wake was broken up and in the excitement Lacey escaped.

Decorated With Southern Flowers.

Palmetto wreaths from South Carolina, magnolias from Tennessee, daisies and roses from Kentucky and corn flowers from North Carolina were strewn on the graves of the confederate soldiers who sleep in the Oldburg ground at Camp Chase, Columbue, O., last Saturday. Sectionalism was forgotten in the occasion, members of the G. A. R. taking conspicuous part, and floral contributions were as numerous from federals as confederates.

National Negro Business League.

After consulting with substantial colored men in all parts of the country, Booker T. Washington, of Tuskegee, Ala., has decided to assist in the organization of a national negro business league. The object of this organization is to encourage colored people through the central organization and local organizations to enter all avenues of business. The first meeting will be held in Boston August 23 and 24.

The offer of $1,667,500,000 in subscriptions to the British war loan is the most impressive display of "sinews of war" that the world has ever seen. That stupendous sum is larger than the entire public debt of the United States, and more than half the public debt of the United Kingdom.

Cape Nome is no doubt wonderfully rich, and the exodus from Dawson to the new field is on a wholesale scale, but it must not be presumed that Dawson is of the things that were. When claims near that great camp yield gold at the rate of $36,000 per day, it is safe to say that at least a few Yankees will linger on the Canadian side.

That fine old Spanish relic, the Duke of Veragua, has been insulted in Paris by a vulgar merchant who seized his baggage for debt. Thus again the impecunious old nobleman is reminded that the modern chivalry is a trashy sham, very much frayed at the edges.

INDIA'S GOLD FAMINE.

SIXTY MILLIONS OF PEOPLE CRYING FOR BREAD.

While Britain Spends Millions Subjugating Free and Independent People—The Infamy That This Republican Administration Is in League With.

The ministers of my state have been asked to preach a sermon and take up a collection on behalf of the people of India who are threatened with starvation. I have my own ideas about what kind of a sermon should be preached and where the collection ought to come from; if they are wrong they are not so because of the following facts:

The present famine is but a continuation of preceding ones, and my religious papers tell me that it is the worst of them all. Nearly 60,000,000 persons are affected, and no one seems to be able to tell how many of them will die. The government is able to care for but 5,000,000. In addition, the buffalo, cows and goats on which the people depend are dying. The greatest suffering is in the agricultural districts, where 80 per cent of the population lives. The horrors that exist are beyond description. Missionaries say that after everything else is gone the fathers and mothers sell their children to get a little grain for food. Boys don't sell well, and the traffic is mostly in girls, bought by Mohammedans for 30 to 60 cents apiece.

It does not cost very much to sustain life in India. Fifteen dollars will support a Hindu for a year. Five dollars used at the first of the year until the floods come in July count for the saving of one human life. One dollar will feed twenty persons for a day. One dollar will rescue a child from starvation and support it for a month. A hundred dollars will dig a well that will bring bountiful crops on several acres and secure many families from future famines. It would not take more than $130,000,000 at the very most to rescue India from starvation, restore agricultural activity and prevent recurrence of the famine in the future.

I believe that England can do nothing less than to give double this amount. I have the official statement of the British treasury which estimates that if the war in the Transvaal ends by the time the rains come in India in July when the famine pressure will be relieved, the war will have cost Great Britain $650,000,000. This is the skeleton cost and does not take into account any of the trimmings which will at any rate mount up to several millions more. Neither does it consider the private expenditures, and it is a feature of present conditions in India that while the British have previously raised large sums for the relief of famine sufferers, this year the war in South Africa has so diverted attention and money that the relief offered practically amounts to nothing at all. It is a fact that the relief of India is thrown upon the rest of the world, although England is the "governing power."

My collection will be a disappointment—not the first—because England can't and won't save starving India. Why? The answer is not hard. To take the gold and diamond mines in South Africa and subjugate the Boers—that is competition; to feed the Indian people and help them to get their farms in working order and enable them to live a happy, contented, prosperous life—that is co-operation, socialism. We live under a competitive system and we abhor socialism. The returns from the conquest of Africa will be gold and commercial success; the returns from the rescue of India would be a larger love of humanity and all that comes from the right administration of the stewardship that God has given us. England will get her money back from the war in South Africa. There would be no money profit in preventing starvation in India. This is commercialism, it is the system we are upholding, it is why England is spending five times as much in destructiveness and murder in Africa as she should spend in constructiveness and life-saving in India. —Rev. Cyrus Clone of Kansas.

Labor's Growing Might.

Labor has found a way to organize itself—banding itself together and building up vast unions, through which is to come the emancipation of the wage worker, his education in self-government, his preparation for the role that awaits him in the new era. More than a selfish struggle for rights is this labor movement—it is the unselfish struggle that finds in the wrongs of one member of the body the call for help from all other members. Far beyond the ranks of the wage workers the new hunger for justice in civilization is stirring in the souls of men; and the manifestation thereof is in the movement vaguely known as socialism. About the economic adjustments of the new order, as the socialists conceive them, we may differ, believing such an order impracticable or dangerous, if we so judge. Of the ethical ideal back of socialism there can be but one opinion. It is a movement toward the dispossession of selfishness and the mastery of human relationship by justice and by love.

Rich men combine and raise the prices of goods they control and refuse to permit the people to use them unless they pay the extortion. They are upheld in this by the courts and the police force; though their action is against public interest; though they are public enemies, the public protects them and their property. When laboring men combine and demand their product, labor, shall not be used except on payment of certain condition, the courts and police force are called on to suppress them and imprison them. The working people are made outlaws for demanding what they do not need. But laboring men are the majority; they have ten votes to capital's one; they fill the police force and army; they elect the judges and law makers. What does prosperity avail him unless he can have his wages raised that he may better his condition generally?

Monopoly.

A monopoly in private hands is indefensible. That combination and concentration are natural cannot be disputed. Men first worked independently for their own individual benefit. Next they formed partnerships. Next they combined into one corporation or trust, and this trust eventually became a monopoly. First a man kept a little grocery store and twenty other men kept twenty other little stores. It was natural that these twenty men should unite their stores under one roof, into what is called a department store, or that perhaps one man originates and starts a hundred different stores under one roof, and perhaps another man starts another department store in the same community. Eventually these several department stores will unite into one. Then there will be a monopoly, and the thousands of little store keepers will have to desert their little stores. Just so will all of the big trusts eventually combine into one trust. Plainly we are now making rapid strides toward one universal trust in everything and it is beyond the shadow of a doubt that these vast combinations must be the property of the collectivity. Everything points toward monopoly, public monopoly, and there cannot be for any length of time a monopoly in private hands.—Appeal to Reason.

Save the Nation.

Doubtless the wives and daughters of wealthy men know little and care less, about the means employed to acquire money and wealth. They little deem that the luxury and ildeness which are theirs cost thousands of lives, and untold suffering, misery, insanity, suicide and numberless other evils. Let us learn from history how all this will culminate. A noted author says "Among the first signs of the decline of Rome was that her women, so famous for virtue, had become demoralized. The national fiber had relaxed. Simplicity of life and manners made way for luxury. For duty was substituted self-gratification. Voluptuous pleasure after pleasure had palled upon the jaded tastes, until at length honor and decency were obliterated, and nameless horrors were of daily and common occurrence. St. Paul gave forcible evidence of contemporary manners when he represented his fellow-citizens as being 'given over to uncleanliness.' If history has any value it is by placing before us the wisdom and errors of the past, that we may adopt the one and reject the other."

The people are allowed to elect only the members of the lower house of the legislature and one commissioner to the United States.

In fact, President McKinley has power to do everything in Puerto Rico that George III. tried to do to the American colonies.

The Smelter Combine.

A smelter combine embracing all the great smelters of the nation has been perfected, and now the miners will pay just what these philanthropists are pleased to charge them, or leave their ore on the dumps. The combine will have the power to make or unmake the value of any mine or group of them. If the government owned and operated the smelters the charges would have to be fair, else the congressmen would get a hemp reception on their return to their dear constituents. But as it now is, the congressmen or legislators can say to complaints that they have nothing to do with the charges, which they would be responsible for under government ownership. Still the miners believe in private ownership of the smelters, so let them sweat. The more blood they have to sweat the sooner will they become disgusted with the beauties of private ownership.

Dawning of the New Era.

A new political passion has seized man's mind. The ideals of democracy enkindle his enthusiasm. Liberty, Equality, Fraternity—these are the ideals that are fascinating the soul of the new-born sovereign people. Slavery has been abolished in its worst forms in our wonderful century, as to serfdom of Russia and the negro bondage of the United States. The worst political tyrannies of the world, handed down to us through successive generations, have been wiped out of our century, the closing years of the century seeing the end of the last of the great mediaeval despotisms—the colonial empire of Spain.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

The Coming of the Spring—The Spiritual Straight-Edge—Our Faith Bridges the River—Willing Submission to God—Dying Thou Conquered Death.

She has come who tarried long,
Gentle rains have hastened her;
In the woods a welcome song,
On the grass an eager stir,
And she whispers, "I am here,
Sweetest days of all the year."

Green the grass about her feet,
Blue the skies above her head,
Myriad flowers with perfume sweet
Crowd the path that she must tread;
All the world, for love of Spring,
Gives its best of everything.

But where'er the sick and sad
In dark places watch and wait,
Hearts are suddenly made glad
That were lone and desolate,
For the spring calls Hope to wake,
And be strong for love's dear sake.

Ah! what song of trust have we
Who through all the winter drear
Saw the thick mists of the sea
And all fair things disappear?
Grown impatient of delay,
Feared that pain alone would stay?

Faint hearts, waste not in regret
These new hours of sun and song;
God will let us all forget
Winter woes that lingered long;
Spring shall banish fear and doubt,
Let the song of praise ring out!
—Marianne Farningham, in Christian World.

The Spiritual Straight-Edge.

One of the best tests of the experience of perfect love is, not our emotions, but our fulfillment of the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians. This chapter is the straight-edge, which laid along-side of our experience, will surely show us whether we have it or not. If we fulfill this measure, we need not look at the experience of others to see whether ours is like theirs or not, nor need we doubt as to its possession. St. Paul says of love, "It suffereth long." It is opposed to haste and passionate expression of our thoughts and feelings concerning others. It suffers their treatment without irritability or vindictiveness. It is not in haste to trace out the motives of others. It shows itself in example of meekness and forbearance. It is not overcome of evil, but overcomes evil with good. It loves its neighbor, when perhaps there is nothing lovely about him—loves him not for his sake, but for God's sake, and the sake of the truth. It seeks to be as kind to the failings of others as it knows God is kind to its own faults. It treats others as it desires God to treat it. The question to be decided is not how straight and uncompromising we are on "the doctrine," nor how much we shout, nor how easily we can weep, nor how ecstatically we can glow, but have we the love that suffers long?—Christian Standard.

Our Faith Bridges the River.

In a Scotch valley, beside a little brook, where there was no kindly soil, a Highlander once planted a tree. Of course it wilted and drooped. But suddenly, to the surprise of everyone, it took a new start in life and bore rich fruit. What was the source of its new life? That was the query put by all who knew it. An examination revealed its secret. With a marvellous vegetable instinct it sent out a shoot which ran along and over a narrow sheep bridge, and rooted itself in the rich loam on the other side of the brook. From this rich loam it drew its new life. Even so our faith in Jesus Christ bridges the River of Death that flows between earth and heaven, and the souls of men who see this and know this send out the shoot of faith, and this shoot, running over the bridge between earth and heaven, roots itself in the spiritual realities beyond, and draws spiritual life from the very fullness of God. "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who, according to His abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a living hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."—David Gregg, D. D.

Willing Submission to God.

It is idle to talk of suffering as if it were the privilege of a few select lives only. Suffering and its culture, like joy and its culture, are within the lot of every man. He lives unworthily whose nature never clashes against the lower natures, and suffers pain. But mere pain is not education; does not bring growth. It is the suffering of willing submission to God and of self-sacrificing love for fellow men that softens and spiritualizes and blesses us. In all such suffering let us rejoice. We shall not need to seek: opportunities enough for it will meet us everywhere. And may God help us everywhere to find the treasures they contain!

"We take with solemn thankfulness
Our burden up, nor ask it less,
And count it joy that even we
May suffer, serve, or wait for Thee,
Whose will is done."
—Phillips Brooks.

Dying Thou Conquered Death.

Lamb of God, who takest away the sin of the world, our hearts are bowed in reverence and humility before the wonder of thy cross. Thou hast borne our grief and carried our sorrows. With thy stripes we are healed, and the Lord hath laid on thee the iniquity of us all. By thy temptation and obedience, the betrayal and forsaking, the scourge and piercing thorns, the cruel wounding of the nails, the taunts and burning thirst, the lingering anguish of the cross which thou hast so willingly endured for our salvation, grant us thy peace. Through dying thou hast conquered death, and risen again that we may share thy life forevermore. Let thy glory shine amid the trials of the earth. Quicken our faith and make our love effective for service. Draw us to thyself in true repentance and unfeigned humility, and may our lives bear witness to thy love through all our years. Amen.

Drinking as Socrates Drank.

If life has not gone well with us, if fortune has left us disconsolate, if love has grown cold and we sit alone by the embers; if life has become to us a valley of desolation through which weary limbs must drag an unwilling body till the end shall come, let us not radiate such an atmosphere to those around us; let us not take strangers through the catacombs of our life and show the bones of our dead past; let us not pass our cup of sorrow to others, but if we must drink it, let us take it as Socrates did his poison hemlock—gradually, heroically, and uncomplainingly.—From "Kingship of Self Control."

Regard suffering as a vocation, having its special duties and offering its special grace. Say secretly of it, "Here for the present lies thy allotted task, O my soul; consider how much may be made of this period; how largely it may be improved to God's service and thy salvation. It is the post to which thou art appointed; seek to occupy it bravely; and more good shall accrue to thee from it than what thou didst propose to thyself as the line of service of thine own choosing."
—E. M. Goulburn.

As long as it is grievous to thee to suffer, and thou desirest to escape, so long shalt thou be ill at ease, and the desire of escaping tribulation shall follow thee everywhere. —Thomas a Kempis.

When once an invalid has brought to say, "It does not much matter; as soon I rest but die," sickness and death itself lose their terror. —Dr. M. Cradd.

NEW TRUSTEES APPOINTED.

Gov. Johnston Fills Several Vacancies. Important Military Orders.

Governor Johnston has appointed Colonel R. F. Ligon as a member of the board of trustees of the Polytechnic institute at Auburn to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Colonel Gilchrist. The term expires January 4, 1903.

The governor also appointed Rev. K. C. Jeter, of Opelika, rector of the Episcopal church there, as trustee of the university for the Third district and for the term ending March 1, 1906. Mr. Jeter fills the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of Colonel W. J. Samford.

The governor also appointed Col. Henry B. Foster, of Tuscaloosa, as trustee of the university for the sixth district for the term ending March 1, 1906. He succeeds Dr. John Little, whose term expired March 1. In the Eighth district Thomas C. McClellan, of Athens, was appointed trustee of the university for the term ending March 1, 1906. He succeeds Judge Richardson, whose term expired March 1 last.

Order to Adjutant General.

General order No. 76 has been received by the adjutant general. These orders embrace the provisions of the recent military bill passed by congress. The item which is of vital interest to the citizen soldiery of Alabama, reads as follows:

"On the application of the governor of any state or territory the secretary of war is authorized to replace the quartermaster supplies, which the volunteers from said state or territory carried into the service of the United States army during the recent war with Spain, and which have been retained by the United States exclusive of such supplies as have been allowed for in the office of the war department, and such award accepted by the state."

This means that the large claim by Alabama for quartermaster's supplies will be allowed. It also means that every military company in the state will be fully and amply equipped with quartermaster stores. It will not, however, be available until after June 30.

Pig Iron Shipments.

The report of the southern iron committee for May shows the following shipments for the month.

From the Birmingham district, 79,483 tons of pig iron and 1,350 tons of cast iron pipe.

From Alabama and Tenneasee, 130,000 tons of pig iron and cast iron pipe.

For export from the Birmingham district 17,183 tons of pig iron.

For export from Alabama and Tennessee, 18,260 tons of pig iron.

The Birmingham district embraces all the furnaces and pipe works at Birmingham, North Biamingham, Ensley, Bessemer, Oxmoor, Woodward, East Birmingham, Trussville and Thomas.

First Speech of the Campaign.

The democratic campaign in this state will open by the latter part of this month. The first speech will be delivered by Colonel Samford, nominee for governor, at Calera, on the 29th, and he will at that time outline the issues of the campaign and the policies of the democratic party.

Ex-Governor Oates Was Justified.

The coroner's jury investigating into the death of Aaron Parker, who was killed by ex-Gov. Oates Saturday night, returned a verdict of justifiable homicide, as it was proved that General Oats was compelled to shoot Parker to save his own life.

Patrick Henry is Victorious.

Incomplete returns from the Third Mississippi district held Monday indicate that Judge Patrick Henry, of Vicksburg, has swept the district from end to end. This election was to choose a successor to Hon. Thomas Catchings, who retires at the end of his present term.

Double Tragedy.

At Fort Worth Tex., John Hendricks stabbed his stepfather to death. As a result of this tragedy, Hendricks' mother died an hour later from fright.

Senny Jefferson, a negro 22 years of age, was lynched near Metcalf, Ga., a small village ten miles from Thomasville, by unknown parties Monday.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

Among the more important of the new industries reported by the Tradesman during the week ending June 9 are a belting manufactory and a broom factory in North Carolina; a canning factory in Georgia; coal mines in Alabama, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia; a coal briquette plant in Texas; cotton seed oil mills in Louisiana and North Carolina; cotton mills in Georgia, Louisiana and Virginia; flouring mills in North Carolina, Tennessee; a foundry in Tennessee, a furniture factory in Virginia; granite quarries in Texas; a handle and spoke factory in Tennessee; a hardware company in North Carolina; a knitting mill in Georgia; lead and zinc mines in Arkansas; limestone quarries in Alabama; lumber mills in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Texas and West Virginia; machine shops in Mississippi; a paper box factory in Virginia; rice mills and irrigation works in Louisiana and Texas; telephone exchanges in North Carolina and West Virginia; a $75,000 woodworking plant in Georgia; a woodworking machinery manufactory in Virginia.

BOTH PRINCIPALS KILLED.

Prominent Men Shoot Each Other to Death Near Nagodoches.

Dr. Taliaferro and Wiley Wilkins shot each other to death at Michelli, twelve miles south of Nagodoches, Tex., last week.

Taliaferro was the employed physician of the Michelli mills, and Wilkins a son of the superintendent of the same establishment. Taliaferro became angered because another physician was called to minister to the Wilkins family, and is alleged to have made remarks which caused the elder Wilkins to seek an apology. During a dispute which followed young Wilkins came upon the scene. Taliaferro opened fire, which was returned by Wiley Wilkins, and both were killed.

Fatal Fight at a Wake.

Rev. J. F. Humphreys, pastor of the colored Cumberland Presbyterian church, at Huntsville, Ala., and for many years principal of the colored city school, dropped dead. Heart disease was the cause of death.

During the progress of a wake over the pastor's remains in the church, Dicey Nobles, a negro woman, and John Lacey, engaged in a quarrel, and Lacey knocked the woman in the head and cut her several times with a knife. He wounds are considered fatal. The wake was broken up and in the excitement Lacey escaped.

Decorated With Southern Flowers.

Palmetto wreaths from South Carolina, magnolias from Tennessee, daisies and roses from Kentucky and corn flowers from North Carolina were strewn on the graves of the confederate soldiers who sleep in the Oldburg ground at Camp Chase, Columbue, O., last Saturday. Sectionalism was forgotten in the occasion, members of the G. A. R. taking conspicuous part, and floral contributions were as numerous from federals as confederates.

National Negro Business League.

After consulting with substantial colored men in all parts of the country, Booker T. Washington, of Tuskegee, Ala., has decided to assist in the organization of a national negro business league. The object of this organization is to encourage colored people through the central organization and local organizations to enter all avenues of business. The first meeting will be held in Boston August 23 and 24.

The offer of $1,667,500,000 in subscriptions to the British war loan is the most impressive display of "sinews of war" that the world has ever seen. That stupendous sum is larger than the entire public debt of the United States, and more than half the public debt of the United Kingdom.

Cape Nome is no doubt wonderfully rich, and the exodus from Dawson to the new field is on a wholesale scale, but it must not be presumed that Dawson is of the things that were. When claims near that great camp yield gold at the rate of $36,000 per day, it is safe to say that at least a few Yankees will linger on the Canadian side.

That fine old Spanish relic, the Duke of Veragua, has been insulted in Paris by a vulgar merchant who seized his baggage for debt. Thus again the impecunious old nobleman is reminded that the modern chivalry is a trashy shan, very much frayed at the edges.

INDIA'S GOLD FAMINE.

SIXTY MILLIONS OF PEOPLE CRYING FOR BREAD.

While Britain Spends Millions Subjugating Free and Independent People—The Infamy That This Republican Administration Is in League With.

The ministers of my state have been asked to preach a sermon and take up a collection on behalf of the people of India who are threatened with starvation. I have my own ideas about what kind of a sermon should be preached and where the collection ought to come from; if they are wrong they are not so because of the following facts:

The present famine is but a continuation of preceding ones, and my religious papers tell me that it is the worst of them all. Nearly 60,000,000 persons are affected, and no one seems to be able to tell how many of them will die. The government is able to care for but 5,000,000. In addition, the buffalo, cows and goats on which the people depend are dying. The greatest suffering is in the agricultural districts, where 80 per cent of the population lives. The horrors that exist are beyond description. Missionaries say that after everything else is gone the fathers and mothers sell their children to get a little grain for food. Boys don't sell well, and the traffic is mostly in girls, bought by Mohammedans for 30 to 60 cents apiece.

It does not cost very much to sustain life in India. Fifteen dollars will support a Hindu for a year. Five dollars used at the first of the year until the floods come in July count for the saving of one human life. One dollar will feed twenty persons for a day. One dollar will rescue a child from starvation and support it for a month. A hundred dollars will dig a well that will bring bountiful crops on several acres and secure many families from future famines. It would not take more than $130,000,000 at the very most to rescue India from starvation, restore agricultural activity and prevent recurrence of the famine in the future.

I believe that England can do nothing less than to give double this amount. I have the official statement of the British treasury which estimates that if the war in the Transvaal ends by the time the rains come in India in July when the famine pressure will be relieved, the war will have cost Great Britain $650,000,000. This is the skeleton cost and does not take into account any of the trimmings which will at any rate mount up to several millions more. Neither does it consider the private expenditures, and it is a feature of present conditions in India that while the British have previously raised large sums for the relief of famine sufferers, this year the war in South Africa has so diverted attention and money that the relief offered practically amounts to nothing at all. It is a fact that the relief of India is thrown upon the rest of the world, although England is the "governing power."

My collection will be a disappointment—not the first—because England can't and won't save starving India. Why? The answer is not hard. To take the gold and diamond mines in South Africa and subjugate the Boers—that is competition; to feed the Indian people and help them to get their farms in working order and enable them to live a happy, contented, prosperous life—that is co-operation, socialism. We live under a competitive system and we abhor socialism. The returns from the conquest of Africa will be gold and commercial success; the returns from the rescue of India would be a larger love of humanity and all that comes from the right administration of the stewardship that God has given us. England will get her money back from the war in South Africa. There would be no money profit in preventing starvation in India. This is commercialism, it is the system we are upholding, it is why England is spending five times as much in destructiveness and murder in Africa as she should spend in constructiveness and life-saving in India. —Rev. Cyrus Clone of Kansas.

Labor's Growing Might.

Labor has found a way to organize itself—banding itself together and building up vast unions, through which is to come the emancipation of the wage worker, his education in self-government, his preparation for the role that awaits him in the new era. More than a selfish struggle for rights is this labor movement—it is the unselfish struggle that finds in the wrongs of one member of the body the call for help from all other members. Far beyond the ranks of the wage workers the new hunger for justice in civilization is stirring in the souls of men; and the manifestation thereof is in the movement vaguely known as socialism. About the economic adjustments of the new order, as the socialists conceive them, we may differ, believing such an order impracticable or dangerous, if we so judge. Of the ethical ideal back of socialism there can be but one opinion. It is a movement toward the dispossession of selfishness and the mastery of human relationship by justice and by love.

Rich men combine and raise the prices of goods they control and refuse to permit the people to use them unless they pay the extortion. They are upheld in this by the courts and the police force; though their action is against public interest; though they are public enemies, the public protects them and their property. When laboring men combine and demand their product, labor, shall not be used except on payment of certain condition, the courts and police force are called on to suppress them and imprison them. The working people are made outlaws for demanding what they do not need. But laboring men are the majority; they have ten votes to capital's one; they fill the police force and army; they elect the judges and law makers. What does prosperity avail him unless he can have his wages raised that he may better his condition generally?

Monopoly.

A monopoly in private hands is indefensible. That combination and concentration are natural cannot be disputed. Men first worked independently for their own individual benefit. Next they formed partnerships. Next they combined into one corporation or trust, and this trust eventually became a monopoly. First a man kept a little grocery store and twenty other men kept twenty other little stores. It was natural that these twenty men should unite their stores under one roof, into what is called a department store, or that perhaps one man originates and starts a hundred different stores under one roof, and perhaps another man starts another department store in the same community. Eventually these several department stores will unite into one. Then there will be a monopoly, and the thousands of little store keepers will have to desert their little stores. Just so will all of the big trusts eventually combine into one trust. Plainly we are now making rapid strides toward one universal trust in everything and it is beyond the shadow of a doubt that these vast combinations must be the property of the collectivity. Everything points toward monopoly, public monopoly, and there cannot be for any length of time a monopoly in private hands—Appeal to Reason.

Save the Nation.

Doubtless the wives and daughters of wealthy men know little and care less, about the means employed to acquire money and wealth. They little deem that the luxury and lideness which are theirs cost thousands of lives, and untold suffering, misery, insanity, suicide and numberless other evils. Let us learn from history how all this will culminate. A noted author says "Among the first signs of the decline of Rome was that her women, so famous for virtue, had become demoralized. The national fiber had relaxed. Simplicity of life and manners made way for luxury. For duty was substituted self-gratification. Voluptuous pleasure after pleasure had palled upon the jaded tastes, until at length honor and decency were obliterated, and nameless horrors were of daily and common occurrence. St. Paul gave forcible evidence of contemporary manners when he represented his fellow-citizens as being 'given over to uncleanliness.' If history has any value it is by placing before us the wisdom and errors of the past, that we may adopt the one and reject the other."

The people are allowed to elect only the members of the lower house of the legislature and one commissioner to the United States.

In fact, President McKinley has power to do everything in Puerto Rico that George III. tried to do to the American colonies.

The Smelter Combine.

A smelter combine embracing all the great smelters of the nation has been perfected, and now the miners will pay just what these philanthropists are pleased to charge them, or leave their ore on the dumps. The combine will have the power to make or unmake the value of any mine or group of them. If the government owned and operated the smelters the charges would have to be fair, else the congressmen would get a hemp reception on their return to their dear constituents. But as it now is, the congressmen or legislators can say to complaints that they have nothing to do with the charges, which they would be responsible for under government ownership. Still the miners believe in private ownership of the smelters, so let them sweat. The more blood they have to sweat the sooner will they become disgusted with the beauties of private ownership.

Dawning of the New Era.

A new political passion has seized man's mind. The ideals of democracy enkindle his enthusiasm. Liberty, Equality, Fraternity—these are the ideals that are fascinating the soul of the new-born sovereign people. Slavery has been abolished in its worst forms in our wonderful century, as to serfdom of Russia and the negro bondage of the United States. The worst political tyrannies of the world, handed down to us through successive generations, have been wiped out of our century, the closing years of the century seeing the end of the last of the great mediaeval despotisms—the colonial empire of Spain.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

The Coming of the Spring—The Spiritual Straight-Edge—Our Faith Bridges the River—Willing Submission to God—Dying Thou Conquered Death.

She has come who tarried long,
Gentle rains have hastened her;
In the woods a welcome song,
On the grass an eager stir,
And she whispers, "I am here,
Sweetest days of all the year."

Green the grass about her feet,
Blue the skies above her head,
Myriad flowers with perfume sweet
Crowd the path that she must tread;
All the world, for love of Spring,
Gives its best of everything.

But where'er the sick and sad
In dark places watch and wait,
Hearts are suddenly made glad
That were lone and desolate.
For the spring calls Hope to wake,
And be strong for love's dear sake.

Ah! what song of trust have we
Who through all the winter drear
Saw the thick mists on the sea
And all fair things disappear?
Grown impatient of delay,
Feared that pain alone would stay?

Faint hearts, waste not in regret
These new hours of sun and song;
God will let us all forget
Winter woes that lingered long;
Spring shall banish fear and doubt,
Let the song of praise ring out!
—Marianne Farningham, in Christian World.

The Spiritual Straight-Edge.

One of the best tests of the experience of perfect love is, not our emotions, but our fulfillment of the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians. This chapter is the straight-edge, which laid along-side of our experience, will surely show us whether we have it or not. If we fulfill this measure, we need not look at the experience of others to see whether ours is like theirs or not, nor need we doubt as to its possession. St. Paul says of love, "It suffereth long." It is opposed to haste and passionate expression of our thoughts and feelings concerning others. It suffers their treatment without irritability or vindictiveness. It is not in haste to trace out the motives of others. It shows itself in example of meekness and forbearance. It is not overcome of evil, but overcomes evil with good. It loves its neighbor, when perhaps there is nothing lovely about him—loves him not for his sake, but for God's sake, and the sake of the truth. It seeks to be as kind to the failings of others as it knows God is kind to its own faults. It treats others as it desires God to treat it. The question to be decided is not how straight and uncompromising we are on "the doctrine," nor how much we shout, nor how easily we can weep, nor how ecstatically we can glow, but have we the love that suffers long?—Christian Standard.

Our Faith Bridges the River.

In a Scotch valley, beside a little brook, where there was no kindly soil, a Highlander once planted a tree. Of course it wilted and drooped. But suddenly, to the surprise of everyone, it took a new start in life and bore rich fruit. What was the source of its new life? That was the query put by all who knew it. An examination revealed its secret. With a marvellous vegetable instinct it sent out a shoot which ran along and over a narrow sheep bridge, and rooted itself in the rich loam on the other side of the brook. From this rich loam it drew its new life. Even so our faith in Jesus Christ bridges the River of Death that flows between earth and heaven, and the souls of men who see this and know this send out the shoot of faith, and this shoot, running over the bridge between earth and heaven, roots itself in the spiritual realities beyond, and draws spiritual life from the very fullness of God. "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who, according to His abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a living hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead."—David Gregg, D. D.

Willing Submission to God.

It is idle to talk of suffering as if it were the privilege of a few select lives only. Suffering and its culture, like joy and its culture, are within the lot of every man. He lives unworthily whose nature never clashes against the lower natures, and suffers pain. But mere pain is not education; does not bring growth. It is the suffering of willing submission to God and of self-sacrificing love for fellow men that softens and spiritualizes and blesses us. In all such suffering, let us rejoice. We shall not need to seek opportunities enough for it will meet us everywhere. And may God help us everywhere to find the treasures they contain!

"We take with solemn thankfulness
Our burden up, nor ask it less,
And count it joy that even we
May suffer, serve, or wait for Thee,
Whose will is done."
—Phillips Brooks.

Dying Thou Conquered Death.

Lamb of God, who takest away the sin of the world, our hearts are bowed in reverence and humility before the wonder of thy cross. Thou hast borne our grief and carried our sorrows. With thy stripes we are healed, and the Lord hath laid on thee the iniquity of us all. By thy temptation and obedience, the betrayal and forsaking, the scourge and piercing thorns, the cruel wounding of the nails, the taunts and burning thirst, the lingering anguish of the cross which thou hast so willingly endured for our salvation, grant us thy peace. Through dying thou hast conquered death, and risen again that we may share thy life forevermore. Let thy glory shine amid the trials of the earth. Quicken our faith and make our love effective for service. Draw us to thyself in true repentance and unfeigned humility, and may our lives bear witness to thy love through all our years. Amen.

Drinking as Socrates Drank.

If life has not gone well with us, if fortune has left us disconsolate, if love has grown cold and we sit alone by the embers; if life has become to us a valley of desolation through which weary limbs must drag an unwilling body till the end shall come, let us not radiate such an atmosphere to those around us; let us not take strangers through the catacombs of our life and allow the bones of our dead past; let us not pass our cup of sorrow to others, but if we must drink it, let us take it as Socrates did his poison hemlock—gradually, heroically, and uncomplainingly.—From "Kingship of Self Control."

Regard suffering as a vocation, having its special duties and offering its special grace. Say secretly of it, "Here for the present lies thy allotted task, O my soul; consider how much may be made of this period; how largely it may be improved to God's service and thy salvation. It is the post to which thou art appointed; seek to occupy it bravely, and more good shall accrue to thee from it than what thou didst propose to thyself as the line of service of thine own choosing."
—E. M. Goulburn.

As long as it is grievous to thee to suffer, and thou desirest to escape, so long shalt thou be ill at ease, and the desire of escaping tribulation shall follow thee everywhere. —Thomas a Kempis.

When once an invalid has strength to say, "It does not much matter if I rest but day," sickness and death have lost their terrors.—Dr. H. Cecil.

HON. John W. Abercrombie will deliver an educational address at Jemison, the 23d of this month at 2 p.m. Other speakers will be present and a large audience is expected.

WE have received from the commissioner of Agriculture a copy of the plan of organization of the "cotton Growers' Protective Association," and believe the organization would be of great benefit to the entire South.

CHILTON is to the fore again. This time it is Tax-collector T. J. Hubbard deserves the credit. He went to the capitol last Saturday and settled up his accounts with the State Auditor, being the first tax collector in the State to do so. Well done, Brother Hubbard!

THE statistician of the Department of Agriculture at Washinton estimates that 25,558,000 acres have been planted in cotton this year, being an increase of 2,036,000 acres, or 8.7 per cent over the productive area of last year. He estimates the increase in Alabama at 7 per cent. From all that we can gather there has been little or no increase in Chilton county.

THE Democratic Executive Committee of the Fourth Congressional District ordered a primary election in the district for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress, and now the Democratic State committee steps in and orders the district to hold a convention. This is a high-handed proceeding on their part and should not be submitted to. The District Committee is better acquainted with the desires of the district than is the State committee.

THE Nineteenth Annual Meet of the Alabama Educational Association will be held in Birmingham June 26, 27 and 28. The County Superintendents' Association meets at the same time and in conjunction with the teachers association. Both programs are strong and the meetings, no doubt, will be largely attended by the progressive teachers and superintendents from every section of the State. The railroads will give the usual one fare for the round trip.

at the residence of the bride's parents, on June 7, 1900, Mr. H. B. Gleen and Miss Mary Elizabeth Calloway, Rev. J. H. Thomas performing the ceremony. We wish the happy young couple a long and happy life together.

Mr. J. P. Merchant and Miss M. J. Ingram were happily united at the home of Mr. C. D. Ingram on the 7th inst., Rev. F. N. Lawrence officiating. Our best wishes go with the happy young couple, and may they have many years of conjugal felicity.

be put out except for the purpose of influencing some people to vote against me. I am satisfied that stock law would not be for the best interest of a majority of the people of the county, and I would not favor it for that reason. I am not conscious of ever having advocated anything that would be injurious to a majority of the people, and I hope that the people will elect me this time, and if they do I will do my duty for the next four years.

Thanking the people for their kind support in the past, and hoping to receive their votes,

I am yours truly,
T. J. HUBBARD.

P.S. I have the honor of being the first Tax Collector to settle with the State Treasurer this year.

Starvation never yet cured dyspepsia. Persons with indigestion are already half starved. They need plenty of wholesome food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat so the body can be nourished while the worn out organs are being reconstructed. It is the only preparation known that will instantly relieve and completely cure all stomach troubles. Try it if you are suffering from indigestion. It will certainly do you good. Campbelle Drug Co.

Determining Water.

The work of stream measurements by the United States Geological Survey is an important element in building up the manufacturing industries of the South, more especially since it has been found practicable by electrical transmission to concentrate the power furnished by small streams, at a central point suitable for a factory site. Capitol, however, is slow to venture until it knows from indisputable authority what the capacities of streams are, and that they are not liable to run dry or low at any critical time when power may be most needed. In this way the stream measurements of the Government, covering a period of years, are extremely valuable, furnishing an accurate basis upon which to estimate power. An appropriation of $20,000 was secured early in the session for the carrying on of this work up to July 1st, and just prior to the adjournment of Congress an additional appropriation of $100,000 was obtained, very largely through the vigorous efforts and co-operation of Southern Representatives and Senators.

You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active energetic man with a torpid liver and you may know that his liver is torpid when he does not relish his food, or feels dull and languid after eating, often has headache and sometimes dizziness. A few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will restore his liver to its normal functions, renew his vitality, improve his digestion and make him feel like a new man. Price 25 cents. Samples free at Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

BETTER SCHOOLS.

To the people interested in better schools.

The people over the country are respectfully requested to meet at their neighborhood school houses on Saturday night, June 23d, for the purpose of discussing the special school tax for the county, which was provided by the last legislature. The township trustees will conduct the meetings in their respective neighborhoods. The laws provides for a special school tax of the county for not less than 5 cents nor over 25 cents on the $100. A free discussion is expected of the people, that their sentiments may be known and the trustee or chairman of each meeting will make reports as to the number in their meeting for or against the proposed tax. All reports will be made to the County Superintendent. The part taken in these meetings will go a long way towards determining the disposal of the question by the Commissioners' Court.

Let all the people turn out.
Respectfully,
COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Mr. W. S. Whedon, Cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ, that will be of value to other mechanics. He says: "I had a carpenter working for me who was obliged to stop work for several days on account of being troubled with diarrhoea. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Mrs. Ed Ausburn and Miss Gertrude are visiting relatives in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs Walker gave the young people a peanut parching last Friday evening which was enjoyed very much.

Mr. Pat Cooper, of Jacksons, Ala., visited friends and relatives here this week.

Mrs Lee Parnell has been visiting relatives in Summerfield for some time. Miss Annie Weaver, of Talladega, visited friends here last week.

Mr. Oce Connell paid friends a visit at Sixmile recently.

Mr. Nelson and Miss Sammie went to Maplesville last Friday.

Miss Lena Parnell, of Riderville, was a pleasant visitor here recently.

Miss Ethel Macar has returned home from a pleasant visit in Selma.

Miss Mattie May DuBose, of Maplesville, paid Miss Ethel Macar a pleasant visit Sunday. STAN.

Maplesville.

We were blessed with another shower last week which was not very much needed in our settlement, but we will not grumble. Farmers are getting along nicely with their crops, some corn laid by.

Mr. Mack Seals has moved his family back to our little town from Riderville on account of sickness.

Little Ola May Seals has been quite sick with fever but we are glad to see her up again.

There is some sickness around our town we are sorry to say, but I hope nothing serious.

Miss Thirley Seals and Miss Mody and Lottie Adams have gone to Pletcher to-day, there is to be a picnic there.

Mr. B. H. Jones was at Maples- Saturday on business.

Mr. B. M. Seals went to Houstons mill Monday on business.

Fruit plenty of it; berries are getting ripe and the roads are black with negroes they clean them up where they go.

Mrs. Martha Seals has the finest garden on the road.

We understand Mr. Latham leaves for Centreville Monday; we wish him much success in his move.

A Good Cough Medicine.

It speaks well for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy when druggists use it in their own families in preference to any other. "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past five years with complete satisfaction to myself and customers," says Druggist J. Goldsmith, Van Etten, N. Y. "I have always used it in my own family both for ordinary coughs and colds and for the cough following la grippe, and find it very efficacious." For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Shoultz

Lots of sickness around here. We had a nice shower to-day.

Mr. Maddox, of Lawley, was in our town Saturday; in fact, our town was crowded Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Minge is visiting her sick sister, Mrs. Matilda Rolley this week.

We learn that Mr. J. E. Bearden of Long Branch will bid a field of corn farewell with the plow this week.

Miss May Latham was a visitor to our town Wednesday.

We learn that Charles Walker killed the boss snake last week near the 31 mile post on the Selma road.

Mr. John McAfee and Mr. Ben Lawley are making it hot for snakes aronnd here.

We regret to say that a man in our neighborhood broke the Sabbath on last Sunday by setting out potato plants; we hope we will not have to report such as this any more.

Mr. J. P. Marchant and Mr. C. L. Ingram are running a protracted huckelberry gathering this week.

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It is the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists. Guaranteed.

Women who work.

The average feminine constitution cannot, unaided, withstand the strain to which steady, trying work subjects it. The organs of womanhood are so delicate that the result of constant standing, lifting, stooping or straining is irregular or painful menstruation, leucorrhea or falling of the womb. Wine of Cardui is the right remedy for female weakness. It will insure painless and regular operation of the menstrual function. It will drive out every trace of leucorrhoea, and will so strengthen the ligaments that falling of the womb will be an impossibility. You can get a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui at any drug store, and use it in the privacy of your home.

Mrs. Lucy Smith, Townsend, Ga: "I have been in bad health with falling of the womb, weak back, nervousness and heart palpitation. At monthly periods I would be in bed suffering great pain. Lately I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught and they have brought me wonderful relief. I have no pain and do not stop work at the monthly periods."

Lillie Smitherman, Complainant, vs. Allen Smitherman, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register, by the affidavit of A. C. Smith, Solicitor for Complainant, that the Defendant, Allen Smitherman, is a non-resident of the State of Alabama, and his residence and post office address is unknown to affiant, and further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is over the age of twenty-one years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Banner, a newspaper published in Chilton county, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring him, the said Allen Smitherman, to answer or demur to the same, within thirty days after the 30th day of June, 1900, and failing so to do a decree pro confesso will be taken against him in said cause.

Done at office, in Clanton, Alabama, this 28 day of May, 1900.

CAMPAIGNING IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Ambuscades Have Cost Americans More Relatively Than Regular Warfare.

John T. McCutcheon, the Manila correspondent of the Chicago Record, writes as follows in regard to the progress of the war in the Philippines:

(Troopers deploying in order to find some insurgent sharpshooters concealed in the grass along the road from Indan to Naic.)

The organized insurrection is practically at an end, and, therefore, the troops have to deal only with guerilla bands and outlaws. Yet in the last forty days the American forces here have lost more men, more arms and more supplies in the so-called pacified districts than during any previous period of like length since the insurrection began.

If this is what guerilla warfare means, then we will need more troops some day, for the new method of fighting is proving more effective than any style that the insurgents have employed previously.

Almost every day brings a report of some fresh ambuscade wherein small forces of our troops are attacked by a hundred or more Filipinos. Usually one or more of our men are killed, and the rest are driven away by sheer force of overwhelming numbers. Then follows a punitive expedition, but these sorties seldom find a trace of the enemy.

Invariably the insurgents know the exact strength of the force they are ambushing, for they usually lie in wait for small groups of ten or fifteen men, which they permit to approach so close that their first volley kills or wounds most of them, and leaves the rest utterly demoralized.

Insurgents who live within our lines, who are amigos in the daytime and enemies at night, have been particularly pernicious. It is now unsafe, more than ever before, to move in small numbers, even in the districts which are presumably pacified by the presence of strong garrisons.

The rank and file of the people in the towns are in full sympathy with these marauding raids, for they never render help by word or deed which will aid our troops in locating and whipping the guerilla bands, although it is certain that they are always aware of the plans and prospective movements of these bands.

Even to-day there is not a native in Manila, friendly though he may profess himself to be, who will breathe a word as to Aguinaldo's whereabouts, yet there are doubtless thousands who know exactly where he is, and many who doubtless are in constant communication with him.

The list of our losses by bolo men and ambushes in the occupied districts since January 1 is rather startling.

A list which I have selected from the files of a daily paper, and doubtless far from complete, shows that about forty men have been captured by the insurgents in the last forty days, as many more have been killed and wounded, almost a hundred rifles and a great deal of ammunition has been lost and a big quantity of rations has fallen into the enemy's hands.

Most of these depredations have occurred in the territory which we now are supposed to hold, and all the engagements would come under the head of ambushes and assassinations.

There is certainly a new condition of warfare confronting the troops. The time is evidently gone for big, imposing columns to march sedately through the country, columns so big that the insurgents deem it imprudent to offer opposition. When the column has passed, they come out of the woods and fall upon the little bands of stragglers and outposts and signal corps men.

From now on the guerilla methods must be met by smaller and more mobile forces. General Lawton, with his great experience in this method of waging war, would have been quick to adjust himself to the new conditions. General Bell is pre-eminently qualified for the kind of work that will now have to be done, while General Funston, whose Cuban experience has fitted him well to meet the new conditions, will undoubtedly adjust his tactics to meet those of the insurgents.

OUR MACABEBE SCOUTS ENTERING SAN PEDRO.

Down in Negros General Smith has for some months been engaged in the guerilla kind of fighting, and he has been able to crush it out. When a depredation was committed near or in a town on the island he promptly imposed a heavy fine on the place. After doing this several times the citizens resolved themselves into a sort of vigilance committee as a matter of financial preservation, and the depredations ceased with startling suddenness.

The Tagalos, however, are more tenacious and vindictive in their fighting than the Visayans of Negros, and it will require the most stringent measures and vigorous pursuit to put them down. With Aguinaldo loose in the islands the work will be harder and more dangerous and much more lasting.

A column of cavalry moving through the Luzon country is an extremely picturesque sight. Five or six hundred big American horses strung out in columns of twos make a very long and imposing line, and when the troopers wear their rough-service uniforms, as they do out here, the effect is such as would be produced by a regiment of mounted cowboys.

Just behind the headquarters staff come the squadron officers—the major and his staff. Behind them ride the troop commanders, and then the first troop. Each cavalry regiment consists of twelve troops of 100 men each, the regiment being divided equally into three squadrons under the command of majors.

Every trooper carries his entire outfit on his horse's back. The cavalryman's full kit consists of a bridle, a halter, a saddle, saddlebags, blanket roll, poncho, carbine, carbine boot, lariat, picket pin, nosebag, curry comb and brush, saber, two horseshoes (fitted to his horse), some horseshoe nails, 140 rounds of carbine ammunition, a Colt revolver and twenty-five rounds of pistol ammunition and a canteen. In addition to these things he has his saddlebag more or less filled with rations. When a cavalryman is mounted, with jingling spurs and blue flannel shirt, thrown open at the neck, with his felt campaign hat tipped rakishly over one eye, girt up with all his paraphernalia for the fray, he makes a very interesting total and is likely to inspire respect in those who see him. Several hundred of him, mounted on big sixteen-hand American horses, distinctively multiply the impressiveness of the picture.

LEARNING TO RIDE HORSEBACK ON BOARD SHIP.

A Genuine "Horse Marine."

When war breaks out, bringing with it a hurry call for cavalrymen and mounted infantry, the efforts of recruits to master horsemanship in so short a time are ludicrous. To avert this a dummy horse has been invented on which unaccustomed soldiers may practice mounting, dismounting and other equestrian feats which require long practice. Such dummies are carried on transports and the recruits go through daily drill with them, thus learning, by the time they reach their destination, the rudiments of horsemanship and rendering their subsequent lessons on real horses less awkward and slow. The "silent steeds" are of the average height of the army troop horse, and the saddle and other accoutrements are of the regulation cavalry type.

CURIOUS FACTS.

At the battle of Hastings (A. D. 1066), the weapons being swords and battle axes, 500 fell fatally wounded out of every 1000 soldiers.

The difference between the tallest and shortest races in the world is 1 foot 4½ inches, and the average height is 5 feet 5½ inches.

On November 8, 1890, Sydney, in the colony of New South Wales, was for a time overwhelmed with red dust, and presently a light shower of red rain fell. Of course the Government astronomer was immediately interviewed for publication. "In the early days of Rome," he said, "this red rain was regarded as a terrible thing. I find that there are only sixty-nine cases of red rain recorded. The first historic instance occurred fourteen years after the foundation of Rome, in 738 B. C."

The autopsy held by Coroner's Physician Morton on the body of James H. Coleman in Philadelphia, revealed a most peculiar anatomical construction, so far as the internal organs are concerned, for they are located on the opposite side from where they are situated in other human beings. Dr. Morton said that it was a most remarkable case. Coleman's heart is on the right side, his liver is on the left, his spleen is on the right, and that part of his stomach that should be on the left side is on the right. The organs thus situated on the reverse side of where they should be were of the normal size, the physician said, except that the liver was somewhat large. He was thirty-six years old, of medium height, married, and the father of a family.

It may be difficult to believe in the existence of a lake of sulphuric acid, but there is such a lake in the centre of Sulphur Island, off New Zealand. It is fifty acres in extent, about twelve feet in depth and fifteen feet above the level of the sea. The most remarkable characteristic of this lake, however, is that the water contains vast quantities of hydrochloric and sulphuric acids, hissing and bubbling at a temperature of 110 degrees Fahrenheit. The dark green colored water looks particularly uninviting. Dense clouds of sulphuric fumes constantly roll off this boiling caldron, and care has to be exercised in approaching this lake to avoid the risk of suffocation.

A rare nervous disease is being investigated by the French Academy of Medicine, to which the present case has been reported by Dr. Marinesco, of Bucharest. The patient, a young Roumanian, is given to what is known among savants as "mirror-writing." That is, the letters which he naturally forms with his pen are all written backward, so that they appear in their proper arrangement only when reflected in a mirror. The hands of the patient when unoccupied are affected with a nervous trembling which generally ceases when they are used to a definite purpose. The writing is perfectly accurate, and it appears impossible for the sufferer to do any other kind. Although cases of partial mirror-writing have been observed before, the present is said to be by far the most perfect.

Shooting Emus.

The Australian emu is described as a yellowish brown bird, seven feet in height, with wings so rudimentary that it makes no use of them for flight. It is so swift of foot, however, that only the very fleetest horse can overtake it. Like the ostrich, the emu feeds upon whatever comes under its beak. Wood, pebbles, scraps of iron, or anything else that it can swallow, will answer its purpose, although it shows a marked preference for bread and cooked meat. A French explorer describes his experience in shooting one of these birds. He was accompanied by a white companion, and by a native who acted as guide.

"I am going to bring them up," said our savage companion. "You will have to shoot while they are on the run, but take your time and aim well. They won't get off this time."

So saying he began to whistle as if he were calling a dog.

The emus lifted their heads, listened for an instant, then started to run. It is strange that this was not to get away, but rather to circle about us without stopping, all the time narrowing the circle so as gradually to approach us.

When they were not more than forty yards distant, still running with incredible swiftness, we brought them into line and fired. One fell with a bullet in his heart. The others fled, all the time in single file, and presently they disappeared.

In reply to a question, our guide told us that the emus always acted in this way whenever they heard a whistling, and that one can call them by this means from far away.

"I think," he added, "it is because they believe their little ones are calling them."

As the little emus do not whistle, this explanation does not seem to me conclusive. But who will suggest a better one?

Endurance of Japanese Miners.

Four miners were entombed for twelve days in the Matsuyasu colliery lately. They did without food all the time, and for most of the time without light, and were none the worse when dug out. One of the men said that for some time after the oil was exhausted they felt a bit low spirited, but that in a few days they became accustomed to the darkness and were able to get along pretty well. The incident exhibits in a striking manner the powers of endurance possessed by the little Jap.—Tokyo Correspondence in Chicago Record.

I find also in this roll the heroes of Christian charity. We all admire the George Peabodys and the James Lenoxes of the earth, who give tens and hundreds of thousands of dollars to good objects. But I am speaking now of those who, out of their pinched poverty, help others—of such men as those Christian missionaries at the west, who proclaim Christ to the people, one of them, writing to the secretary in New York, saying: "I thank you for that $25. Until yesterday we have had no meat in our house for three months. We have suffered terribly. My children have no shoes this winter." And of those people who have only a half loaf of bread, but give a piece of it to others who are hungrier, and of those who have only a scuttle of coal, but help others to fuel, and of those who have only a dollar in their pocket and give twenty-five cents to somebody else, and of that father who wears a shabby coat and of that mother who wears a faded dress, that their children may be well appareled. You call them paupers or ragamuffins or emigrants. I call them heroes and heroines. You and I may not know where they live or what their name is. God knows, and they have more angels hovering over them than you and I have, and they will have a higher seat in heaven. They may have only a cup of cold water to give a poor traveler or may have only picked a splinter from the nail of a child's finger or have put only two mites into the treasury, but the Lord knows them. Considering what they had, they did more than we have ever done, and their faded dress will become a white robe, and the small room will be an external mansion and the old hat will be exchanged for a coronet of victory and all the applause of earth and the shouting of heaven will be drowned out when God rises up to give His reward to those humble workers in His kingdom and to say to them, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

You have all seen or heard of the ruins of Melrose Abbey. I suppose in some respects they are the most exquisite ruins on earth, and yet, looking at it, I was not so impressed—you may set it down to bad taste, but I was not so deeply stirred as I was at a tombstone at the foot of that abbey, the tombstone placed by Walter Scott over the grave of an old man who had served him a good many years in his house, the inscription most significant, and I defy any man to stand there and read it without tears coming into his eyes—the epitaph, "Well done, good and faithful servant." Oh, when our work is over, will it be found, because of anything we have done for God or the church or suffering humanity, that such an inscription is appropriate for us? God grant it!

Who are those who were bravest and deserved the greatest monument—Lord Claverhouse and his burly soldiers or John Brown, the Edinburgh carrier, and his wife? Mr. Atkins, the persecuted minister of Jesus Christ in Scotland, was secreted by John Brown and his wife, and Claverhouse rode up one day with his armed men and shouted in front of the house. John Brown's little girl came out. He said to her, "Well, miss, is Mr Atkins here?" She made no answer, for she could not betray the minister of the gospel. "Ha!" Claverhouse said, "Then you are a chip of the old block, are you? I have something in my pocket for you. It is a nosegay. Some people call it a thumbscrew, but I call it a nosegay." And he got off his horse, and he put it on the little girl's hand and began to turn it until the bones cracked and she cried. He said: "Don't cry, don't cry. This isn't a thumbscrew; this is a nosegay." And they heard the child's cry, and the father and mother came out, and Claverhouse said: "It seems that you three have laid your holy heads together, determined to die like all the rest of your hypocritical, canting, sniveling crew. Rather than give up good Mr. Atkins, pious Mr. Atkins, you would die. I have a telescope with me that will improve your vision." And he pulled out a pistol. "Now," he said, "you old pragmatic, lest you should catch cold in this cold morning of Scotland, and for the honor and safety of the king, to say nothing of the glory of God and the good of our souls, I will proceed simply and in the neatest and most expeditious style to blow your brains out."

John Brown fell upon his knees and began to pray. "Ah!" said Claverhouse, "look out if you are going to pray. Steer clear of the king, the council and Richard Cameron." "O Lord," said John Brown, "since it seems to be Thy will that I should leave this world for a world where I can love Thee better and serve Thee more, I put this poor widow woman and these helpless, fatherless children into Thy hands. We have been together in peace a good while, but now we must look forth to a better meeting in heaven, and as for these poor creatures, blindfolded and infatuated, that stand before me, convert them before it be too late, and may they who have sat in judgment in this lonely place on this blessed morning upon me a poor, defenseless fellow creature, may they in the last judgment find that mercy which they have refused to me, Thy most unworthy but faithful servant. Amen."

He rose and said, "Isabel, the hour has come of which I spoke to you on the morning when I proposed hand and heart to you, and are you willing now, for the love of God to let me die?" She put her arms around him and said: "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away. Blessed be the name of the Lord." "Stop that sniveling," said Claverhouse. "I have had enough of it. Soldiers, do your work! Take aim! Fire!" And the head of John Brown was scattered on the ground. While the wife was gathering up in her apron the fragment of her husband's head—gathering them up for burial—Claverhouse looked into her face and said: "Now, my good woman, how do you feel now about your bonnie man?" "Oh," she said, "I always thought well of him. He has been very good to me. I had no reason for thinking anything but well of him, and I think better of him now." Oh, what a grand thing it will be in the last day to see God pick out His heroes and heroines! Who are those paupers of eternity trudging off from the gates of heaven? Who are they? The Lord Claverhouses and Herods and those who had scepters and crowns and thrones, but they lived for their own aggrandizement, and they broke the heart of nations. Heroes of earth, but paupers in eternity. I beat the drums of their eternal despair. Woe, woe, woe!

What harm can the world do you when the Lord Almighty with unsheathed sword fights for you? I preach this sermon for comfort. Go home to the place just where God has put you to play the hero or the heroines. Do not envy any man his money or his appearance or his social position. Do not envy any woman her wardrobe or her exquisite appearance. Be the hero or the heroine. If there be no flour in the house and you do not know where your children are to get bread, listen, and you will hear something tapping against the window pane. Go to the window, and you will find it is the beak of a raven, and open the window, and there will fly in the messenger that fed Elijah. Do you think that the God who grows the cotton of the south will let you freeze for lack of clothes? Do you think that the God who allowed His disciples on Sabbath morning to go into the grainfield and then take the grain and rub it in their hands and eat—do you think God will let you starve? Did you ever hear of the experience of that old man, "I have been young and now am old, yet I have never seen the righteous forsaken or his seed begging bread." Get up out of your discouragement, O troubled soul, O sewing woman, O man kicked and cuffed by unjust employers, O ye who are hard bested in the battle of life and know not which way to turn, O bereft one, O you sick one with complaints you have told to no one, come and get the comfort of this subject! Listen to our great Captain's cheer, "To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the fruit of the tree of life which is in the midst of the paradise of God."

A JAPANESE NOBLE.

Talks of the Amalgamation of Three Religions.

Tacoma (Wash.) Special New York Times: Some of the leaders of religious thought in Japan are endeavoring to choose between Buddhism, Shintoism and Christianity as the future religion of the empire. Others would amalgamate the best features of the several religions. One of these is Count Okuma, one of the heads of the Japanese government. In an interview reported in a Japanese newspaper he says: "The fundamental idea of Confucianism is benevolence, that of Buddhism is compassion or mercy and that of Christianity love. These feelings form the basis of all religion. The founders of the different religions knew their own people and their own part of the world only, and hence could not devise any system of teaching that should suit all countries alike, but they did an immense deal in the way of drawing attention to the importance of certain principles. For the multiplication of sects their disciples are responsible. Their interpretation of the meaning of the words said to be used by the founders differed widely, and each variation was perpetuated by special forms and ceremonies. What is most desirable now is to get rid of the superstructure and lay bare the foundation. Benevolence, compassion and love! Cannot Buddhists, Christians and Confucianists come together on these principles and work in harmony? This union may not be witnessed in my time, but it will come some day." Some of the Christian churches in Japan are taking steps to open a new divinity school to take the place of the Doshisha Divinity hall, which has been closed owing to a disagreement with the American Missionary board in New York, which supported it. Hitherto the American Board of Foreign Missions and the Japanese churches have been acting separately, but since the object is the same, efforts will be made to unite the two classes of workers.

Women Not Money Makers.

In Harper's Bazar, Hetty Green, the famous woman financier, tells why women are not money-makers. She says: "In the first place, woman is entirely too impulsive for business. She sails gayly into the world of commerce, believing in everything, and in herself most of all. A certain stock may be increased temporarily in value, owing to the enterprise of its owners, who are themselves advancing the market. The woman speculator, with her usual impetuosity, thinks: 'I must have some of that. If it is this high, I can sell it for more.' She does not stop to look over the market; she has not trained her judgment, but, with both hands outstretched, offering her little all, she plunges headlong into the grasp of cunning speculators. The next day—or the next hour, perhaps—the stock falls in value. She is just the prey the sharpers are looking for. More money is made in the end by an oversupply of caution than by indiscriminate recklessness. I am not advising timidity. Quite the contrary. Be sure that you are right first, then go ahead."

Women's Unequal Rights.

In thirty-seven of these United States a married mother has no legal right to her children. In sixteen states a wife has no legal right to her own earnings outside of the home. In eight states a woman has no right to her own property after marriage. In seven states there is no law compelling a man to support his own family.

There were a number of trees three feet in diameter on the island, and the land was under cultivation. The owner has been hunting diligently for his property, but has not been able to hear any tidings of it. It undoubtedly went down the river with a freshet and has either stranded or gone to pieces.

Must Furnish Clean Cars.

A railroad company which undertakes to carry cattle is bound to provide cars that are not infected with contagious cattle diseases, and if it furnishes cars in which cattle that had "Texas fever" have been hauled, without properly disinfecting them, it is liable for the value of any cattle which the shipper may lose by reason of that fact. The Supreme Court of Illinois so declared in the case of the Illinois Central Railroad company vs. Harris.

When I was a proctor at Cambridge a few years after my graduation, I learned that the students spoke of me habitually as 'Old Eliot.' A few nights ago, on the other hand, I met a group of students in the street, and when I had passed them I heard one say to the others: 'I wonder where Charlie has been so late.'"

FUN FOR THE BOYS.

Ushaks Failed to Respect the Gorgeous Dignity of Ghooli Chan.

The department of state is informed that the Persian government has decided to send another diplomatic representative to Washington. It has had no minister in this country since 1888, when Hodij Hossein Ghooli Khan fled from the city in indignation and dismay because of the treatment he received from the curious public. Mr. Ghooli Khan, says a Washington correspondent, was a proud and haughty person; he dressed in Persian costume, and whenever he appeared upon the street was attended by his dragoman or chasseur, Mirza Mahmoud, who wore an even more gorgeous costume, and walked in front of his master, carrying a naked cimeter, such as you see in the comic operas. The spectacle very naturally attracted public attention, and, much to his annoyance Ghooli Khan was usually followed by a large crowd wherever he went. Most of his retinue was composed of unruly and ragged negro urchins, who did not consider his feelings in making comments upon his appearance. The chasseur, who ostensibly came out for the protection of his gorgeous master, used to brandish his sword and make desperate charges into the ranks of his followers, but it only aggravated them, and the greater the demonstration the faster the crowd would grow. Prince Ghooli (for khan means prince) appealed to the department of state; the police were notified, and officers were sent to guard the legation, but that only attracted attention and made matters worse. Finally the poor man, driven to distraction by the attentions he received from the populace, returned to his own country, and the Persian legation has been vacant since. The Persian government now proposes to try it again, but if the new man makes as much of a parade as his predecessor, he is likely to suffer from the same annoyances.

Emperor Must Not Turn Corners.

The Chinese emperor must never turn a corner when out for a drive. Could Not Talk.

Mrs. Smith Wooldridge, of this place, who was so afflicted with her throat for over two years that she could not speak above a whisper, after she used the first bottle of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey, could talk as well as ever, and the ease is such a wonderful cure that her neighbors come in to see her for themselves, and are astonished to hear her talk.—

FAIR WARNING!

DR. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

is a scientific prescription, carefully prepared from the purest and best ingredients, consequently the most costly cough medicine on the market. In buying Dr. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY you get as big a bottle and more doses for 25 cents than you do of any other, but the druggist's profit is less. Therefore some druggists are cunningly persuading their customers to buy that which to them means greater profit.

DON'T YOU DO IT. DEMAND

Dr. Bell's PINE-TAR-HONEY and take no substitute.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Jemison, June 14, 1900

Hon. W. R. OLIVER,
Calera, Ala.

Dear Sir.—As you have been nominated by the Democratic party for Senator from the 15th Senatorial District, and I have been nominated for the same place by the Populist party, and as there are important issues between us. Your party has declared for a constitution convention, mine has declared against one. You said that you were for a constitutional convention for the purpose of disfranchising the negro, in a joint debate at Thorsby, between us recently.

Now, I believe that the liberties of the common white man are in danger, and that many of them will be deprived of the ballot should a constitutional convention be held. I believe the black belt will still represent the negro after a constitutional convention as they do now. I base the idea on the fact that when the Legislature called a convention two years ago (that was repealed) that law declared that the same basis of representation should be put in the new constitution that we have in the present constitution. To illustrate, Dallas county would only have about the same number of voters that Chilton has if your idea was carried out, namely to disfranchise the colored voter. But Dallas would have three members of the Legislature and one senator; Chilton would have only one member of the Legislature and one-third interest in a senator.

Now, looking at the past expressions of your party it is very plain to me that you still expect to represent the colored voter, and that it is one class of the white man and the negro both that you are after. But you say you are for disfranchising the negro without disfranchising a single white man. I would like for you to explain how you can disfranchise an illiterate negro without disfranchising the white man that cannot read; how you would disfranchise the negro without property and leave the white man with the ballot that has got no property.

Also, your convention passed a resolution recommending where Democratic nominees have been defeated that the Legislature confer with and consider such recommendations in cases of local legislation affecting counties where the Democratic nominees have been defeated. Now, I believe the above resolution to be unconstitutional and tends to deprive the people of the sacred privilege of voting for whom they please—this I am opposed too. I believe that every man that goes to the polls should have the right to cast his ballot just as he sees fit, without fear or restraint on the part of anyone.

As you also said, in the joint debate referred to at Thorsby, that you favored the above resolution, and that you were a member of the convention and voted for it on its passage, I take issue with you on the above propositions and some others, therefore I invite you to a joint debate at as many places and times as we can in the district, the arrangements to be made by our respective campaign committees, or any other way suggested by you that would be fair to both of us.

We have been personal friends, lived close together since my childhood, and I assure you that nothing will enter this canvass on my part to make it unpleasant either for you or our hearers, and I would suggest that we arrange to travel in the same buggy. Please let me have an early reply as it is only a short time until the election and every voter ought to have the privilege to hear us express ourselves on these important issues.

Very respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Judge S. M. Adams and others will speak at Cane Creek, 23rd inst., at 2 p. m., and the new schoolhouse near Henry Cox's at night, same date. Everybody and ladies especially invited.

Turn-Round Topics.

Mr. J. W. Smith, of Cooper, the census man, was visiting our community last Friday.

Colonel J. M. Falkner, the L. & N's attorney of Montgomery, brought his family up and had a jolly time fishing. He is to move his family up here this week to his beautiful home to spend the summer months.

Mrs. F. M. Connell is now staying with her mother, Mrs. Kendrick, and her husband, F. M. Connell, left for Mobile Sunday.

Crops are backward in this community. I heard one farmer say that he hadn't even planted some bot om corn yet. Old upland corn is looking fine. Too much rain just now for crops.

Mr. W. E. Baker has the finest corn the writer has seen.

Rev. Mr. Parrish filled his appointment here Saturday and Sunday, and preached two very instructive sermons. D. D. D.

Unless food is digested quickly it will ferment and irritate the stomach. After each meal take a teaspoonful of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and will allow you to eat all you need of what you like. It never fails to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia. It is pleasant to take. Campbelle Drug Co.

Maplesville.

Rain, rain, plenty of it, the grass is getting the best of our farmers; if it don't quit raining so much some of the crops will be lost.

Mr. George Calloway visited the old folks last Sunday.

They made a failure on the picnic; it rained it out, but there is talk of having it over.

There was an ice-cream supper at the church which was very much enjoyed by all who attended.

We are sorry to say Mr. Charley Seals' family are all sick; we hope to see them up again soon.

We had no preaching last Sunday on account of a burial. Mr. Suttles was buried at the Maplesville grave yard Sunday eve.

Mr. Jep Williams and family paid Mr. and Mrs. Adams a visit last Sunday.

Mrs. Lawrence has been very sick, but we are glad to see her up again.

Mr. Hambree of Pletcher, spent Sunday with friends at this place.

ANOTHER SUBSCRIBER.

HON. JOHN W. Abercrombie will deliver an educational address at Jemison, the 23d of this month at 2 p.m. Other speakers will be present and a large audience is expected.

GRAND GIFT DISTRIBUTION.

A Forty-Cent Sugar Shell Free to Every Married Lady.

Editor Banner—We believe that the most effective advertising we can do is to get samples of our goods into the hands of the people. Therefore, we are sending an elegant sterling silver-plated sugar shell, such as we sell regularly at 40c each, to every married lady in the United States who writes for it. There is nothing to pay. The gift is absolute. You will confer a favor upon your lady readers by making this announcement in your paper. Each lady will send her name only, as this is too valuable a gift to send to persons who don't ask for it themselves. We give choice of any of our 40c designs, and will send illustrations from which selection may be made.

WOMAN ROUGHLY HANDLED.

St. Louis Mob Assaults Her as She Alights From Car.

Mrs. Eva Doman was roughly handled by a mob at Marion street and Broadway, St. Louis, Sunday. As she alighted from a Transit car she was quickly surrounded by a crowd of girls, who shouted "scab" at her. A large throng soon joined the girls. Mrs. Doman ran down several streets with the mob in hot pursuit and sought refuge in Joseph A. Bene's saloon in South Broadway, but Bene pushed the woman back into the street. A woman living over the saloon succeeded in getting Mrs. Doman to her apartments, but not before both had been pelted with mud and stones. Mrs. Doman was escorted home by a police officer. The police arrested Bene, charging him with assault and battery.

MORE REQUISITIONS

Will be Made for W. S. Taylor in Other States.

The Kentucky state officials as well as representatives of the prosecution will neither affirm nor deny the report that requisitions on the governors of Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania for the arrest of W. S. Taylor have been made out in anticipation of his trip through those states to the national convention. It is the general belief in Frankfort that the attempt to arrest him will be made after his arrival at Philadelphia.

Governor Taylor's friends say they have assurances from leading representatives of Pittsburg that a requisition will not be honored in that state.

USED PISTOL.

Woman Shoots Man Employed to Serve Official Paper.

Mrs. Anna Spuhler shot and fatally wounded a laborer named James Carver in New Orleans Saturday, who had been employed by deputy constables to aid in enforcing a writ of ejectment. The constables were stationed behind the workman, who had been instructed to break open the door of her room, which had been locked from the inside. While he was doing this the woman opened a window alongside and opened fire with a revolver of large calibre.

The workman was shot in the back of the head and fell on the spot. The constables had narrow escapes.

Killed the Hackman.

C. H. King, a stock broker of Omaha, Neb., shot and killed James Flood, a hackman. The tragedy occurred while passers-by were numerous, and almost a panic resulted. King had telephoned for a hack, he and his wife intending to take the trrin for Birmingham, Ala., on a visit to his wife's parents. Flood, it is alleged, was intoxicated when he arrived, and insisted on coming into the house. King commanded him not to enter, but Flood kept coming. King then fired three shots through the door, killing Flood almost instantly.

Lynching and Voting South.

The Afro-American council has appointed a committee of prominent negroes to present before the republican national convention the question of lynching and violation of the ballot in the south. The committee will endeavor to have the convention take a strong stand against the suffrage laws of certain states, which it claims in effect nullify the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution of the United States.

The council, it is said, represents over 200,000 negro voters.

More Trouble in Kentucky.

The office of the state treasurer at Frankfort, Ky., is in the custody of the sheriff. Assistant Treasurer Long said he had received no authority from Treasurer Day to turn over that office, although he had telegraphed the latter, and he declined to let democratic Treasurer Hager in. Hager took out a writ of possession in Judge Moore's court and the sheriff took possession of the office.

Representative Allen of Mississippi says that his state has made greater progress in the last ten years than any other state, and that, though the people are not rich, they are better off than at any other time since the civil war.

CHINA OPENS THE WAR

Taku Forts Fire Upon the International Fleet.

BOMBARDMENT LASTED SEVEN HOURS

Forts on Both Sides of Taku Now Occupied—Heavy Casualty List—The Powers Taking Prompt Action in the Crisis.

A Tuesday's cable dispatch from London says; China declared war against the world when the Taku forts opened fire upon the international fleet. The accounts of what took place are still unsatisfactory, the best semi-official information being the dispatch received at Berlin from Che Foo, which says:

"The Chinese laid torpedoes in the Taku river and collected troops from Shan Hei Kwan. The foreign commanders assembled on the Russian flagship and addressed an ultimatum to the commanders of the Taku forts, summoning them to withdraw their troops before 2 o'clock June 17. At 1 a. m., June 17, the guns of the forts opened fire, to which the Russian, British, French and Japanese warships replied. The bombardment lasted seven hours. Two British ships in the river before the forts are reported to have been sunk. The telegraph lines and railroad between Tien Tsin and Taku were destroyed. Communication by water is also threatened."

One dispatch says that the Yorktown participated in the bombardment. Another asserts that American marines formed half of the storming force of 2,000.

A dispatch from Che Foo, says:

The forts on both sides of Taku are now occupied. The Chinese opened fire unexpectedly. The casualties to the mixed force were as follows: Killed—British, 1. German, 3; Russian, 1; French, 1; Wounded: British, 4; German, 7; Russian, 45; French, 1. Chinese torpedo boats were seized. Four hundred Chinese are reported to have been killed.

The failure of Admiral Seymour's column and its retreat to Tien Tsin increased, it is presumed, the peril of the legations in Pekin, which is still isolated, although Shanghai forwards Chinese rumors that the legations were attacked by mobs, who were mowed down by machine guns, and also that the members of the legations were massacred.

The powers are taking prompt action. Four thousand German troops have been ordered to China; 10,000 French troops are waiting to embark at Saigon, the capital of French Cochin China, and from 3,000 to 5,000 more Russians have been ordered from Port Arthur to Taku.

CLAIMS HE KILLED GOEBEL.

William Culton Receives a Mysterious Letter From Texas.

William Culton, who is in jail at Frankfort, Ky., under indictment as an accessory to the murder of William Goebel, has received an anonymous letter, postmarked Fort Worth, Texas, in which the writer says: "I am sorry you are in trouble. I killed Goebel He knew I would do it. Ten minutes after the shooting I watched the crowd in the state house yard from the fort hill. I went to Georgetown and took a train, landing at Cincinnati next day. At Kansas City I got scared and went to Oklahoma before coming here. I am on a ranch out here, and those who know me in Kentucky would not know me in Texas."

SUGGESTED SURRENDER.

Lord Roberts Sent Message to General Botha Proposing Disarmament.

Lord Roberts, according to a Boer dispatch from Machadodorp, sent a message to Commandant General Louis Botha on June 13 suggesting disarmament and complimenting the bravery of the burghers. It was pointed out that the surrender would be without dishonor to the burghers and would prevent much suffering. General Botha asked for a six days' armistice in order to confer and consider. Lord Roberts consented to five days. Finally General Botha declined to accept the proposal and hostilities were renewed.

Kentucky Tragedies.

Mead Cottrell was shot seven times at Middlesboro, Ky., Monday and fatally wounded. Cottrell's dying statement is that Ball shot him. A report just received from Pineville says that at a picnic there in a row between Charley Pursifal and James Bullard the latter was shot and mortally wounded, and later a young son of Bullard shot and killed Pursifal.

SOUVENIRS OF THE WAR.

Lieut. Hobson Sends Gun Mounts and Conning Towers Home.

A letter from Lieutenant Hobson, written in Hong Kong on April 20, and addressed to T. R. Ward, of Selma, states that, seeing no reason why the cities of Alabama should not have a number of the souvenirs of the late war, he had shipped on the United States cruiser Collier Scinda, which left that day for Norfolk, two gun mounts and two conning towers from the Isla De Luzon, one of the vessels sunk in the memorable battle of Manila bay. One each of the gun mounts is for Selma and Greensboro, and one of the conning towers is for Birmingham and one is for Mobile. The lieutenant states that he will, as soon as he returns home, find out what became of two of the pieces taken from the Merrimac when she was stripped preparatory to sending her into Santiago harbor, and send them to be placed upon the mounts in Selma and Greensboro, thus making a joint souvenir of Manila and Santiago.

Alabama Contest.

A Philadelphia special says: The contesting delegations from Alabama to the republican convention at Philadelphia spent most of Monday in an effort to bring about a reconciliation between Vaughan and Bingham delegates, whose names were not placed on the temporary roll. The national committee failed to seat four delegates, referring the contest to the convention. Of the fourteen seated, the Bingham faction has a majority of two. J. H. Bingham stated that an amicable adjustment of the difficulty would be effected.

Negro's Body Left to Ants.

John Comer, a negro without relatives or friends, died a few days ago at his home in Girard. Girard has no burial fund, and the question of his interment proved somewhat of a problem. Finally one of Comer's white acquaintances raised a subscription and bought a coffin. A charitable man loaned him a wagon, and they went out to the negro's house. They found it closely locked, and, breaking in, the body was discovered utterly deserted and in possession of the ants, who were climbing over it in swarms. The negro was given a decent burial.

Farmers Behind.

The farmers of Limestone county continue to grow more and more behind with their crops on account of the continued rains that have fallen daily for more than three weeks, and the crops are in a very bad condition. Corn has suffered for work and cotton is completely hid in some places by weeds and grass. Wheat is needing cutting and oats are falling down, but the farmers are afraid to harvest in the rain and are taking chances.

Populist State Committee to Meet.

The state populist committee will meet in Birmingham on Saturday, the 23rd, to consider the question of filling the vacancies on the state ticket made by the withdrawal of S. M. Adams, A. G. Dake and J. H. Porter, candidates for governor, treasurer and superintendent of education respectively.

Wheeler Assigned

By direction of the President, General Joseph Wheeler Monday was assigned to the command of the depart of the lakes with headquarters at Chicago. He relieves Brigadier General James F. Wade, who has held that command temporarily in conjunction with his regular command, the department of the Dakotas.

Mrs. Gardner Held.

The preliminary trial of Festus Caddell and Mrs. Lillie Gardner, charged with the murder of Mrs. Festus Caddell at Blocton, about two weeks ago was held at Centreville, Monday, before Judges Pratt and Holmes. After hearing the evidence both prisoners were committed to jail without bail.

The board of trustees of the University of Alabama, by a vote of 11 to 1 conferred the degree of doctor of divinity upon Rev. R. W. Barnwell, of Selma, at its meeting last Friday.

Mississippi Populists Active.

Chairman Pruitt called a populist state convention to meet in Jackson, Miss., August 15 to nominate a populist electorial ticket. He announces a complete divorce from the Butler-Weaver-Allen fusion gang, and states that those for whom he speaks are strictly in the middle of the road.

Senator A. O. Bacon, of Georgia, is just recovering from eating toadstools, which he mistook for mushrooms.

TROOPS ORDERED TO CHINA

U. S. Gunboat Concord Sails From Manila With Sealed Orders.

RUMORED DESTRUCTION OF LEGATIONS

And Murder of the German Ambassador—State of Veiled War Prevails—Communication Completely Cut Off.

A Monday's cable dispatch from Manila says: The Ninth regiment has been ordered to Manila, whence it will proceed to China.

The gunboat Concord, with marines aboard, has sailed under sealed orders, supposedly for China.

The British cruiser Beuna Ventura has sailed for Hong Kong with troops and stores for Hong Kong and Tien Tsin.

A London message says: There is not a cabinet in Europe apparently that knows what has been transpiring in Pekin for five days or in Tien Tsin for three days. Nor is there any that knows with what difficulties the small and inadequately equipped international column is contending between those cities.

The report spread from Shanghai that the legations had been attacked and that one minister, probably the German, had been murdered, has been traced to Tao Tai Sheng, who for a few days, as the Empress Dowager's agent, has been censoring telegrams from Shanghai.

STATE OF VEILED WAR.

Legations in Pekin Are Virtually Prisoners, Surrounded by Troops.

This is the situation in China, as it appears to the Shanghai correspondent of the London Daily Express:

"It is really a state of veiled war. The members of the general legations in Pekin are virtually prisoners, and the Chinese troops are only restrained from attack by fear of the legation guards.

"Meanwhile the ministers are altogether unable to communicate with the officers commanding the relief column, which is making an enforced and isolated halt between Tien Tsin and Pekin. The walls of the capitol are guarded by 100,000 imperial troops. The gates are heavily defended with modern guns. General Tung, acting under orders from the Empress Dowager, says that no more foreign troops shall enter the sacred city.

"On Monday the ministers sent a demand to the Tsung-Li-Yamen that the gates be opened, declaring that otherwise the foreign troops would enter forcibly. To this no reply was given. A second message went unanswered, or had not been anewered when the latest news left Pekin.

"Sir Claude MacDonald's latest message says that the legations are capable of sustaining an effective defense unless attacked in force."

Met Horrible Death.

Bert Frederich, aged 17, an employe of the Fairhope Manufacturing company's saw mill, on the eastern shore, at Mobile, met a horrible death Saturday. While at work in the mill he fell against a 52-inch circular saw and his body was cut almost in two and one arm was severed at the shoulder. The lad came to Fairhope eighteen months ago from his home at Dixon, Ill.

Three attorneys advise the Kentucky democratic state committee that Governor Beckham's term does not expire until 1903. The matter will probably be tested in the courts.

War Department Silent.

A Washington special says: Adjutant General Corbin, Sunday night, would neither affirm nor deny the Manila advices that the Ninth infantry would go to China, but it is known that the troops are being assembled in Manila for this purpose and transports made ready for occupancy, though it cannot be learned that orders to sail for China have been given.

MORGAN ON THE PLATFORM.

The Alabama Senator Says to Stand by the Chicago Platform.

In a letter to George F. Milton, editor of the Knoxville Sentinel, and delegate to the Kansas City convention, with permission to publish, Senator John T. Morgan, of Alabama, thus expresses his views concerning the platform to be adopted at Kansas City:

"The horses are named and entered for the race, and the riders are weighed and in the saddle; so both parties are trying to find the smoothest ground to run over, and neither can do anything else. Our smoothest path is that which we have beaten out with the tramp of democracy since Jefferson blazed the way and Jackson opened it. The Chicago platform is a true exposition of the creed, though it has a few marginal notes that are rather too socialistic; Bryan has added some that we can afford to ignore; others will be attempted in the populistic direction; New York will attempt to rewrite it and out Bryan's picture over it as an index to its meaning. The safe course is to stand by it. The people will understand us if we do that. A new alignment will lose us more than we gain."

BOOKER WASHINGTON'S ADVICE.

He Deprecates the Formation of a Negro Party.

Booker T. Washington passed through Nashville Saturday en route to Cincinnati. In reference to the organization of a national negro party he said:

"A colored man's party would go forth with a chip on its shoulder, and what we want is peace with the white man and not war.

"Let the colored people devote their attention to the census enumerators who are now among them. Let us have more to tell the census enumerator and less to tell the politician."

A Farmer's Joy.

A farmer who lives in Lowndes county, Alabama, was considerably blessed one day last week. His wife presented him with a fine girl baby, and he found when he went over his farm next morning that there were two new mule colts, two Jersey calves and fifteen little kids more than he owned the day before. The census enumerator called upon him that evening to interrogate him about his possessions. He told him he must call at another time, that he was so overwhelmed that he could not give intelligible answers to his interrogatories that day.

The Negro Conference.

The national negro race conference, which will be held in Montgomery July 25, 26 and 27 will be the most important epoch in the history of this people. A great number of the prominent negro speakers will be there, such as George H. White of North Carolina, the only negro congressman; ex-Lieutenant Governor Pinchback of Louisiana, Bishop Turner of Georgia, Prof. Council and Booker T. Washington and a number of others will be heard.

Shaw Invites Gordon.

Commander-in-Chief Shaw, as representative of the civil war in the Grand Army of the Republic, sent a personal invitation Saturday to Maj. Gen. John B. Gordon, representing the United Confederate Veterans, to come to Chicago next August as a special guest of the thirty-fourth national encampment. Wm. J. Bryan has also been asked to be present at the reunion, as a guest of honor

A Novel Campaign Idea.

A Washington dispatch says: The republicans have a novel idea in connection with the presidential campaign. The graphophone is to be used to reproduce speeches by prominent republicans in the house and senate. Ten or twenty republicans with reputations for oratory have recently made stump speeches to graphophones and their winged words are now resting on wax cylinders, ready for use in small towns and elsewhere throughout the country during the presidential fight.

Many New Banks Organized.

Mr. Dawes, the comptroller of the currency, has had prepared a statement which shows that during the four months the recent financial law has been in effect there have been received 262 applications for the organization of national banks, involving a combined capital of $16,136,000. Banks with a proposed capital of less than $50,000 each numbered 280, and 82 were for banks with capital of $50,000 or over.

$600,000 Railroad Contract Awarded.

The contract for the construction of twenty miles of railroad from the Ensley Southern railroad company, extending from Ensley, six miles from Birmingham, to the Warrior river, in Walker county, has been let to W. J. Oliver & Co., of Langley, S. C. This completes the work of putting the Ensley Southern under contract for its entire length, Redmon & Donovan, of Chattanooga, having been given the contract two weeks ago for building the road from the Warrior river to Parrish, a distance of nine miles. The contract to Oliver & Co. amounts to about half a million dollars, while the entire cost of the road will be about $600,000, which includes only the grading and bridge-building. The Oliver contract is the largest of the kind that has been let in the district for ten years. Work on the entire road begins at once. The Ensley Southern railroad is an auxiliary of the Southern railway company.

Notified of Populist Nominations.

Secretary of State McDavid has received notification from the chairman and secretary of the populist party of Alabama that the party had made nominations for state officers and that they should be placed on the ticket according to law.

The ticket is the same as that nominated at Birmingham, with Judge S. M. Adams as the candidate for governor. The secretary of state has also received from Judge Adams notice of his declining the nomination for governor, and that his name must not be placed on the ticket. It is a question under the law whether the secretary of state has the right to change the ticket as certified to him by the political parties, and it is not presumed that it will be changed, although the letter of Judge Adams may be sent along with the notification of the proper authorities in the counties.

The supreme court concluded the call of the cases from the Second division Saturday, and after handing down some decisions adjourned until June 23, when more decisions will be rendered and a recess taken until the regular winter term in November.

Strike of Furnace Men at Bessemer.

More than six hundred employes of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company at Bessemer are out on a strike for 10 per cent increase in wages and for a two weeks' pay day. About half of these are stack house workers and receive $1.20 per day for 12 hours' work, loading ore, limestone and coke for the supply of the furnace stacks. The others are elevator and top men, sand cutters, off-bearers and yard men, whose wages vary from $1.25 to $1.75 per day.

Singular Suicide.

After a dance, at Tuskegee, Friday night, Will Thompson, aged 16 years, and Ernest Pagett started to Chehaw in a wagon to see a friend at the station. Both were drinking, and Pagett, who fell asleep, was awakened by Will's arm falling across his breast. He thus discovered that Will was dead, having shot himself. He was a son of Senator C. W. Thompson.

New College President.

Prof. A. J. Spinka, a graduate of Howard College, East Lake, has been elected president of the North Alabama Baptist Institute at Trinity, succeeding Dr. Joseph Shackleford, resigned. The trustees decided to enlarge the institution and appointed Dr. Shackleford to raise the sum of $3,500 for the purpose.

Listed on Stock Exchange.

Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company stock has been listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The stock admitted on the board by the governing committee consists of $6,700,000 7 per cent non-cumulative preferred and $7,500,000 common.

New Telephone Company.

The People's Telephone Company of Birmingham, Ala., was organized at Youngstown, O., Saturday, with a capital stock of $200,000. The company, which is practically controlled by local capitalists, will engage in the telephone business at Birmingham and through the south.

STATE BREVITIES.

A farmer's institute will be held by the Auburn experiment station staff at Grand Bay June 18; at Citronelle June 19, at Camden June 21, at Marion June 23, at Greenville June 25, at Eutaw June 26, at Livingston and Northport June 27, at Carrollton June 30, at Fayette July 2, at Verbena July 3.

FUNSTON ROUTS INSURGENTS.

Twenty-two of the Filipinos and One American Killed.

Upon information furnished by Major Wheeler to the effect that General Lacuna intended to attack Papaya, province of Nueva Ecija, General Funston, with staff officers, Captain Koehler and Troop G, of the Fourth cavalry, and half a company of the Thirty-fourth infantry, repaired to Papaya. General Lacuna was found with 200 men, occupying a position on a ridge two miles south of the town. General Funston attacked him vigorously, sixty Americans charging the enemy under a hot fire. The insurgents fled. On their attempt to make a stand later Captain Koehler, with a detachment of troops, charged and scattered them. The pursuit over the rough country lasted until nightfall. Twenty-two of the insurgents were killed. One American was killed and one wounded.

General Macabulus, who has been persistently active in the Pang San Sin district, has surrendered to Col. Emerson H. Liscom, at Tarlac, with eighty officers and 124 men, all armed with rifles.

CUBAN ELECTIONS.

General Rodriguez Elected as Mayor of Havana.

General Alejandro Rodriguez, Nationalist, was Saturday elected mayor of Havana, polling 13,078 votes, against 6,034 cast for Senor Estrada Mora, Independent. The total vote fell about 4,500 below the registration.

The National party elected its entire ticket—eighteen councilmen, the treasurer, one correctional judge and three municipal judges. The other correctional judgeship fell to an independent candidate, as did also the fourth municipal judgeship. Of the six other councilmen, four are republicans and two nationalists, who ran independently.

Reports from every part of the island go to show that perfect order prevailed at the polls.

To an American observer of the election it seemed as if the people regarded the whole matter with absolute indifference.

Democrats Win in Santiago.

The white democratic ticket was unanimously elected in Santiago and throughout the department. De Senor Girnan was elected to succeed himself as mayor of Santiago de Cuba.

VICTIMS OF DEADLY OIL CAN.

Fifteen in Houston, Tex., Since June 7. One Peculiar Case.

The Houston (Tex.) Post prints a list of fifteen women and children who have been burned to death since June 7 as a result of the explosion of kerosene oil cans. In every case except one the persons burned were attempting to kindle a fire with kerosene.

The other case was peculiar. A Miss Sims, living near Seaton, struck a match, the head flew off and fell blazing on an oil can eight feet away. An explosion followed and the young woman was fatally burned.

The statement is made that since June 1 not less than forty-five persons have been burned to death in Texas as the result of kerosene explosions.

Bryan Sure of Nomination.

By the action of democratic state conventions in California, Missouri, Kentucky, Georgia and Vermont, Hon. W. J. Bryan is assured of the nomination for president on the democratic ticket. The instructions given delegates by these five states carries Mr. Bryan's vote, it is believed, considerably over the two-thirds necessary to nominate.

Alabama Boy Honored.

At the recent closing exercises of the Johns Hopkins university, in Baltimore, Md., the only Alabama representative was Hardee Chambliss, of Selma, who was elected doctor of philosophy, the highest degree within the gift of the university. Dr. Chambliss has pursued his studies for four years in chemistry, geology and physics.

Foraker Will Nominate McKinley.

Senator Foraker, of Ohio, who was chairman of the committee on resolutions and placed McKinley in nomination four years ago, arrived in Philadelphia Saturday. He has been selected to nominate McKinley next week and also to be chairman of the resolutions committee. He attended the banquet at the Union League club Saturday night.

Three men were killed and fourteen persons injured in Philadelphia Sunday by an explosion of gunpowder and dynamite used in the manufacture of fire works.

FATAL INCENDIARY FIRE

Ten Dead and Many Injured in a New York Tenement.

POLICEMEN MAKE BRAVE RESCUES

An Entire Family Wiped Out—Of Another Household Three Are Dead and Six Are Severely Injured—A Policeman Risks His Life to Save Imperilled Tenants and Was Badly Burned.

New York City (Special).—Ten persons suffocated or burned to death, including one entire family of seven persons; seven seriously injured, two slightly injured, and a property loss not exceeding $8000. That is the result of a fire of mysterious origin which gutted an old-fashioned five-story tenement at No. 34 Jackson street. The dead are: William Cotter, laborer, forty years; Kate Cotter, his wife, thirty-five years; Mary Cotter, daughter, thirteen years; Joseph Cotter, son, twelve years; Kate Cotter, daughter, nine years; John Cotter, son three years; William Cotter, son, nine months; Louis Marius, laborer, forty years; Mary Marius, his wife, thirty-eight years; Elsie Marius, daughter, six years, and Patrick Byrne, twenty-five years. That the roll of dead and injured was not far greater is due to the fact that four policemen did their duty nobly. One in particular, Patrolman James T. Knowles, covered himself with glory. The fire started about 2:40 o'clock a. m. The flames had gained full headway before any of the thirty or more persons in the building awakened. An employe of a near-by bakery was the first to give the alarm.

Patrolman James T. Knowles heard the commotion which followed the cry of warning, and ran from his post, rapping on the curb for assistance. Patrolman Selleck heard the raps, and joined his brother officer. Together they forced an entrance into the house next door and made their way over a narrow stone ledge to the window opposite, from which the flames were pouring. Up through the smoke the policemen groped their way to the rooms occupied by the Cotter family, new tenants.

On the other side of the floor lived the Mulhearns, husband, wife and three children, and a boarder, Larry Kilroy. They were pushed out and sent to the street. The clothing of one of the policemen was then in flames. He crushed the fire out with his hands. The Fire Department came, and lifesaving ladders were run up. Firemen entered the burning building and found the Cotter family had perished. Further investigation resulted in the discovery of the other victims.

Within a few blocks of the tenement where ten persons perished in the flames another fire occurred, resulting in the death of one person and the injury of nine others. The dead person is Mrs. Jennie Solomon, thirty years of age, found burned to death in the rear of the first floor.

The building, No. 26 Rutgers street, in which this occurred, has been tenanted but a few months. It contained six floors and a basement. Samuel Solomon, who lives in the front on the first floor, conducts a millinery establishment. He was chatting in the front with a friend when a gust of wind blew a lace curtain against the gas jet. The men ran for water, and before they returned the entire contents of the room were blazing up and smoke was pouring through the narrow stairways to the roof.

The flames were extinguished in a few minutes. When it was thought that all the tenants had gotten out safely the body of a woman was found in the hallway in the rear of the first floor. She had been burned to death. She was identified as Mrs. Jennie Solomon, wife of Samuel Solomon.

MRS. GLADSTONE DEAD.

Widow of the "Grand Old Man" of England Passes Away at Hawarden.

London (by Cable).—Mrs. Gladstone, the widow of William Ewart Gladstone, the English statesman, is dead. Her body was buried in Westminster Abbey beside that of her husband.

Mrs. William Ewart Gladstone was eighty-eight years old, and had been slowly sinking for some time past at Hawarden Castle, the family seat.

MRS. WILLIAM EWART GLADSTONE.

She was the eldest daughter of the late Sir Richard Glynne, Bart., of Hawarden Castle, and was married to Mr. Gladstone in 1839. He died May 19, 1898.

She was a woman loved and admired by the vast circle of those who came in contact with her busy and varied life. She had great influence over her husband's actions.

Farm Implements Unsalable.

The farm implement business in the Northwest is almost at a standstill because of the uncertain crop conditions. Farmers are slow to purchase until it is certain that their crop will be sufficient to warrant placing a harvester in the field.

Farmers Well Supplied With Money.

Farmers in Kansas and Nebraska are well supplied with money and will probably hold their wheat until late in the fall for higher prices.

BRYAN ON FIRST BALLOT

He Will Be Named For President at the Kansas City Convention.

More Than Enough Delegates Have Been Instructed by Democratic State Conventions to Insure His Nomination.

Kansas City (Special).—The nomination of William Jennings Bryan for President on the first ballot in the Democratic National Convention, which is to meet here on July 4, is assured. More than enough delegates have been instructed by the State conventions to cast their votes for Bryan as the next Democratic Presidential candidate. The number of delegates who will attend the National Convention is 930. At the time of writing 732 delegates had been chosen, and 696 of them, or seventy-six more than the two-thirds of the whole number necessary to nominate were instructed to vote for him. This makes the nomination of Mr. Bryan on the first ballot certain.

The convention hall will be ready for the delegates at the time named for the opening of the convention. The work of rebuilding the auditorium after the fire which destroyed the first structure was rapidly pushed, and the expectations of the contractors that the hall would be ready by July 4 are more than realized. The new structure is in every way as good as the one burned, and though the interior may not be as finely finished the seating arrangements are all that can be desired.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

Delegates to Kansas City Instructed For Bryan Selected in Five States.

St. Louis, Mo. (Special).—The Democratic State Convention elected delegates to the Kansas City Convention. They were instructed for Bryan.

Atlanta, Ga. (Special). — The Democratic State Convention nominated a full State ticket, headed by Allen D. Candler, for Governor. The delegates to the Kansas City Convention were instructed for Bryan.

Louisville, Ky. (Special).—The Democratic State Convention elected delegates to the Kansas City Convention, and instructed them to vote for Bryan. The platform indorses the Chicago platform and declares against trusts.

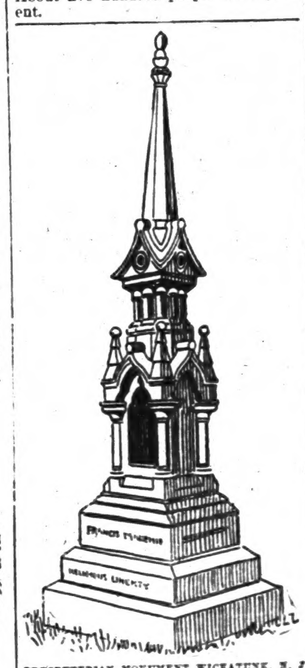
Montpelier, Vt. (Special).—The Democratic State Convention nominated a full State ticket, and elected delegates to the Kansas City Convention. The convention declared for Bryan and the Chicago platform and against imperialism.

Sacramento, Cal. (Special). — The Democratic State Convention instructed the delegates elected to the Kansas City Convention to vote for Bryan. The platform adopted indorses the Chicago platform, favors the popular election of United States Senators and laws for the exclusion of Asiatic laborers and condemns trusts.

HISTORIC SITE MARKED.

Presbyterians Unveil Their Monument in Old Scots Burying Ground.

Freehold, N. J. (Special).—There was unveiled on the site of the old Scot's Meeting House a monument to the memory of the Rev. John Boyd, the first Presbyterian minister in America, and others. The site of the old meeting house is near Wickatunk. About five hundred people were present.



PRESBYTERIAN MONUMENT WICKATUNK, N. J.

The granite shaft stands in the centre of the old burying ground surrounded by the graves of old Covenanters and founders of Presbyterism in this country. It was placed in a slight depression where it was supposed the old meeting house stood. The granite came from Scotland, Ireland and New England.

Filipino Chief Gives Up.

General Macabulus, an active insurgent leader in Luzon, P. I., surrendered to Colonel Liscum, with eight officers and 124 men.

A New Mahdi in the Desert.

A new Mahdi recently appeared at Wady Haifa, Egypt, preaching and proclaiming that Christ would soon be seen again in the flesh upon earth. He was arrested by the Government, together with forty-five adherents.

Ohio Democrats Are For Bryan.

The Ohio Democratic Convention instructed delegates for William Jennings Bryan and reaffirmed the Chicago platform. No mention was made of Admiral Dewey.

OUR BUDGET OF HUMOR.

LAUGHTER-PROVOKING STORIES FOR LOVERS OF FUN.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"Out automobiling, sir," she said.
"May I go with you, my pretty maid?"
"If you can steer the old thing, you may," she said.
—Puck.

Just a Principality.

He—"My mind to me a kingdom is."

She—"Well, it isn't one of the great powers, I'm pretty sure."

Both Loud.

Mrs. Henpeck—"Don't you think baby has my mouth?"

Mr. Henpeck (meaningly)—"No, dear, but he has one just like it."

She Was His Queen.

Her Father—"Young man, what is your object in life?"

Young Man—"To become your daughter's subject."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Money Market Tight.

Dick—"I lost $50,000 in less than half a minute last night."

Fred—"How did it happen?"

Dick—"I proposed to Miss Bullion and she said 'No.'"

Perhaps.

Jess—"I can't understand why she hasn't been married long ago. She's really very pretty."

Tess—"Perhaps she wants to pose as a matchless beauty."

Educational Effort.

"Josephine, what possesses you to read aloud from the cook book every evening?"

"Well, Julius, somebody told me that our new cook was perfectly awful about listening at the keyhole."—Chicago Record.

Back Roof Zoology.

"Would you call a cat herbiverous, carniverous or omniverous?" asked the man who is learned, but tedious.

"Neither," answered the man who yawns; "merely vociferous."—Washington Star.

Rotation of Crops in Dialect.

"Jack, you are an ardent devotee of baseball, I notice."

"No; but after I've talked golf all afternoon I like to read about two columns of baseball talk to rest my head."

Love's Young Dream, To-Day.

Was your talk with pa satisfactory, Rodney?"

"Oh, yes. I convinced him that there was not the least danger, so far as I was concerned, of our wedding presents being levied on."

Unsatisfactory Information.

"Ruggles, how old are you?"

"If I'll tell you will you agree not to ask any more questions?"

"Yes."

"Well, I am on this side of fifty."

"From which side are you looking at—Oh, I forgot."—Chicago Tribune.

Her Best Friend.

Tess—"Miss Anteek was very much affected at old Mr. Smith's funeral."

Jess—"Yes."

Tess—"She wasn't related to him, was she?"

Jess—"No. She met him once, very long ago, but on that occasion I believe he referred to her as 'pretty.'"

To the Letter.

Tailor—"I think it suits you to a T."

Customer—"Well, I don't. It's too loose, and I want you to be like the letter F."

"Like the letter F? How do you mean?"

"I want you to make 'it' 'fit.'"—Philadelphia Record.

Courteous Brakeman.

"How long does the train stop here?" the old lady asked the brakeman.

"Stop here?" answered the functionary. "Four minutes. From two to two to two-two."

"I wonder," mused the old lady, "if that man thinks he is the whistle?"—Indianapolis Press.

Very Annoying.

"I despise a person who whistles," said Mr. Blykins. "We have one in our office, and he worries me almost to death."

"Haven't you an ear for music?"

"Of course I have. There's the difficulty. Whenever I happen to be whistling to myself, he invariably takes up the same tune and drowns me out."

Something For Her to Think Over.

Miss Smartauk—"I think I made rather an impression on your friend, Mr. Van Masher. Did he say anything after I had gone?"

Miss Haytur—"Yes, I told him you had a great many admirers, and he seemed to be quite interested."

Miss Smartauk—"What did he say?"

Miss Haytur—"He said, 'You don't mean it?'"—Brooklyn Life.

NOTICE TO POPULIST EXECUTIVE COMMITTEEMEN.

The committeemen from each voting precinct in the county should send in a list of names who would make suitable managers of the election. Send not less than two for each voting place, and send at once, as the law requires the managers appointed 30 days before the election.

The chairman of the Democratic committee has submitted a list for the Democratic party.

S. M. ADAMS,
Judge of Probate.

We are requested to state that Captain John H. Porter respectfully declines his place on the Populist State ticket for Superintendent of Education, and in so doing, extends his gratitude and thanks to his friends over the State for conferring on him the honor.—Rockford People's Courier.

FROM this morning's Age-Herald we learn there was a caucus of the Populists held yesterday at Birmingham, but as only three names are mentioned in the proceedings we are not in a position to say whether it was a representative gathering of the party or not. In any case, the caucus went to work to fill the vacancies on the State ticket caused by the non-acceptance of the nomination for Governor by Judge S. M. Adams; Treasurer by Alex G. Duke, and Superintendent of Education by John H. Porter.

These three gentlemen had positively declined to accept the nominations tendered them by the State convention of May 30.

The caucus apparently accepted the declinations of Alex G. Dake and John H. Porter, and nomirated in their stead, for State Treasurer, M. W. Wood, of Cullman, and for Superintendent of Education, O. L. McKinstry of Pickens.

But it would seem that the caucus declined to accede to the oft-expressed desire of Judge Adan s to be left off the ticket, and in face of his persistent refusal to accept the nomination for Governor under any circumstances, they again nominated him to that office.

This is not treating either Judge Adams or the Populists of Alabama fairly. Judge Adams will not accept this nomination any more than he did the previous one, and should he notify the several probate judges in the State that his name is not to be placed upon the ticket, the party will have a ticket to vote for without any head. Even if he does not take this course it is so well known he does not wish the people to vote for him in the coming election, that undoubtedly a large number of Populists in the State will exercise their discretion and vote for some other candidate.

When a man positively and absolutely declines to accept a nomination, it is better policy to find some other who will accept.

Clanton, Ala., June 8, 1900
Mr. H. I. HONEYCUTT,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir.—Since it so happens that you and I have been selected by our respective political parties as candidates for the next General Assembly, to represent the interest of the people of Chilton county in that law-making body, and as this is matter of considerable importance to all the people, I deem it best to them that we present to them our views and position in regard to the leading political issues of the day, and especially such issues as are likely to engage the attention of the next legislature of Alabama, together with such local legislation as the people of our county be interested in.

Allow me to say that from many parts of the county I am solicited to meet the people in public to discuss the situation with them and to define the attitude which I occupy in regard to these public measures.

Now, since it so happens that you and I were once agreed in our political convictions as to what measures were for the best interest of the people, and were allied together in support of the same principles, and from which I have not altered my mind or sentiment and am yet as hearty in their support as at any time in the past, and as it seems that you have for some cause entirely altered your views and opinions, as evidenced by the signal change in your political affiliation, and while I think any man has the right to a change of his views on any subject when he thinks his reasons sufficient, yet I claim that when any man has taken a public position, especially when he essays to offer his services to the public as a representative of the peoples' general interest, that he is in honor bound to acquaint them with the reasons which caused the change with him.

Now, as these are matters of public interest, that rise above mere party interest, and as the people have a right to know what their public servants propose doing for them (where such duties are not explicitly defined by law). I then, with all due respect, invite you to make a canvass of the county with me, not to solicit votes from the people, but to define our positions and then let the people vote for the man that supports the measures which they think are best suited to their several interests, and I pledge you honorable, gentlemanly and fair treatment throughout.

Please consider this proposition and give me an early reply, not later than one week from this date. so that we may have sufficient time to arrange a suitable campaign.

Yours very respectfully,
L. B. POUNDS.

P.S. Please answer in writing.

Stanton, Ala., June 18, 1900

Editor BANNER.—Please allow me a few words to the voters of our county. I have been contemplating a trip through the county, where my acquaintance is limited, for sometime, but my business has demanded my attention at home, notwithstanding I am not at all compelled to work, but it is either work or starve, so I rather prefer the former. But I am now getting in shape to leave awhile and am going to try to see as near all I am not already acquainted with as possible, but those I fail to see just imagine we were school boys together and good friends and go out to the election and cast your vote for me and it will be appreciated higher by no one than your humble servant. Those of you that are acquainted with me know my spirit of appreciation, therefore I deem it useless to bore you on the subject for I believe you are going to vote for me except you are otherwise pledged; if so will try to give you no cause to ever regret doing so.

Best wishes to the Banner and readers, also for votes in August.

Very truly.
G. F. MARTIN.

BETTER SCHOOLS.

To the people interested in better schools.

The people over the country are respectfully requested to meet at their neighborhood school houses on Saturday night, June 23d, for the purpose of discussing the special school tax for the county, which was provided by the last legislature. The township trustees will conduct the meetings in their respective neighborhoods. The laws provides for a special school tax of the county for not less than 5 cents nor over 25 cents on the $100. A free discussion is expected of the people, that their sentiments may be known and the trustee or chairman of each meeting will make reports as to the number in their meeting for or against the proposed tax. All reports will be made to the County Superintendent. The part taken in these meetings will go a long way towards determining the disposal of the question by the Commissioners' Court.

Let all the people turn out.
Respectfully,
COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Sunday School Convention.

The Sunday-school convention for Beats 7 and 8 was held with the Baptist church at Stanton last Saturday and Sunday. Six schools were represented, although there are about ten schools in the district. The attendance was not large, owing perhaps to the push of work on the farms. Those present seemed interested in the Sunday-school work and I trust good was accomplished. The officers for next year are W. J. Ruddick, President; Miss Ethel DuBose, Secretary; Messrs. J. W. Mitchell, H. R. Schurter and L. L. Culver, Executive committee. Next meeting to be held at Maplesville, time not appointed.

2 p.m. Devotional exercises, W. A. Mims.

2:30. Is not the annual call of the pastor without scriptual authority, does it not hamper the preacher and militate against the best interest of the cause of Christ? Opened by S. M. Adams.

4. Is it not practical and best for the country churches, and for the pastor that the pastor's salary be paid quarterly, and is it not a false idea on certain lines which presents it? Opened by J. H. Thomas.

SATURDAY.

9 a.m. Devotional exercises, W. H. Conway.

9:30. Is not a miss fit between pastor and church the most fruitful cause of dissentions, and do not the members lapse into a state of indifference and worldly mindedness as a result? Opened by W. H. Shaw.

11. Would it not be better to have county associations than as they now are? Opened by S. Smitherman. Recess.

2 p.m. Devotional exercises, D. Z. Merchant.

2:30. Best method of improving song service in connection with preaching service. Opened by J. H. Martin.

Song service will be conducted during the meeting by N. A. Logan.

A Good Cough Medicine.

It speaks well for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy when druggists use it in their own families in preference to any other. "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past five years with complete satisfaction to myself and customers," says Druggist J. Goldsmith, Van Etten, N. Y. "I have always used it in my own family both for ordinary coughs and colds and for the cough following la grippe, and find it very efficacious." For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Collins Chapel.

Notice to those wishing to move near a good school. We have several beautiful lots near our school building which are to be given away to persons who will claim them and build upon them for the purpose of getting the benefit of the school.

Call at Clanton Drug Co's drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are an elegant physic. They also improve the appetite, strengthen the digestion and regulate the liver and bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect.

ALL DAY SINGING.

There will be an all day singing at Corinth church, five miles east of Verbena, on the Fourth of July, 1900. Everybody is cordially invited to come and bring their books and baskets. Come one, come all and we will have a nice time. We also expect an address by Rev. W. J. Armstrong. J. N. GOSS

Neglect is the short step so many take from a cough or cold to consumption. The early use of One Minute Cough Cure prevents consumption. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. It cures all throat and lung troubles. Children all like it and mothers endorse it. Campbelle Drug Co.

Liberty.

The Southern Union singing convention will meet with Liberty church, Saturday before the 4th Sunday in July, 1900, and will convene for a term of two days. Everybody is invited; come one, come all! Bring all the books you have and all the good singers you have. We are expecting to have a nice time, you bet.

HAIR

HELP

So many persons have hair that is stubborn and dull. It won't grow. What's the reason? Hair needs help just as anything else does at times. The roots require feeding. When hair stops growing it loses its luster. It looks dead.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

acts almost instantly on such hair. It awakens new life in the hair bulbs. The effect is astonishing. Your hair grows, becomes thicker, and all dandruff is removed.

And the original color of early life is restored to faded or gray hair. This is always the case.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and am really astonished at the good it has done in keeping my hair from coming out. It is the best tonic I have tried, and I shall continue to recommend it to my friends." MATTIE HOLT.
Sept. 24, 1898. Burlington, N. C.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Hair Vigor, write the Doctor about it.

A NINE-CENT MEAL.

Prince and Princess of Wales Dine at the People's Restaurant.

A touching incident, simple in its character, but invested with almost historical interest, marked the opening a couple of weeks ago of the first of the poor men's restaurants which the Princess of Wales has succeeded in establishing in London. No formal ceremony inaugurated the opening day's business at the establishment founded by the Alexandra Trust in the City-road, London. Something much more telling than prosaic speeches, more impressive than votes of thanks, occurred to draw attention to the cooked meals which are served at a cost below anything previously attempted in London. One day the Prince and Princess of Wales, accompanied by the Hon. Sydney Greville, drove down to the City-road on a surprise visit to the Alexandra restaurant. Luncheon tickets were bought in the ordinary way at 4½d. (9 cents) each. Whilst thousands of toilers, workmen, factory girls, shop boys and needy clerks were consuming the luncheon provided in the big dining halls, the royal visitors sat down to a similar meal in an adjoining room. There were six in the royal luncheon party. Three courses were served. The bill for the whole party came to 2s. 3d. (54 cents). Needless to say, the presence of the heir-apparent and the princess in the restaurant was the occasion of a singularly interesting demonstration on the part of the people.

Mrs. Pinkham

The one thing that qualifies a person to give advice on any subject is experience — experience creates knowledge.

No other person has so wide an experience with female ills nor such a record of success as Mrs. Pinkham has had.

Over a hundred thousand cases come before her each year. Some personally, others by mail. And this has been going on for 20 years, day after day and day after day.

Twenty years of constant success — think of the knowledge thus gained! Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman with such an experience, especially when it is free.

Thompson's Eye Water

DEMOCRATIC LETTER.

THE REIGN OF CORRUPTION TAKES A RECESS.

Shameless Profligacy of the Republican Administration — Starving the People to Fatten the Purses of Political Heelers of High and Low Degree.

Congress has adjourned, and the issues upon which the presidential election is to be fought in November have been joined. Three years of McKinley's administration have proven that the Republican leaders are drunk with imperialism, mad with militarism, profligate with government funds, reckless in foreign relations, and corrupt in their dealings with corporations. True only to the trusts, the Republican party has abandoned the constitution and the principles on which this government was founded.

The Democratic party will appeal to the country to bring the government back to the paths of truth and soberness, to stop the radical and reckless expenditure of public funds, to give an honest and impartial enforcement of the law, to bring the nation out of its entangling foreign alliances and wars of conquest into a condition of peace and open-handed friendship with all the world, to take steps toward removing the dangerous control of the nation's finances from the national banks, to pass laws that will curb the trusts and take from them the special privileges whereby they have grown so great, and last, but not least, to "turn the rascals out." On such a platform, and under the leadership of Bryan, the Republican party can be swept from power in every branch of the government by a combined, united and harmonious opposition.

The most important and patriotic duty of the Democratic party will be to defeat the Republican ticket next November. The details of reform in administration can safely be trusted to Bryan and of reform in the laws of the congress which shall be elected with him.

The country is more concerned in bringing the government back to safe and sound principles of administration than in any single law which might be enacted, however important such law may be to the welfare of the country. Honest administration of the government on constitutional lines is the foundation upon which reform of the law must be erected. No law, however good and salutary, can be of avail unless it is honestly administered. There are good laws on the statute books now which have become dead letters at the hands of the present administration. The Kansas City convention will give earnest of its purpose to meet the demands of the country.

Every honest and patriotic citizen wants a clean government, whether he be a Republican, Democrat or Populist. He wants an impartial application of the law. He wants an economical expenditure of public funds. He wants the public service to be free from scandal and corruption. He wants an equitable adjustment of taxation. He still believes in the constitution. He is opposed to a huge standing army and to entangling foreign alliances. He is opposed to trusts and the special privileges which have created them.

McKinley has not given a clean administration. Hanna's political henchmen have filled the public offices, have openly and flagrantly violated the civil service law and have stolen public funds. The Cuban scandals in the postal service, in the customs service and in the army are merely the surface indications of a corruption as widespread as the government itself.

Millions have been taken from the public treasury under the flimsiest gloss of regularity and legal form. No one who knows will attempt to deny that political favorites were permitted to make contracts for army and navy supplies at prices out of all proportion to the value of the articles furnished. Scores of vessels were sold to the government at three times their actual value, with commissions to political favorites quite equal to the price which went to the actual owners of the vessels. Worse yet, legislation was forced through congress, like the armor trust grab, for the sole purpose of furnishing Mark Hanna with a Republican campaign corruption fund of millions. This notorious and flagrant misuse of legislative power is alone enough to condemn to political destruction the party which has permitted it.

Taxation has been so adjusted as to fall almost entirely upon the shoulders of the laboring and producing masses of the country, while wealth is practically exempt from sharing in the burden of government.

A general demand that taxation should be reduced to a safe and conservative basis has been refused, and all signs indicate that expenditures even in a time of peace will equal the enormously heavy revenue now produced. The appropriations for the coming fiscal year are more than $709,000,000. Had not certain important appropriations been deferred, and had not even the heavy appropriations made been pared so much below the actual requirements of the Republican program that a heavy deficiency bill will be necessary next winter, the appropriations would have been over $800,000,000. Did these huge appropriations return to the people in public benefits some fair share of the money taken from them in the form of taxes there might be less reason for complaint, but the unfortunate fact remains that not one dollar in five is so expended as to actually benefit the taxpayer who contributed it.

Take for instance the $90,000,000 increase in army appropriations over the figures for 1896. That is all to be thrown into the Philippine rat hole, where the entire trade of the United States for the current fiscal year is less than $3,000,000. The $35,000,000 in the naval expenditure will benefit a few ship-building firms, who will divide with the armor plate trust enormous profits on their political contracts. There is a $32,000,000 increase in the sundry civil bill. That goes entirely to feed taxeaters of high and low degree.

A smaller indication, but a characteristic one, is found in the bill now reposing on the Senate calendar with a favorable report from the Republican majority of the judiciary committee to increase the pay of all federal judges from the chief justice of the Supreme Court down. The chief justice now gets $10,500. It is proposed to give him $21,000 a year. The other justices of the Supreme Court are to have their pay doubled. Taking the whole list, an increase of salary amounting to half a million dollars annually is to be put through.

The army reorganization bill, which is hung up to see whether McKinley is to be re-elected or not, involves an increase of the standing army to 65,000, with a trebling of the expense of its maintenance. These are a few brief samples of what a continuation of Republican control means to the taxpayers. The Democratic party will put the issue squarely before the people.

JACKSON DAY.

DEMOCRATIC EXPANSION.

The Republican newspapers have been doing the people a real service by publication of a map sent out by some one of the imperialist committees—very likely the Cuban annexation junta of Washington—which map shows how the United States has grown and enlarged by Democratic expansion. Louisiana is marked 'Democratic expansion," and so is all of California, Texas, Oregon, the Gadsden purchase and Florida.

Cuba is also included in the list. It is an instructive map. If we had one of them we would publish it. Every voter ought to see a copy and study it carefully. By this map it is shown that the present great area of the United States of America is due entirely to "Democratic expansion" save and alone the original thirteen states and Alaska. This is a record which the Republican party dare not "point to with pride." There was no "Republican expansion" known until McKinley got in his work. The growth of the United States so as to cover a large part of the continent and include homogeneous states working together in harmony has been due to the Democratic party.

We are glad that the Republicans have called attention to the fact that the expansion we have known before has practically all been "Democratic expansion." This is a point we have been making all along, but the Republicans refuse to acknowledge it. President Schurman of the first Philippine peace commission, acknowledged it. He was among the first Republicans to declare that the expansion under this administration differs in every essential from the expansion of the Louisiana purchase. Then Secretary Root stated the distinction plainly.

Since then the administration has acted entirely upon the theory that expansion which includes islands in distant seas is entirely unlike the expansion which the Democratic party brought about. In fact, every thing has been done to make it evident to all that the "Republican expansion" of 1899 is entirely different from the "Democratic expansion" which has made ours a great and glorious nation.

The truth is that "Democratic expansion" is in accord with the spirit of our institutions, while "Republican expansion," or imperialism, is along the lines of European colonization.—Sioux Falls Press.

"There's the Rub."

The war in the Philippines, again says Gen. Otis, "is practically ended," and, "as soon as the natives in general gain confidence in the friendly offices of the Americans, there will be little difficulty in bringing them to terms." Aye, there's the rub. The experiment of shooting "confidence" into the Filipinos, however, has not proved and will not prove a success. Human nature is not constituted that way.

Men must reap the deeds they sow,
Force from force must ever flow;
And deeds of blood, though done beneath
Pretense of good, are Dragon's teeth
From which must spring, as fixed by Fate,
Their harvest—death, revenge and hate.

—Grand Rapids Democrat.

The March of Empire.

The Rev. Rockwell Clancey, a missionary who has just returned from India, says that he "saw girls in one town sold for thirty cents apiece. They were bought up by the Mohammedans. Boys were unsaleable." This traffic in human flesh is due to the great famine in gold-ridden India. This is but one phase of the terrible condition that the people of the United States, as well as the people of other countries, are called upon to relieve. And can the rest of the world escape its responsibility because Great Britain is not doing her full duty?—Milwaukee News.

According to a German publication, a chemist of that country has prepared a fluid that has the power when injected into the tissue of a plant, near its roots, of anaesthetizing the plant—not destroying it, but temporarily suspending its vitality.

MODERN WAR NOVELTIES

STRANGE DEVICES OF ALL SORTS FOR THE SOLDIER.

Importance of Accurate Reconnoissance and Scouting—New Methods of Obtaining Information—Men, Animals and Machinery Employed in New Ways

In modern war the importance of accurate and reliable reconnoissance has increased an hundredfold, owing to the fact that the forces engaged in decisive battles have become far greater in number, and the distances to be covered, both in concentrating the troops for battle and in disposing them on the battlefield itself, greatly exceed those of the past.

The following is a brief summary of the principle means which have been made use of recently for facilitating this important military work:

1. Specially Trained Scouts and Orderlies—General Sheridan was the first on the Northern side in the Civil War to object to having his cavalry frittered away and worn out in outpost duty, and General Grant had the good sense to uphold him. To free the cavalry of the smaller elements of its reconnoissance work, and economize its fighting power as much as possible, most of the great nations are now training a kind of mounted infantry in this work. In Germany each army corps has a squadron of "mounted orderlies" of this kind, and they have proved invaluable; in Russia a number of the best men in each company are mounted and trained in patrol and reconnoissance duty, instructed in riding horses and bicycles, and exercised by affording them opportunities to engage in bear and tiger hunts; in England each brigade of the cavalry division sent to South Africa received a battalion of mounted infantry with a Maxim gun; in Austria mounted scouts assist the cavalry in their reconnoitering. As an incentive to training for this work, the various nations have instituted distance rides and walks.

2. Field and Wireless Telegraphy—The improvements in field telegraph apparatus have permitted the use of this valuable accessory in the very front of the outposts, and the introduction of the buzzer has so far increased its efficiency that with even the poorest insulation it works well enough for all practical purposes. Our Signal Corps in the Philippines has surpassed all previous records in this field.

Wireless telegraphy is still in the experimental stage, although it is now being tested practically in the field in the Transvaal. Improvements are being constantly made, and its future cannot yet be predicted.

3. Optical Telegraphy—The heliograph has been specially developed in sunny climates; by the British in Afghanistan and in Africa; by the French in Tonkin; by the Americans in the United States, and by the Greeks in Crete. It has been used successfully over single stretches of sixty-five miles. In France the acetylene lamp has greatly increased the use of the apparatus by making it independent of sunlight, and signals have been read as far as thirty-seven miles by day and fifty-six miles by night. In Italy the acetylene lamp has been read at a distance of seventy-two miles. The navy searchlights landed in Cape Colony have been used for flash signalling and have greatly extended the range.

4. Searchlights—The use of searchlights by ships and by coast and other forts is well known, but recently they have also been applied on battlefields for hunting up the wounded. Acetylene gas is used where electricity is not available.

5. Carrier Pigeons—The use of carrier pigeons from fixed stations like cities and forts has long been known, but lately they have been used successfully in the French field manœuvres, their houses being carried along by the troops. In Russia in 1898 cavalry patrols carried along the carrier pigeons of the forts, and it was found that in returning to their homes they traveled at the rate of five-eighths of a mile a minute. A number of pigeons have been sent from the besieged city of Ladysmith with dispatches to Durban, a distance of 200 miles. The great advantage of carrier pigeons to the navy lies in the fact that the scouting vessels of a fleet can send back information from long distances without themselves returning.

6. War Dogs—Pigeons merely return to their homes or to their feeding places, but dogs act much more intelligently, and are therefore useful in a greater variety of ways. In the first place, they have been used in reconnoisance duty, in carrying messages, and in connecting outposts and sentinels. In the second place, they have proved invaluable in hunting up the wounded after the battle. The collie has been found best for all purposes. The English used dogs to great advantage, in Matabeleland, for example, for giving warning of the approach of the enemy's scouts in the dark, and in advance of the head of column to scent the enemy. Germany, Austria, Sweden, Norway and Italy are now training dogs for use in war.

7. Balloons—Most of the great nations have balloon parks for the field, and they are so light that they are easily carried even in the train of the advance guard. The old spherical balloon is so unsteady, even in a wind of twenty feet a second, that it is impossible to observe from it, but the new cylindrical (dragon) balloon can be used in wind of twice this velocity. A new use of the balloon is on torpedo boats going at eighteen knots an hour, and by ascending some 1700 yards it was possible in this way to see from Kiel (Germany) to beyond Rugen and Copenhagen, thus connecting the North Sea and the Baltic. The first British Army Corps that was sent to South Africa carried with it two balloon sections, which have been actively in use since their arrival.

8. Cyclists—The number of cyclists in the European armies has been gradually increasing of late years. As long ago as 1894 England had over 3000 in her army. Italy is now organizing a cyclist company in each Bersaglieri regiment, for reconnaissance and messenger duty, and a special engineer section, for the rapid destruction of railroads and telegraph lines; France has a cyclist company for each army corps and cavalry division, Russia eight cyclists in each regiment, and other nations use a constantly increasing number in the autumn manœuvres.

9. Automobiles — Automobiles are to be used not only behind the front of the armies—that is, with the trains—but also at the front with the troops themselves. At the last French manœuvres they were employed to transport the outposts, for carrying orders, etc., and at the last German manœuvres eight such wagons, some large traction benzine motors and other small automobiles, were used with such success that a number of both kinds have since been ordered for the army. The purpose of the larger wagons is to transport ammunition, supplies and material; their great advantage is their speed and the fact that they reduce (by half to two-thirds) the length of the column of the trains on account of their great carrying power, the absence of horses, mules or oxen, and of the forage required for these draught animals. The smaller wagons are for messenger duty, the rapid transport of men and equipments, outpost duty and hospital service. In Germany a motor wagon with a load of 4400 pounds, and two lighter automobiles, recently passed through the steep roads of the Harz, and even crossed the Brocken. Messages were constantly carried during the recent manœuvres by light automobiles from Carlsruhe to Leonburg (forty-four miles) in 2½ hours, and a motor bicycle, in spite of bad weather, covered the distance from Augsburg to Carlsruhe in three days. England has used motor wagons for heavy traffic quite extensively at Aldershot, and is now using them in the Transvaal. Among the latest English constructions are (1) a four-wheeled automobile, worked by a benzine motor, attaining a speed of twenty-five miles an hour, carrying one man and a Maxim gun, and (2) an armored motor wagon carrying in a turret two machine guns and their cannoneers, and also a searchlight.—New York Sun.

In the Arms of Morpheus.

He had worked late at a typesetting machine and was tired from honest toil. He waited for a "Limits" car, told the conductor where to let him off, a few blocks beyond the Boulevard, and then settled in the corner for a nap. His next flash of intelligence came when he was being shaken and asked for a fare.

"Paid you once," he muttered, shaking off the conductor's hand and getting right back into the position of repose.

"Here, now, no monkeying. That was going out. We don't sell round trips."

This brought the passenger to his feet, he looked out and found that he was at Elizabeth street, going south. "What in thunder does this mean? I told you where to let me off. Hauled me out to the limits and back, did you? Well, I won't settle. I'm not out on an excursion and I'm not trying to enrich this syndicate of yours."

"And this is no sleeping car. I let you dream too long as it was. You'll pay or get off."

"That's easy. Stop 'er. I'll take the next one," and the two said things to each other as far as they could hear. He boarded another car twenty minutes later, issued the same order without noticing that it was the same conductor, doubled up in the same corner and cut loose with the same snore. This time he was shaken up at Ferry avenue on the return trip, was so sleepy that he thought it was his street, walked off and was so mad that he tried to tear up the track. Then he footed it home and went to sleep on the front steps.—Detroit Free Press.

The Poisonous Pineapple.

"It is a notorious fact," says the National Druggist, "that the pineapple is considered the least healthy of all the edible fruits of the tropics by those who know anything of the matter. The juice of the green and growing plant is credited in Java, the Philippines and throughout the far East generally with being a blood poison of a most deadly nature. It is said to be the substance with which the Malays poison their krishes and daggers, and is also credited with being the 'finger-nail poison' formerly in use among aboriginal Javanese women almost universally. These women formerly (or some thirty odd years ago), and possibly do yet, cultivated a nail, sometimes more, on each hand, to a long, sharp point, and the least scratch from one of these was certain death."

A Girl's Essay on "The Boy."

At a recent school examination for girls a paper handed in by a miss of twelve had as its subject "The Boy." "The boy is not an animal, yet can be heard to a considerable distance. When the boy hollers he opens his big mouth like frogs, but girls hold their tongue till they are spoken to, and then they answer respectable and tell just how it was. A boy thinks himself clever because he can wade where the water is deep. When the boy grows up he is called a husband, and then stops wading and stays out nights, but the grown-up girl is a widow and keeps house." of the life. You to have had a smooth life, a smooth departure, then those men, the disciples of Jesus Christ, ought to have had such a departure and such a life. St. James lost his head. St. Philip was hung to death on a pillar. St. Matthew had his life dashed out with a halberd. St. Mark was dragged to death through the streets. St. James the Less was beaten to death with a fuller's club. St. Thomas was struck through with a spear. They did not find following Christ smooth sailing. Oh, how they were all tossed in the tempest! John Huss in a fire; Hugh McKail in the hour of martyrdom; the Albigenses, the Waldenses, the Scotch Covenanters—did they find it smooth sailing? But why go into history when we can draw from our own memory illustrations of the truth of what I say? A young man in a store trying to serve God, while his employer scoffs at Christianity; the young men in the same store, antagonistic to the Christian religion, teasing him, tormenting him about his religion, trying to get him mad. They succeed in getting him mad and say, "You're a pretty Christian!" Does that young man find it smooth sailing when he tries to follow Christ? Or you remember a Christian girl. Her father despises the Christian religion; her mother despises the Christian religion; her brothers and sisters scoff at the Christian religion; she can hardly find a quiet place in which to say her prayers. Did she find it smooth sailing when she tried to follow Jesus Christ? Oh, no! All who would live the life of the Christian religion must suffer persecution. If you do not find it in one way you will get it in another way. But be not disheartened! Take courage. You are in a glorious companionship. God will see you through all trials, and He will deliver you.

My subject also impresses me with the fact that good people sometimes get frightened. In the tones of these disciples as they rushed into the back part of the boat I find they are frightened almost to death. They say, "Master, carest Thou not that we perish?" They had no reason to be frightened, for Christ was in the boat. I suppose if we had been there we would have been just as much affrighted. Perhaps more. In all ages very good people get very much affrighted. It is often so in our day, and men say: "Why, look at the bad lectures. Look at the various errors going over the church of God. We are going to founder. The church is going to perish. She is going down." Oh, how many good people are affrighted by iniquity in our day and think the church of Jesus Christ is going to be overthrown, and are just as much affrighted as were the disciples of my text! Don't worry, don't fret, as though iniquity were going to triumph over righteousness. A lion goes into a cavern to sleep. He lies down with his shaggy mane covering the paws. Meanwhile the spiders spin a web across the mouth of the cavern and say, "We have captured him." Gossamer thread after gossamer thread until the whole front of the cavern is covered with the spider's web, and the spiders say, "The lion is done; the lion is fast." After awhile the lion has got through sleeping. He rouses himself, he shakes his mane, he walks out into the sunlight. He does not even know the spider's web is spun, and with his roar he shakes the mountain. So men come spinning their sophistries and skepticism about Jesus Christ. He seems to be sleeping. They say: "We have captured the Lord. He will never come forth again upon the nation. Christ is overcome forever. His religion will never make any conquest among men." But after awhile the Lion of the tribe of Judah will rouse Himself and come forth to shake mightily the nations. What's a spider's web to the aroused lion? Give truth and error a fair grapple, and truth will come off victor.

Do not be afraid of a great revival. Oh, that such gales from heaven might sweep through all our churches! Oh, for such days as Richard Baxter saw in England and Robert McCheyne saw in Dundee! Oh, for such days as Jonathan Edwards saw in Northampton! I have often heard my father tell of the fact that in the early part of this century there broke out a revival at Somerville, N. J., and some people were very much agitated about it. They said: "You are going to bring too many people into the church at once," and they sent down to New Brunswick to get John Livingston to stop the revival. Well, there was no better soul in all the world than John Livingston. He went and looked at the revival. They wanted him to stop it. He stood in the pulpit on the Lord's day and looked over the solemn auditory and he said: "This, brethren, is in reality the work of God. Beware how you stop it." And he was an old man, leaning heavily on his staff—a very old man. And he lifted that staff and took hold of the small end of the staff and began to let it fall slowly through between the finger and the thumb, and he said: "Oh, thou impenitent, thou art falling now—falling from life, falling away from peace and heaven, falling as certainly as that cane is falling through my hand—falling certainly, though perhaps falling slowly!" And the cane kept on falling through John Livingston's hand. The religious emotion in the audience was overpowering, and men saw a type of their doom as the cane kept falling and falling, until the knob of the cane struck Mr. Livingston's hand, and he clasped it stoutly and said: "But the grace of God can stop you as I stopped that cane," and then there was gladness all through the house at the fact of pardon and peace and salvation. "Well," said the people after the service, "I guess you had better send Livingston home. He is making the revival worse." Oh, for gales from heaven to sweep all the continents! The danger of the church of God is not in revivals.

I learn once more from this subject that Christ can hush a tempest. It did seem as if everything must go to ruin. The disciples had given up the idea of managing the ship; the crew were entirely demoralized; yet Christ rises, and the storm crouches at His feet. Oh, yes, Christ can hush the tempest! You have had trouble. Perhaps it was the little child taken away from you—the sweetest child of the household, the one who asked the most curious questions, and stood around you with the greatest fondness, and the spade cut down through your bleeding heart. Perhaps it was an only son, and your heart has ever since been like a desolated castle, the owls of the night hooting among the fallen arches and the crumbling stairways. Or all your property swept away, you said: "I had so much bank stock; I had so many Government securities; I had so many houses; I had so many farms—all gone, all gone." Why, sir, all the storms that ever trampled with their thunders, all the shipwrecks, have not been worse than this to you. Yet you have not been completely overthrown. Why? Christ says: "I have that little one in My keeping. I can care for him as well as you can, better than you can, O bereaved mother!" Hushing the tempest. When your property went away, God said, "There are treasures in heaven in banks that never break." Jesus hushing the tempest.

There is one storm into which we will all have to run. The moment when we let go of this world, and try to take hold of the next we will want all the grace possible. Yonder I see a Christian soul rocking on the surges of death. All the powers of darkness seem let out against that soul—the swirling wave, the thunder of the sky, the shriek of the wind, all seem to unite together. But that soul is not troubled. There is no sighing, there are no tears; plenty of tears in the room at the departure, but he weeps no tears—calm, satisfied and peaceful; all is well. By the flash of the storm you see the harbor just ahead, and you are making for that harbor. All shall be well. Jesus being our pilot.

Into the harbor of heaven now we glide;
We're home at last, home at last.
Softly we drift on the bright, silv'ry tide;
We're home at last.
Glory to God, all our dangers are o'er;
We stand secure on the glorified shore;
Glory to God, we will shout evermore,
We're home at last.

INDIANS' DEEDS TO PENNS.

Old Pennsylvania Parchments at Harrisburg.

All the old parchment colonial deeds and records in keeping of the state department at Harrisburg have just been put through a process of preservation by Secretary of the Commonwealth Griest, says the Philadelphia Record. For years these records have been kept in tin boxes, and, as they were occasionally searched, the result was much confusion in the arrangement of papers. Many of the old wax seals were lost, and the crumpled papers were more or less damaged. Peculiar interest attaches to the Indian signatures, which are yet quite distinct on many of the documents. A large parchment contains the treaty of the Penns with the sachem of the Schuylkill Indians, and embraces the transfer of all the tracts of land or lands lying in or near the River Schuylkill and its branches, under date of September 7, 1742. The consideration for this land, as stated on the deed, included twenty brass kettles, 100 blankets, sixty linen shirts, twenty hats, six coats, twelve pairs of shoes and buckles, thirty pairs of stockings, twenty guns, twelve gunlocks, 300 pounds of gunpowder, 600 pounds of lead bullets, sixty hatchets, fifty planting hoes, 120 knives, 160 pairs of scissors, 100 tobacco tongs, twenty-four looking glasses, forty tobacco boxes, 1,000 flints, five pounds of paint, twentyfour dozen garters, six dozen small silk ribbons, twelve dozen rings, 100 pounds of tobacco, 400 pipes, twenty gallons of rum and £60. There are several large deeds transferring land from the Indians to the Penns, all bearing the peculiar signatures of the Indian chieftains, representing all manner of animals, reptiles, fishes, birds and insects. The most important of these deeds is that conveying to the Penns the territory controlled by the Six Nations, for which a consideration of $5,000 was paid. The signatures of the Indians to this document give the Indian names and their English signification.

OSTRICH AS A WATCHMAN.

Sagacious Bird, Named Napolean, Keeps Guard.

An ostrich watchman is the latest trained wonder in Florida. He can be seen every night making his rounds through the pens of an ostrich farm near Jacksonville, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Times. About a week ago the sagacious bird, which has been named Napoleon, proved his capacity for the appointment. About eight months ago the owners of this herd of ostriches established the farm at this place. Previous to this time and since 1885, when they made their first importations of birds into this country, they carried on their extensive farm in California. Attracted by the salubrious climate and the shorter distance to their markets, they determined upon this step. When they established their farm at Jacksonville, they added as an especial attraction specimens of many rare birds and animals capable of easy domestication. Among the former was a flock of over 200 golden and other varieties of pheasants. In the course of events this fact became known to the many colored gentry, and knowing the darky's natural penchant for "chickin'," the owners feared for their latest purchases. The pheasants, they knew, would be tempting, because all birds look alike to coons, and these resembled more than anything else, nice, fat yellow-legged roosters, and so would become doubly tempting. Nor were the fears of the owners groundless. The "cullod" population rapidly passed through the stages of hearing, investigating and finally seeing. At this stage of the game the owners of the ostrich herd took steps to prevent the loss of their property, and Napoleon was called into requisition.

A Good All Round Man.

Corporal Lorne Stewart of "G" Company, writing to his home in Prince Edward island, says: "I spent all morning in having a bath, washing my shirt, socks, towels, and darning my socks. I can make porridge, tea, coffee, cocoa, pudding, soup, boil vegetables, fry beefsteak, wash, darn, sew, clean cooking pots, wash dishes or do any sort of housework. Such is the result of campaigning. I am going out to serv hen I go home, so if you know of any one wanting a cook, housemaid, or general servant, just recommend me; I am equal to anything from nursing a Kaffir baby to washing the older children."

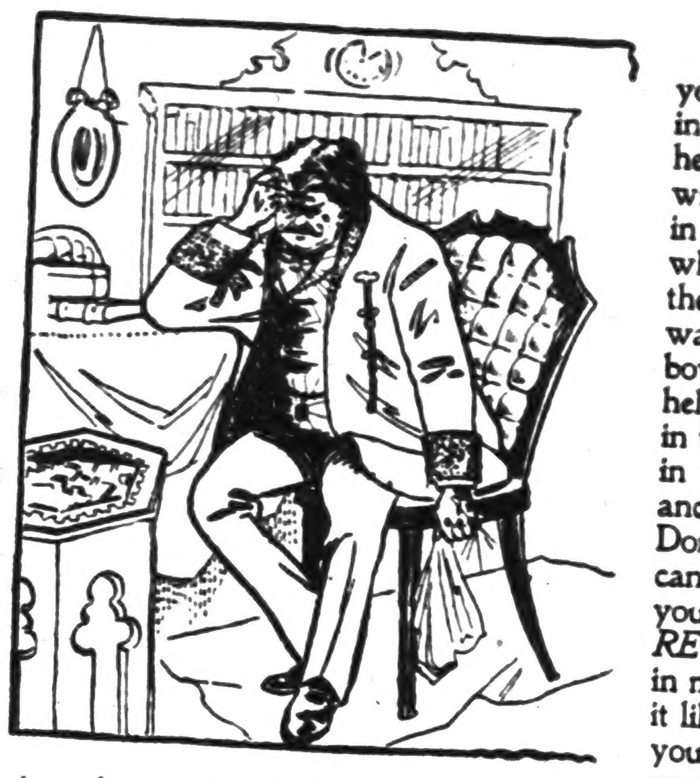
A New Mineral.

Mohawkite is the name given to a new mineral discovered in the copper mines at Houghton, Mich. It is an arsenide of copper in connection with an arsenide of nickel, united chemically, not mechanically. An alloy of copper and nickel is in good demand, and the new ore, it is said can be turned into copper, nickel, arsenic and cobalt with less than 1 per cent of waste. Cobalt is the base of the deepest blue dye. Arsenic is worth five cents a pound, copper 17 cents and nickel more than twice as much as copper.

RICH, BUT WRETCHED



Fight on for wealth, old "Money Bags," your liver is drying up and bowels wearing out, some day you will cry aloud for health, offering all your wealth, but you will not get it because you neglected Nature in your mad rush to get gold. No matter what you do, or what ails you, to-day is the day—every day is the day—to keep watch of Nature's wants—and help your bowels act regularly—CASCARETS will help Nature help you. Neglect means bile in the blood, foul breath, and awful pains in the back of the head with a loathing and bad feeling for all that is good in life. Don't care how rich or poor you are, you can't be well if you have bowel trouble, you will be regular if you take CASCARETS—get them to-day—CASCARETS—in metal box; cost 10 cents; take one, eat it like candy and it will work gently while you sleep. It cures; that means it strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels and gives them new life; then they act regularly and naturally; that is what you want—it is guaranteed to be found in—

Vaudeville During Lunch Time.

There is a prospect that Currier's restaurant, on Fulton street, New York, may be converted into a playhouse, where continuous vaudeville will hold forth. Merchants in the neighborhood and their clerks are having heated discussions over the probabilities of success or failure of the enterprise. The idea is to give performances during the day, with especial attention to the lunching hour—say from 12 to 2:30—when tables will be plentifully supplied with the best that the market affords. A citizen can pay $1 at the door and not only obtain an excellent meal, but see a good show while eating.

In reply to Mr. Reynolds invitation for a joint canvass of the dirtrict (published in our last issue) Mr. Oliver has sent the following reply:

Calera, Ala., June 23, 1900
Hon. L. H. Reynolds,
Jemison, Ala.

Dear Sir—I received your kind invitation to enter into a joint debate with you as to the political issues set forth in your favor to me a few days since. I should have made reply sooner, but on the day I got your letter I was on my way to Mr. Shaw's court, and since then I have been considering of my professional enjoyments so that I could arrange to meet you at some places to join in a discussion of the issues mentioned. Although I have two justice courts to attend on the 30th inst., one before Mr. Black at Calera and one before Mr. Wilson at Canadarque, I will endeavor to meet you at Columbiana. Time will also be given us at our dinner here on the 29th and unless Providence should hinder, I expect to be present at the Fourth of July celebration at Thorsby. As to other times and occasions, I leave to your suggestion. I cannot promise positively, however, to meet you at such places as you may designate, as I am very much dependent upon my labors as an attorney for a livelihood, and cannot well afford to neglect any call made upon me as a lawyer. I will it were possible for me to accept your proffered kindness of accompanying you in an extensive campaign of our district, and I hope to see you on the 29th inst., at this place and mutually agree on some appointments.

Yours truly,
W. R. OLIVER.

Jemison.

Let others follow the example. The Durben brothers live in speaking distance of each other. Recently Mr. L. D. and four children took measles. He thought he was about ruined, not so, though. His brother Henry, with the pluck and push characteristic of his whole makeup kept up with the work on both farms; with a little assistance he gathered. Henry D. and wife are models of kindness to sick neighbors and those in distress.

We would be glad to hear from the farmers, has the rain injured you? Vegetation is on a boom, even crop grass.

Let not all the boys marble so much lest they be marbleed at.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and I respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general elect on in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

Shoultz

Rain, rain, grass, grass, work, work! But we are glad that most of us are able to handle that grass.

Mr. H. F. Heal, of Lawley, was a visitor here Sunday.

We have had plenty of rain but not so much as some of our joining neighborhoods have had; we hear some say they have not plowed any in twelve days; not so here we have been blessed in that respect and crops are looking well. The largest crop of potatoes are being set out that I have seen in many years; lots of peas being planted, looks like farmers have a notion of making hog and hominy at home.

Mr. C. L. Ingram, of Long Branch, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Marchant, this week.

Lots of fine gardens in this section.

Some of our young men enjoy themselves around the church doors about the time the preacher reads his text; we would be glad they would get seats in the church where they could enjoy themselves better.

Cane Creek.

There was a very good turnout at the Gore new schoolhouse Saturday day night, considering the bad weather. Hon. L. H. Pounds made an excellent speech, the people seemed to enjoy it very much. In conclusion, Bro. Pounds spoke of the necessity of organization, and they elected chairman and secretary of a club. Having no paper to enroll their names, the secretary was instructed to get all the names as soon as he could and be ready to send up as large a representation as possible in the county meeting that is expected to be held in July. Now, a word of encouragement to the Populists of the county. Gentlemen, everything bids fair for the largest majority being sent up from East Chilton this time that has been since 1892, and as George Washington said on one occasion in the heat of the fight, as he raised his flag, cried out; "Rally to it, my brave boys, and the day shall be our own." So I say stand by your colors. A POP.

THE FOURTH AT THORSBY.

Thorsby, June 27, 1900

Editor BANNER—We were informed yesterday by some one who had got his information from parties in Clanton that Thorsby was not going to celebrate on the Fourth after all. Now, Mr. Editor that is a mistake, and I wish you would let the people know through the Banner that Thorsby has made every preparation for a rousing celebration next Wednesday and, rain or shine, nothing will stop it now, it will come according to the program, and everybody will be here. We have just received word from the Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, that Col. W. J. Samford will be here to deliver the speech of the day. This will probably be the only opportunity for the people of Chilton county to hear and meet the Democratic nominee for Governor before election. Hon. S. M. Adams and other prominent speakers have promised to be present.

The Thorsby Cornet Band will appear in their handsome new uniforms, and the band boys will spare no effort to make the celebration a grand success. According to the programs, which are now being distributed, there will be all sorts of amusements, speaking, singing, music, parades and all kinds of races and contests. The greased pig and the greased pole will furnish merriment for the clown. The Expansion Band will make their first bow to an American audience. There will be a free performance of trained animals, a circus in itself. There will be a race for the fast horses (or mules) and another for the slowest outfit. Bicycle race, wheelbarrow race, egg race, etc.

Three thousand people are expected; word comes from all sides that they will bring big lunch baskets and there will be plenty to eat, and large dinner tables have been erected, and everybody is invited to spread their lunches on the common table. Let all patriotic people turn out for a grand holiday.

Com. of arrangements,
J. W. FRANZEN, Chm.

THE PARADE. Shortly after the arrival of the morning trains, due at 10 o'clock, the Reception Committee, with the invited guests and speakers, headed by the Cornet Band, will proceed to the schoolhouse where the parade will form in line.

Order of parade: Chief Marshal, Wylie Gore, and his aides, President and Speaker of the day, Thorsby Cornet Band, Liberty Float, Invited Guests and Citizens in Carriages, Independance Float, Cavalry of Rough Riders, Expansion Band and Thorsby Militia headed by "Billy," citizens on foot.

Macedonia.

News in these parts has been rather scarce, no visiting and everybody busy. Farmers are having it with grass this year; our plows have been stopped a week, and at this writing it is still raining. It is raining too much for cotton, but it may be a blessing sent "in disguise" as one of the correspondents says.

It seems that Mr. T. U. and one of the correspondents have over estimated the tobacco spitting business; 500 spits to one chew is a lot of spitting and 1000 is more, and it don't take but one spit to soil a shirt, though we would love to hear from them again.

Mulberry has ordered a lot of new song books, so we will expect to hear of a singing there in the near future. CAST.

GRAND GIFT DISTRIBUTION.

A Forty-Cent Sugar Shell Free to Every Married Lady.

Editor Banner—We believe that the most effective advertising we can do is to get samples of our goods into the hands of the people. Therefore, we are sending an elegant sterling silver-plated sugar shell, such as we sell regularly at 40c each, to every married lady in the United States who writes for it. There is nothing to pay. The gift is absolute. You will confer a favor upon your lady readers by making this announcement in your paper. Each lady will send her name only, as this is too valuable a gift to send to persons who do not ask for it themselves. We give choice of any of our 40c designs, and will send illustrations from which selection may be made.

TIEN TSIN BOMBARDED.

Eight Hundred Americans Taking Part in the Fight.

The silence of Pekin continues unbroken, says a London dispatch. Four thousand men of the allied forces were having sharp defensive fighting at Tien Tsin Tuesday and Wednesday, with a prospect of being reinforced Thursday. This is the situation in China, as set forth in the British government dispatch.

"Eight hundred Americans are taking part in the fight at Tien Tsin," says the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express, "and they apparently form a part of the supplementary force, arriving with German and British after the conflict started. It is impossible to estimate the number of Chinese there, but they had a superior number of guns."

The commander of the German squadron at Taku has wired as follows to the government:

"A French officer who has arrived here from Tien Tsin, which place he left June 20, reports that for three days the city has been bombarded by the Chinese and that the troops of the foreign detachment were short of ammunition."

Three Missionaries Rescued.

Rev. Dr. Leonard, secretary of the Methodist Foreign Missionary Society, in New York, received the following cablegram:

"Chee Foo—Tien Tsin bombarded. Pekin very serious. Hopkins, Brown and King saved. Are on gunboat.

"BROWN."

The three men mentioned are missionaries. Dr. Leonard infers from the fact that only those who were saved are cabled, the remaining twenty-four missionaries in Tien Tsin have been murdered by the Boxers. Among them are many women, including five in the Women's Foreign Missionary Society and members of the Haynor, Pike, Hopkins and Brown families.

Li Hung Chang's Remedy.

Li Hung Chang, who was interviewed in Canton, said he would leave for Pekin on June 27 in obedience to an order from the Empress to suppress the Boxers and to make peace with the powers.

He endorses the opinion that he is the only man in China capable of coping with the situation. He said he believed the Boxers to be a "rabble led away by fanaticism and anti-Christian feeling," but he also declared that the native Christian leaders were much to blame, inasmuch as they engendered litigation in the native courts. He asserted that he did not regard the Boxers as a political society, and that in his opinion the Empress had been misled and misinformed.

It Required a Convict.

The inside steel doors to the cash and bond boxes in the state treasury vaults at Frankfort, Ky., the combinations of which were lost when the new state treasurer took charge of the office were opened Saturday. Frankfort machinists had been at work on the doors for three days and made no progress. A message was sent to the penitentiary for a convict who could blow open a safe Frank Simmons, who was sent up from Floyd county for safe-blowing, was selected by the prison authorities as the best man to do the job, and he justified their confidence by opening the safe in thirty minutes.

Captain George F. Towle Dead.

The death is announced in London of Captain George F. Towle, United States army, retired, aged 65 years. He was twice breveted for gallant and meritorious service during the civil war.

Hanged and Shot.

Frank Gilmore was hanged and shot near New Orleans, La., by a determined mob Saturday night for the murder of Mrs. Joseph Coates, after he had confessed to the dastardly crime. He was first strung up to a beech tree limb. The branch broke and the mob riddled the dazed villain with bullets before he could rise from the ground. A hole was dug under the tree where the lynching took place. Gilmore's body was tumbled into it and then the mob dispersed.

American corn is gaining great popularity at the Paris Exposition. These effete Europeans will find out what is good after awhile.

HORRIBLE RAILROAD WRECK

Passenger Train Plunges Into a Washout and 35 People Killed.

ONLY NINE PASSENGERS ESCAPED DEATH

The Wreck Caught Fire and the Entire Train, With the Exception of Sleeper, Destroyed—A List of the Dead.

A passenger train on the Macon branch of the Southern railway ran into a washout one and a half miles north of McDonough, Ga., Saturday night and was completely wrecked. The wreck caught fire and the entire train with the exception of the sleeper was destroyed. Every person on the train except the occupants of the Pullman car perished. Not a member of the train crew escaped. Thirty-five persons in all were killed. Following is a list of the dead: Wm. A. Barclay, conductor, Atlanta; J. E. Wood, conductor, Atlanta; J. H. Hunnicut, conductor, Atlanta; J. T. Sullivan, engineer; W. W. Bennett, baggagemaster, Atlanta; T. F. Maddox, cotton buyer, Atlanta; W. J. Pate, Atlanta; twelve-year-old son of W. J. Pate, Atlanta; H. R. Cressman, Macon, Ga.; George W. Flournoy, Atlanta; D. C. Hightower, Stockbridge, Ga.; W. W. Sparks, Macon, Ga.; Elder Henson, traveling man, supposed to have been from Florida; J. R. Florida, Nashville, Tenn.; W. O. Ellis, bridgeman, Stockbridge; D. Y. Griffith, supervisor; J. H. Rhodes, flagman; John Brantley, white, fireman; Will Green, extra fireman; W. L. Morissett, pump repairer; W. R. Lawrence, foreman extra gang; Ed Byrd, colored fireman, Atlanta; Robert Spencer, train porter; four bodies unidentified; eight negro section hands.

The train left Macon at 7:10 and was due in Atlanta at 9:45 Saturday night. McDonough was reached on time.

Tremendous rains of daily occurrence for the past two weeks have swollen all streams in this part of the south, and several washouts have been reported on the different roads. About a mile and a half north of McDonough Camp creek comes somewhat near the Southern's tracks and, running alongside it for some distance, finally passes away under the road by a heavy stone culvert. A cloudburst broke over that section of the county about 6 o'clock and presumably shortly after dark washed out a section of the track nearly 100 feet in length. Into this the swiftly moving train plunged. There was not a note of warning. The storm was still raging and all the car windows were closed. The passengers, secure as they thought, and sheltered comfortably from the inclement weather went to death without an instant's warning.

The train, consisting of a baggage car, second-class coach, first-class coach and a Pullman sleeper, was knocked into kindling wood by the fall. The wreck caught fire in a few minutes after the fall and all the coaches were burned except the Pullman car.

Every person on the train, except the occupants of the Pullman car, perished in the disaster. There was no escape, as the heavy Pullman car weighted down the others, and the few alive in the sleeper were unable to render assistance to their fellow passengers.

As the wreck began to go to pieces under the destructive work of both flames and flood, human bodies, floated out from the mass and were carried down stream by the current.

Eight Men Killed, Thirty-five Injured.

A passenger train on the Chicago and Northwestern road, loaded with excursionists bound for the Sangerfest in Green Bay, Wis., collided Sunday with a freight train at Deperee, five miles south of Green Bay. Eight persons were killed, one is missing, and thirty-four were injured.

Mules for South Africa.

The steamer Hyanthes cleared New Orleans Saturday for Capetown, South Africa, with 1,000 mules for the British government.

Another Note to Turkey.

Lloyd C. Griscom, United States charge d'affaires at Constantinople, presented a fresh note to the Ottoman government, insisting upon an immediate reply to the demand of the United States for a settlement of the indemnity in connection with the losses of Americans at the time of the Armenian massacres. Although vigorously phrased, the note is not an ultimatum.

FILIPINOS AMBUSH AMERICANS.

Nine Men of the Fortieth Regiment Killed and Ten Wounded.

A Manila cable message says: A detachment of forty men of the Fortieth regiment, Captain Thomas Miller commanding, left Cagayan de Misamis, Island of Mindanao, scouting, June 18. During the morning of June 14 they encountered a strongly ambushed and entrenched force of the enemy. Their attempts to charge were frustrated by Filipino pitfalls and traps. The advance line was consequently under a heavy fire in front and on its flanks and fell back on Cagayan. The American loss was nine men killed and two officers and ten men wounded.

Troubles in Samar.

Reports have reached Manila of trouble in the island of Samar, whence reinforcements, a battalion of the Twenty-ninth regiment and a battery of artillery, were dispatched Saturday.

The United States cruiser New Orleans has sailed from Manila and it is supposed she is on her way to China. It is expected the armored cruiser Brooklyn will proceed to China shortly.

FLORIDA DEMOCRATS

Complete Their Ticket After a Long Siege.

The Florida state democratic convention, after a continuous session from 8 p. m. Friday to 3:40 p. m. Saturday, adjourned sine die. The ticket as completed stands:

Governor, Wm. S. Jennings; justice of the supreme court, Francis B. Carter; secretary of state, John L. Crawford; comptroller, W. H. Reynolds; attorney-general, W. B. Lamar; superintendent of public instruction, W. N. Sheath; commissioner of agriculture, Hon. B. E. McLean; railroad commissioner, John L. Morgan. Judge George P. Raney, of Tallahassee, was chosen the Florida member of the national democratic committee. The governor and state officials hold office for four years. This is the last state democratic convention that will be held in Florida for many years, probably, as the platform adopted provides for primaries for officers from United States senator down.

FOUR AMERICANS KILLED.

Wallis' Command Ambused by Chinese Near Tien Tsin.

The navy department at Washington Sunday issued the following bulletin:

"A telegram from Admiral Kempff, dated Chee Foo, June 24 says:

"'In ambuscade near Tein Tsin on the 21st, four of Waller's command were killed and seven wounded. Names will be furnished as soon as received. Force of 2,000 going to relieve Tien Tsin today. KEMPFF."

The secretary of the navy has ordered Admiral Remey to go with the Brooklyn to Taku and to tender to General McArthur conveyance of any army troops which the Brooklyn can carry.

Looks Like David B. Hill.

A number of prominent delegates to the democratic state convention were interviewed at Little Rock, Ark., on the vice presidency and a very strong sentiment in favor of David B. Hill, of New York, was found.

Towne May Withdraw.

Charles A. Towne, the populist nominee for vice-president has written a letter to a friend at Dallas, Tex., in which he gives the inference that if he is not the choice of the democratic party for vice-president he will withdraw.

Crop Situation a Calamity.

The Chicago Times-Herald publishes a crop report prepared by Snow, the crop expert, who has just completed a two weeks' trip through the states of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota. He declares the situation a national calamity and claims the wheat failure the worst ever known. He estimates the Dakotas as promising only 20,000,000 bushels each and Minnesota 35,000,000 bushels, a total of 75,000,000 bushels, against 200,000,000 bushels last year and 225,000,000 bushels in 1898.

Maniac's Horrible Deed.

At Cedar Rapids, Ia., Charles Mefford, a maniac, at 5 o'clock Sunday morning killed James Fitzsimmons, fatally injured Joseph Drake, seriously and possibly fatally injured Mrs. James Fitzsimmons, slightly injured Kate Fitzsimmons and then ended his own life. Mefford was 22 years of age and had been insane for a number of years. He was not generally considered dangerous.

APPOINTMENTS IN SECOND REGIMENT

School Lands Patents Received—Col. Falkner Made a Trustee—Industrial Developments at Irondale. Duel in Huntsville—Notes.

Col. Falkner Made a Trustee.

Col. Jefferson M. Falkner, district attorney for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, has been appointed a member of the board of trustees of the Montevallo Girls' school, succeeding Rev. George B. Eager, of Montgomery, resigned.

Duel on Streets of Huntsville.

E. A. Hill, a pasture owner and grocery-man, and David H. Sanders, barkeeper at W. F. Stuves' saloon, in Huntsville, engaged in a desperate shooting affray on Jefferson street, and as a result both men will probably die. The trouble was the result, it is said, of bad blood that has existed for some time.

Farmer Found Guilty of Murder.

In the Anniston city court Jeff Rountree, a well known farmer of near Piedmont, was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. Rountree shot and killed Jim Richards, a young white man who worked for and boarded with him several months ago, but claimed that he did it in self-defense.

School Lands Patents Received.

The patents to the Montevallo and Tuskegee school lands, granted by an act of congress, were received in the office of the governor a few days ago. The patent of the Montevallo school covers a total of 22,157 acres, and that of the Tuskegee school 22,021 acres. The remainder of the land is yet to be selected. The governor has advertised for bids for the sale of the Montevallo lands.

Contract for New Railroad.

Dunn & Lallande have been awarded the contract to build a mile and a half of new track for the Southern Railway in Bibb county, the contract price being between $10,000 and $15,000. The new track is to be a spur to connect the Southern with some new coal mines near Belle Ellen being opened up by the Bessemer Land and Improvement Company. The road will be built at once.

Industrial Development at Irondale.

At a special meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of Irondale a fifteen-year franchise was granted to Mr. Turpin and associates, giving wholesale rights in the corporate limits of that place. Messrs. Turpin and his associates propose to operate electric street car lines, to build an electric light and power plant, to build a gas plant and furnish gas to the city and to erect and maintain a water works system.

Second Regiment Appointments.

Lieutenant C. A. Allen, acting adjutant of the Second regiment, has made public regimental order No. 8, from Colonel H. B. Foster. This order appointed the staff officers of the Second, and was sent out to each appointee. It was as follows:

Regimental Order No. 8.

1. The following staff appointments in the Second Infantry are hereby announced:

Neal L. Anderson, captain and chaplain.

John D. Elliott, captain and quartermaster.

W. T. Sheehan, captain and commissary of subsistence.

Samuel Friedman, captain and inspector of rifle practice.

G. B. Wimberly, captain and surgeon.

James M. McLean, first lieutenant and assistant surgeon.

David W. Crossland, sergeant-major.

They will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

2. The above named officers will fill out and sign the enclosed oath of office and mail to the acting adjutant at Montgomery, Ala.

Dead From Heart Failure.

Mrs. Mary Motherwell dropped dead at New Decatur from heart failure. She had started to go on a steamboat excursion, and being late tried to catch the boat, but did not reach it in time.

Athens Roller Mill Started.

The Athens roller mill announced to the world Saturday morning, by blowing its large whistle, that it was ready for business.

Gen. Wheeler May Run.

Gen. Joseph Wheeler may become a candidate for congress when the unexpired term recently resigned by him expires. A prominent politician of the Eighth district has received a copy of a circular letter from General Wheeler in which he intimate that he will be at the disposal of his friends at that time.

All candidates who are contesting for General Wheeler's seat entered with the understanding that the man who wins will also be entitled to serve the full congressional term of two years which follows.

Fatal Accident at Alabama City.

A most horrible accident occurred at Alabama City Friday, in which Julius Wilson, a 12-year-old boy, lost his life. An electric car was going to Attalla and was making good progress. The operatives at Dwight mills were quitting for dinner and were swarming out the gate. Young Wilson got on the end of the cross ties and the motorman rang his bell. Wilson looked back and the mortorman thought he would jump off and turned on the current. As he did so the boy jumped across the track and the car struck him, dragging the boy's body 118 feet.

Shooting Affray.

A special from Brookwood says that Dr. Sellers, a dentist at that place, shot and killed James Tillery about 10 o'clock Saturday morning. It is said that the men quarreled Friday night and that Saturday Tillery followed Sellers to the latter's office and remarked with an oath: "I have you now." Sellers then drew a pistol and fired three shots, two of them taking effect in Tillery's breast and killing him instantly. Tillery was a miner and had recently married. The quarrel was over a trivial matter.

Shooting Affray at Decatur.

Saturday afternoon William Pinkerton, a Birmingham detective, shot and wounded M. E. Woodward, a saloonkeeper of New Decatur, at the Union station. The shooting grew out of an occurrence at Louisville, Ky., at the confederate reunion, when, it seems, Pinkerton had twice caused Woodward to be arrested on suspicion of being a pickpocket and caused Woodward a lot of trouble to prove his identity.

Eagle Works Burned.

A very disastrous fire occurred in Talladega Friday night. The Eagle works and contents are almost a total wreck as a result. The plant was quite an elaborate manufacturing enterprise, containing machine and woodworking shops and foundry. The origin is supposed to have been in the foundry. The loss is about $50,000.

Judge McClellan Withdraws.

Judge John B. McClellan, of Athens, owing to ill health and the lateness of his candidacy, and realizing that in the short time remaining he would not be able to do justice to himself, has determined to withdraw from the race for congress in the Eighth district of this state.

Shooting Near Guntersville.

Ed Gilbreth shot and instantly killed Joe Gregory near Guntersville a few days ago. Both had been drinking and left town together. They quarreled on the road home, and Gregory proposed to shoot it out. A pistol shot rang out, the ball passed through Gregory's heart killing him instantly.

...commerce in China, unless counsels of fear prevail, and declared the Democracy had been effectually routed. He pledged the party to prompt action in curbing harmful trusts, to an American interoceanic ship canal and to relief from the War Revenue act. He praised McKinley's course, defended the Porto Rican and Philippine policy, and declared that four years of Republican administration had made the nation's credit unassailable throughout the world.

When Mr. Walcott concluded he read a long list of secretaries and officials previously agreed upon. Former Governor Taylor, of Kentucky, seconded the nominations of the various officials announced, and they were elected unanimously. The usual routine motions relating to the rules and the formation of committees were then adopted, and the convention plunged into the long process of calling the roll of States for lists of officers of the various delegations. The convention adjourned at 3 o'clock until noon the following day.

Temporary Chairman Walcott called the convention to order on the second day. The Rev. Charles M. Boswell opened the proceedings with prayer. Fifteen surviving delegates of the first Republican convention, called at Pittsburg forty-four years ago, were then presented to the convention, and were received enthusiastically. They carried the American flag used in that convention, and another standard bore the legend "National Fremont Association. Republican Party, Organized February 22, 1856, at Pittsburg, Penn."

Representative Sereno E. Payne, of New York, Chairman of the Committee on Credentials, read the report of the committee, which was adopted unanimously.

General Grosvenor, of Ohio, Chairman of the Committee on Permanent Organization, then presented the committee's report, which was adopted. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was named for permanent chairman, and the other temporary officers were made permanent.

Senator Lodge, in his speech, reviewed the issues of the day. He said the gold standard had been firmly established, and as the result of our war with Spain Cuba was free. He said the party would maintain the protection policy, revive the merchant marine, establish civil government in the Philippines, and stimulate the expansion of our trade, especially in the Far East.

Senator Fairbanks, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, then presented the platform to the convention. The platform was adopted unanimously.

The roll of States was then called for the names of those appointed by the different delegations to serve as members of the National Committee and as vice-presidents of the convention.

The convention adjourned at 3 o'clock until noon the following day.

On the third and last day Permanent Chairman Lodge called the convention to order at 10.30 o'clock in the morning. The band ushered in the session with the National Anthem and Archbishop Ryan delivered the opening invocation.

Under the order of unfinished business former Senator Quay withdrew his resolution, proposing a reduction in the representation of the Southern delegates, which was offered at the previous session. The Southern delegates rose in a body and cheered wildly the withdrawal of the proposition.

Mr. Lodge then advanced to the front of the platform, and a thrill went through the vast audience as he announced: "Under the rules, nominations for the office of the President of the United States are now in order."

There was a momentary shout, which the Chairman punctured with "The State of Alabama is recognized." A tall and swarthy Alabamian stood on his chair, and by prearrangement answered:

"Alabama yields to Ohio."

This was the signal for the recognition of Senator Foraker, who was to make the speech nominating McKinley as the Republican candidate for President. Amid a tumult of applause Senator Foraker went to the platform and when quiet was restored began to speak. First he thanked Alabama for its courtesy in yielding the floor, but he attributed that courtesy to the overwhelming popularity of the candidate. Briefly, Senator Foraker adverted to the record of the President in peace and in war as one of the most remarkable in history.

When Senator Foraker concluded there occurred a remarkable demonstration. Every one stood and waved and yelled. Standards were wrenched from their places and borne aloft with umbrellas; great plumes of red, white and blue formed a tempestuous sea of color. The delegates then marched in solid ranks to the platform, with standards, plumes, banners and flags.

THE OPERATORS' ROOM.
(Accounts of the proceedings of the convention were instantly telegraphed to all parts of the country.)

After the demonstration had continued seven minutes the Ohio delegation moved up the aisle, while all the other State delegations, bearing aloft their standards, formed in a grand procession about the hall. The demonstration lasted just fifteen minutes.

Governor Roosevelt was recognized and amid great cheering he advanced to the platform to deliver the seconding speech. Governor Roosevelt's argumentive style kept the audience en rapport with him, for he was given the closest attention by the vast audience. As the Governor left the platform he was accorded an ovation, and when quiet was restored the Chairman recognized Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, for a speech seconding the nomination of the President.

The Senator pictured the President as a soldier in many a hard-fought field, a statesman in the halls of Congress, and as a President directing the destinies of a nation—"our President now, our President to be again."

Senator Lodge then recognized John W. Yerkes, of Kentucky, who arose to also second the nomination on behalf of the South. George Knight, head of the California delegation, was then recognized and in an effective speech he voiced the sentiments of his State.

"Vote, vote," came from the delegates as Mr. Knight concluded, but the Chairman stilled the outcry and recognized Governor Mount, of Indiana, who, in behalf of the Hoosier State, seconded the nomination of McKinley.

At 12.37 the vote began. All the States cast their vote for McKinley, and the tally clerks quickly made the official summary and handed it to the Chairman. Mr. Lodge took the paper, and advancing to the front of the stage, said:

"The total vote cast is 926, William McKinley has received 926 votes. It is a unanimous vote, and the Chairman declares that William McKinley is your nominee for the Presidency for the term beginning March 4, 1901."

The delegates were pretty tired by the time the McKinley nomination and its attendant enthusiasm had taken place, but after a brief interval Chairman Lodge restored order and introduced Colonel Lafe Young, of Iowa, who withdrew the name of Representative Dolliver and presented that of Roosevelt. He was followed by Michael J. Murray, of Massachusetts, who surrendered for Secretary Long and seconded the nomination.

J. M. Ashton, of Washington, a young-loking delegate, made the next seconding speech. As he closed, Governor Roosevelt bent forward and whispered something to Mr. Odell, and the two laid hold of Senator Depew and forced him to his feet. A shout at once went up from all sides for "Depew, Depew!" The Senator mounted the platform and then plunged into a speech withdrawing Woodruff's and seconding the nomination of Roosevelt.

When Arkansas was called the noise was to great to enable anybody to hear more than the vowels sound as the clerk read the names and figures. New York cast only seventy-one votes, and was recorded as "One not voting"—Roosevelt himself.

At the conclusion of the roll call, 925 votes for Roosevelt were announced, and he was declared nominated.

Mr. Lodge was appointed Chairman of the Committee of Notification for McKinley, and Mr. Wolcott for Roosevelt.

Resolutions of thanks to Mr. Lodge and Mr. Wolcott for their able services as presiding officers were unanimously adopted, also thanks to Mayor Ashbridge, of Philadelphia, for the hospitality of the city, and to all officials of the convention.

This closed the work, and at 2.14 on motion of Senator Payne, of New York, the Republican National Convention of 1900 adjourned sine die.

McKinley Gets the News.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—When word came over the wires to the White House just before 1 o'clock p. m. that President McKinley had been renominated by acclamation, the President took the little slip of paper on which was written the expected message and went immediately to the private parlor of the mansion to tell Mrs. McKinley what the convention had done.

Hanna Will Manage the Campaign.

Philadelphia (Special).—The National Committee met immediately after the adjournment of the convention. Senator Hanna was nominated and re-elected chairman for the next four years. The headquarters of the National Committee will be established at Chicago and New York, as in the campaign of 1896.

Albert Alston, a negro, was accused of insulting a woman at Oxford, N. C. Next morning his body was found filled with bullet holes. There is no clue to his assailants.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Philadelphia (Special).—Following is the platform, in part, which was adopted unanimously by the Republican National Convention:

The Republicans of the United States, through their chosen representatives, met in National Convention, looking back upon an unsurpassed record of achievement, and looking forward into a great field of duty and opportunity, and appealing to the judgment of their countrymen, make these declarations:

The commission issued by the people in the last national election to the Republican party to restore prosperity by means of two legislative measures, a protective tariff and a law making gold the standard of value, has been faithfully executed. There is no longer controversy as to the value of any Government obligations. Every American dollar is a gold dollar or its assured equivalent, and American credit stands higher than that of any nation. Capital is fully employed and labor everywhere is profitably occupied.

The American people, sustained by the Republican administration, have conducted and in victory concluded a war for liberty and human rights. No thought of National aggrandizement tarnished the high purpose with which American standards were unfurled. It was a war unsought and patiently resisted, but when it came the American Government was ready. The quick and signal triumph of our forces on land and sea bore tribute to the courage of American soldiers and sailors and to the skill and foresight of Republican statesmanship. To ten millions of the human race there was given "A New Birth of Freedom," and to the American people a new and noble responsibility.

The administration of William McKinley is indorsed. President McKinley has been in every situation the true American patriot and the upright statesman, clear in vision, strong in judgment, firm in action, always inspiring and deserving the confidence of his countrymen.

Allegiance is renewed to the principle of the gold standard, and confidence is declared in the legislation establishing the gold basis by the Fifty-sixth Congress. Steadfast opposition to the free and unlimited coinage of silver is declared.

The necessity and propriety of honest co-operation of capital to meet new business conditions is recognized, but all conspiracies and combinations intended to create monopolies are condemned, and such legislation as will effectually restrain and prevent all such abuses is favored.

Faith in the policy of protection to American labor, by which industries have been established, diversified and maintained, is renewed. The associated policy of reciprocity is favored, as well as a more effective restriction of cheap labor from foreign lands.

The danger of our present dependence upon foreign shipping for nine-tenths of our foreign shipping is pointed out, and the necessity of national defence in the event of war is urged as a motive for legislation which will enable us to regain our former place among the trade-carrying fleets of the world.

Liberal pension laws and their liberal administration are favored.

Public improvements looking to the permanent improvement of the roads of the country are carefully approved.

Extension of the rural free delivery service wherever its extension may be justified is favored.

Home rule and the early admission to Statehood of the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma are indorsed.

The Dingley act, amended to provide sufficient revenue for the conduct of the war, has so well performed its work that it has been possible to reduce the war debt to the sum of $40,000,000. The country is now justified in expecting, and it will be the policy of the Republican party to bring about a reduction of the war taxes.

The construction, ownership and protection of an isthmian canal by the Government of the United States are favored.

The efforts of the Administration to secure the open door in China are commended.

The creation of a Department of Commerce and Industries is recommended to Congress.

The reorganization of the United States Consular Service is demanded.

President McKinley's policy in regard to the Samoan difficulties, whereby every American interest was safeguarded, is especially commended.

The part taken by our Government in the Peace Conference at the Hague is approved, steadfast adherence to the policy announced in the Monroe Doctrine is asserted, and the hope that an honorable peace may soon prevail in South Africa is expressed.

In accepting, by the Treaty of Paris, the just responsibilities of our victories in the Spanish War, the President and the Senate won the undoubted approval of the American people. No other course was possible than to destroy Spain's sovereignty throughout the West Indies and in the Philippine Islands. The largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties shall be secured to them by law. To Cuba independence and self-government were assured in the same voice by which war was declared, and to the letter this pledge shall be performed.

The Republican party upon its history and upon this declaration of its principles and policies confidently invokes the considerate and approving judgment of the American people.

Department Store Law Unconstitutional.

The State Supreme Court of Missouri has released William B. Thayer from payment of a fine under conviction in Kansas City for violation of the Department Store License law. The court declared the law unconstitutional.

France to Buy Foreign Wheat.

The French wheat crop this year will be a short one, and some thirty or forty million bushels will have to be purchased abroad.

LATE STATE NEWS.

Movement of Alabama Democrats on Kansas City Begun.

The movement of Alabama democrats on Kansas City has begun, says a Birmingham dispatch, and by Sunday night all Alabamians who purpose attending the National Democratic convention will have begun the journey westward. It is expected that most of the delegates and alternate delegates, as well as many visitors, will gather in Birmingham on Saturday and Sunday, and will travel to the convention over the Kansas City and Louisville and Nashville routes.

While there has been apparently no concert of action and comparatively little discussion regarding the democratic vice-presidential nomination, the sentiment of the delegates and of the public seems to favor David Bennett Hill. Party leaders do not appear to be anxious to hazard guesses, but the trend of opinion is towards Mr. Hill—"if he will accept," as everybody adds. The Alabamians appear to prefer to wait until they reach Kansas City before determining on their course.

Selma Agency Abolished.

The Selma division freight agency, established at Selma by the Southern railway, when that system bought the Mobile and Birmingham, of which Mr. Frank G. Bowder has been the head, will be abolished on the 1st of July. Mr. J. W. Hunter will be named as commercial agent and the division tacked on to that now supervised by Division Freight Agent George Browder, of Birmingham.

Solicitorship in Demand.

There are now seven applicants for the office of county solicitor of Bibb county. W. W. Shortridge, of Woodstock; T. S. Dark and W. H. Logan, of Blocton; J. T. Fuller, W. W. Lavender, Cato D. Glover and J. F. Thompson, of Centerville, have already applied for the appointment, and other applications are expected.

Alabamian Killed in Philippines.

Corporal Jessé Moody, of the Fortieth volunteer infantry, stationed in Manila, was killed near Tagayan by Filipino insurgents, June 20. Corporal Moody was born in Scottsboro and was the only son of Mrs. Captain W. J. Jackson. He was a splendid young man, wealthy and highly connected.

Coroner of Chambers County Drwoned.

Gloomy Reports at Montgomery.

Reports received at the state agricultural department are the gloomiest ever received at this season of the year. Planters are twenty days behind with work, and continuous rains and cool nights are destructive to crops, especially cotton.

Drowned in Tennessee River.

An orphan boy about 12 years of age who lived with Sam Clemons, while out in a skiff on the Tennessee river near Scottsboro, fell overboard and was drowned. Mr. Clemons, who was with him at the time, made every effort to rescue him, but failed.

Cyclone at Eutaw.

A cyclone passed over Eutaw Sunday and did a great deal of damage. The Baptist church was demolished and the Presbyterian church and female academy badly wrecked. Several residences were damaged and trees and fences blown down.

Campaign Opens This Week.

Col. Wm. J. Samford, democratic nominee for governor of Alabama, will open the state campaign at Calera Friday, June 29. There will he a great barbecue dinner, and a general rally of the democrats of Shelby and adjoining counties.

Committee Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the democratic executive committee of the Fourth congressional district of Alabama is postponed until July 3, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The committee will meet at Shelby Springs.

Kentucky Is Affected.

The troubles in China are beginning to affect the remote districts of Kentucky mountains in the ginseng trade, by which hundreds of people make a living. Ever since the Boxers began their outrages the price of ginseng has been dropping. A month ago it was quoted at $3.75; Monday it was down to $2.25 a pound for the Kentucky product—the lowest price in four years.

The Bread Box.

To keep the bread box in good condition it should be washed, scalded and thoroughly aired in the sun twice a week. Every cook should remember that all bread and cake must be thoroughly cooled before being put in boxes or jars; for, if it is put in when warm the steam which arises will cause it to mould quickly.

Advice to Young Housekeepers.

This being the time when a good many new homes are being established, a word of caution from an old housekeeper is perhaps in order. Nearly every young couple setting up housekeeping starts with a definite amount of money to spend. Whatever the sum, leave a fair margin to rectify mistakes. If $500 is to be set aside for the household outfit, assume that only $350 is on hand, and stop short when that sum is expended. With $1000, put aside $300, and so on. The mere process of furnishing a home, whether it be a tiny apartment or spacious house, is an educating experience; at the end one is sure to discover that its repetition would produce better results. It is to rectify these certain mistakes and to buy with the illuminating afterthought that the reserve fund should be kept.

For the Piazza.

Hammocks are of all sizes from the narrow canvas strip to swing between two small trees to the six-yard-wide Mexican grass net, in which one can wrap one's self as in a slumber robe and dream the hours away. Red, white and blue hammocks are patriotic and pretty, and bright red, green or yellow, mingled with the natural dull browny-yellow of the mesh is effective. The esthetic woman has the hammocks for her piazza in a color that harmonize with her willow or reed tea tables, couches, etc.

Piazza swings are luxuries. They are made of wood, of enamelled reed or wicker, and are suspended from the roof of the porch by four strong iron chains. The seat of the swing is about three feet broad and three and a half feet long. Three sides are protected by wicker or woodwork, so that cushions and occupants cannot be spilled out.

Tapestry Screens.

Though you may have screens for a song, and pretty ones at that, it is certainly a pleasure at least to gaze upon the handsomer sorts. Many of them are beautiful, and some of them are novel.

We will spend our time with an interesting affair which is both. It is stunningly bound with the moddish Russian brass, while tapestry covers the panels. Three little tapestry squares serve to cover each panel, and the scenes are varied to suit all sorts of tastes, not to mention the different sorts of rooms in which the owner-to-be may see fit to place them.

Game scenes, or those depicting the gathering of summer fruits, or the good monks sampling something of their own make in a dim cellar, are fine for a dining room. But there are ever so many sorts.

This pretty screen costs $30. Some not as tall may be had for $18.—Philadelphia Record.

Furnishing a Summer House.

In furnishing a summer house one or two points must be remembered. Nothing thick or stuffy should find a place in it, no furniture moved out from a town house, no heavy hangings—nothing that when the windows are left open will catch and hold the dust or the damp. For this reason mahogany, willow and other smooth-surface materials are desirable. Paint everything white in the bed-room that has grained wood and a white marble mantel; have the ceiling white, and put a narrow-striped paper on the walls, with pink, green, or yellow predominating. Some charming and cheap patterns are now to be found. The bed-room without sunlight should have yellow walls and white paint, the ceiling with the merest suggestion of yellow in it. Have the walls plain, and use a figured chintz or muslin at the windows. That living-room would be charming with green on the walls, white paint on the wood-work, and willow chairs painted green and cushioned with green. These suggestions are taken from the room of a particularly attractive country house. The room has dotted muslin with lace ruffles at the windows. You can use the green with pine if you choose the color carefully. A flowered muslin at the windows would then be pretty.—Harper's Bazar.

It is well to keep lamps about two-thirds full of oil.

Oranges are refreshing and feeding, but are not good if the liver is out of order.

Baby's clothes should not be washed with soda, as this is a source of irritation and chafing to the delicate skin.

Meats to be roasted or broiled should be given the greatest amount of heat possible at first, that the surface may be hardened and the juice retained.

In poaching eggs, if it is desired to make them into ball shape, but one should be cooked at a time. After the water begins to boil rapidly, stir it until a small circle is formed in the water. Drop the egg in the middle and the rotary motion of the water will form a circular covering of white around the unbroken yolk.

He pledged the party to prompt action in curbing harmful trusts, to an American interoceanic ship canal and to relief from the War Revenue act. He praised McKinley's course, defended the Porto Rican and Philippine policy, and declared that four years of Republican administration had made the nation's credit unassailable throughout the world.

When Mr. Walcott concluded he read a long list of secretaries and officials previously agreed upon. Former Governor Taylor, of Kentucky, seconded the nominations of the various officials announced, and they were elected unanimously. The usual routine motions relating to the rules and the formation of committees were then adopted, and the convention plunged into the long process of calling the roll of States for lists of officers of the various delegations. The convention adjourned at 3 o'clock until noon the following day.

Temporary Chairman Walcott called the convention to order on the second day. The Rev. Charles M. Boswell opened the proceedings with prayer. Fifteen surviving delegates of the first Republican convention, called at Pittsburg forty-four years ago, were then presented to the convention, and were received enthusiastically. They carried the American flag used in that convention, and another standard bore the legend "National Fremont Association, Republican Party, Organized February 22, 1856, at Pittsburg, Penn."

Representative Sereno E. Payne, of New York, Chairman of the Committee on Credentials, read the report of the committee, which was adopted unanimously.

General Grosvenor, of Ohio, Chairman of the Committee on Permanent Organization, then presented the committee's report, which was adopted. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was named for permanent chairman, and the other temporary officers were made permanent.

Senator Lodge, in his speech, reviewed the issues of the day. He said the gold standard had been firmly established, and as the result of our war with Spain Cuba was free. He said the party would maintain the protection policy, revive the merchant marine, establish civil government in the Philippines, and stimulate the expansion of our trade, especially in the Far East.

Senator Fairbanks, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, then presented the platform to the convention. The platform was adopted unanimously.

The roll of States was then called for the names of those appointed by the different delegations to serve as members of the National Committee and as vice-presidents of the convention.

The convention adjourned at 3 o'clock until noon the following day.

On the third and last day Permanent Chairman Lodge called the convention to order at 10.30 o'clock in the morning. The band ushered in the session with the National Anthem and Archbishop Ryan delivered the opening invocation.

Under the order of unfinished business former Senator Quay withdrew his resolution, proposing a reduction in the representation of the Southern delegates, which was offered at the previous session. The Southern delegates rose in a body and cheered wildly the withdrawal of the proposition.

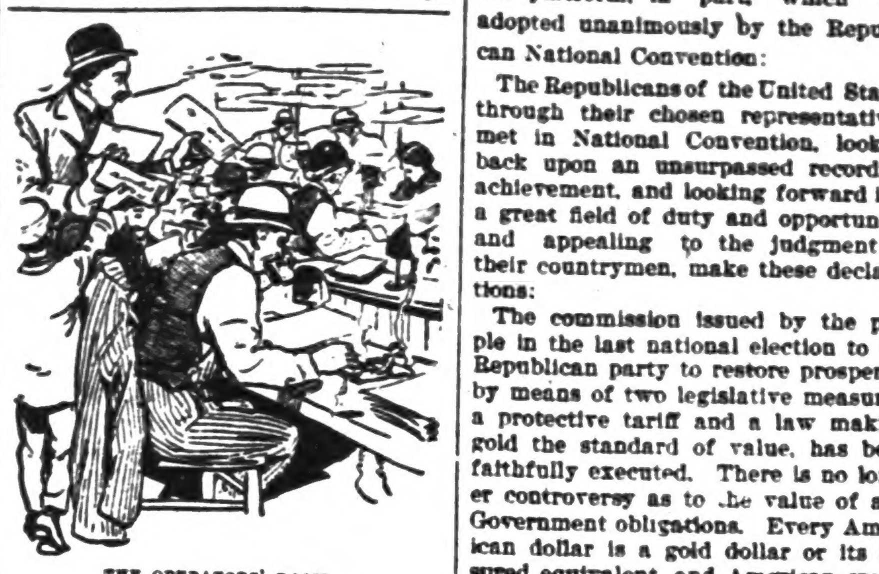
Mr. Lodge then advanced to the front of the platform, and a thrill went through the vast audience as he announced: "Under the rules, nominations for the office of the President of the United States are now in order."

There was a momentary shout, which the Chairman punctured with "The State of Alabama is recognized." A tall and swarthy Alabamian stood on his chair, and by prearrangement answered:

"Alabama yields to Ohio."

This was the signal for the recognition of Senator Foraker, who was to make the speech nominating McKinley as the Republican candidate for President. Amid a tumult of applause Senator Foraker went to the platform and when quiet was restored began to speak. First he thanked Alabama for its courtesy in yielding the floor, but he attributed that courtesy to the overwhelming popularity of the candidate. Briefly, Senator Foraker adverted to the record of the President in peace and in war as one of the most remarkable in history.

When Senator Foraker concluded there occurred a remarkable demonstration. Every one stood and waved and yelled. Standards were wrenched from their places and borne aloft with umbrellas; great plumes of red, white and blue formed a tempestuous sea of color. The delegates then marched in solid ranks to the platform, with standards, plumes, banners and flags.



THE OPERATORS' ROOM.
(Accounts of the proceedings of the convention were instantly telegraphed to all parts of the country.)

After the demonstration had continued seven minutes the Ohio delegation moved up the aisle, while all the other State delegations, bearing aloft their standards, formed in a grand procession about the hall. The demonstration lasted just fifteen minutes.

Governor Roosevelt was recognized and amid great cheering he advanced to the platform to deliver the seconding speech. Governor Roosevelt's argumentive style kept the audience en rapport with him, for he was given the closest attention by the vast audience. As the Governor left the platform he was accorded an ovation, and when quiet was restored the Chairman recognized Senator Thurston, of Nebraska, for a speech seconding the nomination of the President.

The Senator pictured the President as a soldier in many a hard-fought field, a statesman in the halls of Congress, and as a President directing the destinies of a nation—"our President now, our President to be again."

Senator Lodge then recognized John W. Yerkes, of Kentucky, who arose to also second the nomination on behalf of the South. George Knight, head of the California delegation, was then recognized and in an effective speech he voiced the sentiments of his State.

"Vote, vote," came from the delegates as Mr. Knight concluded, but the Chairman stilled the outcry and recognized Governor Mount, of Indiana, who, in behalf of the Hoosier State, seconded the nomination of McKinley.

At 12.37 the vote began. All the States cast their vote for McKinley, and the tally clerks quickly made the official summary and handed it to the Chairman. Mr. Lodge took the paper, and advancing to the front of the stage, said:

"The total vote cast is 926. William McKinley has received 926 votes. It is a unanimous vote, and the Chairman declares that William McKinley is your nominee for the Presidency for the term beginning March 4, 1901."

The delegates were pretty tired by the time the McKinley nomination and its attendant enthusiasm had taken place, but after a brief interval Chairman Lodge restored order and introduced Colonel Lafe Young, of Iowa, who withdrew the name of Representative Dolliver and presented that of Roosevelt. He was followed by Michael J. Murray, of Massachusetts, who surrendered for Secretary Long and seconded the nomination.

J. M. Ashton, of Washington, a young-loking delegate, made the next seconding speech. As he closed, Governor Roosevelt bent forward and whispered something to Mr. Odell, and the two laid hold of Senator Depew and forced him to his feet. A shout at once went up from all sides for "Depew, Depew!" The Senator mounted the platform and then plunged into a speech withdrawing Woodruff's and seconding the nomination of Roosevelt.

When Arkansas was called the noise was to great to enable anybody to hear more than the vowels sound as the clerk read the names and figures. New York cast only seventy-one votes, and was recorded as "One not voting"—Roosevelt himself.

At the conclusion of the roll call, 925 votes for Roosevelt were announced, and he was declared nominated.

Mr. Lodge was appointed Chairman of the Committee of Notification for McKinley, and Mr. Wolcott for Roosevelt.

Resolutions of thanks to Mr. Lodge and Mr. Wolcott for their able services as presiding officers were unanimously adopted, also thanks to Mayor Ashbridge, of Philadelphia, for the hospitality of the city, and to all officials of the convention.

This closed the work, and at 2.14 on motion of Senator Payne, of New York, the Republican National Convention of 1900 adjourned sine die.

McKinley Gets the News.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—When word came over the wires to the White House just before 1 o'clock p. m. that President McKinley had been renominated by acclamation, the President took the little slip of paper on which was written the expected message and went immediately to the private parlor of the mansion to tell Mrs. McKinley what the convention had done.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Philadelphia (Special).—Following is the platform, in part, which was adopted unanimously by the Republican National Convention:

The Republicans of the United States, through their chosen representatives, met in National Convention, looking back upon an unsurpassed record of achievement, and looking forward into a great field of duty and opportunity, and appealing to the judgment of their countrymen, make these declarations:

The commission issued by the people in the last national election to the Republican party to restore prosperity by means of two legislative measures, a protective tariff and a law making gold the standard of value, has been faithfully executed. There is no longer controversy as to the value of any Government obligations. Every American dollar is a gold dollar or its assured equivalent, and American credit stands higher than that of any nation. Capital is fully employed and labor everywhere is profitably occupied.

The American people, sustained by the Republican administration, have conducted and in victory concluded a war for liberty and human rights. No thought of National aggrandizement tarnished the high purpose with which American standards were unfurled. It was a war unsought and patiently resisted, but when it came the American Government was ready. The quick and signal triumph of our forces on land and sea bore tribute to the courage of American soldiers and sailors and to the skill and foresight of Republican statesmanship. To ten millions of the human race there was given "A New Birth of Freedom," and to the American people a new and noble responsibility.

The administration of William McKinley is indorsed. President McKinley has been in every situation the true American patriot and the upright statesman, clear in vision, strong in judgment, firm in action, always inspiring and deserving the confidence of his countrymen.

Allegiance is renewed to the principle of the gold standard, and confidence is declared in the legislation establishing the gold basis by the Fifty-sixth Congress. Steadfast opposition to the free and unlimited coinage of silver is declared.

The necessity and propriety of honest co-operation of capital to meet new business conditions is recognized, but all conspiracies and combinations intended to create monopolies are condemned, and such legislation as will effectually restrain and prevent all such abuses is favored.

Faith in the policy of protection to American labor, by which industries have been established, diversified and maintained, is renewed. The associated policy of reciprocity is favored, as well as a more effective restriction of cheap labor from foreign lands.

The danger of our present dependence upon foreign shipping for nine-tenths of our foreign shipping is pointed out, and the necessity of national defence in the event of war is urged as a motive for legislation which will enable us to regain our former place among the trade-carrying fleets of the world.

Liberal pension laws and their liberal administration are favored.

Public improvements looking to the permanent improvement of the roads of the country are carefully approved.

Extension of the rural free delivery service wherever its extension may be justified is favored.

Home rule and the early admission to Statehood of the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma are indorsed.

The Dingley act, amended to provide sufficient revenue for the conduct of the war, has so well performed its work that it has been possible to reduce the war debt to the sum of $40,000,000. The country is now justified in expecting, and it will be the policy of the Republican party to bring about a reduction of the war taxes.

The construction, ownership and protection of an isthmian canal by the Government of the United States are favored.

The efforts of the Administration to secure the open door in China are commended.

The creation of a Department of Commerce and Industries is recommended to Congress.

The reorganization of the United States Consular Service is demanded.

President McKinley's policy in regard to the Samoan difficulties, whereby every American interest was safeguarded, is especially commended.

The part taken by our Government in the Peace Conference at the Hague is approved, steadfast adherence to the policy announced in the Monroe Doctrine is asserted, and the hope that an honorable peace may soon prevail in South Africa is expressed.

In accepting, by the Treaty of Paris, the just responsibilities of our victories in the Spanish War, the President and the Senate won the undoubted approval of the American people. No other course was possible than to destroy Spain's sovereignty throughout the West Indies and in the Philippine Islands. The largest measure of self-government consistent with their welfare and our duties shall be secured to them by law. To Cuba independence and self-government were assured in the same voice by which war was declared, and to the letter this pledge shall be performed.

The Republican party upon its history and upon this declaration of its principles and policies confidently invokes the considerate and approving judgment of the American people.

Department Store Law Unconstitutional.

The State Supreme Court of Missouri has released William B. Thayer from payment of a fine under conviction in Kansas City for violation of the Department Store License law. The court declared the law unconstitutional.

France to Buy Foreign Wheat.

The French wheat crop this year will be a short one, and some thirty or forty million bushels will have to be purchased abroad.

LATE STATE NEWS.

Movement of Alabama Democrats on Kansas City Begun.

The movement of Alabama democrats on Kansas City has begun, says a Birmingham dispatch, and by Sunday night all Alabamians who purpose attending the National Democratic convention will have begun the journey westward. It is expected that most of the delegates and alternate delegates, as well as many visitors, will gather in Birmingham on Saturday and Sunday, and will travel to the convention over the Kansas City and Louisville and Nashville routes.

While there has been apparently no concert of action and comparatively little discussion regarding the democratic vice-presidential nomination, the sentiment of the delegates and of the public seems to favor David Bennett Hill. Party leaders do not appear to be anxious to hazard guesses, but the trend of opinion is towards Mr. Hill—"if he will accept," as everybody adds. The Alabamians appear to prefer to wait until they reach Kansas City before determining on their course.

Selma Agency Abolished.

The Selma division freight agency, established at Selma by the Southern railway, when that system bought the Mobile and Birmingham, of which Mr. Frank G. Bowder has been the head, will be abolished on the 1st of July. Mr. J. W. Hunter will be named as commercial agent and the division tacked on to that now supervised by Division Freight Agent George Browder, of Birmingham.

Solicitorship in Demand.

There are now seven applicants for the office of county solicitor of Bibb county. W. W. Shortridge, of Woodstock; T. S. Dark and W. H. Logan, of Blocton; J. T. Fuller, W. W. Lavender, Cato D. Glover and J. F. Thompson, of Centerville, have already applied for the appointment, and other applications are expected.

Alabamian Killed in Philippines.

Corporal Jesse Moody, of the Fortieth volunteer infantry, stationed in Manila, was killed near Tagayan by Filipino insurgents, June 20. Corporal Moody was born in Scottsboro and was the only son of Mrs. Captain W. J. Jackson. He was a splendid young man, wealthy and highly connected.

Coroner of Chambers County Drowned.

Jesse Mitchell, aged 80 years, coroner of Chambers county, was drowned in a swollen stream between LaFayette and West Point, Ga., Saturday about dark. His body was found the next morning. Deceased was riding a mule and was returning from West Point.

Reports received at the state agricultural department are the gloomiest ever received at this season of the year. Planters are twenty days behind with work, and continuous rains and cool nights are destructive to crops, especially cotton.

Drowned in Tennessee River.

An orphan boy about 12 years of age who lived with Sam Clemons, while out in a skiff on the Tennessee river near Scottsboro, fell overboard and was drowned. Mr. Clemons, who was with him at the time, made every effort to rescue him, but failed.

Cyclone at Eutaw.

A cyclone passed over Eutaw Sunday and did a great deal of damage. The Baptist church was demolished and the Presbyterian church and female academy badly wrecked. Several residences were damaged and trees and fences blown down.

Campaign Opens This Week.

Col. Wm. J. Samford, democratic nominee for governor of Alabama, will open the state campaign at Calera Friday, June 29. There will be a great barbecue dinner, and a general rally of the democrats of Shelby and adjoining counties.

Committee Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the democratic executive committee of the Fourth congressional district of Alabama is postponed until July 8, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The committee will meet at Shelby Springs.

Kentucky Is Affected.

The troubles in China are beginning to affect the remote districts of Kentucky mountains in the ginseng trade, by which hundreds of people make a living. Ever since the Boxers began their outrages the price of ginseng has been dropping. A month ago it was quoted at $3.75; Monday it was down to $2.25 a pound for the Kentucky product—the lowest price in four years.

The Bread Box.

To keep the bread box in good condition it should be washed, scalded and thoroughly aired in the sun twice a week. Every cook should remember that all bread and cake must be thoroughly cooled before being put in boxes or jars; for, if it is put in when warm the steam which arises will cause it to mould quickly.

Advice to Young Housekeepers.

This being the time when a good many new homes are being established, a word of caution from an old housekeeper is perhaps in order. Nearly every young couple setting up housekeeping starts with a definite amount of money to spend. Whatever the sum, leave a fair margin to rectify mistakes. If $500 is to be set aside for the household outfit, assume that only $350 is on hand, and stop short when that sum is expended. With $1000, put aside $300, and so on. The mere process of furnishing a home, whether it be a tiny apartment or spacious house, is an educating experience; at the end one is sure to discover that its repetition would produce better results. It is to rectify these certain mistakes and to buy with the illuminating afterthought that the reserve fund should be kept.

For the Piazza.

Hammocks are of all sizes from the narrow canvas strip to swing between two small trees to the six-yard-wide Mexican grass net, in which one can wrap one's self as in a slumber robe and dream the hours away. Red, white and blue hammocks are patriotic and pretty, and bright red, green or yellow, mingled with the natural dull browny-yellow of the mesh is effective. The esthetic woman has the hammocks for her piazza in a color that harmonize with her willow or reed tea tables, couches, etc.

Piazza swings are luxuries. They are made of wood, of enamelled reed or wicker, and are suspended from the roof of the porch by four strong iron chains. The seat of the swing is about three feet broad and three and a half feet long. Three sides are protected by wicker or woodwork, so that cushions and occupants cannot be spilled out.

Tapestry Screens.

Though you may have screens for a song, and pretty ones at that, it is certainly a pleasure at least to gaze upon the handsomer sorts. Many of them are beautiful, and some of them are novel.

We will spend our time with an interesting affair which is both. It is stunningly bound with the moddish Russian brass, while tapestry covers the panels. Three little tapestry squares serve to cover each panel, and the scenes are varied to suit all sorts of tastes, not to mention the different sorts of rooms in which the owner-to-be may see fit to place them.

Game scenes, or those depicting the gathering of summer fruits, or the good monks sampling something of their own make in a dim cellar, are fine for a dining room. But there are ever so many sorts.

This pretty screen costs $30. Some not as tall may be had for $18.—Philadelphia Record.

Furnishing a Summer House.

In furnishing a summer house one or two points must be remembered: Nothing thick or stuffy should find a place in it, no furniture moved out from a town house, no heavy hangings—nothing that when the windows are left open will catch and hold the dust or the damp. For this reason mahogany, willow and other smooth-surface materials are desirable. Paint everything white in the bed-room that has grained wood and a white marble mantel; have the ceiling white, and put a narrow-striped paper on the walls, with pink, green, or yellow predominating. Some charming and cheap patterns are now to be found. The bed-room without sunlight should have yellow walls and white paint, the ceiling with the merest suggestion of yellow in it. Have the walls plain, and use a figured chintz or muslin at the windows. That living-room would be charming with green on the walls, white paint on the wood-work, and willow chairs painted green and cushioned with green. These suggestions are taken from the room of a particularly attractive country house. The room has dotted muslin with lace ruffles at the windows. You can use the green with pine if you choose the color carefully. A flowered muslin at the windows would then be pretty.—Harper's Bazar.

It is well to keep lamps about two-thirds full of oil.

Oranges are refreshing and feeding, but are not good if the liver is out of order.

Baby's clothes should not be washed with soda, as this is a source of irritation and chafing to the delicate skin.

Meats to be roasted or broiled should be given the greatest amount of heat possible at first, that the surface may be hardened and the juice retained.

In poaching eggs, if it is desired to make them into ball shape, but one should be cooked at a time. After the water begins to boil rapidly, stir it until a small circle is formed in the water. Drop the egg in the middle and the rotary motion of the water will form a circular covering of white around the unbroken yolk.

NOTICE TO POPULIST EXECUTIVE COMMITTEEMEN.

The committeemen from each voting precinct in the county should send in a list of names who would make suitable managers of the election. Send not less than two for each voting place, and send at once, as the law requires the managers appointed 30 days before the election.

The chairman of the Democratic committee has submitted a list for the Democratic party.

S. M. Adams,
Judge of Probate.

Hon. W. F. Aldrich will, we understand, again be a candidate for congress.

The Republican State committee meets in Birmingham to-day and will probably put out a full State ticket.

Hon. W. J. Samford opens the campaign at Calera to-morrow, and all the local candidates of Shelby and adjoining counties are invited to be present. But little more than a month and the election is upon us.

Gen. Chaffee has been appointed to the command of the American troops in China and left Washington on Tuesday for San Francisco. At the taking of Tien-Tsing American and British troops had a neck and neck race to be first to enter.

We feel satisfied that the Hon. Samuel M. Adams has already notified the Judge of Probate of Chilton county that his name is not to be placed upon the ballot as a candidate for governor in the August election, and the two thousand Populists of Chilton will be at liberty to vote for whomsoever they please for governor.

The incessant rains of the last few weeks have seriously interfered with all farm work and is working havoc with the crops, cotton suffering in particular. From the best information we have been able to obtain, there has been little or no increase in the acreage planted in cotton in Chilton county, and the probabilities now are there will be less than an average crop raised here.

As ex-congressman Howard remarked at the first Birmingham convention this year, "the Populist party must be in a deplorable condition" when, after two failures to hold a State convention, a few individuals insist upon nominating an unwilling man to make the race for governor. There may be occasions when it is right and proper to force a nomination upon one who is not anxious to receive it, but there is nothing fair in driving a nomination down a man's throat when it is recognized on all sides that the race is lost before it is entered upon.

We are indebted to Mr. P. C. Smith, of Thorsby, for a basket of the choicest fruit we have seen in many a long day, the apricots being especially fine. Mr. Smith deserves the commendation of the entire county for demonstrating that the very choicest fruits can be raised in Chilton county. Such fruits as Mr. Smith sent us command a market anywhere and at any time.

If the weather should be propitious in the next few weeks Thorsby will be marketing a crop of fine grapes that will open the eyes of some of us as to the possibilities in that direction.

ELECTION NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that a General Election will be held at the various voting places in Chilton County, Alabama, on for the election of Governor, Secretary of State, State Auditor, State Treasurer, Attorney General, Superintendent of Education, Commissioner of Agriculture, Senator from 15th Senatorial District, Representative in the General Assembly, Sheriff, County Treasurer, County Superintendent of Education, Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, County Commissioners, two Justices of the Peace and one Constable in each election precinct.

Witness my hand this the 28th day of June, 1900.

J. T. Cooley,
Sheriff, Chilton County.

Crop Report.

The Montgomery Government Weekly Crop Bulletin for June 26, reports:

"Deficient sunshine and warmth, with continuous and, in many places, excessive rains, gave very unfavorable conditions for all staple crops, almost entirely suspending farm work. Much lowland is under water, and many fields of corn and cotton are damaged beyond recovery. Upland corn is turning yellow, earing very slowly, and wet weather has prevented its being properly cultivated. Cotton is very grassy, so much so that many fields will be abandoned; it is running to stalk, fruiting slowly and poorly, with rust and lice damaging; in fact, from the present outlook, the condition of cotton, as a whole, has been seriously lowered. Thrashing of wheat has been retarded; wheat and oats in shock have been much damaged; oats which are ready to be cut are being injured by wet weather, and the yield of both of these grains will be lower than anticipated. Cane, peanuts, and sweet potatoes are doing well, but gardens, and, in fact, all crops, are very much in need of sunshine and warmth; melons and peaches are rotting very generally, lowering the yield of both of these crops; all grasses continue to grow luxuriantly, but wet weather has prevented cutting of hay.

Story of a Slave

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams of Manchester, Mich. tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, rundown people. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggist.

The University of Alabama.

Has just closed the most prosperous year in its history. At the recent Commencement there were graduated 15 Bachelors in Arts, 7 Bachelors in Science (including 4 in the Engineering Course), 2 Masters of Arts, 1 Master of Science, 1 Civil Engineer, 28 Bachelors in Law, 42 Doctors of Medicine, and 5 Graduates in Pharmacy—a total of 101. The standard in all departments is high, and getting higher each year. Alabama may well be proud of her University.—Tuscaloosa Times.

Starvation never yet cured dyspepsia. Persons with indigestion are already half starved. They need plenty of wholesome food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat so the body can be nourished while the worn out organs are being reconstructed. It is the only preparation known that will instantly relieve and completely cure all stomach troubles. Try it if you are suffering from indigestion. It will certainly do you good. Campbelle Drug Co.

INVITATION TO CANDIDATES.

Calera, Ala., June 19, 1900

Editor Banner.—At a meeting of the people of Calera held on the 15th inst., a motion was adopted inviting all Candidates for Congress in the 4th Congressional district and all Candidates for county offices in both Shelby and Chilton counties, without regard to party, to be present at a basket dinner to be given at this place on Friday, the 29th inst., when Col. W. J. Samford will open the campaign for this year. Arrangements are being made which will no doubt be perfected for reduced rates on all the railroads so that all can attend. Yours very truly,

J. H. Goss.

You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active energetic man with a torpid liver and you may know that his liver is torpid when he does not relish his food, or feels dull and languid after eating, often has headache and sometimes dizziness. A few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will restore his liver to its normal functions, renew his vitality, improve his digestion and make him feel like a new man. Price 25 cents. Samples free at Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Mr. W. S. Whedon, Cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ, that will be of value to other mechanics. He says: "I had a carpenter working for me who was obliged to stop work for several days on account of being troubled with diarrhoea. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Song service will be conducted during the meeting by N. A. Logan.

A Good Cough Medicine.

It speaks well for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy when druggists use it in their own families in preference to any other. "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past five years with complete satisfaction to myself and customers," says Druggist J. Goldsmith, Van Etten, N. Y. "I have always used it in my own family both for ordinary coughs and colds and for the cough following la grippe, and find it very efficacious." For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. A MORO SWORD DANCE.

PICTURESQUE DIVERSION OF THE PHILIPPINE ISLAND MOHAMMEDANS.

A Keen-Edged Knife is the One Absolutely Necessary Possession of a Moro—Scene at a Night Sword Dance—Primitive Music.

Of all the puzzled people who have recently seen the new flag of the United States rise over them, the Moros of the southern Philippine Islands are the most interesting and peculiar, writes William Bengough in Collier's Weekly.

All Mohammedans were Moors or Moros to the Spaniards of the early days; and although these southern islanders are in no way connected with the Moors, except in religion, the Spaniards regarded them as their natural foes. For three hundred years Spain accordingly struggled fruitlessly to conquer and convert these savage people to Christianity.

This was an object lesson to the Americans on "how not to do it." General Bates was given instructions, therefore, to conclude a treaty of friendship with the Moros, and to him belongs the credit of having arranged the terms upon which the Moros recognize the sovereignty of the United States, while retaining their own independent government.

The Moro sultan is supreme over his own people, and the Americans are represented by a few scattered garrisons, that attended to their own business of mounting guard and waiting for mail from home, leaving their Moro neighbors beyond the outposts free to do as seemeth best in the sight of their Dato chiefs.

Thus these Mohammedans continue in the full enjoyment of their inalienable rights, and the enjoyment of their peculiar lives, liberties and pursuits of happiness, in which pursuit they are greatly assisted by their long, sharp knives.

On their fifty or more habitable islands, they continue, then, to worship in their own Mohammedan way, to bear the responsibilities of as many wives and families as they can afford, to keep as many slaves as they can get, to chew betel-nut, and fight with sharp knives, to dance and sing, and be absolutely the most disreputable, picturesque mortals who decorate the earth today.

A keen-edged knife, heavy enough to sever the head of an enemy, is the one absolutely necessary possession of a Moro. Like the Texas man's revolver, it may not be needed often, but if it will suddenly slash an enemy's right arm off unexpectedly from behind, our Moro feels that he has not carried it in vain.

Of such is Moro valor.

Give him a gorgeous red, green and orange colored sash, in which to hold his trusty knife and box of betel-nut, and he can dispense with the remainder of his wardrobe and frequently he does. But take away his knife (if you dare), and he would consider himself naked indeed, brilliant in clothes in many colors though he might be.

These knives are of various shapes and weights, usually long and heavy. The Barong, most commonly used, is a fish-shaped blade, accurately balanced for cutting. So strong and heavy is it that it slashes through body and bone at a blow. For thrusting, the famous creepy looking Malay creese is used; these are either straight or waved, snakelike two-edged blades. For other uses are various fascinating weapons, two-handed swords, beheading knives, spears and daggers. For defence, they have clumsy wooden shields and coats-of-mail made of chain and caribao horn-plates.

A freeborn Moro scorns work as something far beneath his dignity. His slaves and wives labor for him, while he strolls about with other men of leisure, or serves in his Jato's train of followers.

He has plenty of time for sociability, and will sit and lounge about tirelessly, watching the American soldiers at work or play. He is pleased, however, when he has the opportunity to show his skill with the knife, and when his audience is composed of high officials he is particularly proud to dance and fence. On all special occasions, the monotony of garrison life is enlivened by Moro music and sword dances.

Lights are brought out into the open air, when these entertainments happen at night; grass mats are spread on the ground for the dancers. Around about the American officers and dancers the motley crowd of interested natives gather in a circle, their gay colors, queer clothing, and stolid faces touched dimly by the lights which shine brightly on the dancers. The musicians compete the assembly, and when they strike up, the dancers, stepping on the mats, begin their stealthy catlike movements, stamping their bare feet, waving their arms, turning their bodies, now suddenly swift, then cautiously slow, careful of their knives, for these are no mere stage properties, but the genuine keen-edged articles.

Through the din of the barbarous music rises an occasional shout. This music is pounded out of various toned gongs in irregular measure. A row of small gongs is arranged on wooden strips, which are laid ladder-like across two long bamboo poles, so that their ring may be as clear as possible. Two large bass gongs of different tones, suspended fom a bamboo tripod, boom out at short, irregular intervals, accompanying the chiming of the smaller gongs.

This weird thumping, banging and booming is usually accompanied by beating with the hands or sticks on the grass mats or anything else which will give out sound. Upon the occasion at Bungao, an empty kerosene can was found by one of the women-musicians while on her tour of curiosity through camp, and the possibilities of this can as a new musical instrument appealing to her delicate taste, she was allowed to use it, with startling effect, as the chief piece of the orchestra.

Bungao can boast of little else than a flagpole from which the American flag floats over its most southerly stronghold. Here, five degrees from the equator, ends that chain of coral shoals and volcanic mountains which reach out of the beautiful southern waters, from Luzon to the north, seven hundred miles, due south to Bungao. When one has sailed for a week amid a group of islands that are marked on our map as mere specks they grow to an astonishing size. Thousands of them in all, from mountain ranges hundreds of miles long to coral reefs around which the opalescent waters sparkle over the branching coral beds below, and the rainbow-colored fish are seen swimming in the crystal depths of the Sulu Sea, which leaves the beautiful islands at Bungao and stretches on to Borneo.

ALL A MYSTERY TO THE BLIND.

Persons Born Sightless Can Have No Accurate Conception of Sight.

"What a profound mystery invests all the operations of our senses!" said a college professor of New Orleans. "I was talking, the other day, with a very intelligent blind man. He had been blind from birth, but had received an excellent education and was fully as well informed as the average person one meets in cultured circles. He spoke freely of his infirmity, and finally I asked him whether he had ever succeeded in forming a clear mental conception of the sense of sight. He replied frankly that he had not, and then he asked me several very curious questions.

"The idea of color, he said, was a great puzzle to him, and he had never been able to obtain the slightest clue to what was meant when one said, for instance, that one thing was red and another thing was blue. 'Your color impressions are absolutely stationary, are they not?' he asked. The question startled me: it was so strange. Now, what could possibly have been in his mind? One would infer that he associated color with some sort of movement, yet when I asked him to explain he couldn't do it. He soon lost himself in words, sighed and gave it up. He understood, as nearly as I could gather, that the sense of sight somehow furnished us with information as to the size, shape and general character of surrounding objects, but I am satisfied, from his questions, that he had formed no idea whatever of the picture that is presented to the brain. He was unable to understand how a whole scene could be taken in at once. He could distinguish B flat on a violin, he said, but suppose the whole surrounding country was full of violins, all playing different airs? That semed to him a good analogy for the various things in a landscape. I soon realized that explanation on either side was hopeless. There was a barrier of the inexpressible between us.

"I went away with an immensely increased respect for the teachers at institutes for the blind and deaf and dumb. It is a marvellous thing that they ever succeed in breaking into those sealed brains and bringing children so terribly handicapped into touch with their fellow beings."

A Little Lapse.

Being a pretty bride, which creates a correct impression that Detroit has many pretty women, but few like her, she liked to dress and see that the gifts of nature did not lose through her neglect to properly adorn them. Of course they went to another city in celebration of the nuptials, for the custom seems as exacting as the requirements of fashion.

Man like, he had some business to attend to, and it was arranged just when she should leave the hotel to meet him, what street she should walk along, for the distance was a short one, and where they should join each other.

Speaking after the manner of men, she dressed to the limit, and it was a charming figure that went tripping from the ladies' entrance of the hotel. She could see that she was the magnet for all eyes as she passed down the crowded thoroughfare, but thought that some looked at her in a rather curious way. But why not? She had on her best, she looker her best, and she felt her best, a combination not to be beaten. Yet she rather wondered.

"Here you are, my dear," was her husband's greeting, "and on the tick of the watch. What a punctual little—" and then he gave her that same incomprehensible look.

"What is it, Fred?" she inquired nervously.

"Where's your hat?" and she almost swooned when she found that she had left that triumph of millinery art at the hotel and only had a white veil tied over her brow.—Detroit Free Press.

DEFECTIVE SIGHT.

Warning to Those Who Need Glasses and Will Not Use Them.

The three defects of eyesight which are most commonly encountered in otherwise healthy persons, and which can be more or less perfectly overcome by means of glasses, are near-sightedness, far-sightedness and astigmatism. These are all important, for besides the discomfort and annoyance of imperfect sight, the involuntary efforts which the sufferer makes to see better strain the eyes, and not only injure them, but also give rise, through reflex action, to headaches and various nervous disturbances.

Near-sightedness, short-sightedness, or myopia as it is variously called, is a condition of the eyeball—usually a lengthening—in consequence of which the rays of light are brought to a focus in front of the retina, and so the object is blurred.

This condition may exist from birth, but is usually the result of too much and too early use of the eyes, as in the case of students, engravers, women who do fine sewing, and so forth. Thus we may say that putting children to work at some of the kindergarten exercises, such as perforating and drawing, is in a double sense a short-sighted procedure.

Many near-sighted people refuse to wear glasses, preferring to deprive themselves of sight for everything beyond the nose rather than to injure their personal appearance, as they think. This is another short-sighted policy, for besides losing much of the joy of existence, which comes from seeing the beautiful things about and above us, such persons are very liable to suffer from inflammation of the eyes, produced by constant strain.

A less common defect is long or far-sightedness, or hypermetropia. This is the opposite of myopia, the eyeball being flattened or shortened, and the rays of light consequently not coming to a focus by the time they reach the retina.

In this case, the eye often corrects the defect more or less successfully by making the crystalline lens more convex; but it does this at the expense of the sufferer's nervous force, and so we often find tired and congested eyes, headaches, indigestion, and even serious nervous affections. The effort to correct the vision is entirely involuntary, and can be overcome only by the fitting of suitable convex glasses.

The third and most common defect is astigmatism. In this condition there is some irregularity of the surface of the eye or of the lens, by means of which the image as it reaches the retina is distorted. Untreated astigmatism is a frequent cause of headache and other nervous disturbances. The only relief is the wearing of glasses, at least while reading, writing, or whenever near objects are looked at.—Youth's Companion.

Fiddled Into Office.

If history be true, Governor Taylor, of Tennessee, is not the only man who fiddled himself into office. Lossing relates that in 1848 he met, at Oswego, N. Y., Major Cochran, then nearly 80 years old, a son-in-law of General Philip Schuyler, who told the story of his election to Congress during the Administration of the elder Adams. A vessel was to be launched on one of the lakes in interior New York, and people came from afar to see it. The young folks gathered there, determined to have a dance at night. There was a fiddle, but no fiddler. Young Cochran was an amateur performer and his services were demanded. He gratified the joyous company, and at the supper table one of the gentlemen remarked, in commendation of his talents, that he was "fit for Congress." The matter was talked up, and he was nominated and elected a Representative in Congress for the district then comprising the whole of New York west of Schenectady. He always claimed to have "fiddled himself into Congress." It seems that history repeats itself, according to the proverb.

Immensity of Krupps.

The total number of people employed by Krupp is at present 41,750, of which 25,133 are at Essen, 3,458 are in the Gruson steel works at Magdeburg-Buckau, 2,726 at the German shipyards at Kiel and 10,344 in various smelting establishments and coal mines owned by Krupp. The foundation of these gigantic works was laid in 1810 by the grandfather of the head of the present firm. Essen was then a small town of 4,000 inhabitants; it now has 105,528 inhabitants. The firm owns a large number of iron mines, including the great Bilbao mine in Spain. The ore from the latter is taken to the seacoast by a railroad owned by the firm, and from there it is conveyed to Rotterdam by four of their own steamers. The testing ground for guns is at Meppen, and it has a target range of 72,000 feet. In 1892 the great Gruson steel works at Buckau were purchased and three years ago shipbuilding yards were started at Kiel. When they are completed 7,000 men will be employed at this place.

A Match Trick.

By the simple trick of cutting the wood across the grain, or of cutting it with the grain at such an angle that it will split almost lengthwise, when friction is applied, matchmakers are adding to their profits by enormous sums yearly.

At Law Over a Cat.

A curious suit to determine the ownership of a cat has just been ended at Bluffton, Ind. Mrs. Mike Daily, of that place, was the owner of a large Thomas which was regaded as a great family pet. Without cause, so Mrs. Daily alleges, the cat strayed to the house of Morris Sawyer, and took up his quarters there, forsaking Mrs. Daily. Demand was made on Mrs. Sawyer for the surrender of the cat, and she peremptorily refused. Then replevin proceedings were begun, and at an expense of $20 Mrs. Daily got a writ, and a constable went after the wayward Thomas and carried him back to the Daily domicile in triumph. Mrs. Sawyer threatens to carry the litigation to determine the ownership of the cat to the Wells Circuit Court.—Cincinnati (O.) Enquirer.

Wealth is an Essential.

Belgrave and Eaton squares are in the southern portion of the west end of London, and both are very handsome and extensive. The value of property there, as in the districts just mentioned, is literally prodigious. Only the richest people can afford to dwell in these quarters and only the richest people do. Many persons of title and long descent, who have not money enough to occupy their ancestral homes, rent them to tenants with fatter purses than their own. Thus decade by decade London society is losing its old repute for exclusiveness, and the claims of money are superseding those of birth. Many of the oldest English families, indeed, have now retired altogether from active participation in social affairs. Parvenus and upstarts hobnob with the rich nobility, and not seldom intermarry with them as well.

Half a Mile of Babies.

"Baby boulevard' is the popular name of the long stretch of broad cement walk which skirts the west edge of Lincoln Park, from North avenue to Center street, in Chicago. An observant man, walking south, passed twenty-six baby buggies and met thirty-two; in two buggies were howling twins. A Lincoln park policeman is authority for the statement that there are more babies trundled over this walk than over any other length of sidewalk in the city. He said in one day he checked up 124 fond fathers, doting mothers, nurse maids and small brothers and sisters shoving baby buggies, go-carts, wheeled chairs and perambulators over the cement slabs. "And that was only five hours during the whole day. That was on a Saturday. On Sundays they come in droves."

Weary of "Tipping."

"The humility of the British shopman to his patrons is amazing," remarked a tourist the other day. "His customers says 'Please do this,' and 'I'll thank you for that,' but this politeness does not conceal the arrogance of the tone. Also, from the moment I set foot in England to the moment I left I was continualy "tipping' people of all classes."

The latter part of this complaint reminds one of the American who stood in the stern of the steamer as she swung out of Liverpool, and, holding aloft a smiling face, cried out:

"If there's a man, woman or child on this blessed island I've not 'tipped,' come forward now, for this is your last and only chance!"

A Lawsuit Over Chickens.

As a result of a quarrel over some chickens which refused to lay eggs, two residents of Coffeyville, Kan., have become involved in a remarkable lawsuit. Jason Brophy, the plaintiff, avers that his neighbor, Needham Weeks, presented him ten hens and two roosters in February last and assured him that the hens would lay upward of sixty eggs a week. Brophy fed and cared for the chickens for ten weeks, "devoting most of his time to them, to the detriment of other interests," but the hens failed to lay any eggs. The plaintiff alleges that he was unlawful deceived by the defendant and seeks to recover $100 damages for his wasted labor and for his expenditures for chicken feed.

An Eagle Flew Off With His Hat.

Solomon Raup, a farmer of East Point, was attacked by a large eagle while crossing a large area that had recently been burned over. The eagle flew from behind him and sunk its talons into the back of his neck before he had time to defend himself. A heavy cloth hat protected his head and eyes, but the bird pecked so violently that it pulled a whisp of haif from his head and carried his hat away. It is thought the eagle's nestlings were burned by the forest fire and that the parent bird took revenge on Farmer Raup when he sauntered in the neighborhood where the nest formerly was.—Philadelphia Record.

A Literal Boer.

One of the British officers, now temporarily stationed at Pretoria, wrote home a short time ago to his sister. "It is awfully slow," he said. "I have read every book in the prison library, and there is not a thing left to do." The Boer censor who read the letter put a big blue mark against the passage and a foot-note below: "Now you shall see what lies your prisoners tell in their letters. The prison library contains ten thousand seven hundred and forty-one volumes."

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JULY 1.

Subject: Jesus Walking on the Sea. Matt. xiv., 22-33—Golden Text: Matt. xiv., 33—Memory Verses, 25-27—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

22. "And straightway." The time had come for instant action. "Jesus constrained." Commanded. The disciples seemed unwilling to go and leave Him alone. By the exercise of direct authority He compelled them to embark. "Unto the other side." Towards Capernum and Bethsaida (John 6:16, 17; Mark 6:45). "While He sent the multitudes away." The multitudes would not leave while the disciples were present.

23. "Apart to pray." He was conscious that a solemn and awful crisis of His day on earth was come, and by communing with His heavenly Father He would nerve His soul for the stern work of the morrow, and the bitter conflict of many coming weeks. There on the desolate hilltop, in that night of storm, He could gain strength and peace and happiness unspeakable. "Evening was come." About six o'clock. From verse 23 we see that He must have remained in the mountain, alone with His God, far into the night.

24. "In the midst of the sea." The ship in the sea is a striking emblem of His church in the world. Not infrequently do the waves and the winds of strong persecutions come against the church. The ship is safe in the sea so long as the sea does not get into the ship; and so the church is in the world a mighty power for good, but when the world gets in the church it begins to sink.

25. "In the fourth watch." The Jews had four watches, or periods of the night. The first watch was from six to nine o'clock; the second, from nine to twelve; the third, from twelve to three; and the fourth, from three to six in the morning. It was therefore between the hours of three and six in the morning that Jesus apeared to them. They had toiled nearly all night. "Jesus went unto them." He will always go to His disciples when they are in trouble, and are laboring against the waves. "Walking on the sea." He thus shows His unlimited power. Here are three miracles in one. First, though at a distance He knew the distress of His disciples. Second, He found them out on the lake and probably in the midst of darkness. Third, He walked upon the water.

26. "Saw Him." At last, in their worst extremity, they saw a gleam in the darkness, and an awful figure, and a fluttering robe, and One drew near them, treading upon the ridges of the sea, but seemed as if He meant to pass them by; and they cried out in terror at the sight, thinking that it was a phantom. "Cried out." Little things will frighten us in a storm. When without are fightings, within are fears. Even the approaches of deliverance are sometimes the occasions of trouble.

27. "Straightway." Christ is anxious to allay our fears now, instantly, as He did theirs. "It is I." Nothing but the voice they knew so well could, under such circumstances, have given them comfort and courage. Those who are grievously tossed with difficulties and temptations require a similar manifestation of His goodness. When Christ proclaims Himself in the soul, all sorrow and fear and sin are at an end.

28. "If it be Thou." Or, "since it is Thou." There was no doubt expressed here. Peter knew it was Jesus. "Bid Me come." Peter's fault lay in the words "bid me," which betray an ambitious and over-confident desire to outdo and outdare the other disciples. That Peter's faith was sincere is seen (1) from the fact that in dependence upon Jesus he left the boat, and (2) when he was sinking he called on Him for aid.

29. "Come." Sometimes the answer is come in order that we may know our weakness and have out pride of wisdom brought low. The Lord knew that Peter's faith would fail him, but He said, Come, if thou desirest to make the experiment. "Walked on the waters." He walked on the water, but he was upheld by the divine power of Jesus Christ, not by the water.

30. "The wind boisterous." So long as Peter kept his eye on his Lord he could tread the boisterous waves in perfect safety; but as soon as he began to look at their blackness, and consider the depths beneath him, "he was afraid." His faith failed, his courage staggered, and, in the hurry of his thoughts, he was seized with a sudden terror. "Beginning to sink." It was not the violence of the wind or the raging billows which endangered his life, but his littleness of faith. Christians are upheld, as they are saved, by faith. Peter cast away his confidence, which we are exhorted not to do. Heb. 10:35. When we "draw back" the Lord has no pleasure in us, and we begin to sink. "Lord, save me." This prayer was a model in many respects. 1. It was direct. 2. It recognized the divinity of Jesus. Peter would have had no confidence in Christ's ability had he not known He was more than a mere man. 3. It was personal. 4. It was short. If Peter had prayed as many people do to-day he would have been many fathoms under water before he came to the point of asking to be saved. 5. It was earnest and came from the heart; he was going down; in another moment he would have perished. Prevailing prayer is born of necessity.

31. "Immediately." Christ will never permit a soul to sink that is earnestly calling for help. "His hand." His hand is a strong hand, a sure support. "Little faith." True was a gentle rebuke. Faith may be true and yet weak. Peter had faith enough to bring him upon the water, but not enough to carry him through the billows. We should not consider so much the danger to which we are exposed as the power of Christ by which we are upheld. The test may be great, but God's grace will be sufficient in every case. "Doubt." Why? what reason had you for doubting? Had I not told you to come? and did you not make the first part of the journey in safety? and was I not right here by your side to preserve you? Wherefore didst thou doubt?

32. "The wind ceased." This was another miracle. All they needed was Christ on board. The storm was over and immediately they were "at the land whither they went." This was still another miracle. When Christ comes into the soul He brings peace and a calm with Him.

33. "They that were in the ship." The sailors who were present as well as the disciples. "Came and worshipped." They were deeply impressed with the many manifestations of His divinity. The day and night, too, had been full of proofs that He was the Son of God. The day before He had miraculously fed the multitude, and had healed their sick; and how one miracle follows another in such quick succession that they cannot rest in themselves, but, in a "rapture of wonder, devotion and reverence," they fall at His feet and openly declare, "Thou art the Son of God." "Of a truth." The fact is established beyond any possibility of there being a mistake.

HUNTING FOR PEARLS.

Two Stars in This Perilous Line of Work.

Two famous pearl divers recently visited San Francisco to buy a large quantity of air pumps, diving suits and like paraphernalia of the sea. Opu and Taipu are their names, and they are generally regarded as stars in their perilous line of work. They were born on one of the islands of the Dangerous archipelago group. They speak good English, however, and both are thoroughly familiar with the civilization of West Australia, where they have spent most of their lives as pearl hunters, says the New York Telegraph. Taipu is the principal native pearl merchant of the many hundreds who have embarked in the trade since the natives of the Paumotu islands first dabbled in that form of commerce. He owns a pearling dredger and a ship; both are engaged in the trade in southwestern waters. His ship, however, is a mere hulk that travels less than ninety miles along the coast. They depend principally upon pearl shells for income, since to stake earnings on the pearls alone would be to invite loss. Valuable pearls are not frequent enough to make it pay, but the commercial mother-of-pearl is made from the shells that they deal in. When it comes to hunting for the real pearl there is not any kind of a scoop or dredger than can take the place of men's eyes; diving and treading the deep is the only way to find valuable pearls. As a rule, these are some distance apart, scattered over the rocky bed of the ocean. Sometimes a man will pick up a fortune in a few weeks and sometimes he will hardly make expenses in a season. Pearling is still profitable, for the crude shells are sold at from $500 to $750 a ton, and there is always a chance that a diver may make enough in one day to quit for life. "We do not dive farther than sixty to 100 feet," said Opu, "for the pressure is too great. Even at these depths men cannot remain down over five or ten minutes, and the average life of the deep diver is short."

Queer Money.

Europeans trading in China are reduced to great straits for money. English gold will always pass; but is scarce. In large trading undertakings, bars of pure gold, weighing thirteen ounces are recognized as official exchange. Gold leaf is used by bankers for smaller amounts. Inland, where gold of any kind is rarely seen, horse-shoe-shaped pieces of silver, weighing five to fifty ounces, are used. Some trading corporations have been forced to issue bank notes and tokens made of bamboo slips; but the mistrustful Chinaman is very chary of accepting these, so their circulation is limited to one town, sometimes to a single street. In the new colony of Urganda, west of the great African lakes, there was practically no coinage but shells. As these are bulky, and therefore inconvenient, Europeans have started a new system. Needles and cloth are now current everywhere. Three needles will purchase one chicken, one needle two eggs, whilst a cow cost fifty yards of cotton cloth. Shells, however, continue to do duty as small change, as many as a hundred going to one needle.

New Bishop of Columbus.

The Rt. Rev. Henry Moeller, the newly appointed Catholic bishop of Columbus, has been chancellor of the archdiocese of Cincinnati for over twenty years. He was born in Cincinnati in 1840, and was one of the first students in the American College at Rome. In 1879 he left his pastoral duties at Bellefontaine, Ohio, to become secretary to Bishop Chatard. Since 1880 he has been with Archbishop Elder of Cincinnati.

TO WOMEN WHO DOUBT.

Every Suffering Woman Should Read this Letter and be Convinced that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Cure Female Weakness.

"I have been troubled with female weakness in its worst form for about ten years. I had leucorrhœa and was so weak that I could not do my housework. I also had falling of the womb and inflammation of the womb and ovaries and at menstrual periods I suffered terribly. At times my back would ache very hard. I could not lift anything or do any heavy work; was not able to stand on my feet. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for doctors but they did me no good. After a time I concluded to try your medicine and I can truly say it does all that you claim for it to do.

Ten bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and seven packages of Sanative Wash have made a new woman of me. I have had no womb trouble since taking the fifth bottle. I weigh more than I have in years; can do all my own housework, sleep well, have a good appetite and now feel that life is worth living. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel that it has saved my life and would not be without it for anything. I am always glad to recommend your medicine to all my sex, for I know if they follow your directions, they will be cured."—MRS. ANNIE THOMPSON, South Hot Springs, Ark.

Spins Nearly an Hour.

A Providence (R. I.) man has invented a top which will spin 48 minutes, is of steel, three inches across, and the inventor has made nearly 100 tops trying to form one which would spin a full hour. An ordinary twirl with the fingers is sufficient to spin the top ten or fifteen minutes. But its best work is done when the affair is wound with twine three feet or so.

SAD STATE OF CAPTURED BOERS

Cronje Was a Beaten But Not a Crushed Foe.

The thing was gallantly done, and we may all well be proud of this achievement of the Canadians. An examination of the laager disclosed a state of affairs which it would be impossible to describe. The wreckage and confusion were bad enough, but the filth and stench were such as to make one feel sick, says a London News correspondent. Within a space of 100 yards lay over forty dead horses and a half dozen dead oxen. Men themselves were only buried six inches beneath the soil. No regard had been paid to sanitary arrangements at all. They drank the water within a few feet of a petrifying carcass. Wounded men lay about uncared for, their wounds undressed, left to look after themselves. In most cases gangrene had set in. Slight scratches, which with ordinary care would have entailed two days' rest only, had developed, into huge ulcerated cancerous sores. Our doctors, who took charge of over two hundred such cases, declare that nine-tenths must die. Compared to the horrible conditions under which the Boers had for the past ten days lived, our fire was mere child's play. It proves the indomitable pluck—call it obstinacy if you like—of Cronje. It was only the general who made the men hold out so long. The prisoners for most part seemed pleased when taken. Cronje was sullen; a beaten but not crushed foe. To us it felt like death to remain five minutes in the place where the Boers had spent ten days. One's stomach turned against the fetid stench of rotting bodies. For a day one could not get the smell out of one's nostrils. Yet the prisoners declare that had it not been for the Canadians getting so close to them they would have held out for some days yet; and with food it would have been weeks before they would have surrendered, it may be interesting to say that one prisoner told me that they knew that we were longing to wipe out Majuba, and that they thought that if they allowed us to charge with the bayonet none of them would be allowed to live, even had they shot our soldiers down by hundreds. The Boers, besides having a wholesome dread of cold steel, is capable of arguing with himself.

Strawberries on Trees.

At last M. Baltet, the great French specialist, has been enabled to grow strawberries on plants of a decidedly treelike nature. The method is simplicity itself. The runners are trained up vertically and tied to a stake, in the same way that a pot tomato plant is, and then the lateral buds are pinched out. Result—a strawberry tree on a small scale.—London Leader.

PASSING YEARS

Look in your mirror today. Take a last look at your gray hair. It surely may be the last if you want it so; you needn't keep your gray hair a week longer than you wish. There's no guesswork about this; it's sure every time.

To restore color to gray hair use—

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

After using it for two or three weeks notice how much younger you appear, ten years younger at least.

Ayer's Hair Vigor also cures dandruff, prevents falling of the hair, makes hair grow, and is a splendid hair dressing.

It cannot help but do these things, for it's a hair-food. When the hair is well fed, it cannot help but grow.

It makes the scalp healthy and this cures the disease that causes dandruff.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

"My hair was coming out badly, but Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling and has made my hair very thick and much darker than before. I think there is nothing like it for the hair." CORA M. LEA, April 25, 1899. Yarrow, I. T.

FAIR WARNING!

DR. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

is a scientific prescription, carefully prepared from the purest and best ingredients, consequently the most costly cough medicine on the market. In buying Dr. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY you get as big a bottle and more doses for 25 cents than you do of any other, but the druggist's profit is less. Therefore some druggists are cunningly persuading their customers to buy that which to them means greater profit.

DON'T YOU DO IT. DEMAND

Dr. Bell's PINE-TAR-HONEY and take no substitute.

FAIR WARNING!

DR. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

is a scientific prescription, carefully prepared from the purest and best ingredients, consequently the most costly cough medicine on the market. In buying Dr. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY you get as big a bottle and more doses for 25 cents than you do of any other, but the druggist's profit is less. Therefore some druggists are cunningly persuading their customers to buy that which to them means greater profit.

DON'T YOU DO IT. DEMAND

Dr. Bell's PINE-TAR-HONEY and take no substitute.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—Editor.]

Clanton, Ala., June 28, 1900
Hon. H. I. Honeycutt,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir.—Replying to your answer of the 16th inst., I will say that since your business engagements are such that you cannot canvass the county with me as suggested in my invitation to you, yet as you manifest a willingness to satisfy inquiries in regard to your position on public questions, I will proceed to ask the following:

1st. Are you in favor of a constitutional convention?

2d. Are you in favor of a restricted ballot; if so in what way?

3d. Do you favor the resolution passed by your party in regard to local legislation being referred to the defeated candidates of the Democratic party?

4th. Do you favor the disfranchisement of the negro?

Let me assure you that a clear and unequivocal answer to the foregoing questions will be greatly appreciated by the voters of this county as well as myself, that your position may be clearly understood.

Very respectfully,
L. B. Pounds.

Shoutz.

Death visited the home of Rev. P. G. Maness on last Sunday, taking away their sweet little babe aged four months. We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved.

We are glad to see the sun one time more and glad to say the health of our community is better than it was last week.

We had a nice all day singing at the M. E. church last Sunday; everybody enjoyed themselves.

We have had so much rain the farmers are running the little sugar this week; prospects for hay are good, and if we make as many haystacks this year as we did mistakes last year our barns will be full.

We hear some say that we are having too much rain. God only knows what we need.

We are glad to learn that Professor Spinks will take charge of the school at this place next Monday.

Mr. C. L. Hicks, who has been at work at Cardener's mill, is at home again.

Rev. P. G. Maness will preach for us next second Sunday. We are also expecting Rev. Maroney, of Riderville, to be with us on the second.

Voters are patiently waiting for the coming of August.

We had cotton blooming in this section by the 20th of June; wonder if Old Mike can beat that?

Big Ike.

ALL DAY SINGING.

The Providence Union Singing Society met at Providence church June 16, at 10 o'clock a.m and was called to order by the vice-President, W. H. Robinson, a song was sung and prayer was offered by same brother.

It was one of the most harmonising days ever spent in the Society, everyone seemed to enjoy themselves both socially and spiritually; the day seemed to be blessed The society closed with prayer led by Bro. Rily Robinson, to meet with Providence church on Saturday before the 4th Sunday in August, 1900, at 9 o'clock a.m.

ALL ABOARD FOR EUROPE

New York, June 29, 1900

Dear Mr. Editor: I am this far on my attempted journey to the east. Leaving Maplesville, Ala., on June 26 via the Southern Ry. to Birmingham, thence via L. & N. to Cincinnati, thence via Penn. Ry. to New York. The rains followed us the way. I saw only two farmers at work between Birmingham and Louisville—too wet. Saw a lot of stacked wheat in the field soaking in water. There is quite a broken country between Louisville and Harrisburg, Pa., about like "Little Texas" in Lowndes co., and more too. The train was fast and I remember when I was a boy I was fond of fast trains and that they were exhilerating to me, and quickened my thinking power. Fast trains make me sad now, as I grow older, for I remember life too goes same way.

A lady got on the train at Cincinnati, had two little boys, one about two years old, one about four; failed to get a berth. I said "Madam, take mine." I would have given up anything that night for that lady, as the writer had left just two such boys way back in Alabama for somebody to be good to, and they both had on a leather cap each, just like those two Alabama boys. Cincinnati is built on a succession of hills. The street cars go down the highest hill there, called Mt. Adams, in a basket, so to speak. They run out on a platform and they let the platform down with the car on it. I walked ub there and rode down.

A fellow passenger got a cinder in his eye, another one said rub the other eye, that will get it out. Then I thought of the tale of how you could catch a turkey by putting salt on his tail.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox wrote a fine poem entitled "I'm Sorry," bringing in all of earth's especially to be pitied humanity, but she left out the fellow who has to sleep in top berth on a sleeper in a hot night in June. This will remind her. I saw a lot of what I took to be windmill towers along the road in eastern Pennsylvania but as they had no windmills on them I concluded they were erected to put up water tanks on the top of them; but seeing no water tanks nor no prospect, I inquired and was told they were oil wells. If I had had my wife she could have seen the grease and smelt the smell, and I would not have had to asked. I came through Johnstown, the town that was swept away several years ago by the bursting of the big dam above the town. The dam has never been rebuilt, the town has and is larger by several times.

Talking about style, I wish some of you Southern girls could see some of these neat, sweet, healthy looking, Quaker girls at Lancaster, Pa., and I think that you would not look up the latest Paris styles. It is the prettiest costume I ever saw. I will see Paris next month and let you know.

My steamer, the State of Nebraska, is in port and we sail tomorrow at noon.

I will write again from the Continent. Just got a telegram from those two boys in Alabama with leather caps on, and I feel better.

T. U. Crumpton.

Just called to see Mrs. Isabel Saportas. Her relatives at Maplesville, Ala., the Glovers, would like to hear of her good health.

Heartburn.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the hous, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorons and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. Curtis Baker, Bookwalter, Ohio. Sold by Clanton drug co, and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

ESTRAY NOTICE.

Estrayed by Curtis Gentry on 6th day of June, 1900, one gray horse mule about fifteen hands high, a scar in side of left fore leg near the foot, valued at $75.00. Estrayed before D. C. Hubbard, Justice of the Peace for Precinct No. 3, Chilton county, Ala.

S. M. Adams,
Judge of Probate.

The Democratic Committee of the Fourth Congressional District has altered its plans, and called a convention at Selma on August 15.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich heartburn is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let six hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, indicating that you have eaten too much, take one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the heartburn may be avoided. For sale by Clanton drug co., and D. I. Deramus Verbena.

After many intricate experiments, scientists have discovered methods for obtaining all the natural digestants. These have been combined in the proportion found in the human body and united with substances that build up the digestive organs, making a compound called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and allows all dyspeptics to eat plenty of nourishing food while the stomach troubles are being radically cured by the medical agents it contains. It is pleasant to take and will give quick relief. Campbelle drug co.

GEN. AQUINO SURRENDERS.

Fifty Filipino Rebels Killed and Forty Wounded.

A week's scouting in northern Luzon resulted in fifty rebels being killed and forty wounded. One American was killed.

Troops operating in north Ilocos have burned six of the barracks belonging to General Tino's forces and captured General Tino's correspondence. General Tino, with 200 of his men, armed with rifles, succeeded in escaping.

At Angeles General Aquino surrendered to General Grant. General Aquino, according to testimony of survivors, ordered the execution of several American prisoners last year at Arayat. This execution was effected in the face of a rescuing column. The restriction clauses in the amnesty proclamation recently issued by the American authorities are said to have been inserted principally to cover Aquino's action in this case.

The Filipinos attacked the town of Bengued twice on the morning of June 25. The garrison succeeded in driving off the insurgents, killing seven of them. The same night the enemy attempted to burn San Quintanabra, exchanging shots with the garrison. Twelve houses were burned, but the soldiers succeeded in preventing the flames from spreading throughout the town.

Awful Sentence Again Pronounced.

"That you hung by the neck until you are dead, and may God have mercy on your soul."

Such were the solemn words uttered by Judge Call at Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday, as he was faced by Frank Roberson, twice tried, twice convicted, and twice sentenced to suffer the death penalty.

The crime for which Frank Roberson was sentented to death was the murder of Deputy Sheriffs Sadler and Dennis, which occurred at Pablo Beach last July, and for which crime Mose Roberson, a brother of this prisoner, is now in prison under sentence of death.

Message From Dr. Parker.

Dr. W. R. Lambuth, secretary of the Methodist board of foreign missions, at Nashville, Tenn., has just received a cablegram from Dr. A. P. Parker, president of the Anglo-Chinese college, at Shanghai. The message reads:

"All quiet in Yong Tse Valley."

Dr. Lambuth considers the news as highly reassuring, as all the southern Methodists and most of the southern Presbyterians and Baptists are in that section.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

A dastardly attempt was made to wr the eastbound Southern passenger train Friday morning, near Scottsboro, Ala. The train is a fast one between Memphis and Chattanooga. It ran into seven or eight crossties piled up across the track a short distance from Paint Rock. Fortunately the engineer saw the ties in time to save his train by shutting off is engine. There were a number of passengers aboard and a wreck would have caused great loss of life, as well as property.

Li Hung Chang Chopping Off Heads.

A dispatch from Canton says: While the general situation here is unchanged, an uneasy feeling prevails. An uprising is feared in case of Li Hung Chang's departure. The numerous daily criminal executions, by order of the viceroy, Li Hung Chang, show his realization of the serious condition of affairs and his firm intention to prevent trouble. He is threatened by the mob with assassination if he should leave the city.

Struck by Lightning.

Saturday a severe wind and rain storm passed east of Lafayette, Ala., toward West Point, Ga., and much damage was done to crops. During the storm a negro, Wes Ray, while returning from the field, was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

BAD NEWS IS CONFIRMED

Admiral Kempff Says all the Legations at Pekin Are Besieged

AND HIS SUPPLIES NEARLY EXHAUSTED.

The Situation at the Chinese Capital is Desperate—Killing of the German Minister Confirmed. Feeling at Washington.

A courier from Sir Robert Hart, inspector-general of customs at Pekin, has just arrived at Tien Tsin, says a Che Foo dispatch. He left Pekin on Monday, June 25, and reports the situation desperate. On June 18 he reports Baron Von Ketteler, the German minister, and his secretary attempted to visit the Tsung Li Yamen. He was shot four times and died at the rooms of the Tsung Li Yamen. His secretary succeeded in making his escape.

All the legations except the British, German and Italian have been destroyed. The diplomats and missionaries are in the British legation under rifle fire. Cannon command the legations, but they are not being used. It is impossible to start relief at present. Captain McCalla, commander of the Newark, estimates that 50,000 soldiers will be required to relieve the ministers at Pekin.

The navy department at Washington has received the following cablegram from Admiral Kempff without date:

"Chee Foo.

"Secretary of the Navy, Washington:

"Runners from Pekin reported legations are beseiged; provisions nearly exhausted; situation desperate; German minister going to Tsung Li Yamen murdered by Chinese soldiers; American, Italian and Duty Legations burned. Twenty thousand Chinese soldiers inside; 80,000 outside Pekin; 3,000 reported beyond Tien Tsin; still fighting at Tien Tsin. Communication with Tien Tsin by rail and river insecure. KEMPFF."

Bad news came to Washington Monday morning from Admiral Kempff, confirming the worst stories which have emanated from China relative to the condition at Pekin, and a feeling of disquiet was noticeable among administration officials and diplomats.

It was said at the state department that the only news was there seemed to be an unanimous agreement on the part of the powers to welcome the utmost cordiality of Japan's offer to furnish reinforcements for the forces now operating along the Pei Ho river in the effort to reach Pekin, as Japan alone of the powers is prepared to throw into China whatever number of troops may be needed. The news to that effect had come to the state department from all directions and particularly from England, Russia and France.

FIGHT WITH PRISONERS.

Sheriff Dawson, of Magnolia, Ark., Shot Down and Seriously Wounded.

Eight prisoners made a desperate effort to escape from jail at Magnolia, Ark., Monday night, and in a fight to prevent the escape Sheriff John Dawson was shot and seriously wounded. Before retiring Sheriff Dawson had opened the jail door to lock the prisoners in their cells for the night. The men attacked him and a struggle ensued. Dawson shot and fatally wounded L. McDuffy, colored, and Ed Warren. A Texarkana negro named Will Newton succeeded in getting the sheriff's pistol and with it shot the officer down. Six prisoners then made a dash for liberty. When they reached the street several armed citizens were encountered. Sam Garrett, a citizen, shot Lafayette Jones. A hard fight occurred between the citizens and the convicts, resulting in all the prisoners being recaptured except Newton, who, with the sheriff's pistol, continued firing until he got out of sight.

St. Louis Strike Declared Off.

An agreement between the St. Louis Transit company and its former employes was signed Monday by representatives of the Transit company and by the executive committee of the employes, which ends the strike.

An Aerial Ship.

Count Von Zepplin's aerial ship made an ascent at Friederichaven, near Berlin, Monday. It had four occupants and traveled safely a distance of thirty-five miles.

C. B. Phelps, assistant superintendent at Nashville, Tenn., succeeds George E. Evans as superintendent of transportation of the Louisville & Nashville.

PEKIN LEGATIONS BURNED.

All Destroyed Except English, German and French.

A Rome dispatch says: The commander of the cruiser Elba telegraphs from Taku June 30 as follows:

Advices from the German legation in Pekin state that all the legation buildings have been burned except those of England, France and Germany. All the members of the diplomatic corps have taken refuge in the British legation.

A Shanghai dispatch says: The British consul at Che Foo telegraphs that Baron von Kettler, German minister at Pekin, was murdered by native troops June 18. Three legations—it is not stated which—were still undestroyed June 23.

The American consul here states that Yung Lu telegraphed June 26 that the other ministers were safe that morning, but the situation was desperate and he doubted whether the ministers could hold out twenty-fours longer, as he and the empress could no longer give protection.

POWERS AGREE.

International Army of Occupation Will Consist of 80,000 Men.

A Paris cable dispatch says: As a result of negotiations between the powers an agreement had been arrived at which provides for the maintenance of the statu quo as regards spheres of influence and commercial agreements, and also respecting the nature of the guarantees and compensations which will be demanded from China.

According to the understanding the international army of occupation will consist of 80,000 men. Russia and Japan will provide 12,000 each, Great Britain will provide 10,000 men, France 8,000 and Germany, America and the other powers 5,000 each.

THE COTTON CROP.

Distinct Deterioration Apparent and in Some Sections the Outlook is Desperate.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat of Sunday prints the second of its series of reports on the cotton crop of 1900. The views expressed by correspondents are summarized as follows:

The month of June has been marked by a distinct deterioration, and, in some sections, the outlook is desperate.

In consequence of excessive rainfall over large areas of the belt, much land has been abandoned and much of the original increase in acreage has thus been lost.

Labor is scarce and dear and the effect of this condition is severely felt in sections which are afflicted with grass and weeds.

In a general way, it may be said that, with a perfect season from this time forth, a fair crop may be made; a bumper yield seems to be out of the question; with an early frost, it would be extremely difficult to measure the extent of the consequent disaster.

ALL ON BOARD SAVED.

Battleship Oregon is Ashore in the Gulf of Pe Chi.

A special dispatch from Shanghai, dated June 30, says that all on board the United States battleship Oregon, which went ashore in the gulf of Pe Chi, have been saved. There is some chance that the vessel may be floated.

Pinnacle rock, where the Oregon grounded, is about 25 feet high and lies 3 2-3 miles south of Howkelie island and about a mile and a quarter northeast of the island of Sino Lu Shan. The officials of the naval hydrographer's office say there is a great rise and fall of the tide at this point (about 10 feet) and it is possible that the Oregon may be lifted off in this way and set afloat without aid.

Rough Riders' Reunion.

The opening day of the Rough Riders' reunion at Oklahoma City, O. T., has been all that was anticipated. The weather was cool and comfortable. Every incoming train was packed and the town is filled with visitors. Indians of various tribes, including Sac and Fox, Pawnees, Cheyennes and Delawares, are encamped about the town and are joining the throng.

An unknown young negro was run over and killed by a Southern local freight a few miles west of New Decatur about daybreak.

TWO HUNDRED LIVES LOST

PROPERTY LOSS WILL REACH $10,000,000

Three Great Ocean Liners Destroyed. Spectacle That Will Be Memorable in History—Many Small Craft Burned.

Almost $10,000,000 worth of property was destroyed, many lives were lost, many persons were injured and at least 1,500 lives were imperilled by a fire that started among cotton bales under Pier No. 3, of the North German Lloyd Steamship company, in Hoboken, New York, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

In less than fifteen minutes the flames covered an area of a quarter of a mile long, extending outward from the actual shore line to the bulkheads, from 600 to 1,000 feet away, and had ignited four great ocean liners and a dozen more smaller harbor craft in its grasp.

Stories in regard to the loss of life are conflicting, the number being variously estimated at from fifty to 200. Up to midnight ten bodies had been recovered, but they were so burned that identification was impossible. The hospitals in New York, Hoboken and Jersey City are crowed with the injured, the men are being brought in by scores.

Those who gathered along the shores of the Hudson river to witness the great conflagration saw a spectacle that they can never forget and one that will always have a conspicuous place in the history of New York. River and bay were enveloped in a pall of black smoke, through which flames, bursting as from volcanoes from the Jersey shore and in the water itself, leaped to the sky. The surface of the water was covered with floating masses of freight, thrown buring in haste from the doomed vessels, all unnoticed in the mad race to rescue the human lives threatened. And through the pall of smoke a great crimson sun, enlarged to thrice its size by the haze, glared like an enormous eye as it slowly sunk in the west. Such was the spectacle presented on the surface of the Hudson river, as if it were some holiday pageant. It was made tragic by the realization that somewhere in that smoke, somewhere beneath the water, scores of lives had been lost or were then in their last struggle against death.

At the docks of the North German Lloyd were the Saale, a single crew passenger ship of 4,968 gross tons; the Bremen, a twin screw passenger and freight ship of 10,526 tons, and the Maine, a twin screw freight and passenger ship of 10,200 gross tons. They all caught fire and were burned to the water. The Kaiser Wilhelm Der Gross, which had just come in, was the only one of the four big vessels at the docks that escaped.

Latest Estimates of the Dead.

The losses sustained in the fire at the docks of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company at Hoboken Saturday are conservatively placed at nearly $10,000,000. The loss of life, while merely guess work at even this late hour, will probably reach as high as 200, and there are more than 300 men in the hospitals in New York city, Hoboken and Jersey City badly burned.

Late Sunday night a list was prepared showing as far as possible the number of men employed on each steamship who have been accounted for. Of these 255 men employed on the Saale, 127 have been accounted for.

Of the 204 men employed on the Bremen 127 were accounted for.

Of the 247 men employed on the Maine 76 were accounted for.

PROHIBITION NOMINEES.

John G. Woolley for President and H. B. Metcalf for Vice-President.

The prohibition national convention adjourned sine die at Chicago after having placed in nomination for president John G. Woolley, of Illinois, and for vice-president H. B. Metcalf, of Rhode Island. The nomination in each instance was made on the first ballot. Two candidates for president were balloted for, Mr. Woolley and Rev. S. C. Swallow, of Pennsylvania, Hale Johnson, of Illinois, withdrawing his name at the last moment, and throwing his strength to Mr. Woolley.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

Indications point to the fact that the internal revenue receipts for Alabama for the fiscal year which ended Saturday will reach $600,000. This will be an increase of nearly $100,000 over last year. It is estimated that the receipts for the coming month of July will reach $160,000, which will be the largest sum ever collected in Alabama in one month.

STATE NEWS SUMMARY.

New Coal Mine Will Be Opened Up in Bibb County.

Captain H. C. Reynolds and W. B. Reynolds of Montevallo, have successfully negotiated a 20-year lease of 2,000 acres of coal land from Charles H. Marshall, president of the Continental National Bank of New York, and also president of the Alabama Mineral Land company. The property is situated in Bibb county, south of the lower Cahaba river bridge, between Gurnee and Blocton. The seam of coal it carries is known as the Underwood or Thompson seam, and is from five to seven feet thick. The Louisville and Nashville and Southern will build a joint road to the proposed mines. Mr. Reynolds said he would organize under the name of the Bibb County Mining company, with temporary office at Blocton.

Contracts will be let for the erection of fifty houses, as soon as the lumber can be cut for that purpose. The proposed output of the mines is a thousand tons per day.

Head Almost Severed From Body.

William Walker cut to death Whit Thompson at the former's home, three miles north of Edwardsville Cleburne county Sunday night. Walker immediately rode to town and surrendered to the sheriff. He is now in jail.

From reports at hand it seems that Thompson, considerably under the influence of liquor, went to the home of Walker and threatened to run Walker off. Walker protested and Thompson knocked him down twice. A third time Thompson threw him down, and while in this position Walker drew his knife and almost severed Thompson's head from his body, Thompson dying instantly.

Conductor Wallis Killed.

Conductor D. A. Wallis, whose run is on the Southern, between Selma and Birmingham, met his death Monday morning at Aldrich. Mr. Wallis was standing on his caboose while his train was backing into the siding at Aldrich, when, in some unaccountable way, he was thrown to the ground and the caboose passed entirely over his body, killing him instantly.

A Young Hero.

Near Stevenson, one day last week, during a heavy rain, a lot of lumber was washed onto the track of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway and covered it up for several feet. Two boys of a teamster named James Dunn saw the danger, and one waded into the water above his waist and cleared the road just in time to save the passenger train. His foresight certainly saved a wreck.

Birmingham Bank Clearings.

The clearings of the Birmingham banks for the month of June were $8,654,672.81, as against $2,460,710.03 for the same month in 1899, an increase for this year of $1,193,376.78.

The clearings for the week ending June 30 were $967,880.10, as against $579,868.42 for the same week last year, an increase of $388,021.77.

at the point of greatest depression and from a distance look like deposits of salt or snow. Under the surface is common wet clay or water of varying depths. These deposits are generally circular in form and appear as though once they were craters. Borax was created by contact of boracic acid in gaseous form, with the lime and soda of the surface. At Teels Marsh, Nevada, borate of lime appears in the form of balls imbedded in clay along with soda, salt, etc., but at Columbus these are found in sandy soil. Sometimes these balls are decomposed, underlying the soil which is removed, and the borate shoveled out. Deposits of crude borate of soda are found in Nevada and in Death Valley, at the Monte Blanco mines. These mines are located in a region the most forbidding, remote from the railroad and offering almost unsurmountable difficulties in the reduction and marketing of their product, but their richness and extent, compared to all other fields, soon caused them to be regarded as the principal source of supply for the future production of borax in the United States.

The works employ from 400 to 1600 men. The crude borate of lime is first passed through rock breakers and is posed largely of sand and dirt with considerable borax mixed. The deposit is passed through a filter press, which presses the dirt and allows the borax liquor to pass away to be utilized again. Repeated over and over again, the last remnant of borax is finally secured by this process.

A Very Successful Venture.

An abnormally generous woman went to Europe last summer, leaving her horses in entire charge of her coachman. The coachman, of a practical turn of mind and with his mistress's full consent, turned a pretty penny by renting the teams out. Before long she had a letter from him—would she object to his setting up a hearse? There was a great demand for something of the sort, new and smart, in the town, and he knew of such a nice hearse to be had at half-price; if she wouldn't mind his putting her horses to it, his fortune would be made. The abnormally generous woman wrote back that she was perfectly willing. A few weeks later she was rewarded by a letter from the coachman saying that the hearse, as run by her horses was the greatest success; "people are just dying to get into it," he added.—New York Sun.

Father's Horrible Discovery.

While trying to save George Denison, an eight-year-old companion, from drowning in the Floyd River at Sioux City, Iowa, George Lewis, aged thirteen, was also dragged down and died with his friend. Denison was bathing in the stream, and was supposedly seized with a cramp. Lewis plunged in after him when he called for help. At first it was not known who the lads were, and the father of Lewis offered to dive for the bodies. He first brought up Denison, and on diving a second time rose with his own son in his arms. He was nearly crazed with grief when he recognized his child.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Where the Y. P. S. C. E. Will Meet.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor opens soon a world's session in London, and will hold its convention in the Alexandra Palace, which resembles the Madison Square Garden, New York City.

The palace is just beyond the outskirts of London proper and has a capacity for lodging and boarding 5000 Endeavorers, as well as giving ample room for their meetings. The banquet hall of the palace will be divided off into dormitories, enough of them to hold 1200 young women. This arrangement left 3800 young men to be cared for, but 800 tents have been provided for them, and they will occupy these, five to a canvas.

The kitchen of the palace is large enough to prepare food for 2500 persons, who can sit down at one time in the dining hall and be served. All Endeavorers not provided for in the palace will have accommodations secured for them in near-by private houses and hotels. It has been settled that all visitors will pay their own expenses.

The total number of delegates expected in London is 60,000, of which 8000 come from America. The delegates represent a membership of 4,000,000 Endeavorers, scattered all over the world.

Easy to Pick the Winner.

They made a wager as to which could give a story the widest circulation in the shortest time.

One of them had it manifolded on the typewriter and sent it to every newspaper in the town.

The other merely told it to his wife "in strict confidence."

TWO MEN WERE KILLED IN A WASHOUT.

Samford Opens the Campaign at Calera—Construction to Commence on Two Railroads—New Y. M. C. A. Home in Birmingham.

The big sliding fill just north of Hartselle, which has given the Louisville and Nashville railroad so much trouble, gave way entirely a few days ago and stopped traffic for about twelve hours. It seems that the water passing under the track by means of subterranean channels had removed all the underground soil and left only a sort of frame above, and while a large crew were at work upon the spot this ballast suddenly gave way, carrying with it two men—a white man, George Foote of Holmes' Gap, and Jack Jackson, colored, of Atlanta. They were immediately submerged by the rock and slag falling in upon them.

Samford Opens the Campaign.

Hon. W. J. Samford, the democratic nominee for governor, made the opening speech of the state campaign at Calera Friday. He reviewed his public services as a member of the house and senate, a member of congress and a member of the constitutional convention, to show that he was not new to public offices, and thus from experience was able to advise and counsel the democratic party.

A public office, he declared, is a public trust, and in assuming a great office he hoped to act so as to subserve the public interest and for no personal aggrandizement. Hence he was in favor of as low taxes as possible necessary for the proper administration of the government. He was in favor of taking the limitation of taxes out of the constitution.

He favored good public roads and was for reasonable taxation to secure them.

The speaker also declared that he stood for every plank of the democratic state platform and proposed to carry out as far as lay in his power that platform.

Final Survey of New Railroad.

Major B. Mickle, the engineer of the extension of the Birmingham, Selma & New Orleans railroad from Martins, the present terminus of the line, to Linden, states that his corps is in the field making the last survey preparatory to the grading of the extension. The engineers left Martins last Tuesday, and it is thought they will make the distance, which is about forty miles, within three weeks' time.

No road projected from Selma would be of greater advantage to that city than this extension. It would bring, at the lowest calculation, 35,000 additional bales of cotton to Selma.

New Y. M. C. A. Building.

Birmingham is to have a new Young Men's Christian Association building, to cost not less than $50,000. The determination to undertake the work of erecting a home for the Young Men's Christian Association was reached at a meeting held in the Commercial club rooms. It was announced that Mr. R. S. Munger had volunteered to give $5,000 toward the erection of the building, if the additional sum of $45,000 could be raised.

New Line to Mobile.

It is announced at Jackson, Miss., that construction will be immediately commenced on the Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City road between Jackson and Mobile, work being pushed from both ends of the line. The track has been built about fifty miles from Mobile, and about 200 miles are yet to be constructed.

Killed by Lightning.

Dave Gregory, residing between Moulton and Hartselle, while sitting in his house a few days ago, was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

Bank Closes its Doors.

The Bank of Cullman closed its doors Saturday. J. J. Curtis, assignee, has issued the following statement: "The Bank of Cullman made an assignment of all its property and Charles O. Adkins, cashier, of all his individual property, including homestead. Assets, when collected, will pay liabilities in full."

GEN. WHEELER'S SUCCESSOR.

Judge Richardson Said to Have 35 Out of 59 Delegates.

A Huntsville dispatch says: The result of the democratic primary in the Eighth congressional district will probably make Judge William Richardson of Huntsville the successor to Gen. Wheeler in Congress. The returns from enough precincts of the various counties of the district have been received to assure Judge Richardson of thirty-five delegates out of fifty-nine in the district convention. Madison, Judge Richardson's home county, gave him a big majority. Hon. Jesse E. Brown made a strong fight, but without favorable result.

A telegram received at Richardson's headquarters states that Judge Richardson had no opposition in Limestone county. Four large precincts of Lawrence county have given him majorities enough to instruct for him a solid delegation. The result in Morgan county is still in doubt.

Jackson county gave Brown a good majority. Solicitor W. H Sawtell carried his home county, Colbert, but the delegation was instructed for Richardson as second choice.

10,000 Men May Be Idle.

Pending a settlement of the wage question 10,000 coal miners will be idle in the Birmingham district. This course was definitely decided upon by the miners Saturday, after their failure to make a new contract with the operators. The miners demanded 10 cents a ton increase for digging coal, and an average advance of 20 per cent. for all day work. They also demanded a two weeks' pay day and a uniform scale for all day men. These demands the operators would not grant. The operators made a proposition offering to renew existing contracts for another year, and this the miners promptly voted down.

The miners will meet in Birmingham again this week to further consider the wage scale for another year. The impression now is that a strike will be ordered, if the operators stick to their refusal to grant an advance in wages.

Tragedy at Coal City.

A bloody tragedy occurred at Coal City, St. Clair county, Saturday. John Simpson, a young man aged 19, shot and killed John Baptist, a miner. The boy also shot and dangerously wounded his own father, Thomas Simpson. He was arrested, but the opinion was expressed that the shooting of Baptist was done in self-defense, while the shooting of Thomas Simpson was accidental. It appears that Baptist boarded with the Simpson family and a quarrel arose while the men were indulging in liquor. It is alleged that Baptist advanced on the father and son when the young man picked up a gun and fired both barrels in rapid succession, killing Baptist and unintentionally wounding his own father. The elder Simpson is seriously hurt, and may die.

Will Resist No Longer.

Rev. S. M. Adams, probate judge of Chilton county, and nominee of the populists for governor, which nomination he has twice declined, was in Birmingham a few days ago and gave out a statement which leads to the belief that he will no longer resist the efforts of the populist leaders to run him for governor. He said: "I shall certainly make no canvass. However, if they are determined to keep me at the head of the ticket and vote for me, I cannot prevent that and the program will doubtless go through."

Boy Makes Ghastly Find.

The body of an unknown man was found by an negro boy in One Mile creek, near Mobile, Sunday. The body was that of a man aged about 50 years, 5 feet 8 inches tall. The brain had been pierced by a bullet and the throat had been cut. The initials "P. F." were tattoed on his left forearm, as also was a heart in India ink. The clothing bore the makers' mark, "J. Andrew Dobbs, Meridian, Miss."

Rich Gold Discovered.

John Nolen, of Micaville, Cleburne county, has just discovered on his farm near that place a very rich gold mine, the vein being four feet thick and forty feet wide. The value has not been estimated, but it is very great.

Negotiations for Sale of a Railroad.

It is rumored at Chattanooga that negotiations are under way between Russell Sage, owner of the Chattanooga Southern Railroad from Chattanooga to Gadsden, and the owners of large coal and iron lands in north Georgia and Alabama for the purchase of the road by the coal men. The road is about ninety miles in length.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

Now—Heart-Room for Jesus' Offers—Christ a Living Personality—The Secret of a Happy Life—"If It Please Thy Will"—Whom God Chasteneth.

Kisses which fall upon the dead's mute lips,
Like dew on roses which the first frost nips,
Come all too late;
'Tis better far to give them while the lips
can speak;
The golden cord of life at best is weak;
Ah! do not wait.

Kind words in ears whose earthly powers are spent,
Like sunshine on the tree by lightning rent,
Can give no balm;
'Tis better far to give them while those ears can hear;
For life has much of woe and much of fear!
And Love brings calm.

It is too late, when life's lamp burneth low,
When hands once warm are chill as winter's snow,
To do kind deeds.
'Tis better here where feet are prone to slide,
'Tis better now than wait till eventide,
To help their needs.

Ah! friends, dear friends—if any such there be—
Keep not your loving thoughts away from me
Till I am gone;
I want them now to help me on my way,
As lonely watchers want the light of day
Ere it is morn.

And though sometimes my heart, o'er some sore wrong
Long brooding, weaves some bitterness in song,
'Tis but a shade
Within life's textures where the best are poor,
Oh, close not up to many faults Love's door!
I need your aid.
—E. F. Hodges, in Zion's Herald.

Heart-Room for Jesus' Offers.

Every child of God may well rejoice because he has such a Father in heaven. "I have set the Lord always before me; therefore my heart is glad, and my glory rejoiceth." "In His presence is fulness of joy." This refers to the experiences of the present life, and then up at His right hand will be the "pleasures forevermore." It is a bad heart that skulks away from a loving Father in sullen distrust and dread. Then, too, what joy is kindled in our souls when we are brought into full reconciliation with God, through the atoning love and mediation of Jesus Christ! The returning prodigal's heart thrills under every kiss of his forgiving Father.

"Earth has a joy unknown in heaven,
The new-born peace of sins forgiven.
Tears of such pure and deep delight,
Ye angels, never dimmed your sight."

The assurance of a full salvation is enough to keep our hearts aglow. "I give unto you eternal life," says our omnipotent Saviour; "ye shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck you out of my hand." All things work together for good if we love God. Even sharp pruning may make us yield richer clusters of spiritual fruit, if we will let God have His way. And when the discipline and conflicts of this earthly school life are ended, we look upward, and see that "our names are written in heaven." All these joys our living God provides for us and offers them to us. We cannot create canary birds, but we can provide cages for them and fill our rooms with their music. Even so we cannot create the rich gifts which Jesus offers, but they are ours if we furnish heart-room for them.—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

Christ a Living Personality.

The living Christ is the essential life of the church—the heart, sending nourishing currents through all its channels; the brain, giving unity, harmony and direction to all its members making it one body. When Christ died the disciples were scattered, dissevered members of a lifeless body. They were homeless fishermen—no longer disciples in a school divine of a divine teacher. But when they saw the risen Christ they were reunited, drawn together, needing no call, waiting for no summons. If the gospel be but a record of history, an incident in ages of changing empire, it is but the winding sheet of a buried mummy. If Christ be a living, present personality, then is He a vital power, attracting, impelling, energizing, unifying, directing. As on the resurrection morning the disciples were glad when they saw the Lord, so now the living Christ thrills the soul of every believer. Christ in you, the hope of glory, is the prophecy of endless joy and blessedness.

The Secret of a Happy Life.

A damp, dreary February day was followed by a night of extreme cold, and in the morning the trees and shrubs, the railings of the iron fence, all outdoor objects indeed, were incased in an icy armor which sparkled in the sunshine with diamondlike brilliancy. "Very beautiful, but it will all be gone before noon," sighed one near us, casting a glance at the dazzling outside world, and then turning away. A little maiden, flattening her nose against the frosty pane to get as much of the wonderful sight as possible, looked up in surprise at the melancholy speech. "Never mind," she said, reassuringly. "There'll be something else beautiful for tomorrow." The secret of a happy life lies hidden in that childish speech. It is the Father's wish that we should look for some new joy in each tomorrow, and that the better things should always lie ahead.—Selected.

"If It Please Thy Will."

Thou hast been my confidence in health, O God, forsake me not now that my strength faileth. My heart is faint by reason of the weakness of the flesh, and mine eyes are dim with shadows of pain; yet in thee do I put my trust. Send healing, if it please thee, and may I use returning strength for better service. Let not courage fail in suffering and in hours of weakness keep my heart from doubt. Let me bear witness to thy love by cheerful patience. Take away all fear of death and let me with a quiet heart resign myself entirely to thy will. Care thee for those I love and reward all who minister to my need. Help me to forgive those who have sinned against me and pardon thou my transgressions. In the name of Jesus Christ who shared our infirmities and suffered for our sins. Amen.

Whom God Loveth He Chasteneth.

Do not fret or rebel because your life may seem given over in a special way to trouble and affliction. May it not be that God is thus tightening up the harp strings, that the music of your life may be truer and clearer and sweeter? How seldom do we find a really earnest soul who has not been schooled to trouble! Whom God loveth he chasteneth. No sorrow is for sorrow's sake, but for character's. Let us trust that when we suffer God is tuning us up to concert pitch, making us more earnest and serious and strong, fitting us for better ministry to others.—James Buckham.

Those who say they will forgive but can't forget an injury, simply bury the hatchet while they leave the handle out, ready for immediate use.—D. L. Moody.

The clubbed tree gives its fruit; the cloven wood perfumes the ax; the ground gem shows its beauty.—Bishop Warren.

That is the best sermon which makes living easier Monday morning.—Lyman Abbott, D. D.

THE census man should have taken the populations of Clanton and Thorsby yesterday.

FOR once in his life Governor Johnston has made an appointment at which even the Advertiser does not cavil. The appointment of Col. J. M. Falkner as a trustee of the Montevallo school gives universal satisfaction. Search the State over and a better man could not be found.

Two notable speeches were made yesterday at Thorsby. That of Col. Samford was an urgent appeal to all the white men to stand together in one solid phalanx until at least the great Southern problem was solved, although he confessed that under normal conditions there should be two great parties. He said he had had friends and kinsmen who had gone off into the Populist party and the Palmer & Buckner wing of the Democracy and he had no doubt they were conscientious in so doing, but now there was no reason for any further difference with the Democratic party. It was a matter of congratulation to him that one distinguished gentleman (S. M. Adams) had declined to be a candidate against him. It was a wise and conservative speech.

Judge Adams made one of the most powerful short speeches of his life. He stated that he was not the nominee of any party or a candidate for any office. He said he believed that one of the reasons we have at the head of the Democratic party one of the best citizens of the State was on account of the position taken by the Populists. There will always be a difference of opintons on some questions however, and public discussion never injured any country. He thought a constitutional convention was unnecessary, and that any change should be made by amendment. It was a strong speech and impressed all who heard it.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

a magnificent patriotic oration, dwelling largely upon the important part played in the history of our country by Southern patriots and statesmen. He concluded with some remarks on political affairs in Alabama, and was attentively listened to throughout his speech of an hour and a-half.

Judge S. M. Adams followed with a short but magnetic speech, stating that he did not propose to take up much time as he considered it was hardly the time and place for a political speech.

Then came dinner on the grounds and all devoted themselves to the pleasures of the table.

In the afternoon there was games and races all thoroughly enjoyed, those perhaps exciting the most interest being the Tug of War, the Rough Riders contest, and the horse races. All in all Thorsby had a Glorious Fourth.

3. Sunday-school lecture by Rev. W. J Armstrong. First Duties of parents to their children; Second, childrens' duties to their parents; then give an opportunity for all of the parents to come in to the altar and kneel down and pray for their children and they sent up one individual prayer in behalf of their children, which was a general revival in the Sunday-school. Bro. W. H. Robinson sang a song and was dismissed by Rev. W. J. Armstrong. It was by divine injunction that Sunday-school service was first introduced to the worship of God. Ever since the period when this command was given, God's people have considered it compulsory on their part to improve it as much as they were able to do. The people of Providence and surrounding communities met for this divine purpose and the Sunday school was a great success.

Rev. W. J. Armstrong's address on Sunday-school was a soul inspiring volume of truths which seemed to be uttered by divine inspiration and was spoken with power. Every true heart was made to rejoice. It seemed that God opened the windows of heaven and poured out a blessing more than their hearts could contain. The blessings of God was made manifest by all, both old and young. There was a plentiful supply of dinner and everything comfortable. We are glad to say that we had the prayerful attention of all; may God help us to fully realize the great significance of worshiping in Sunday school and may the good work go on until we are permitted to meet again.

Death of an Estimable Young Lady

On Monday morning the grim destoyer entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Grant near Clanton and the spirit of Miss Hectorina Kennedy Grant left its earthly home for its eternal home above. Miss Grant was a niece of County Treasurer A. G. Dake, and was only 29 years of age. She was a young lady of beautiful character and disposition and her loss is a severe blow to the family, to whom our sympathies are sincerely extended. The funeral took place Tuesday morning at the cemetery at Clanton, a large number of friends and neighbors paying the last tribute of respect by their attendance.

A Night of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Mechias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live til morning" write Mrs. S. I. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All though she must soon die from Pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of consumption After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung Diseases. Only 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at J. S. Johnsons, Jr., drug store

Young Women

The entry into womanhood is a critical time for a girl. Little menstrual disorders started at that time soon grow into fatal complications. That female troubles are filling graveyards proves this. Wine of Cardui establishes a painless and natural menstrual flow. When once this important function is started right, a healthy life will usually follow. Many women, young and old, owe their lives to Wine of Cardui. There is nothing like it to give women freedom from pain and to fit young women for every duty of life. $1.00 bottles at druggists.

Miss Della M. Strayer, Tully, Kans. "I have suffered untold pain at menstrual periods for a long time, was nervous, had no appetite, and lost interest in everything, in fact was miserable. I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui, with Thedford's Black-Draught, when needed, and to-day I am entirely cured. I cannot express the thanks I feel for what you have done for me."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

To Clean Varnished Paints.

Take the tea leaves which are left in the teapot, pour some hot water over them, and let them stand ten minutes. Then pour the tea into a basin. Wash the paint with a clean flannel, and dry with a clean cloth.

Suggestion of an Expert Laundress.

An expert laundress says that if sheets and tablecloths are folded so that the selvage edges will pass through the wringer first they will be smoother and less likely to curl. She also sounds a note of caution against the habit of pouring boiling water on soiled clothes. "You know," she says, "if you submit anything that is soft to the action of the heat it will bake it hard. Pour boiling water in the cake dish and it will cook the dough in it. So if you pour very hot water on the clothes it cooks the dirt in. If you are going to soak clothes you will soak them in lukewarm water. I wash all the clothes in lukewarm water. In summer only a little warmer than it comes from the faucet. Some people put all the clothes to soak—the clean and dirty together. This should never be done. It does not seem quite nice to put table linen with soiled clothes from the bed or body, and, moreover, the dirt from the soiled clothes gets into the clean ones and makes them grimy."

Uses For Lemons.

No family should be without lemons. Their uses are almost too many for enumeration.

The juice of a lemon in hot water on awakening in the morning is an excellent liver corrective, and for stout women is better than any anti-fat medicine ever invented.

Glycerine and lemon juice, half and half, on a bit of absorbent cotton, is the best thing in the world wherewith to moisten the lips and tongue of a fever-parched patient.

A dash of lemon juice in plain water is an excellent tooth wash. It not only removes tartar, but sweetens the breath.

A teaspoonful of the juice in a small cup of black coffee will almost certainly relieve a bilious headache.

The finest of manicure acids is made by putting a teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cupful of warm water. This removes most stains from the fingers and nails and loosens the cuticle more satisfactorily than can be done by the use of a sharp instrument.

Lemon juice and salt will remove rust stains from linen without injury to the fabric. Wet the stains with the mixture and put the article in the sun. Two or three applications may be necessary if the stain is of long standing, but the remedy never fails.

Lemon juice (outward application) will allay the irritation caused by the bites of gnats or flies.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

French Biscuit—One cup of butter, one cup of sugar, the stiffly beaten white of one egg, one cup of thick sour milk, half a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a very little hot water, flour to roll. Sprinkle with sugar. Cut into large circles and bake about twenty minutes.

Welsh Rarebit With Milk—One large cup finely grated cheese; season to taste; add one well beaten egg and mix with fresh milk to the consistency of cream. Put into a pan, and when just up to the boil, pour over hot buttered toast. It never curdles or gets stringy with this recipe.

English Monkey—Melt one tablespoonful of butter in a stewpan and add one cup of grated cheese. When this is melted add one cup of fine breadcrumbs which have been allowed to stand ten minutes in a cup of milk. Then add one egg lightly beaten. Stir a moment and serve hot on buttered toast.

Custard Balls—Take the yolks of two eggs and whites of one. Stir into the well beaten yolk a wineglassful of cold strong beef tea seasoned with a half saltspoon of salt and a pinch of white pepper. Lastly stir in the stiffened white. Drop from a teaspoon on top of the hot soup. Cover for a moment and take from the fire. Serve one in each plate of soup.

Bread Omelet—Mix well together one cupful of stale breadcrumbs, one-half cupful of sweet milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a little pepper and the beaten yelks of three eggs, then add lightly the whites of the eggs beaten very stiff. Put one tablespoonful of butter into a frying pan; when hot pour in the omelet and cook slowly until the top is set, then fold over and serve immediately.

Asparagus Patties—Make a sauce of three level tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour and half a cupful each of chicken broth, cream or milk, and the water in which a bunch of asparagus has been boiled. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs, a teaspoonful of lemon juice, a saltspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper and a bunch of hot asparagus, cut in small pieces and cooked until tender. Serve in hot puff-paste shells.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

A German expert explains that while, during a storm, lightning may naturally and by preference seek the earth by way of an electric-car, there is no danger to passengers, because of the special contrivance for conducting electricity to the earth.

Under the name of "magnalium," Dr. L. Mach has produced alloys of aluminum and magnesium which, while considerably lighter than pure aluminum, are harder than that metal and better suited, it is asserted, for working. With fifteen per cent. of magnesium, the alloy is said to resemble brass in the readiness with which it submits to the operations of turning, boring and cutting. By increasing the magnesium to twenty-five per cent., an alloy resembling bronze is produced, but the color is silvery white.

Last summer a Norwegian mariner, Captain Grondahl, succeeded in transporting two young musk-oxen alive from Northeastern Greenland to Tromso. These are said to be the first living specimens of their species ever brought to Europe. It is reported that they are doing well amid their new surroundings. The musk-ox, next to the white bear, is the largest land mammal inhabiting the Arctic regions. It attains a height of nearly, or quite, four feet, and is clothed by nature to endure extreme cold. During the Arctic summer musk-oxen become very fat from feeding upon the pasturage which grows in every sheltered spot, but in winter their long fasts make them gaunt and thin.

From the study of clouds Professor F. H. Bigelow, of the United States Weather Bureau, concludes that the ordinary cyclones which traverse our country from west to east are not more than two or three miles in depth, although their diameter is many hundreds of miles. In other words, their motion does not affect the upper regions of the atmosphere. In the case of hurricanes Professor Bigelow finds that the depth is greater, amounting to as much as five or six miles. But higher currents blow directly across the cyclonic and anti-cyclonic areas which produce storms and fair weather at the earth. Some of Professor Bigelow's conclusions upset former ideas concerning the circulation of the atmosphere.

Professor H. A. Hazen records that on one occasion he walked down to the edge of Lake Michigan in the face of a strong wind. Although he was in perfect physical condition, within five minutes he had every symptom of a very hard cold. This severe influenza continued until, on walking away from the lake, it disappeared as by magic when he had gone less than 500 feet. He then learned that hundreds of residents had been compelled to move back from the shore to escape influenza. He ascribed the effect to the abundance of ozone in the air at the edge of the lake. He has accumulated many instances of persons of nervous temperament who cannot sleep during the passage of high pressure areas in the atmosphere. The cause in this case is obscure.

In a recent address before the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Professor C. D. Marsh presented some generally unknown facts about Lake Winnebago. All lakes, he said, are temporary features of topography, since their outlets are continually deepening and their inlets are gradually filling their bottoms with sand. Lake Winnebago is remarkable for its shallowness. Although twenty-eight miles long and ten to twelve broad, it is only twenty-five feet deep. But its lack of depth is an advantage from the fisherman's point of view. It contains an enormous number of fish, and few lakes in existence can compare with it for productiveness in that respect. Shallow lakes are better than deep ones for fish, because of the greater quantity of vegetation covering their bottoms. Vegetation cannot flourish in deep water.

Chamberlain Carried Out the Joke.

There is a taking little story afloat concerning Mr. Chamberlain, which, if it be not true, has at least originated from someone who has studied the Colonial Secretary and his ways pretty closely. Mainly About People affirms that one day lately Mr. Chamberlain was engaged in conversation with a friend in a well-known London hotel, when a young man approached with a diffidence that bespoke a great desire to exchange a few words with the great man or be snubbed in the attempt.

"May I speak with you for a moment, Mr. Chamberlain?" he asked.

"Certainly," was the ready reply, and the politician rose from his seat.

"I cannot say it here," said the young man, glancing nervously around and leading the way to a remote corner of the room. Arrived there, he spoke his important communication in Mr. Chamberlain's ear "I am on the staff of the——, and I should esteem it a great favor if you will tell me what you think of the present situation in the Transvaal?"

Mr. Chamberlain started, looked sharply at him, and then, his severity softening into pity for the young man's simplicity, he said: "Follow me!" Leading the way like a man requiring still greater secrecy for what he had to impart, he walked through the dining room into a passage, down some steps into the reading room, into the drawing room, and finally into a remote and curtained dark corner, where, after a hurried glance round to make sure there were no eavesdroppers, he whispered in the young man's ear: "My friend, I really don't know anything about it!"

GOOD ROADS NOTES.

National Aid Wanted.

A FEW years ago the opponents of the good roads movement charged the League of American Wheelmen with selfish motives in wanting better roads simply to improve cycling conditions. This was admitted to be true in a small way only, for the League maintained that good roads were an economic necessity for all classes. It has convinced numerous agricultural organizations and thousands of farmers in all sections of the truth of the statement, and from these converts the League expects to show its allied support.

Nor will the argument of selfishness in desiring good roads obtain, for wherever entire highways are not obtainable the League is working for side-paths which can be built at an average cost of $100 per mile and which the wheelmen are glad to pay for and maintain out of their own pockets. It is realized, however, that complete highways are more desirable for cycling as well as the public welfare; hence the policy of the L. A. W. to continue its work for road improvement and even to extend the scope of its agitation.

In recent years the good roads work done by the National Government has been upon a most miserable scale, its entire assistance being confined to an Office of Road Inquiry attached to the Department of Agriculture, which was allowed $8000 a year for the expenses of its operation, previous to this year, when Congress appropriated the sum of $14,000, which will pay only the salaries and expenses connected with the office. In the past, as will be the case in the future, the road experts of this office, when attending road conventions or meetings, have had to have their expenses paid by the organizations calling them. That Government officers should have to labor under such an embarrassment is a reproach to our National Government.

The L. A. W. wants this condition rectified as well as material appropriations for highway building, and the adoption of the planks will be a long step in the desired direction. Fifty years ago, and previous, the National Government was engaged in building roads on a large scale, but the advent of railroads stopped progress in that direction. Since then Congress has appropriated hundreds of millions of dollars in railroad and steamship subsidies and for river and harbor improvements, all forms of highways, while primary roads of commerce have received no attention whatever. The League wants this work resumed where it was left off fifty years ago, and if all wheelmen, farmers, automobilists and others interested will give assistance American "signs of civilization" will equal those of European countries.

Necessity For Good Roads.

The country which lacks good roads is without one of the foremost material elements of civilization. The automobile is going to be more effective in hastening good roads than was the bicycle. What better to bring about these roads than a model highway across the continent and along its shores? The project is a vast undertaking, but results will be commensurate. It will be the trunk from which will shoot radiating branches in all directions. When the system is widely extended and the automobiles have taken their destined place among the vehicles of transportation it is difficult to now conceive of the varied material and social changes which will follow. The cost of transportation over the common highways will be reduced to a fraction of what it now is, to the great mutual benefit of producer and consumer; for twenty-five per cent. of all raw products are first moved over these highways. Horses, the most prolific source of dust in cities, will be banished to the country. Automobile transit lines will run at frequent intervals between the larger villages and along the more important highways. Free automobile mail delivery will spread over the more thickly settled portions of the country. School attendance will be better, the social and educational life of the country will be improved and developed. Distances will be more than halved by good roads and good vehicles. A ride of twelve or fifteen miles over good roads to a lecture or other social gathering will be practicable in almost every direction. Traveling libraries, such as have been introduced in Wisconsin, will be operated more easily and to greater advantage. Our systems of transcontinental railways have always been justly considered as binding our sections more strongly together. An automobile highway would be far more efficient in this respect than any railway.—S. E. Tillman, of the United States Military Academy.

Money For Improvement of Roads.

Under the Fuller law of 1898, to encourage rural districts in New York to raise their road tax in money, spend it on highways, and abolish the old "working out" road tax system by the farmers, State Controller Morgan has drawn his warrants for the grand total of $53,897, which is divided among fifteen counties, Westchester being the greatest, $13,886. New York State pays twenty-five per cent. of the cost of the improvements.

First Pianos in America.

The first pianos known in America were imported from London in 1784 by John Jacob Astor, but as they could not stand the rigors of this climate they soon became ruined. This fact led to the attempt to build pianos in this country, and in the early part of the present century uprights made their appearance.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: The Best of All Books—The Bible's Divine Origin Upheld—Fulfilled Prophecies of the Old Testament Prove Its Emanation From God.

[Copyright 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In the great conflict now raging in Europe, as in this country, between Christianity and agnosticism Dr. Talmage has taken a decided stand, and in this sermon declares his unwavering belief in the divine origin of the Scriptures; text, Matthew vii, 16, "Do men gather grapes of thorns?"

Not in this country. Not in any country. Thorns stick, thorns lacerate, but all the thorns put together never yielded one cluster of Catawba or Isabella grapes. Christ, who was the master of apt and potent illustration, is this setting forth what you and I well know—that you cannot get that which is pleasant and healthful and good from that which is bad. If you find a round, large, beautiful cluster of grapes, you know that it was produced by a good grapevine, and not from a tangle of Canada thistle. Now, if I can show you that this Holy Bible yields good fruit, healthful fruit, grand fruit, splendid fruit, you will come to the conclusion it is a good Bible, and all the arguments of the skeptic against it when he tries to show it is a bad book, will go overboard.

Do men gather grapes of thorns? Can a bad book yield good results? Skeptics with great vehemence declare that the Bible is a cruel book. They read the story of the extermination of the Canaanites and of all the ancient wars and of the history of David and Joshua, and they come to the conclusion that the Bible is in favor of laceration and manslaughter and massacre. Now, a bad book will produce a bad result, a cruel book will produce a cruel result.

You have friends who have been in the habit of reading the Bible a great many years. Have you noticed a tendency to cruelty on their part? Have you ever heard any of them come out and practically say, "I have been reading the story about the extermination of the Canaanites and I am seized upon with a disposition to cut and slash and maul and pinch and murder and knock to pieces everything I can lay my hands on?" Have your friends in proportion as they become diligent Bible students and disciples of the Christ of the Bible, shown a tendency toward massacre and murder and manslaughter? Has that been your observation?

What has been the effect upon your children of this cruel book? Or, if you do not allow the book to be read in your household, what has been the effect upon the children of other households where the Word of God is honored? Have they as a result of reading this cruel book gone forth with a cruel spirit to pull the wings off flies and to pinion grasshoppers and to rob birds' nests? A cruel book ought to make cruel people; if they diligently read it and get absorbed with its principles that cause must produce that effect. At what time did you notice that the teachings of this Holy Bible created cruelty in the heart and the life of George Peabody, of Miss Dix, of Florence Nightingale, of John Howard, of John Frederick Oberlin, of Abbot Laurence? Have you noticed in reading the biography of these people that in proportion as they became friends of the Bible they became enemies to humanity? Have you not, on the contrary, noticed that all the institutions of mercy were established, or, being established, were chiefly supported by the friends of this book? There is the hospital in war time. There are twenty Christian women. They are binding up wounds, they are offering cordials, they are kneeling down by the dying, praying for their departing spirits. Where does the cruelty crop out? They have been reading the Bible all their lives. They read it every morning; they read it every night; they carry it under their arm when they go into the hospital.

Again, infidels go on and most vehemently charge that this Bible is an impure book. You all know that an impure book produces impure results. No amount of money could hire you to allow your child to read an unclean book. Now, if this Bible be an impure book, where are the victims? Your father read it—did it make him a bad man? Your mother read it—did it make her a bad woman? Your sister fifteen years in heaven died in the faith of this gospel—did it despoil her nature? Some say there are 200,000,000 copies of the Bible in existence; some say there are 400,000,000 copies of the Bible. It is impossible to give the accurate statistics. But suppose there are 200,000,000 copies of the Bible abroad, this one book read more than any twenty books that the world ever printed, this book abroad for ages, for ages, for centuries—where are the victims? Show me 1000; show me 500 victims of an impure book; show me 100 despoiled of the Bible; show me fifty; show me ten; show me two; show me one. Two hundred million copies of an impure book, and not one victim of the impurity. On the contrary, you know very well that it is where the Bible has the most power that the family institution is most respected.

Again, agnostics go on still further, and they say the Bible is a mass of contradictions, and they put prophet against prophet, evangelist against evangelist, apostle against apostle, and they say if this be true how, then, can that be true. Mr. Mill, who was a friend of the Bible, said he had discovered 30,000 different readings of the Scriptures and yet not one important difference out of 30,000, only the difference that you might expect from the fact that the book came down from generation to generation, and was copied by a great many hands. And yet I put before you this fact to-day—that all the Bible writers agree in the four great doctrines of the Bible.

What are these four great doctrines? God—good, kind, patient, just, loving, omnipotent. Man—a lost sinner. Two destinies—one for believers, the other for unbelievers. All who accept Christ reaching that home and only those destroyed who destroy themselves, only those who turn their back upon Christ and come to the precipice and jump off, for God never pushes a man off; he jumps off. Now, in these four great doctrines all the Bible writers agree. Mozart, Beethoven, Handel, Hadyn, never wrote more harmonious music than you will find in this perfect harmony of the Word of God, the harmony in providence and in grace.

You must remember also that the authors of the Bible came from different lands, from different ages and from different centuries. They had no communication with each other, they did not have an idea as to what was the chief design of the Bible, and yet their writings, got up from all these different ages and all these different centuries, coming together, make a perfect harmony in the opinion of the very best scholars of all lands. Is not that a most remarkable fact?

Again, infidels vehemently charge that the Bible is an unscientific book. In a former discourse I showed you that there was no collision between science and revelation, and I went from point to point in the discussion. But now let us have authority in this matter. You and I cannot give the forty or fifty or sixty years exclusively to the study of science that some men give. Let us have authority in this matter.

Who says there is a collision between science and revelation? Well, Herbert Spencer, Tyndall, Darwin. They say there is a discord between science and revelation. But I will bring you names of men who have found a perfect accord between science and revelation, men as much higher in intellectual character above those whom I have mentioned as the Alps and Mount Washington and the Himalayas are higher than the hill back of your house, Herschel, Kepler, Leibnitz, Ross, Isaac Newton. My friends, we are in respectable company when we believe in the Word of God—very respectable company.

Now, I might, as infidels have failed to prove that the Bible is a cruel book, that the Bible is an impure book; that the Bible is a contradictory book; that the Bible is an unscientific book—I might move a nonsuit in this case of Infidelity, the plaintiff, against Christianity, the defendant, but I will not take advantage of the circumstances, for when the skeptic goes on to say that we are a gullible people, when he goes on to say, as he often does, that the greater the incredibility the more we like to believe it, when he goes on to say that the Bible is made up of a lot of manuscripts, one picked up here and another there, and another from some other place, and that the whole thing is an imposition on the credulity of the human race, I must reply to that charge.

The Bible is made up of the Old Testament and the New Testament. Let us take the New Testament first. Why do I believe it? Why do I take it to my house? It is because it can be traced back to the divine heart just as surely as that river can be traced to that door and that door to that door.

Jerome and Eusebius in the fourth century and Origen in the second century and other writers in the third and fourth centuries gave a list of the New Testament writers just exactly corresponding with our list, showing that the same New Testament which we have they had in the fourth century and the third century and the second century and the first century. But where did they get the New Testament? They got it from Irenaeus. Where did Irenaeus get it? He got it from Polycarp. Where did Polycarp get it? He got it from St. John, who was the personal associate of the Lord Jesus Christ. My grandfather gave a book to my father, my father gave it to me. I give it to my children. Is there any difficulty in tracing this line?

On communion day I will start the chalice at that end of the aisle, and the chalice will pass along to the other end of the aisle. Will it be difficult to trace the line of that holy chalice? No difficulty at all. This one will say, "I gave it to that one," and this one will say, "I gave it to that one." But it will not be so long a line as this to trace the New Testament. It is easier to get at the fact. But you say, "Although this was handed right down in that way, who knows but they were lying impostors? How can you take their testimony?" They died for the truth of that book. Men never die for a lie cheerfully and triumphantly. They were not lying impostors. They died in triumph for the truth of that New Testament.

"Well," says some one, "now I am ready to believe that the New Testament is from the heart of Christ, but how about the Old Testament? Why do you believe that?" I believe the Old Testament because the prophecies foretold events hundreds and thousands of years ahead of events which afterward took place. How far can you see ahead? Two thousand years? Can you see ahead a hundred years? Can you see ahead five minutes? No, no. Human prophecy amounts to nothing. Here these old prophets stood thousands of years back, and they foretold events which came accurately true far on in the future centuries. Suppose I should stand here and say to you, "Twenty-five hundred and sixty years from now, three miles and a half from the city of Moscow there will be an advent, and it will be in a certain family, and it will be amid certain surroundings." It would make no impression upon you, because you know I cannot foresee a thousand years or one year or one minute, and I cannot tell what is going to transpire in a land far away. But that is what these old prophets did.

You must remember that Tyre and Babylon and Nineveh were in full pomp and splendor when these prophecies, these old prophecies, said they would be destroyed. Those cities had architecture that makes the houses of modern cities perfectly insignificant. Yet these old prophets walked right through those magnificent streets and said, "This has all got to come down; this is all going to be leveled."

Besides that, you must remember that this book has been under fire for centuries, and after all the bombardment of the skeptics of all the centuries they have not knocked out of this Bible a piece as large as the small end of a sharp needle. Oh, how the old book sticks together!

Unsanctified geologists try to pull away the book of Genesis. They say they do not believe it. It cannot be there was light before the sun shone, it cannot be all this story about Adam and Eve, and they pull at the book of Genesis, and they have been pulling a great while, yet where is the book of Genesis? Standing just where it stood all the time. There is not a man on earth who has ever passed it from his Bible.

And so the infidels have been trying to pull away the miracles, pulling away at the blasted fig tree, at the turning of the water into wine, at the raising of Lazarus from the dead. Can you show me a Bible from which one of these miracles has been erased?

How marvelously the old book sticks together! All the striking at these chapters only driving them in deeper until they are clinched on the other side with the hammers of eternity.

And the book is going to keep right on until the fires of the last day are kindled. Some of them will begin on one side and some on the other side of the old book. They will not find a bundle of loose manuscripts easily consumed by the fire.

When the fires of the last day are kindled, some will burn on this side, from Genesis toward Revelation, and others will burn on this side, from Revelation toward Genesis, and in all their way they will not find a single chapter or a single verse out of place. That will be the first time we can afford to do with the Bible.

What will be the use of the book of Genesis, descriptive of how the world was made, when the world is destroyed? What will be the use of the prophecies when they are all fulfilled? What will be the use of the evangelistic or Paunine description of Jesus Christ when we see Him face to face?

But I do not think we will give up the Bible even at that time. I think we will want the Bible in heaven. I really think the fires of the last day will not consume the last copy, for when you and I get our dead children out of the dust we want to show them just the passages, just the promises, which comforted us here in the dark day of interment, and we will want to talk over with Christians who have had trials and struggles, and we will want to show them the promises that especially refreshed us. I think we shall have the Bible in heaven.

Oh, I want to hear David with his own voice read, "The Lord is my shepherd." I want to hear Paul with his own voice read, "Thanks be unto God that giveth us the victory." I want to hear the archangel play Paul's march of the resurrection with the same trumpet with which he awoke the dead! O blessed book, good enough for earth, good enough for heaven.

Dear old book—book bespattered with the blood of martyrs who died for its defense, book sprinkled all over with the tears of those who by it were comforted! Put it in the hands of your children on their birthday; put it on the table in the sitting room when you begin to keep house; put it under your head when you die. Dear old book! I press it to my heart; I press it to my lips.

"Where shall I go?" said a dying Hindoo to the Brahmitic priest to whom he had given money to pray for his salvation. "Where shall I go after I die?" The Brahmitic priest said, "You will first of all go into a holy quadruped." "But," said the dying Hindoo, "where shall I go then?" "Then you shall go into a singing bird." "But," said the dying Hindoo, "where then shall I go?" "Then," said the Brahmitic, "you will go into a beautiful flower." The dying Hindoo threw up his arms in an agony of solicitation as he said, "But where shall I go last of all?" Thank God this Bible tells the Hindoo, tells you, tells me, not where I shall go to-day, not where I shall go to-morrow, not where I shall go next year, but where I shall go last of all!

To Remove Coffee Stains.

If coffee is spilt on linen the stains can be removed by soaking the part in clear cold water, to which a little borax has been added, for twelve hours. If the stain is from tea or fruit, do not put the article in cold water, or the stain will become set. Simply pour boiling water over it until it disappears, which it will do if quite fresh.

Wing Chairs for the Veranda.

The wing chairs are shown this summer for the veranda in mixed reeds that are very effective. Red and green, and blue and green, are oftenest seen. The difference in coolness between upholstering and rattan, or willow-ware, is not yet sufficiently appreciated, and in too many homes heavily upholstered furniture is allowed to do service through the summer months. If certain pieces of this sort must stand in the living-room, see that a linen cover is provided, which will afford some relief.

Pretty For the Lawn.

If you have a tiny lawnlet or space for flower beds bordering the walk from your porch to the gate, you can produce a beautiful effort just now by planting out a few flowers, not common here. English daisies, pink and white, the "wee modest crimson-tipped flower" of which Burns sung, and cowslips, freaked garnet and gold color, are a pretty combination for a border. Some prefer the English daisies alone, but the cowslips, being rather more rare in American gardens, are sure to evoke curiosity, if not admiration. We can borrow these plants from their old English meadow with profit to our garden borders.

To Keep Baby Covered.

An objection which many mothers make to having the nursery cool at night is that an older child is restless and kicks the bedclothing off, sleeping most of the time without cover. This is easily overcome by sewing up the side of a crib blanket; through a hem at the top run a purse string; put the child into this blanket bag, tying it under the arms, and he can toss and turn to his heart's content keeping well covered. If arms and shoulders are exposed a light sacque may be put on, but do not neglect to have the nursery well ventilated night and day if you wish the baby to grow hardy and healthy.—Harper's Bazar.

A Potpourri of Rose Leaves.

As the rose leaves are already dried put them at once in a permanent jar, adding a drop or more of the essential oil of roses to give them a little of the fragrance that must by this time have dried out. After this add the spices and other ingredients named in their order, and we think you will have a successful "rose jar." Take half a peck of rose leaves and pack them in a bowl in layers with salt, using a small handful of fine salt to every three handfuls of rose leaves. Keep them five days, turning twice daily; do this thoroughly. Add to this three ounces of powdered allspice and one ounce of stick cinnamon. Let this stand one week longer, turning daily. Now put it into the permanent jar, with one ounce of allspice, half a pound of dried lavender blossoms, one ounce of bruised cloves, one ounce of stick cinnamon, one nutmeg coarsely grated; one-half cup of ginger root thinly sliced, one-half ounce of anise seed, ten grains of Canton musk, finest quality; two ounces of orris root. Mix well together. At any time add essential oils or extracts of flowers. Buy spices of a druggist.

Cream of Sorrel—Cover a pint of sorrel leaves and a cup of spinach with a generous pint of water. When tender pass through a sieve; add a pint of seasoned stock and two raw pototoes, peeled and grated. Let cook half an hour, strain and add a cup of cream and a heaping saltspoonful of salt.

Italian Cream—Soak one-half box of gelatine in one cupful of cold water for one hour; add one quart of scalding milk and stir until dissolved, then add four eggs beaten until light with one cupful of sugar. Cook gently for three minutes, but do not allow it to boil; remove from the fire, flavor with vanilla, strain, cool, add the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff, pour into a mold and set on ice to harden.

Asparagus on Toast—Cut off the tough ends, wash and tie in bundles. Put into boiling salted water in a deep kettle with the tips out of the water. The steam will cook them sufficiently. Boil twenty minutes. Dip slices of toast in the asparagus water—the crust only; butter, and spread on a large, hot platter. Lay four or five stalks of the asparagus on each slice and put a little butter and salt on the asparagus.

Chocolate Bread Pudding—Scald one quart of milk and pour it over eight tablespoonsful of breadcrumbs, one tablespoonful of butter and eight tablespoonsful of grated chocolate; add one cupful of sugar, one-half saltspoonful of salt and four beaten eggs, reserving the whites of two for a meringue. Flavor as desired, bake in a moderate oven until firm, then cover with the whites beaten with two tablespoonsful of sugar and brown delicately.

WANTS TO SELL HIS BODY.

Contortionist Wants a Customer for His Corpse.

Although by no means desiring to shuffle off this mortal coil, Walter Wentworth wants to sell his body. He has done it twice already in his lifetime, and now, although in his seventy-fifth year, he is looking about for another purchaser, and if he finds one, he thinks he has a good chance of surviving him, too, says the New York Herald. Walter is what is ordinarily called a "freak." He is a contortionist, and the queer things he does with his legs and his arms, and even his spinal column, are enough to make the eyes of the ordinary person bulge out to a dangerous extent. Even physicians are puzzled at the curious way in which he handles himself, and it was a doctor who first suggested to Wentworth the idea of selling his body. It was just sixty years ago that Wentworth ran away from his home near Detroit, Mich., to ride race horses. Then he joined a traveling circus and went the whole world over. With all his knocking about and the seventy-five years he carries, he is just as lively and supple as a 15-year-old boy. It was while he was being exhibited in Detroit in 1870 that he got a chance to sell himself. Dr. Cowe was greatly interested in him, and offered $100 for his body after he had done with it, for dissecting purposes. Wentworth jumped at the offer; the money was paid down. The doctor, however, conveniently died within a few months. Wentworth came to New York five years later, and was able on the trip to persuade Dr. H. L. Wilder of the Kings county hospital to take stock in him at the same price, a case of getting in on the basement floor if Dr. Wilder should live. He thinks Dr. Wilder will be unable to fill his part of the contract. He is therefore anxious to find somebody else who will invest in him.

In order to prolong its season into, if not through, the summer, a New York theater is considering a plan of keeping the house comfortably cool by forcing liquid air through the pipes used for transmitting steam heat in winter.

DOGS KILLED BY GAS.

Humane Method of Disposing of Them Adopted in Chicago.

The Chicago Humane Society has at last hit upon a novel but effectual means of disposing of vagrant curs before the heat of summer sets in. They are being gathered up from the streets and asphyxiated by gas. Calls are responded to by the Humane society when made by residents of the city who may be bothered by stray dogs. A number of women, who may be actuated by humanitarian impulses, are cooperating with the society to gather up the animals left to wander and starve along the thoroughfares. It is largely due to their repeated requests for a milder means of destroying dogs that the new scheme of extermination by gas has been brought about. They consider death by shooting an unnecessarily painful process. A small metal tank closely sealed with a tight cover is filled with common illuminating gas admitted by a tube. A small aperture in the cover permits the air to be forced out. Into this tank, one at a time, the dogs are dropped, the gas is turned on, and in thirty seconds they are unconscious and in less than a minute they are lifeless. Two feet of gas is considered sufficient quantity to kill a dog, and the expense amounts to practically the same as the bullet.—Chicago Tribune.

You Look Cross

What makes you look that way? There certainly must be some good reason for it. If your tongue is coated, if you are bilious, if your head aches, if your food rests heavy on your stomach, and if you are constipated, then the whole trouble is with your liver.

What you need is a good liver pill, an easy liver pill, a purely vegetable liver pill. You need a box of Ayer's Pills, that's what you need. These pills cure constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, and sick headache.

25 cents a box. All druggists.

Dewey's Kindness to Children.

This incident took place while the admiral was on the Chicago drainage canal on his rececnt western tour. In the pouring rain upon the bank near Lockport as the tug Hinda bore away stod two little girls waving little flags and craning their necks vainly for a glimpse of the man they had come too late to welcome. The admiral saw them from the cabin where he had sought shelter. "The poor little things, they were probably late," and grabbing his hat, he ran out to salute them. The boat was near the shore, and the two children fairly shrieked when they saw him waving his hat so near them. "Now they can go home without having to say they got a wetting without seeing me. The little one was very pretty. Did you notice what nice-looking little children they were?" This to Mayor Harrison, who had run after him with an umbrella.—Chicago Chronicle.

A DEAD LIVER

He thinks he lives, but he's a dead one. No person is really alive whose liver is dead. During the winter most people spend nearly all their time in warm, stuffy houses or offices or workshops. Many don't get as much exercise as they ought, and everybody knows that people gain weight in winter. As a rule it is not sound weight, but means a lot of flabby fat and useless, rotting matter staying in the body when it ought to have been driven out. But the liver was overburdened, deadened—stopped work. There you are, with a dead liver, and spring is the time for resurrection. Wake up the dead! Get all the filth out of your system, and get ready for the summer's trials with clean, clear blood, body, brain free from bile. Force is dangerous and destructive unless used in a gentle persuasive way, and the right plan is to give new strength to the muscular walls of the bowels, and stir up the liver to new life and work with CASCARETS, the great spring cleaner, disinfectant and bowel tonic. THE CONCORDIA LAND AND IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.
THORSBY, ALA.

Thorsby, July 10, 1900

The "Glorious Fourth" has come and gone into the "limbo of the past," and everybody in Thorsby is glad that the day went off as well as it did after so many bad moves had been made. The Committees on Invitations and Programme are especially congratulating themselves upon "what they done and how they did it." We were honored by the presence of Col. Samford, Judge Adams, Chancellor Kelly, Dr. Stewart and last but not least "Ye Editor of ye Banner."

Thorsby loaned two of her fairest daughters (Miss Jean Camberg and Miss Anna Howard) to Clanton the night of the 4th to help out on their dance; the young ladies say they had a huge time.

There has been several prospective settlers from the North here the past week, and about all have invested. J. J. Snell, of Boone, Iowa, has bought the "Chicken Farm" and intends to run it straight now, no more "installment plan."

During the storm Sunday night, about 100 o'clock, lightning struck J. Brekke's dwelling, ripped off the shingles down one corner of the roof, splintered a couple of rafters, cut a caper on the roof of the veranda, slid down a wire supporting a wisteria vine, (melting the wire during the operation) skipped to the yard gate, chipped a splinter off of the gate post and passed away on the barb-wire fence. Strange to say, though a half-dozen children were sleeping on the second floor, within a few feet of the hole's course, not one was harmed even by the flying splinters; truly there is a Special Providence watching over children. Mr Brekke was insured in the Farmers' Mutual Association of Chilton county, and I understand that his loss will be made up to him in a few days by the Association; he feels better than if he had to foot the bill by himself.

The grapes are ripening fast, a car load of baskets is in this morning.

Mr. Malmgren is puzzled to say which he had rather raise, cabbages or grapes, he has been so successful with both.

With best wishes to The Banner from THE BYSTANDER.

Ridersville.

I was glad to read of the good time at Clanton and Thorsby on the 4th. We also had a nice barbecue at this place on the 4th and it was much enjoyed by nearly all present. Dinner was somewhat late. On account of the rain the night before the pit was hard to get dry, however, the cooks worked faithfully and at 12 o'clock the manager of the day, Mr. G. B. Reed, introduced Hon. William Adams, of Clanton, who made an excellent speech to the crowd and it was enjoyed by all. The ladies were then invited to spread the contents of the baskets which was done to perfection, and all eat, drank and seemed to be merry, we had plenty and some to spare.

After many intricate experiments, scientists have discovered methods for obtaining all the natural digestants. These have been combined in the proportion found in the human body and united with substances that build up the digestive organs, making a compound called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and allows all dyspeptics to eat plenty of nourishing food while the stomach troubles are being radically cured by the medical agents it contains. It is pleasant to take and will give quick relief. Campbelle Drug co.

Mr Brekke was insured in the Farmers' Mutual Association of Chilton county, and I understand that his loss will be made up to him in a few days by the Association; he feels better than if he had to foot the bill by himself.

The grapes are ripening fast, a car load of baskets is in this morning.

Mr. Malmgren is puzzled to say which he had rather raise, cabbages or grapes, he has been so successful with both.

With best wishes to The Banner from THE BYSTANDER.

Riderville.

I was glad to read of the good time at Clanton and Thorsby on the 4th. We also had a nice barbecue at this place on the 4th and it was much enjoyed by nearly all present. Dinner was somewhat late. On account of the rain the night before the pit was hard to get dry, however, the cooks worked faithfully and at 12 o'clock the manager of the day, Mr. G. B. Reed, introduced Hon. William Adams, of Clanton, who made an excellent speech to the crowd and it was enjoyed by all. The ladies were then invited to spread the contents of the baskets which was done to perfection, and all eat, drank and seemed to be merry, we had plenty and some to spare.

STATE NEWS SUMMARY.

Mine Inspector Estimates Alabama Coal Output at 9,000,000 Tons.

State Mine Inspector J. DeB.-Hooper states that in his opinion the output of coal in Alabama this year will be over 9,000,000 tons, an increase of about 1,500,000 tons.

Mr. Hooper has reported to the governor the condition of shaft No. 1 at Pratt mines, wherein state convicts are worked. He reports the sanitary condition of the mine good and the water used for drinking pure. The dampness in the room where the convicts hang their clothes at night has been remedied by Superintendent Rogers. Some of the sickness that had been complained about recently was supposed to have been due to the damp room, and it is believed that now there will be no further complaint.

It is stated that the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company will sink a new shaft at Blossburg and that work on this will begin at once.

Thompson Carries Randolph.

In the primary election in Randolph county Saturday for the election of a democratic candidate for congress in the Fifth district, C. W. Thompson, of Macon, was successful, carrying the county over Willis Brewer by 133 majority. Bulger's vote was light. Under the rule of the executive committee this will give Thompson the six votes of Randolph in the convention. Heflin, of Chambers, withdrew from the race in favor of Thompson. This will give Thompson the nine votes of Chambers.

The hottest fight that has ever occurred in Coosa county was waged Saturday between the friends of Thompson and Brewer for the congressional convention, and resulted in a victory for Brewer by 21 votes. Kellyton beat was carried by Thompson.

In Randolph county Bulger seems to have won. He has carried most of the country beats.

An Independent Candidate.

Judge S. M. Adams, late populite candidate for governor and probate judge of Chilton county, stated a few days ago that he understood that W. A. Collier, a well known Chilton county democrat, would be an independent candidate for congress in the Fourth district. Judge Adams added that it was generally understood in the district that Congressman W. F. Aldrich, republican, would also run again. He said that so far the populites of the district have not considered the matter of running a candidate for congress.

John L. Pennington Dead.

Hon. John L. Pennington died Monday morning at his home in Oxford. He was ex-governor of Dakota, and ex-state senator from Lee county, an elector from Alabama in the presidential election in 1872 on the Grant ticket, and at the time of his death was editor of the Alabama Home, a republican newspaper published in Anniston. Governor Pennington was nearly 80 years old.

Underwood Mines.

Work will begin shortly on developing coal fields in Blount county on the property recently acquired by the Underwood Mining company, to which the Louisville & Nashville railroad is extending the Oneonta railroad. A large number of expert miners will be given employment at that place.

HILL ACQUIESCES.

Reasonably Satisfied With the Result at Kansas City.

David B. Hill, on his arrival at Albany, N. Y., from Kansas City, speaking of the work of the democratic national convention, said:

"I labored to have the convention adopt a more conservative platform on the financial question, but not being on the platform committee my efforts were unsuccessful. I am, however, reasonably satisfied with the execution of the convention and acquiesce in the result. The ticket is a strong one, and if the enthusiasm with which it is received in the west is any indication of its popularity it ought to be successful."

Examine your old chests and odd corners with care. Who can tell how much of that missing $400,000,000 in gold coin you may have mislaid.

BRYAN AND STEVENSON.

The Democratic Candidates For President and Vice-President.

CONVENTION IN DETAIL.

The Proceedings of the Democratic National Convention at Kansas City—Name of Bryan for President Was Presented by W. D. Oldham, of Nebraska—He Was Nominated Unanimously—The Contest for the Vice-Presidency—Several Names Were Presented But Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, Received the Nomination—Scenes Attending the Naming of the Ticket.

Kansas City (Special).—The ticket nominated by the Democratic National Convention is William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, for President, and Adlai Ewing Stevenson, of Illinois, for Vice-President. The convention was in session for three days. On the first day the temporary organization was effected. On the second day the platform was adopted and Bryan nominated for President, and on the third day Stevenson was nominated for Vice-President, and the convention adjourned sine die. Governor Thomas, of Colorado, was chosen temporary chairman, and Representatives James D. Richardson, of Tennessee, permanent chairman. Senator Jones was re-elected Chairman of the National Committee.

The scheme of the interior of the Convention Hall is more like that of the Saratoga convention hall than of any other convention hall in the country. The 2000 chairs for the delegates and alternates occupied about one-half of the arena floor. A stage that seated about 1000 persons, and which was backed up by a few private boxes for star guests, projected out from one side of the arena floor to about the centre. On the front of this stage was a rostrum for the officers of the convention and the speakers, which was about two feet higher than the stage proper. Banked upon either side of the stage were the press seats.

Senator James K. Jones, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, called the convention to order. The first business of the convention was the reading of the formal call by Secretary Walsh. When the call was read the Rev. D. S. M. Neal offered prayer. Senator Jones then introduced James A. Reed, Mayor of Kansas City, who made the address of welcome to the delegates.

When the applause which greeted the finish of Mayor Reed's speech had subsided Chairman Jones introduced Governor Thomas, of Colorado, the temporary chairman. He read his speech from typewritten manuscript. Governor Thomas's speech was well received by those who heard it. Temporary Chairman Thomas next recognized Daniel J. Campau, of Michigan, who moved that the Declaration of Independence be read. The motion was carried. The band then played patriotic airs, while a bust of William Jennings Bryan was brought in and placed upon a pedestal. When quiet was restored Charles S. Hampton, of Michigan, read the Declaration of Independence.

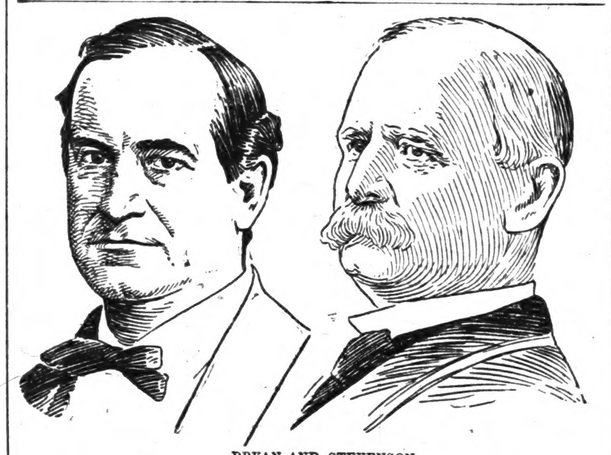
JAMES D. RICHARDSON,
(Permanent Chairman.)

Then occurred a remarkable demonstration for former Senator Hill, which lasted for fifteen minutes. The call of States followed for naming the members of the various committees, and then an adjournment was taken.

The convention again assembled at 4 p. m., but as no committees were ready to report an adjournment was taken until 8.30 p. m.

Temporary Chairman Thomas called the convention to order promptly on time in the evening. Former Governor Altgeld, of Illinois, was introduced, who delivered an address, which was well received.

Then followed the reports of the committees. The report of the Committee on Rules was read and adopted, as well as the report of the Committee on Credentials.



BRYAN AND STEVENSON.
(Democratic candidates for President and Vice-President.)

The report of the Committee on Permanent Organization was then heard. The temporary secretaries and special officers were made permanent, and James D. Richardson, of Tennessee, was made permanent chairman.

Chairman Richardson was escorted to the platform and began his address. When Bryan's name was mentioned by Chairman Richardson there was a storm of applause lasting half an hour. It was accompanied by waving of flags, hats, handkerchiefs and banners, and by music of the band and a marching of delegates with State guide posts around the hall.

The convention adjourned until 10.30 a. m. the following day.

Chairman Richardson called the convention to order at 11 a. m. Although the hall will only seat 12,000 persons at least 20,000 were permitted to jam their way in. The Right Rev. John J. Glennan delivered the opening invocation.

Inasmuch as the Committee on Platform was not ready to report the delegates listened to a series of long talks. Governor Hogg, of Texas; former Governor Dockery, of Missouri; Mayor Rose, of Milwaukee; George Fred Williams, of Massachusetts; Congressman Williams, of Illinois; Governor Beckham, of Kentucky, and J. W. Miles, of Maryland, being the speakers.

The Committee on Resolutions was then ready to report. Senator Jones, Chairman of the committee, merely announced that his committee had unanimously agreed up a report, and then called on Senator Tillman to read the platform.

Senator Tillman read the platform in a most effective manner, the greatest enthusiasm being manifested as the delegates heard the more important planks. When Senator Tillman closed the reading of the platform Chairman Jones moved that the platform be adopted by acclamation. The motion was carried unanimously.

Chairman Richardson then announced that the next order of business was the nomination of a candidate for the Presidency of the United States. The call of the roll of States began.

"Alabama," the Secretary shouted.

"The State of Alabama," said the Chairman of the delegation of that State, "yields to Nebraska the privilege of naming the next President of the United States."

W. D. Oldham, of Nebraska, who was to present the name of Mr. Bryan to the convention, was waiting by the Chairman's desk. As the Chairman of the Alabama delegation resumed his seat, he came forward and began the nominating speech.

The seconding addresses were made by E. P. Perkins, of Texas; former Senator White, of California; Judge Thompson, of Illinois; former Senator Hill, of New York; Tenant Lomax, of Alabama; W. B. Moore, of North Carolina; Senator Daniel, of Virginia; John H. Atwood, of Kansas; W. C. Baker, of Ohio; former Governor Pattison, of Pennsylvania; Governor Benton McMillan, of Tennessee; John H. Wise, of Hawaii, and Mrs. Cohen, of Utah.

Secretary Walsh then called the roll of States on the ballot for the Presidential nomination. When the roll call was concluded Chairman Richardson announced that William Jennings Bryan had been nominated for President of the United States unanimously.

The nomination of Bryan was made the occasion of a remarkable demonstration, in which thousands of men and women joined.

The convention adjourned until 10.30 a. m. the following day.

Chairman Richardson called the convention to order at 10.45 a. m. Rabbi Harry H. Mayer opened the proceedings with prayer.

Immediately following the prayer the call of States began for the purpose of making nominations for the Vice-Presidency. The candidates presented were six in number, as follows: David Bennett Hill, of New York; Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois; Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota; James Hamilton Lewis, of the State of Washington; Governor John Walter Smith, of Maryland; Julian S. Carr, of North Carolina, and Abraham W. Patrick, of Ohio.

There was a spirited and at times dramatic contest between the advocates of Stevenson, Town, Hill and the minor candidates. The most notable feature of the day was the enthusiastic reception given to former Senator Hill. He protested against being placed in nomination, and, finding his protest in vain, went to the platform and besought the convention not to nominate him.

At the end of the roll call Stevenson had received 568½ votes, Hill 198 votes, Towne 91½ votes, while Danforth, Hogg, Carr and Patrick received one vote each. As soon as it was seen that the nomination of Mr. Stevenson was inevitable the States which had given complimentary votes to other candidates made haste to join the majority, thus making the nomination unanimous.

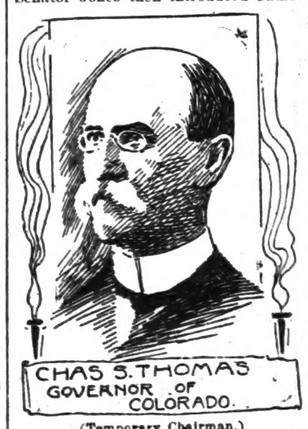
As soon as the cheering which attended the nomination of Mr. Stevenson had subsided Milton Turner, a prominent negro of Missouri, the Chairman of the Convention of the Afro-Americans, which only recently nominated Mr. Bryan for President, was invited to the platform and briefly addressed the convention.

The usual formal resolutions of thanks to Kansas City and the officers of the convention were adopted, and then, at 3.21 p. m., the National Democratic Convention of 1900 adjourned.

The Silver Republican Convention nominated Bryan for President by acclamation, and referred the Vice-Presidential nomination to the National Committee, with plenary powers. The convention adopted a platform with a specific declaration in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold into money at the ratio of 16 to 1. Trusts are denounced, as are the Porto Rican tariff and imperialism, and a plank expressing sympathy with the Boers is inserted.

At the meeting of the National Committee held after the convention Senator Jones was re-elected Chairman and all the other officers were re-elected.

Ruth Bryan, the eldest daughter of the nominee, saw her father nominated for the highest office in the gift of the people. She sat in the front row of the main gallery, exactly opposite the centre of the speakers' stage. Ruth was a pretty picture. On her dainty head was a white hat, trimmed with scarlet. She wore a white dress, and from time to time she looked at her father's famous friends on the platform through an opera glass.



(Temporary Chairman.)

Fight For Boer Cattle.

A special dispatch from Pretoria says that an inter-tribal fight, in which more than 1000 natives are engaged, is taking place on the plains north of the Boer position. The fight, it is added, is for possession of Boer cattle.

Chinese Authorities Are Warned.

The British Government has notified the Pekin authorities and the Viceroys in China that they will be held personally accountable if harm befalls Europeans in their jurisdiction.

How Bryan Received the News.

Lincoln, Neb. (Special).—Mr. Bryan was reading an evening newspaper in the front parlor when the news of his nomination was sent in.

State Senator Talbot, Mr. Bryan's former law partner, was in the room above receiving the messages from the operators. Suddenly he came tearing down the stairs, two steps at a time, shouting:

"You're nominated, old man; you're nominated!"

Mr. Bryan straightened up, reached out his hand and asked to see the message. He read it over and smiled, but said nothing.

Stevenson on His Nomination.

Minneapolis, Minn. (Special).—The news of his nomination at Kansas City was given to Adlai E. Stevenson at the summer cottage of his son-in-law, the Rev. M. D. Hardin, at Lake Minnetonka, by a representative of the press. Said Mr. Stevenson:

"This comes as a great surprise to me. I was not a candidate at any time and never expected to be nominated. But, of course, I shall accept the call of my party. I had expected to do some campaigning any way, but now I shall do a great deal more."

THE OREGON IS REFLOATED.

Japanese Government Offered All Its Docking Facilities.

Shanghai, China (By Cable).—The United States battleship Oregon, which ran ashore off the island of How-Ki, in the Miao-Tao group, thirty-five miles northeast of Che-Foo, has been floated off.

Suicide of a Child.

Because she loved a young man and talked with him at trysting places against the wishes of her mother, little Annie Murphy, thirteen years old, of Philadelphia, was whipped with a strap by her parent. The humiliations brought by the whipping and the objection to the object of her affection formed the motive of the girl when she leaped from Gray's Ferry Bridge into the Schuylkill River and was drowned.

CRIME OF THE CENTURY.

Awful Massacre of All the Foreigners in the Chinese Capital.

MINISTER E. H. CONGER'S FATE.

Prince Tuan Orders the Extermination of All Aliens—Reliable Reports State That All the Europeans in Pekin Are Dead—The Revolt is Spreading—Russia Gives Japan a Free Hand in China.

Shanghai (By Cable).—Three Chinese servants of foreigners escape from Pekin. They report that all the foreigners, 1000 in number, including 400 soldiers, 100 members of the Chinese customs staff, and a number of women and children, held out till their ammunition was exhausted, in the British Legation. The Legation was finally burned and all the foreigners were killed.

London (By Cable).—An edict issued at Pekin amounts to an open challenge to the Powers and practically declares war. It commands the provinces to enroll the Boxers and troops to assist to expel the foreigners.

Prince Tuan has ordered the extermination of all foreigners, exhorting the Chinese troops to sacrifice their own lives if they can by so doing help to accomplish this object. The heads of legation guards who have been captured have been carried through Pekin on the tops of spears. The inhabitants of Pekin have broken out into the wildest excesses.

The British and Russian Admirals at Taku have decided that it would be impossible to attempt to relieve Pekin without a much larger force.

(He is en route to China to assume command of the American forces there.)

According to the best military estimates, 500,000 men will be necessary to subjugate North China, and even then it will take two or three years. The foreigners are simply aghast at the extent of the Chinese armaments, which have been systematically accumulated.

The total number of Chinese troops is estimated by the Russian military authorities at 1,750,000 men.

JAPAN HAS A FREE HAND.

Russia Consents to Allow Her to Apply Military Force in China.

London (By Cable).—The Russian Government announces that it will give Japan a free hand to apply military force in China. It is in consequence of this that Japan is preparing to embark twenty thousand more troops. Recitals of further horrors in Pekin are gathered by correspondents at Shanghai from Chinese sources, especially in the slaughter in the Chinese and Tartar City of thousands of native Christians, so that the capital reeks with carnage.

The ruthless thirst for blood is spreading in all the northern provinces, and wherever there are native Christians the scenes enacted in the capital are reproduced.

The Chinese commanders are preparing for a long and arduous campaign. They are putting into operations plans prepared by German officers last year, when an invasion by Russia was feared.

More than two million dollars' worth of arms and ammunition of the most modern type have been destroyed in three arsenals outside Tien-Tsin.

Emperor William's Offer.

Berlin (By Cable).—Emperor William has pledged his imperial word to pay 1000 taels (about $720) to any one accomplishing the deliverance of any foreigner of any nationality who is now shut up in Pekin and who shall be handed over alive to a German or other foreign Magistrate.

FATAL TENEMENT FIRE.

Over Half a Score of Persons Burned to Death in Hoboken.

Hoboken, N. J. (Special).—Three frame tenement houses in this city were destroyed by fire and twelve persons perished in the flames. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin, and the police have arrested Henry Voghts, who kept a saloon in one of the burned buildings, on suspicion of having committed arson. The list of the dead is as follows:

William Winkler, nine years old; Frederick Winkler, seven years old; Charles Winkler, five years old; Edith Winkler, three years old; Ena Winkler, eighteen months old; Mary Brown, mother of Mrs. Winkler; Jacob Nicolaus, August Bachmann and August Rindle, all musicians; body of a man, woman and male infant.

Shields, John B., republican.

A certificate was filed with the secretary of state, notifying him of the nomination of Judge William Richardson as the candidate of the democrats to fill the unexpired term of General Wheeler in the eighth district. The republicans filed a similar certificate of the nomination of Cutler Smith for the short term.

Fatal Shooting at a Picnic.

At a picnic at Lake Lanier, near Selma, given by the employes of the Estelle and Cawthon cotton mills Saturday, Grant Creel instantly killed Terry Troup by shooting him twice through the heart. Will Collins was shot twice through the abdomen and mortally wounded. Creel was also wounded in the back, but was not captured. The sheriff has a warrant for him for murder and assault and battery. All persons concerned are white men.

There are conflicting statements about the affair. All eye witnesses refused to talk except in court, but the supposition is that too much whiskey is the cause.

Tragedy at Gate City.

Gate City was the scene of a tragedy late Sunday afternoon in which Al Lawton lost his life by reason of two pistol shots, said to have been fired by his room mate and friend, Will Maxwell. It is stated that Lawton and Maxwell, who were employes of the Alabama rolling mill, and who roomed together, had a quarrel Saturday night over a game of cards. The quarrel was renewed Sunday afternoon and resulted as stated above in Maxwell shooting Lawton.

Two Persons Drowned.

News of the tragic death of Mrs. Joe Elam and daughter comes from Covington county. In crossing over Pigeon creek on a foot log, the mother leading the daughter, both fell in and were drowned. Mrs. Elam had carried over her two smaller children and they stood on the bank and helplessly watched the mother and sister drown. The bodies were not recovered until nearly night.

Dr. Crowe Nominated for Governor.

Dr. Crowe was nominated for Governor on the populist state ticket in place of Rev. Sam Adams, declined, at a populite caucus held at Coal City, St. Clair county. Dr. Crowe states that he will make an active canvass and seek a division of time with his opponents for the office of governor.

Ex-Governor Pennington Ill.

Hon John L. Pennington, editor of the Alabama Home and a former governor of Dakota, is very ill at his home in Oxford, and little hope is entertained for his recovery.

Street Fair for Huntsville.

A number of business men of Huntsville have started a movement for the organization of a stock company to hold a street fair during the month of September.

THE SITUATION IN CHINA

Foreign Legations Were Reported to Be Safe on July 4

CONFLICTING REPORTS FROM SHANGHAI

Disorders in the Provinces Seem to Be Increasing in Violence—Foreigners Preparing to Abandon Their Homes.

London (Special). — The foreign consuls at Shanghai met on July 7 and officially announced that the legations at Pekin were safe on July 4. The following statement, read with Consul Warren's dispatch to the foreign office on Saturday, makes it possible to believe that the legations will hold out for a number of days yet. Having fought to a standstill the first outbursts of fanatical fury, it is believed that something may intervene to save them.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Express, telegraphing Sunday, at 5:10 p. m., however, throws doubt upon Consul Warren's message. He says:

"Tao Tai Shang now admits that there was an error in his communication to General Warren. The date of the courier's next arrival at Chi Fu was July 3, which does not apply to his departure from Pekin. The journey from Pekin to Chi Nan Fu occupies five days. The courier, therefore, could not have left Pekin later than June 28. The date of the massacre there, as givin by Chinese reports, is June 30 or July 1."

Tien Tsin is still hard pressed. A Chinese force, numbering 80,000 to 100,000 men, as estimated by inconclusive reconnoissances, floods the country roundabout Tien Tsin. Communication between that place and Taku being apparently possible by river only.

A Che Foo dispatch to the Empress says the Russians have landed 8,000 men at Taku, and that the Japanese have discharged several transports. The Japanese pushed on to Tien Tsin, leading in the subsequent assault upon the native city, in which their commander was killed. Ten more transports are engaged at Japanese ports.

With the 10,000 British India troops afloat and fresh Japanese contingents, it is quite probable that the allies will have 50,000 men ashore.

The disorders in the provinces appear to be increasing in violence. A Chinese army is within forty miles of New Chwang, and the foreigners are preparing to abandon their homes. The southern part of the province is swept by raiders, who are destroying all works of the white men except in spots garrisoned by Russians. Notices have been posted in all villages near Che Foo calling upon the loyal Chinese to rise and expel the foreigners. Every good Buddhist is expected to kneel three hours daily, knock his head upon the ground thrice and pray earnestly that sudden, cruel death may overcome all aliens.

Regulars Coming Home.

Governor-General Wood, of Cuba, has issued orders to the departments to have the Second, Fifth and Eighth Infantries ready for embarkation as soon as the transports arrive. The Eighth is ready now, as it has not been scattered, while the Second and Fifth have been divided among various districts.

Chinese Bombarding Settlements.

A dispatch from Tien Tsin, dated July 8, says: "Since early morning the Chinese have heavily bombarded the settlements. Admiral Seymour has ordered the women and children conveyed to Taku at the earliest possible moment."

Revenue Officer Shot.

Sunday word came from Maribа, Menefe county, Ky., that Deputy United States Marshal Howard Wilson had been killed.

Dropped Dead in the Field.

Miss Truthina Massey, aged about thirty-five years, dropped dead in the field Friday, about 4 o'clock, on Mr. Doc Hill's farm, a few miles from Maysville, Ga. It is supposed to have been a case of sunstroke. She was hoeing cotton at the time and dropped to the ground with the hoe in her hand and expired in a few moments, before help could reach her.

Hanged Himself With Leather Strap.

W. S. Johnson, of Littleton, N. C., committed suicide in the police station in Gainesville, Ga., by hanging himself with a leather strap, which he secured from his valise.

MORE AMERICAN TROOPS

Will Be Ready for Service in China, if Needed.

As a result of a thorough consideration of the subject by the secretary of war, Lieutenant General Miles and Adjutant General Corbin, orders were issued by the war department Saturday for the dispatch of 6,254 regular troops to the Philippines, with a view to their utilization in China, in case it is found necessary to divert them to that country. These troops are intended primarily to relieve the volunteers in the Philippines and will only be diverted to China in the event that circumstances demand it. The force is made up of two battalions each of the Fifteenth, Second, Fifth and Eighth infantry, two squadrons each of the First and Ninth cavalry, one squadron of the Third and a company of engineers.

These troops will be forwarded as rapidly as transportation arrangements can be perfected, and the entire fleet of transports at San Francisco and New York will be employed in the work.

Japan is to begin the movement on Pekin, according to Saturday's advices, with the full consent of the powers, and it is calculated that the foreign reinforcements, including our own, will arrive in China if they are landed in season to finish the work that may be left by the Japanese.

PHILIPPINE SITUATION.

A Week's Record Shows Eleven Americans Killed and Sixteen Wounded.

The past week's scouting in Luzon resulted in eleven Americans killed and sixteen wounded. One hundred and sixty Filipinos were killed during the week, and eight Americans, who had been prisoners in the hands of the rebels, were surrendered, and a hundred rifles were turned over to the United States officials. The enemy ambushed a wagon train between Indiang and Naic. The Third infantry lost nine men while on an expedition to punish the Ladrones in the Delta of the Rio Grande.

In Antigua, province of Panay, a running fight of three hours' duration resulted in the killing or wounding of seventy of the enemy. There were no casualties among the Americans.

The insurgents are slowly accepting the amnesty provisions. In some instances the Americans are suspending operations in order to give the rebels an opportunity to take advantage of the decree.

Missionaries Arrived Safely.

James W. Porter, of Chicago, has received a cablegram from Che Foo, China, announcing that his brother, the Rev. Henry D. Porter, and his sister, Miss Mary H. Porter, missionaries of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, stationed at Pang Chang, 200 miles south of Tien Tsin, had arrived safely at Che Foo on Thursday, July 5. They were accompanied by the Rev. H. P. Perkins, a missionary, stationed at Pang Chuang.

All Foreigners Perish.

The firm of Melchers & Co., of Shanghai, telegraphing under date of July 6, say:

"We have reason to believe that all the foreigners in Pekin have perished. The rebellion is spreading in North China. The foreigners at Tien Tsin must quit that city, as fresh Chinese attacks are reported. The disturbances are increasing in Shan Tung. We see at present no occasion for apprehension in the Yang Tse territory or Shanghai, as the viceroys of Wu Chang and Nang Kin do not recognize the present power at Pekin."

Railroad Accident.

Two people were killed outright and a third seriously hurt at Pittsburg, Pa., Sunday night in a railway accident. The dead are: Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards, aged 40; Thomas Morris, aged 48. Thomas Edwards, husband of the dead woman, had his leg so badly lacerated that it will have to be amputated.

Congressional Nominations.

Republicans of the First district of Arkansas nominated P. O. Fitzpatrick, of Forrest City, for congress. The Sixth district republicans nominated Charles F. Cole, of Batesville.

Victim of Apoplexy.

Hon. John A. Williams, judge of the United States district court, Eastern district of Arkansas, died in Manitou Springs, Col., of apoplexy. He was appointed to the federal bench by President Harrison in 1890.

A dispatch from Middlesboro, Ky., states that Miss Fannie Hines, one of the missionaries reported killed in China, formerly was a school teacher in Middlesboro.

Useful Hints For Blue Monday.

Clothes soaked over night are more readily loosened of dirt than if washed without any preparation. Mend all rips and tears before allowing the clothes to go to the wash and remove any stains.

Prepare the clothes for soaking in this manner: Sort them into three piles, the fine white pieces that are little soiled, the medium soiled pieces and the dark, heavy pieces.

Fill tubs with tepid water, mixing dissolved soap shavings and washing soda well into the water. There should be three tubs, one for each pile of clothing. Allow the clothes to soak over night.

In the morning ring the clothes from the water and plunge them into a tub filled with hot water and dissolved soap shavings and soda. Wash and rub them until they are as clean as they can be got, then rinse them in a second tub of hot water and soap and put in a boiler over the fire. The water in the boiler should be cold at first, and a little soda added to it if the water is hard. Let the water come to a boil in order to scald the clothes, then rinse them in two waters and then in bluing water. The bluing water should never be too dark. A good way to test it is to take a handful from the tub, and if it is a light blue it is the right color.

Flannels will require more care. They should be washed in water as warm as the hands can bear and in strong suds. The water should not be hot. Rinse in waters of the same temperature, and quickly. Do not rub the flannels nor wring them with the hands.

Iron them before they are quite dry.

Furnishing the Parlor.

In every parlor there must be a center of interest to which the way is clear. All fire lovers make the hearth the point toward which all the interests of a room converge. Sofas are drawn up by it, chairs arranged near it, the best picture placed over it.

The question of lights is carefully studied, and wherever a comfortable chair or sofa is placed, some provision for a lamp or a light from the window is considered.

The grouping of chairs, tables and sofas is another point not to be neglected, so that different sorts of interests may be provided for without interfering with one another—that one may sit by the piano, for instance, and others have a tete-a-tete somewhere else.

When one has no pictures, a flowered paper on a parlor wall is effective. Sometimes relief is lent by a dado of velours or jute running to a height of some four feet, and finished by a narrow braid to match the body color, nailed on the wall with invisible tacks. The furniture in this case should be covered to match the dado, so that all the lower part of the room is left in one tone. Brass scones and mirrors alone should be hung on the walls.

Yellow on the walls gives brightness and cheerfulness and sometimes a sense of uplifting, but one cannot get coziness with it. Much white is permissible with yellow. Relieved with a note of crimson, as when a red curtain is hung at a door or a red cushion makes itself felt, a yellow and white parlor becomes individual and charming.—Harper's Bazar.

Orange Fritters—Divide the oranges into quarters, previously removing all the pulp carefully, so as not to break the skin. Dip each piece into frying batter and fry in deep fat till a golden color.

Chicken Mayonnaise—Remove skin and bone from cold cooked chicken. Divide in rather large pieces. Just before serving dip each piece into mayonnaise dressing. Arrange neatly on a bed of lettuce and serve very cold.

Currant Buns—A piece of dough the size of a pint bowl, add one-half cup sugar, one-half cup butter, nutmeg and cinnamon to taste, one cup currants, a little lemon peel. Knead well and form into a loaf, put into a deep buttered dish and rise two hours. Bake slowly for one hour.

Mexican Cod—Pick fine a cupful of salted cod and soak in different waters until fresh enough to use. Fry a chopped onion in a tablespoonful of butter to a rich brown and add the drained fish, with water enough to cover it, a green pepper chopped fine and a cupful of stewed tomato; cover and stew slowly for one hour. Serve.

Corn Meal Crumpets—Two cupfuls of buttermilk, one heaping tablespoonful of flour, one beaten egg, one teaspoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt. Add Indian meal sufficient to make a batter of the proper consistency. Dissolve a teaspoonful of soda in a little warm water and add to the batter. Bake on a hot griddle.

Molded Cabbage—Put a head of Savoy cabbage into a kettle of boiling water; cover, put in where it will keep hot—just simmer—for thirty minutes. Drain and chop fine; season with a tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth of a saltspoonful of white pepper. Press into small molds, stand the molds in hot water for fifteen minutes. Turn onto a hot platter and serve with white sauce. Cabbage cooked slowly in this way will be white and delicate.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

Be of Good Cheer—Salvation and Selfishness—Enjoying God-Sent Happiness—A Tonic of Bible Truth—From Cause to Effect—Contented Not to Know.

When they are near
Who hold us dear,
When hearts are light
And all things bright,
How sweet to pray!
Easy to say,
"Be of good cheer,
For God is near."

If some loved friend
Our hearts should rend,
Proving untrue;
What shall we do
But trust and pray?
And calmly say,
"Be of good cheer,
For God is near."

If death should seal
With mute appeal
Lips whose fond kiss
We sadly miss,
'Tis time to pray;
Though hard to say,
"Be of good cheer,
For God is near."

If any grief,
Without relief,
Make our hearts smart
And hot tears start,
'Tis time to pray;
Yes, time to say,
"Be of good cheer,
For God is near."

—Mary Elisabeth Bates in Zion Herald.

Salvation and Selfishness.

A subtle phase of selfishness is almost as common in spiritual as in worldly matters, and it is equally bad in both. He who concentrates his whole attention upon saving his own soul, deeming that the one object of life, if he gets to heaven at all will get there because the times of such ignorance God winks at; he will get there only in the same way that some extremely mean, penurious men may possibly squeeze through the gates. He only who cultivates the savable qualities will be saved. This is not saying that some mythical, impossible Abou Ben Adhem who loves his fellowmen but thinks not about God will have his name written at the head of the list of the redeemed. But it is saying that all genuine love to God is inseparably joined with a tender love to sinners and inevitably prompts to the most strenuous exertions in their behalf. The true Christian will "fill up that which is behind of the sufferings of Christ" for the rescue of the lost. He will share, so far as he can, the same burden for sin; he will be a partner in the redemptive process. He takes more and more, as he goes forward in the divine life, Christ's point of view concerning all things, and this prompts him to lay down his life for men. Amid the many companionships in the multitudinous orders which men have founded let this companionship whose watchword is salvation have highest pre-eminence.

Enjoying God-Sent Happiness.

Morbid fear of being glad, lest the joy invite sorrow, and precipitate disaster, is a bitter herb that a few souls go far to gather. What wasted journeying! Would an earthly father inflict pain at the most jubilant moment of a child's life simply because of the gladness? If pain or disappointment come at such an hour, they are but forerunners of good, not the consequences of trustful joy. Why accuse the infinite Father, who pitieth His children, of such an abhorrent exercise of power? It is His "good pleasure" to give the kingdom to His "little flock;" He wants to do it. Surely He would never give a little cup of happiness beforehand for sake of making pain more swift or bitter. The thought is profane. It is poison. "The Angel of the Afterthought" is fertile in tormenting suggestions. "If I had only known," embitters many a present cup with the thought of something missed or marred in the past. "Beware of 'Had I wis,'" says the old proverb. If the lack of knowledge is blameworthy, there is great cause for repentance; but let it be after a godly sort. Many a time, when there was no chance to know and no responsibility for not knowing, in the past, the soul distils the poison of the bitter herb into the present joy, spoiling what God has made sweet. Is it grateful? Is it wise and well?—Julia H. Johnston.

A Tonic of Bible Truth.

I know of some aguish church members that hardly have strength enough to shake. They live down in the swampy regions where fever and ague prevail, and the air is infected with malaria. The water is bad; it comes from the puddles of wordliness. The sewerage is bad and gets clogged up with sin; the atmosphere is bad, and chokes prayer and takes the very life out of a Christian. Move out! Get back to your duty. Take a stiff tonic of Bible truth every morning and make somebody happier during the day. Lay hold of your work again; give selfishness a good scourging, and come once more into the blessed sunshine of Christ's countenance. Then with a clean conscience and a good appetite you will take real delight in serving your Saviour. The joy of your Lord will be your strength.—Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

From Cause to Effect.

We all want Christian joy. We long for it; we pray for it. Yet it is possible to become all the more miserable trying to get joy. For joy does not come that way—by trying. Joy is an effect. Fulfil the cause and you will have the effect without trying. We get joy by fulfilling its condition, which is abiding in Christ. Struggling after Christian joy without fulfilling its condition is like agonizing with God in prayer for a crop on your field without fulfilling the condition of plowing, sowing and cultivating. Fulfill the condition and you will have Christian joy, and the condition is abiding in the vine, the maintaining of communion with Christ through faith and loving obedience.—Rev. Gerard B. F. Hallock.

Blessed is the man who in the midst of trials is contented not to know. Not least among the heroes of the war were the men who were in the ships, listening for and obeying the commands of the officers, hearing the noise of battle and having more than a full share of its risks, but for whom, because they were deep down in the engine-room, there was none of the excitement of vision. Such must often be our Christian obedience, knowing but in part and yet obeying cheerfully in faith and patience and good assurance that the end is victory through Christ.

The puppetries of wealth and rank, the pretentious dignities of a little brief authority, have no place here. Our smart apparel, our small pomposities, our little hardships—at one touch of Death's finger how do they shrivel and vanish into a nothing less than nothing; only the inherent grandeur of the have soul remains, and a pauper's may be far grander than a king's.—Dean Farrar.

THE farmers, merchants, bankers and warehousemen of Alabama are called to meet at Montgomery on Wednesday next for the purpose of perfecting an organization in the interest of better prices for our cotton crop.

THE situation in China is a most complicated one, and there is no telling what the outcome will be. It may mean the dismemberment of the Chinese empire, and it may mean a general European war. Whatever the finale may be the Chinese empire is bound to suffer.

NOMINATIONS are all in, and it is now up to the people of the United States to declare their preference. The two principal tickets, one of which is bound to be successful, are Wm. J. Bryan and Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic nominees, and Wm. McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt, the Republican nominees. While the other nominees will receive an uncertain proportion of the votes cast, there is no doubt but that either Bryan or McKinley will be our next president.

The Montgomery Weekly Crop Bulletin for week ending Monday, July 9, 1900, reports the weather conditions were decidedly more favorable than for the previous three weeks; temperatures ranged very nearly normal, and the rainfall was generally in light, scattered showers, except in a few middle counties, where it was moderately heavy; sunshine was ample, and much work has been accomplished in cleaning and cultivating crops. The crop outlook has been considerably improved, but corn is earing rather slowly, turning yellow, much of it has been laid by without proper cultivation, and the yield will be considerably below the average. Cotton has improved slightly, but has run too much to stalk, is fruiting very slowly and poorly, and continues to shed, though not so freely as at the close of last week; there are fewer complaints of lice; it is still very grassy, and the concensus of reports indicates that the prospective yield of this staple has been materially lowered. Wheat has been nearly all cut, and thrashing is being pushed; oats are nearly all harvested, with both these grains indicating a fair yield only. Cane, sweet potatoes, peanuts, and gardens continue in promising condition, while field peas and beans indicate a large yield, but melons have rotted badly, and are yielding poorly; peaches apples and pears are shedding freely; grapes continue fairly promising. Considerable land, recently inundated, has been replanted in corn.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says, "I was taken with Typhoid Fever; that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00 Trial bottle free at J. S. Johnsons, jr., drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

Young Women

The entry into womanhood is a critical time for a girl. Little menstrual disorders started at that time soon grow into fatal complications. What female troubles are filling graveyards prove this. Wine of Cardui establishes regularity and natural menstrual flow. When once this important function is started right, a healthy life will usually follow. Many women, young and old, owe their lives to Wine of Cardui. There is nothing like it to give women freedom from pain and to fit young women for every duty of life. $1.00 bottles at druggists.

Miss Della M. Strayer, Tully, Kans., "I have suffered untold pain at menstrual periods for a long time, was nervous, had no appetite, and lost interest in everything, in fact was miserable. I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui, with Thedford's Black-Draught, when needed, and to-day I am entirely cured. I cannot express the thanks I feel for what you have done for me."

CHINESE IMPERIAL TROOPS.

The "Boxers" of China.

A Secret Society Whose Object is to Exterminate Foreigners.

THE "Boxers," or "Righteousness and Peace Fist Society," as they have been called, represent the periodical revolt of Chinese conservatism against the influx of foreign influence and foreign methods. They originated with the people of the western provinces, largely in Shantung, who looked aghast as they saw foreigners coming in and taking by force what they considered their own patrimony. Murmurings grew on every hand. This came to the knowledge of the Manchu leaders, already wondering how they were to hold their own against the twenty millions of young Chinese who, during the brief reform administartion, had acquired a taste of Western life with its opportunities and ambitions. It was not sufficient to gain control of the Government, replace the aggressive Emperor by the reactionary Empress Dowager, secure the dismissal and flight of the reform leaders and hold the machinery in their hands. The poison of reform had spread all over the country, and was constantly being instilled into the people in numberless ways. The only effective method was to expel the foreign element, eradicate it altogether. Hence they looked with favor upon the new movement; encouraged it secretly, guarded it from interference, without, however, patronizing it openly. When the movement became so strong that the German authorities threatened to interfee, it was transferred west and north and appeared in Pe-chin-li, the province of Pekin.

There must have been shrewd leaders among the insurgents. They took special pains, for the most part, to avoid open collision with European exception, were not touched. It was their followers that felt the blow. Missionaries were left in safety, but native Christians were butchered. The movement grew, and the crowd became more open in its manifestations. The men drilled in the very square of Pekin, and not a word was spoken from the Palace to hinder. In the provinces a quasi effort was made to suppress them, but with the order for suppression went a private order to the Governor to be patient with the people, whose intention was not evil, even if some of their actions could not be approved. At first the foreign embassies contented themselves with protests. To these there came the usual form of Oriental assent, and the usual attendant Oriental delay. As Pekin, however, was threatened, and the possibility appeared of danger to the embassies, the demands became more urgent. Ships of war gathered at Tientsin, and marines were landed and, despite the protests of the Tsungli Yamen, transported to the capital.

The "Boxers" profess to be an organization for the cultivation of gymnastics, but, like the Turn Verein, which so perturbed the retrograde governments of Germany in the days of the Holy Alliance, they conduct a secret political movement and uphold the ultra-conservative and anti-foreign tenets of that energetic, indomitable old lady and thorough-going reactionary, the Empress Dowager. It is an open secret that the Manchus, the ruling race in China, encouraged and supported the "Boxers," and probably it is to their patronage that the society owes its remarkably rapid spread from Shan-Tung, where is was organized, throughout the whole province of Pe-chin-li. The rise of a strong popular movement against Christians, foreigners and native reformers was undoubtedly a consolation to the Manchu mandarins and the Empress. Indeed, last January they were referred to in tones of high approbation by the latter august personage, and, in consequence, it is impossible to withhold some measure of sympathy for the "Boxers" in the position in which they find themselves. They believed they were basking in the light of imperial favor, and the Dowager Empress's edict certainly lent color to that supposition. That edict, which it was understood at the time had special reference to the "Boxers," drew at once a wide distinction between "those reckless fellows who band together and create riots," in other words, seditious societies, and

CITY GATE, PEKIN.

"the submissive and loyal subjects" who "learn gymnastic drill for the protection of their families and unite the villages in their districts for mutual protection, in other words, the "Boxers."

"But the local authorities" the edict went on to say, "make no distinction, and, mistakenly listening to groundless rumors, treat them all as seditious subjects and ruthlessly put them to death. The instructions to the local officers should be precise, that in all cases of this kind they should only inquire whether the men were rebels or not, and should not consider whether they belong to a society or a religious sect."

Reading between the lines, the meaning of the edict is plain. Free liberty of action was to be given to any society which is loyal to the throne, while stern suppression was to be meted out to all those who, directly or indirectly, belonged to disaffected associations.

Edwin Hurd Conger, United States Minister at Pekin, under whose direction American marines have been landed for the protection of American interests against the "Boxers," was born in Knox County, Illinois, March 7, 1843. Mr. Conger is a man of will and nerve. He was educated in Lombard University, graduating in the class of 1862. He turned from the schoolroom to military service in the Union Army. He began the study of law at the close of the war, and graduated from the Albany Law School in

He was elected treasurer of Dallas County, Iowa., in 1877, and again in 1879. In 1880 the Republicans chose him for State Treasurer of Iowa, and re-elected him in 1882. After this he served three terms in Congress, leaving his position there to become Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Brazil. From this his advancement to the important post at Pekin was rapid. He is ranked as one of the ablest of American representatives in foreign countries.

This is the text of the platform adopted by the democratic party in national convention assembled at Kansas City, July 5, 1900:

"We, the representatives of the democratic party of the United States, assembled in national convention on the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, do reaffirm our faith in that immortal truth, and our allegiance to the principles upon which the fathers of the republic builded it.

"We hold that allegiance to the United States supreme over the Declaration of Independence is the spirit of our government which the constitution is the letter.

IMPERIALISM DENOUNCED

"We declare again that all governments instituted among men derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, that any government not based upon the consent of the governed is a tyranny; and to impose upon any people any government of force is to substitute the methods of imperialism for those of a republic. We hold that the constitution follows the flag and denounce the doctrine that an executive or congress deriving their existence and their powers from the constitution can exercise lawful authority beyond it or in violation of it. We assert that no nation can long endure half republic and half empire and we warn the American people that imperialism abroad will lead quickly and inevitably to despotism at home.

PORTO RICAN LAW.

"Believing in these principles, we denounce the Porto Rico law, enacted by a republican congress against the protest and opposition of the democratic minority, as a bold and open violation of the nation's organic law, and a flagrant breach of the national good faith. It imposes upon the people of Porto Rico a government without their consent and taxation without representation. It dishonors the American people by repudiating a solemn pledge made in their behalf by the commanding general of our army, which the Porto Ricans welcomed to a peaceful and unresisted occupation of their land. It doomed to poverty and distress a people whose helplessness appeal with peculiar force to our justice and magnanimity.

"In this the first act of its imperialistic program, the republican party seeks to commit the United States to a colonial policy inconsistent with republican institutions, and condemned by the supreme court in numerous decisions.

"We demand the prompt and honest fulfillment of our pledges to the Cuban people and the world that the United States has no disposition nor intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction or control over the island of Cuba, except for its pacification. The war ended nearly two years ago, profound peace reigns over all the islands and still the administration keeps the government of the island from its people while republican carpetbag officials plunder its revenues and exploit the colonial theory to the disgrace of the American people.

PHILIPPINE QUESTION.

"We condemn and denounce the Philippine policy of the present administration. It has involved the republic unnecessarily in war, sacrificed the lives of many of our noblest sons and placed the United States, previously known and applauded throughout the world as the champion of freedom, in the false and un-American position of crushing with military force the efforts of our former allies to achieve liberty and self-government.

"The Filipinos cannot be civilized without endangering our civilization; they cannot be subjected without imperiling our form of government, and as we are not willing to surrender our civilization or to convert the republic into an empire, we favor an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose to give the Filipinos, first, a stable form of government; second, independence, and third, protection from outside interference, such as has been given for nearly a century to the republics of Central and South America.

"The greedy commercialism which dictated the Philippine policy of the republican administration attempts to justify it with the plea that it will pay, but even this sordid and unworthy plea fails when brought to the test of facts. The war of criminal aggression against the Filipinos, entailing an annual expense of many millions, has already cost more than any possible profit that could accrue from the entire Philippines trade for years to come. Furthermore, when trade is extended at the expense of liberty the price is always too high.

EXTENSION OF REPUBLIC'S INFLUENCE.

"We are not opposed to territorial expansion when it takes in desirable territory, which can be erected into states in the union and whose people are willing and fit to become American citizens.

"We favor trade expansion by every peaceful and legitimate means. But we are unalterably opposed to the seizing or purchasing of distant islands to be governed outside the constitution and whose people can never become citizens.

"We are in favor of extending the republic's influence among the nations, but believe that influence should be extended not by force and violence, but through the persuasive power of a high and honorable example. The importance of other questions now pending before the American people is in no wise diminished and the democratic party takes no backward step from its position on them, but the burning issue of imperialism growing out of the Spanish war involves the very existence of the republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign.

MONROE DOCTRINE.

"The declaration in the republican platform adopted at the Philadelphia convention held in June, 1900, that the republican party steadfastly adheres to the policy announced in the Monroe doctrine, is manifestly insincere and deceptive. This profession is contradicted by the avowed policy of that party in opposition to the spirit of the

...e to acquire and hold ...er large areas of terri... ...e numbers of people in ...emisphere.

"...on the strict maintenance ...roe doctrine and in all its ...both in letter and in spirit ...ry to prevent the extension ...ean authority on this conti... ...d essential to our supremacy ...erican affairs. At the same time ...eclare that no American people ...ever be held by force in unwilling ...subjection to European authority.

MILITARISM.

"We oppose militarism. It means conquest abroad and intimidation and oppression at home. It means the strong army which has ever been fatal to free institutions. It is what millions of our citizens have fled from in Europe. It will impose upon our peace-loving people a large standing army and an unnecessary burden of taxation and a constant menace to their liberties. A small standing army and well-disciplined state militia are sufficient in time of peace. This country has no place for a vast military service and conscription. When the nation is in danger the volunteer soldier is his country's best defender. The national guard of the United States should ever be cherished in the patriotic hearts of a free people. Such organizations are ever an element of strength and safety. For the first time in our history and co-evil with the Philippine conquest has there been a wholesale departure from our time honored and approved system of volunteer organization. We denounce it as un-American, un-democratic and un-republican, and as a subversion of the ancient and fixed principles of a free people.

TRUSTS.

"Private monopolies are indefensible and intolerable. They destroy competition, control the price of all material and of the finished product, thus robbing both producer and consumer. They lessen the employment of labor and arbitrarily fix the terms and conditions thereof and deprive individual energy and small capital of their opportunity for betterment.

"They are the most efficient means yet devised for appropriating the fruits of industry to the benefit of the few at the expense of the many, and unless their insatiate greed is checked all wealth will be aggregated in a few hands and the republic destroyed.

"The dishonest paltering with the trust evil by the republican party in state and national platforms is conclusive proof of the truth of the charge that the trusts are the legitimate product of republican policies; that they are fostered by republican laws, and that they are protected by the republican administration in return for campaign subscription and political support.

"We pledge the democratic party to an unceasing warfare in nation, state and city against private monopoly in every form. Existing laws against trusts must be enforced, and more stringent ones must be enacted providing for publicity as to the affairs of corporations engaged in interstate commerce and requiring all corporations to show, before doing business outside of the state in their origin, that they have no water in their stock, and that they have not attempted and are not attempting to monopolize any branch of business or the production of any articles of merchandise, and the whole constitutional power of congress over interstate commerce, the mails and all modes of interstate communication shall be exercised by the enactment of comprehensive laws upon the subject of trusts. Tariff laws should be amended by putting the products of trusts upon the free list to prevent monopoly under the plea of protection.

"The failure of the present republican administration with absolute control of all the branches of the national government to enact any legislation designed to prevent or even curtail the absorbing power of trusts and alleged combinations or to enforce the anti-trust laws already on the statute books prove the insincerity of the high sounding phrase of the republican platform.

"Corporations should be protected in all their rights, and the legitimate interests should be respected, but any attempt by corporations to interfere with the public affairs of the people or to control the sovereignty which creates them, should be forbidden under such penalties as will make such attempts impossible.

"We condemn the Dingley tariff law as a trust breeding measure, skillfully devised to give the few favors which they do not deserve and to place upon the many burdens which they should not bear.

"We favor such an enlargement of the scope of the interstate commerce law as will enable the commission to protect individuals and communities from discriminations, and the public from unjust and unfair transportation rates.

FINANCIAL PLANK.

"We affirm and indorse the principles of the national democratic platform adopted in Chicago in 1896 and we reiterate the demand of that platform for an American financial system made by the American people for themselves which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level, and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation.

"We denounce the currency bill enacted in the last session of congress as a step forward in the republican policy which aims to discredit the sovereign right of the national government to issue all money, whether coin or paper, and to bestow upon national banks the power to issue and control the volume of paper money for their own benefit. A permanent national bank currency secured by government bonds must have a permanent debt to rest upon, and if the bank currency is to increase with population and business, the debt must also increase. The republican currency scheme is the reform scheme for fastening upon the taxpayers a perpetual and growing debt for the benefit of the banks. We are opposed to this private corporation paper circulated as money, but without legal tender qualities, and demand the retirement of the national bank notes as fast as government paper or silver certificates can be substituted for them.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JULY 15.

Subject: The Gentile Woman's Faith, Mark vii. 24-30—Golden Text: Matt. xv., 28—Memory Verses, 27-30—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

24. "From thence He arose." That is, after delivering the discourses just referred to. Edersheim thinks that Jesus and the twelve apostles went immediately to the north country, while others think there was a short delay in, or near, Capernaum, before starting out. "Borders of Tyre and Sidon." Tyre and Sidon were heathen cities on the east coast of the Mediterranean Sea. "Into a house." In all probability the house of a Jew. Edersheim thinks He must have tarried here several days. "Would have no man know it." He judged it proper to retire with His disciples into this remote region, with a view to conceal Himself awhile from the Pharisees, who were plotting against Him. "Could not be hid." It seems that He was personally known to many in this country, who had often seen and heard Him in Galilee.

25. "Whose young daughter." The actual sufferings of the daughter were great, but the sufferings which the mother endured by sympathy were still greater. Our sufferings for others are great in proportion to the amout of love we have for them. Hence the greatest sufferer on earth was Christ. "Had an unclean spirit." Matthew says her daughter was "grievously vexed with a devil." This was certainly a sad case. Nothing can destroy the peace of a home more than to have a daughter possessed with Satanic influences. "Fell at His feet." This at once shows the humility of the woman; she assumed the most lowly attitude possible as she appeals to His mercy.

26. "Woman was a Greek." By language. The Jews called those who were idolators Greeks, or Gentiles. "A Syrophoenician by nation." A Syrophoenician. Phoenicia belonged to the Roman province Syria. She was a Syrian of Phoenicia. Matthew says she was "a woman of Canaan." During the earliest times of Jewish history several tribes of Canaanites, who were the original inhabitants of Palestine, had retired northward before the Israelites. From these the Phoenicians were descended. "Besought Him." Earnestly entreated Him. The case was an urgent one, and, on her knees, at His feet, she poured out her request. "That He would cast forth." She believed He had power to do this. Matthew says she "cried unto Him saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of David." She plead for mercy; she knew she could make no claim upon Him in any other way. The woman recognized Jesus as the Jewish Messiah. The state of this woman is a proper emblem of the state of a sinner, deeply conscious of the misery of his soul. There are many excellencies contained in her prayer. 1. It is short. 2. Jesus is recognized in His divine nature. 3. Her plea is for mercy. 4. She is in earnest. 5. It is humble. 6. It is offered in faith. 7. She perseveres. If sinners would cry to God for deliverance as this woman did they would soon be liberated from their sins. "The devil out of her daughter." Here is a plain, straightforward confession. There is no effort to cover up the family troubles and gloss over matters, and make it appear that, after all, her daughter is "quite respectable."

27. "But Jesus said unto her." This woman's discouragements were great. 1. Her advantages had been small. She was a heathen woman with but little means of even obtaining the light of the Hebrew Scriptures. 2. At first Jesus did not reply to her request. Matt. 15: 24. 3. The disciples besought Him to send her away. 4. When Jesus did speak He seemed to repel her. The soul seeking salvation frequently meets these same tests, and many become discouraged by them. "Let the children." The Jews. "First be filled." They are the favored people. The gospel was first to be offered to the Jews and to them our Lord's personal ministry on earth was chiefly restricted. Jesus told her that His blessings were for the lost of Israel. Matt. 15:24. This would have caused people with ordinary faith to have given up the struggle, but not so with this woman; she came now and worshiped Him, saying, Lord help me. Matt. 15:25. Seemingly repelled she still worshiped. Here was a personal, direct, simple, comprehensive, humble prayer. "For it is not meet." It is not suitable—not the proper thing to do. "To take the children's bread." To take those blessings that belong to the Jews. "And to cast it unto dogs." This was the severest test of all. The Gentiles were considered by the Jewish people as no better than dogs, and Jesus only used a form of speech which was common; but "it must have been very offensive to the heathen." Would this woman resent it? Would her pride at last be stirred? No. She "shrunk and shriveled" into nothingness at His feet, and her faith still held on for the desired blessing.

28. "Yes, Lord." Truth, Lord. Matthew. It is all so. The Jews—the favored ones ought to be blessed first. I know I am a heathen—only a Gentile dog, yet—Now follows, (1) an answer to His argument against entertaining her petition, and (2) a most touching appeal to His clemency. "The dogs—eat of the children's crumbs." I only ask such kindness as the dogs of any family enjoy. I would not take one of the blessings that belong to the Jews, but out of Thine infinite fulness, Thou canst give me this crumb I ask, and not impoverish them. By this she shows her high regard for Christ's power; "even the mighty blessing she was asking was but a crumb to Him." She would be glad to receive a crumb; those who are conscious that they deserve nothing are thankful for the smallest favor.

29. "For this saying." Her faith had triumphed. Jesus said, "O woman, great is thy faith."—Matthew. The hindrances thrown in the woman's way only tended to increase her faith. Her faith resembles a river, which becomes enlarged by the dikes opposed to it, until at last it sweeps them entirely away. There were several other graces that shone bright in her; wisdom, humility, meekness, patience, perserverance in prayer; but these were the product of her faith; and therefore Christ commends that, because, of all graces, faith honors Christ most; therefore, of all graces Christ honors faith most. "The devil is gone out." Now at this very moment thy request is granted. Though the Lord's ... He always honored personal faith in Himself, wherever found. By severing faith and prayer ... to omnipotence. No person can thus pray and believe without receiving all his soul requires. This woman had asked a crumb, and had received a whole loaf of the children's bread. Although a heathen she now took her place by the side of Jacob and Moses, for she had prevailed.

30. "Laid upon the bed." A sign of her perfectly tranquil condition; the demon had previously driven her hither and thither.

Go-bel Murder Case.

The trials of Henry Youtsey, Caleb Powers, John Davis, Harland Whittaker and Richard Combs (colored), charged with being accessories to the murder of William Goebel, was called at the special term of the circuit court of Scott county, Ky., which begun Monday. The cases were sent to Scott county for trial on change of venue from Franklin county, where the assassination occurred.

The Pinkham Record

Is a proud and peerless record. It is a record of cure, of constant conquest over obstinate ills of women; ills that deal out despair; suffering that many women think is woman's natural heritage; disorders and displacements that drive out hope.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

cures these troubles of women, and robs menstruation of its terrors.

No woman need be without the safest and surest advice, for Mrs. Pinkham counsels women free of charge. Her address is Lynn, Mass.

Can any woman afford to ignore the medicine and the advice that has cured a million women?

A SLIGHT MISTAKE,

The Bride's Father Was a Teller, but Not Connected with a Bank.

"Can I tell you the meaning of euphuism?" said an old reporter the other night in response to a question by one of the younger men on the staff. "Why, certainly, my boy. It is the pleasant art of calling a bootblack a gentleman of polish, and it's very valuable in newspaper work, provided you don't carry the joke too far. I remember when I was a cub myself and was working out in Denver a fellow came in one day and asked me to write a nice little notice about the marriage of his brother to a girl over in Centre City. 'Who is the bride?' I asked, so as to get some material for the paragraph; 'what is her father's occupation?' 'Why, he's a—teller,' said my caller, hesitating a little. 'All right,' said I, and thinking it would sound a shade finer, I referred to the lady as 'the beautiful and accomplished daughter of the well known banker of Centre City.' Next day the boss came in foaming at the mouth. 'What in blazes do you mean by speaking of old —— as a banker?' he bellowed. 'He's a professional clairvoyant and the biggest old fraud out of jail! He's got an ad. in the paper right now, offering to reveal the past and future for 35 cents and a lock of your hair!' I was overwhelmed with chagrin and hunted up my informant, 'Why did you tell me that girl's father was a banker?' I asked, reproachfully. 'I didn't,' he answered, 'I said he was a teller.' 'It's one and the same thing,' I retorted. 'No, it isn't,' said he; 'you jumped at conclusions. I didn't mean a paying teller, I meant a fortune teller.'"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

State Normal School.

The new catalogue of the State Normal School, Jacksonville, Ala., has been issued. It shows the institution to be in a flourishing condition and well patronized by the teachers of the state.

Its list of alumni shows that its graduates are holding good positions in many walks of life, especially that of teaching. The demand for normal trained teachers is increasing, and Jacksonville cannot supply the calls for its graduates.

The health record of Jacksonville, which by the Health Officer's report is the highest in the state, makes it an ideal location for a school.

The Normal School begins its eighteenth year in September, under C. W. Daugette, president.

A Link in the Past.

Mrs. Alexander Capperton, who died in Kirkhill, Scotland, the other day, was one of the few links connecting the present with the time of Sir Walter Scott. She entered his service when sixteen, and remembered hearing his heavy footfall on the stairs at five every morning when he came down for his buttermilk and porridge. She was with him when he died and received a lock of his hair from Mrs. Lockhart.—Philadelphia Press.

What He Missed.

Wycke—See how angry that parson is! I really believe he's swearing. He has certainly missed his vocation.

Wytte—No, I think it was his train. —Stray Stories.

Utah's Capital.

Salt Lake City still presents one of the most absorbingly interesting fields for the sociologist to be found on this continent. The conditions most vital to a people's life are there far beneath the surface and cannot be comprehended in a day, nor by a sojourner who looks exclusively through either Mormon or Gentile eyes. Two generations have been born into the Mormon religion, and the traditions of the church are as binding to them as those of century-old creeds to their followers. The man who you are told has "broken away" from the faith you find upon acquaintance to be half a Mormon still. The "good Mormon" who is pointed out to you will be found to be, in nine cases out of ten, half Gentile.—New Lippincott.

Not Superstitious.

Even ancient superstitions are not respected by the modern woman of fashion. She has herself photographed in her wedding dress before she is married, has her trousseau marked with her new initials instead of her maiden name, and otherwise flies in the face of traditions which, to her grandmother, were sacred because of their very antiquity, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. At the present moment the most favored gem for mounting as a charm is the opal, the stone banned for years as an omen of bad fortune to the wearer. Now you find opals in the rough, as well as polished, being mounted in almost every style for wear on neck chains or on bangles. There is only one other stone which can rival them in popularity, and that is the pale green jade.

Every spring you clean the house you live in, to get rid of the dust and dirt which collected in the winter. Your body, the house your soul lives in, also becomes filled up during the winter with all manner of filth, which should have been removed from day to day, but was not. Your body needs cleaning inside. If your bowels, your liver, your kidneys are full of putrid filth, and you don't clean them out in the spring, you'll be in bad odor with yourself and everybody else all summer.

DON'T USE A HOSE to clean your body inside, but sweet, fragrant, mild but positive and forceful CASCARETS, that work while you sleep, prepare all the filth collected in your body for removal, and drive it off softly, gently, but none the less surely, leaving your blood pure and nourishing, your stomach and bowels clean and lively, and your liver and kidneys healthy and active. Try a 10-cent box today, and if not satisfied get your money back—but you'll see how the cleaning of your body is

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Jemison, July 16, 1900

Editor BANNER.—As I am very busy with my canvass in Elmore and Shelby I ask permission of you to correct some reports that are being circulated over the county. It is being reported on me that I will not pay my debts; this is a lie on its face. I defy any man to show where I owe one dollar, or where I ever was sued by anyone. Examine the records of our county, or any other county, and see if this is not true.

I am sorry I cannot help more in Chilton, but there are two or three of the best speakers in the State speaking in my district against me. And does this not prove clearly the justice of my cause, that the other fellow has to run off from home and import speakers to tell the people of this senatorial district how to vote? But my county knows my record in the legislature, and where are my public acts criticised?

I promise in the future to do my duty and represent the will of the people if I am elected. The people had better go slow on the constitutional convention question. I am opposed to one; my opponent is in favor of one, and says he is for disfranchising the negro, but he has never been able to tell how he can disfranchise the negro and not disfranchise the white man.

I hope there will be a large crowd at Stanton the 21st, and that Mr. Oliver will be there so the people will have the pleasure of hearing us both explain our position. Hoping our people will turn out on election day and vote for their interests.

Very respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

Clanton, July 12, 1900

Editor BANNER.—Please allow me space in the columns of your valuable paper to say a few words in behalf of my friend Mr. Robt. O. Headley. I have known Mr. Headley from infancy, and his conduct has been such as to gain for him a most worthy name. His steadfastness in standing for the right, and his strict integrity has won my highest esteem. His deportment while attending a business college was 100 per cent with a high per cent on each branch of study. His remarkable success as a teacher for eight years and his practical qualifications are such as to leave no doubt that he is thoroughly prepared to discharge the duties of the Tax Collector's office with much credit to his county and to himself. Hoping that the right will be done in the final election in August, and that my friends will unite with me in their support and influence in behalf of this worthy young man, I am very truly yours for the right.

Heartburn.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the hous, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—MRS. CURTIS BAKER, Bookwalter, Ohio. When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich heartburn is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let six hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, indicating that you have eaten too much, take one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the heartburn may be avoided. Providence.

We are sorry to learn that death visited the home of J. M. Wyatt last Sunday, taking away their sweet little babe; we extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved ones. Its remains were placed at Providence cemetery. It was called by the Divine power and has paid the debt that we all must pay, and if you were called on would you be like the babe, would you be ready? The last word its mother said "God bless my sweet babe, I can't go now, but I will come." How many mothers can say that with a true heart looking to God to be the judge.

The farmers are badly behind with their work in this section; corn and cotton is looking backward after so much rain. Farmers are busy with their grass since the rain has stopped. J. M. B. JR.

Cane Creek, July 16, 1900

Editor BANNER.—I notice the campaign opens up on the 24th inst., and the committee has invited the opposing candidates to meet with us. I am truly glad that they showed them that courtesy and I hope they will accept the invitation. I wish to give my opponents a special invitation for I think when the political situation is discussed, that both sides ought to be present and discuss the public questions, and then the people can judge for themselves.

Now a word to the public: Gentlemen, I hope we will have a pleasant campaign. I will say, as I said before the primary, I expect to enter this campaign with clean hands and end it with a clear conscience, and be perfectly satisfied with the results thereof.

Respectfully,
MOSES A. KILLGORE.

After many intricate experiments, scientists have discovered methods for obtaining all the natural digestants. These have been combined in the proportion found in the human body and united with substances that build up the digestive organs, making a compound called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and allows all dyspeptics to eat plenty of nourishing food while the stomach troubles are being radically cured by the medical agents it contains. It is pleasant to take and will give quick relief. Campbelle Drug Co.

LATE STATE NEWS.

State Fair Promoters Get Liberal Offer and It Now Seems Certain.

A state fair seems absolutely certain. Secretary John W. O'Neill has received a proposition from Captain Falkner, representing the owners of the lease, which is liberal and which will be accepted by the committee in charge of the fair movement. The proposition is known to cover a period of six years and the remuneration is based upon the profits of the association. If there are no profits there will be no rent, and if there are profits the association is to pay half of them for rent.

As soon as the proposition is accepted and the grounds are leased for six years, then active steps will be taken toward getting things in shape for the fair this fall. A permanent association will be formed and the movement will go forward with a rush.

The new fair association will be formed strictly upon business lines, and no premiums will be offered unless there is money in the treasury to make the offer good. In a word, the new association will be conducted on the highest plane. The best business men of Birmingham will be at the head of it and the purpose will be to make the fair an annual feature.

Candidates in Marshall.

The army of candidates in Marshall county has been dubbed "Coxey's army," as they move across the country in a body from one appointment to another. For the nine offices to be filled there are now out eighty-three candidates, who have a joint canvass, going in one body. Heretofore the audience at no place of public speaking has equalled the number of candidates.

The farmers are busily at work, and report, since the rains, a better prospect for cotton than at this time last year.

Republicans Open Headquarters.

Chairman F. F. Conway, of the republican campaign committee, has opened headquarters in he Drennen building, opposite the postoffice, in Birmingham, and will begin an active canvass of the state at once.

The following executive and advisory committee has been appointed: Judge C. W. Buckley of Montgomery, J. H. Bingham of Birmingham, J. W. Davidson, Judge T. B. Martin and W. H. Harney.

Looking After a Colony.

Capt. P. Sid Jones, of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, is in Ocean Springs, Miss., looking after a new colony which he has started in that place. Captain Jones is doing considerable colonization work, and he expects to bring down from the bleak northwest a large number of people. He is also interested in establishing smaller industries along the lines, an excelsior factory being one of the latest factories intended.

FIFTEEN PEOPLE DROWNED.

Cloudburst at Coleman, Texas, Does Great Damage to Life and Property.

A clounburst occurred at Coleman, Tex., at an early hour Monday and meagre reports indicate that a dozen lives were lost in the flood. There have been tremendous rains throughout the vicinity of Coleman for two days past and all of the streams are overflowed. The tracks of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad are under water and a large property loss has resulted from the storms.

A late report from Coleman says it is known that fifteen people were drowned, among them being John Fuleisstine and Joe Spath. Both were engaged in rescuing four little girls, each having two on their horses when all were washed away. Ten bodies have been recovered and search is being made for others. Spath was one of the leading citizens of this place. It is believed that several lives have been lost along the course of the creek in the valley below Coleman.

Consecration of Dr. Barnwell.

Consecration of Rev. R. W. Barnwell, bishop-elect of Alabama, will take place at Selma, July 25th. Bishop Thompson, of Mississippi, will be the consecrator, assisted by Bishops Nelson, of Georgia, and Weed, of Florida.

Switzerland has long been thought inclined to ideas of State Socialism, but it evidently has no use for a universal pension system under the guise of insurance.

THE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Summary of Current Events From all Sections of Alabama.

HON. WALTER H. MATTHEWS IS DEAD

Democratic Committee Fills the Vacancy—Suicide at Florence—New Iron Company Incorporated. A Merchant's Loss.

Young Hanlin Drowned.

While bathing in the surf at the Isle of Palms, near Charleston, S. C., Arthur Hanlin, son of Major William C. Hanlin, the well known deputy collector living in Birmingham, was drowned.

Incorporated in Delaware.

The Alabama Iron and Steel Company has been incorporated at Wilmington, Del., with $100,000 capital stock. The incorporators are N. Y. Haughey, E. T. Canby and G. W. Kimball. It is not stated where the place of business will be.

Brewer Indorsed.

The democratic convention of Lowndes county to elect delegates to the congressional convention assembled at Hayneville. Resolutions to indorse the Kansas City platform and Hon. Willis Brewer's course in congress were passed. The delegates were instructed for Colonel Brewer.

Followed His Father's Example.

Andrew Thrasher, aged 41 years, committed suicide at Florence by shooting himself through the mouth with a 38-caliber pistol. Thrasher's father committed suicide two years ago by hanging himself in a barn. Andrew Thrasher had been in bad health some time, which is said to be responsible for his act.

Will Start Up in a Few Days.

The immense plant of the Alabama Bridge company, which was located at Decatur by the purchase of the United States rolling stock site about six months ago, and upon which a large force of mechanics has been at work ever since, is now running under test, and the whistle for starting up general work will blow in a few days.

Sustained Heavy Loss.

L. G. Jones, a leading groceryman of Talladega, sustained a loss of $2,000 last week in a singular manner. About 9 o'clock a heavy crash, like that of falling walls, was heard in his store room, and investigation disclosed the fact that the shelving on one side of the room had fallen down the entire length of the building, smashing show cases, crockery, glassware and wrecking everything on one side of the building.

Walter H. Matthews Dead.

Hon. Walter H. Matthews, state senator and democratic nominee for state auditor, died at his home at Guinn, Marion county, last Thursday afternoon. His death creates a vacancy on the state ticket, which will be filled by the state democratic executive committee.

Judge Matthews was one of the most prominent democrats in North Alabama. For twelve years he was probate judge of Marion county, an office held for twenty years by his father before him, and held also by his grandfather. He was subsequently elected tax collector, and then elected to the state senate and nominated for auditor.

Whitley's Queer Actions.

A story comes from Louisville that Norton D. Whitley, assistant auditor of Jefferson county, has been apprehended in that city suffering with mental aberration. Mr. Whitley has been missing for several days and before his disappearance it was noticed that he was acting queerly. He appeared in Louisville on July 7 and was alone. Two days later he was wading in a creek near that city, evidently searching for something, and he was heard to say repeatedly: "I can't find her." Investigation developed the fact that the young man was laboring under a halucination that a carriage containing his wife had turned over in the creek and that she had been drowned.

Independent Candidates.

In the probate court at Mobile petitions required by law were filed to have the names of William T. Hieronymus and William H. Holcombe placed on the ticket to be voted at the August election, the former for tax collector, and the latter for sheriff. Both ran before the democratic primaries for the same offices and were defeated.

Surveying a Railroad.

Two surveying corps are in the field establishing a line for a branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. The road will intersect the main line at Phelan two miles south of Cullman and will be extended through Walker county to the Ensley Southern Railway, near the Warrior river.

Arbacoochee Gold Fields.

The Arbacoochee gold fields in Cleburne county, eighteen miles from Anniston, are being worked this year more extensively and more successfully than ever before. Several Anistonians have bought mining property there which they are working profitably and the indications are that a regular mining boom is about to be inaugurated.

Mineral Expert in Limestone.

The government has a mineral expert, Mr. Lucas, in Limestone county visiting the iron and pyrites outcroppings in the county; also looking into the phosphate beds. He is much pleased with what he has seen, but has not made any official statement as to their values. Just across the line in the edge of Tennessee a man has located a valuable silver vein, and has samples of the ore here on exhibition. It is said by those familiar with the mineral to be very rich in silver and easily worked.

Contracts Have Been Signed.

Contracts have been signed between the operators and miners at the Galloway mines, Walker county, and the Brilliant mines in Marion county. Both of these mines will hereafter recognize the United Mine Workers of America. At the Brilliant the miners are to receive during eight months of the year an advance of 2½ cents per ton for mining over the price that will prevail during the four summer months, the summer basis being 55 cents per ton. The Galloway miners will receive the same pay as prevailed last year, which is 45 cents per ton as a basis.

George Hayes Suicides.

News reached Florence of another suicide in the northern end of the county, the rash victim being George Hiram Hayes, a young married man about 25 or 30 years of age. He was a son-in-law of Son Hyde, a prominent merchant and planter of the north end of the county. He went to the barn, tied a rope about his neck and climbed into the rafters preparatory to jumping off. His foot slipped, however, and he fell without breaking his neck, choking to death. He was dead when found. No reason is known here for the deed.

Sowell Nominated for Auditor.

The state democratic executive committee held a meeting in Birmingham Saturday and selected Hon. Thomas L. Sowell, of Walker county, to fill the vacancy on the state democratic ticket caused by the death of Judge W. H. Matthews, nominated for state auditor. Mr. Sowell won on the second ballot.

Mr. Sowell, the new nominee for state auditor, is about 45 years of age, and has been a figure in state politics for a number of years. He is at present state senator from the district composed of Walker, Fayette and Lamar counties, being one of the hold-over senators.

Silver Service for the Alabama.

The Mobile Press club are determined that the battleship Alabama shall be presented with a worthy testimonial from the people of Alabama. Under the auspices of the Press club there will be a grand entertainment at Monroe park, Mobile, July 30th. There will be a great military competitive drill, press clubs base ball game, unique contest of old fiddlers, athletic exhibitions, games, amusements, scientific sparring, open air concert by the famous "Spasm" band of New Orleans, and many other attractions.

This undertaking is for a noble cause. Every Alabamain who prizes that which is worthiest and proudest in the life of a people is urged to send fifty cents for a ticket, no matter whether he can attend the entertainment. The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of a silver service for the Alabama.

Water and Gas Works for Irondale.

Articles of incorporation were filed Saturday in the probate office by the Irondale Water, Light and Power company. The capital stock of the corporation is $100,000, and its purpose is to maintain water and gas works and an electrict light and power plant in the town of Irondale. The incorporators are F. W. Turpin, N. H. Sewall and R. R. Zell.

RUSSIAN MINISTER KILLED

Dragged Through Streets of Pekin and Finally Boiled to Death.

RUSSIANS MADE DESPERATE RESISTANCE

Minister Wu Receives an Unfavorable Cablegram—Situation Daily Growing Worse—All Foreigners Reported Killed.

A dispatch to the Chicago Record from St. Petersburg says:

"The Czar has received with great emotion the dreadful details of the catastrophe at Pekin. Tears coursed down His Majesty's cheeks as he read the cablegram from Admiral Alexeff at Port Arthur, confirming the horrible details of the assassination of M. DeGiers, which, merely in form of rumors, had already reached Russia.

"The admiral declares that the Russian envoy was dragged through the streets by the boxers, insulted, beaten and tortured, and then thrown into a great kettle and boiled to death. Then the remains were thrown to the dogs. While M. DeGiers was being disposed of the fanatic mob danced around the cauldron.

"Mme. DeGiers, Admiral Alexeff's advices declare, suffered a fate worse than death, and was beaten and tortured with sharp sticks until life was extinct.

"The legation officials are said to have been tortured fiendishly until death ended their sufferings. M. DeGiers and his legation resisted desperately, and his brave body guard killed many of the attacking mob. In the midst of his tortures the envoy is said to have heroically proclaimed his faith in Christianity, encouraged by the wife who so soon shared his martyrdom.

"The announcement of this intelligence to the relatives of the Russian martyrs in China was accompanied by heart-rending seenes. Count Lamsdorf received the friends of the murdered ones at the foreign office and unfolded to them the tragic story. The scenes of frenzied terror and grief that followed were unspeakable. The building of the foreign office was besieged by an excited throng, and the whole of St. Petersburg is full of lamentation."

Chinese News Grows Worse.

Such news as came to Washington Sunday from China was distinctly bad. It consisted of a cablegram to Minister Wu from Sheng, the imperial director of posts and telegraphs at Shanghai, according to the minister, and was in reply to the urgent message he himself had sent him asking him to secure some news from the Chinese capital. This cablegram Minister Wu regarded as of sufficient importance to carry in person directly to Secretary Hay, who was waiting at his home for news. The message as translated from the cipher, was as follows:

"Pekin news of July 7 says that General Tuan Fuah Sang, in disobedience to imperial orders, was about to use guns. Legations and foreigners made defense. A final attack was about to begin on the 7th of July."

It is surmised that Mr. Goodnow's news is from Sheng, who is certainly in a position to secure the first news from Pekin Aside from the gloomy forecast given of the end of the terrible struggle of the legations against the inevitable, the significant feature of the message is the coupling of the fate of the imperial government with that of the foreign ministers.

All Foreigners Killed.

A Shanghai dispatch says: An official telegram was received from the governor of Shan Tau saying that a breach was made in the wall of the British legation at Pekin after a gallant defense and when all the ammunition had given out. All foreigners were killed.

Seven Deaths on the Voyage.

The transport Hancock arrived at San Francisco twenty-four days from Manila, via Nagasaki. She brought 101 general passengers and 547 soldiers. Five deaths and two suicides occurred on the voyage.

Bryan to Be Notified.

The date, August 3, on which Mr. Bryan is to receive official notification of his nomination by the democrats is satisfactory to him. It is doubtful if he will leave Lincoln much before that time, though he does not himself know just what his program will be. He does not, however, expect to make any speeches in advance of his notification.

THE INDIANS ARE SUFFERING

Because of the Drought in State of Arizona.

The prolonged drought, probably unprecedented in the history of Arizona, has greatly augmented the sufferings of the famine-stricken Pimia Indians on the Sacotan reservations. Members of the tribe have told Superintendent Cowan of the Indian Agency, that their cattle are dying rapidly from starvation and thirst.

Most of the Indians now depend for food upon the few who still have provisions and the supply cannot last long. They are emaciated and suffering, and unless the $[illegible] Congressional appropriation can be used at once private subscriptions or similar relief measures must be taken.

SUFFERING FROM POISON.

As Well as Hunted by Railroad Detectives.

John Nelson, the suspected train robber, who gave battle to ten detectives in front of his home at St. Louis and escaped after wounding George Murray, chief of detectives of the Illinois Central, is suffering from poison as well as being hunted by detectives. He was bitten by a moccasin just after he had embarked with his companions in a small boat after the Wickliffe train robbery. It is now believed he was approaching delirium when he made his fight Friday. By watching for a man with a snake bite the detectives hope to succeed in locating Nelson.

CHINESE REFORM PARTY.

Great Membership in This Country. Large Fund Raised.

Lung Kough, a Chinese, from San Francisco, has been in Phoenix, Arizona, for several days in the interest of the Po Wong Woey, or Chine e reform party. He asserts there are 140,000 members scattered throughout the country, and that $20,000,000 has been subscribed and sent to China to aid in the expulsion of the powers and effect a settlement of international disturbances.

Texas Deluged by Rain.

A special from Dallas says: Northern Texas has been deluged by rain for more than twelve hours, and the indications are that the storm has only begun.

The downpour at Dallas was terrific most of the day. The streets were like creeks, and many basements were flooded. The Trinity river is rising and bulletins from Fort Worth and other points indicate that large volumes of water are coming down from the upper parts of the river. Wire reports show that the rain has been general and is likely to continue through the night. Railroad operations are delayed because of washouts and slow running necessitated from water-soaked road-beds.

Counterfeits in Montgomery.

A very dangerous counterfeit of $1 bills have made their appearance in Montgomery, Ala., and the secret service men are on the lookout for the criminal who executes the counterfeit. The notes or bills are of the new dollar silver certificates, and the "one" is taken out and the figure "5" is substituted, so that the bill reads "five" silver dollars instead of "one" silver dollar. Besides this change there is nothing in the bill to show that it has been raised, and the work is adriotly done.

It is said that these bills were first discovered in Nashville, and at about the same time in Huntsville, Birmingham and Anniston.

Their Hair Turned White.

Dispatches from Tien Tsin report that a number of ladies there have become white-haired through the horrors of the siege.

Shooting Starts Again at St. Louis.

Herman Baude, an employe of the Union Ice company in St. Louis, Mo., was shot and mortally wounded by William E. Herman, a motorman for the St. Louis Transit company, Saturday. Charles Young, a striking street railway man, was also shot by Hermann, but not seriously wounded. Hermann had entered the drug store to make some purchases when Wm Gray, a striker, stepped into the place and told the druggist not to sell to Hermann, as he was a "scab."

Boers for Texas.

The Southern Pacific road is trying to induce a colony of Boers to settle along its line in southwestern Texas. It is stated that agents of the Boers have been in Texas recently and made investigations of the general conditions of the country and that they were much pleased with land, climate and other conditions.

LATE STATE NEWS.

State Fair Promoters Get Liberal Offer and It Now Seems Certain.

A state fair seems absolutely certain. Secretary John W. O'Neill has received a proposition from Captain Falkner, representing the owners of the lease, which is liberal and which will be accepted by the committee in charge of the fair movement. The proposition is known to cover a period of six years and the remuneration is based upon the profits of the association. If there are no profits there will be no rent, and if there are profits the association is to pay half of them for rent.

As soon as the proposition is accepted and the grounds are leased for six years, then active steps will be taken toward getting things in shape for the fair this fall. A permanent association will be formed and the movement will go forward with a rush.

The new fair association will be formed strictly upon business lines, and no premiums will be offered unless there is money in the treasury to make the offer good. In a word, the new association will be conducted on the highest plane. The best business men of Birmingham will be at the head of it and the purpose will be to make the fair an annual feature.

Candidates in Marshall.

The army of candidates in Marshall county has been dubbed "Coxey's army," as they move across the country in a body from one appointment to another. For the nine offices to be filled there are now out eighty-three candidates, who have a joint canvass, going in one body. Heretofore the audience at no place of public speaking has equalled the number of candidates.

The farmers are busily at work, and report, since the rains, a better prospect for cotton than at this time last year.

Republicans Open Headquarters.

Chairman F. F. Conway, of the republican campaign committee, has opened headquarters in he Drennen building, opposite the postoffice, in Birmingham, and will begin an active canvass of the state at once.

The following executive and advisory committee has been appointed: Judge C. W. Buckley of Montgomery, J. H. Bingham of Birmingham, J. W. Davidson, Judge T. B. Martin and W. H. Harney.

Looking After a Colony.

Capt. P. Sid Jones, of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, is in Ocean Springs, Miss., looking after a new colony which he has started in that place. Captain Jones is doing considerable colonization work, and he expects to bring down from the bleak northwest a large number of people. He is also interested in establishing smaller industries along the lines, an excelsior factory being one of the latest factories intended.

FIFTEEN PEOPLE DROWNED.

Cloudburst at Coleman, Texas, Does Great Damage to Life and Property.

A clounburst occurred at Coleman, Tex., at an early hour Monday and meagre reports indicate that a dozen lives were lost in the flood. There have been tremendous rains throughout the vicinity of Coleman for two days past and all of the streams are overflowed. The tracks of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad are under water and a large property loss has resulted from the storms.

A late report from Coleman says it is known that fifteen people were drowned, among them being John Fuleisstine and Joe Spath. Both were engaged in rescuing four little girls, each having two on their horses when all were washed away. Ten bodies have been recovered and search is being made for others. Spath was one of the leading citizens of this place. It is believed that several lives have been lost along the course of the creek in the valley below Coleman.

Consecration of Dr. Barnwell.

Consecration of Rev. R. W. Barnwell, bishop-elect of Alabama, will take place at Selma, July 25th. Bishop Thompson, of Mississippi, will be the consecrator, assisted by Bishops Nelson, of Georgia, and Weed, of Florida.

Switzerland has long been thought inclined to ideas of State Socialism, but it evidently has no use for a universal pension system under the guise of insurance.

THE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Summary of Current Events From all Sections of Alabama.

HON. WALTER H. MATTHEWS IS DEAD

Democratic Committee Fills the Vacancy—Suicide at Florence—New Iron Company Incorporated. A Merchant's Loss.

Young Hanlin Drowned.

While bathing in the surf at the Isle of Palms, near Charleston, S. C., Arthur Hanlin, son of Major William C. Hanlin, the well known deputy collector living in Birmingham, was drowned.

Incorporated in Delaware.

The Alabama Iron and Steel Company has been incorporated at Wilmington, Del., with $100,000 capital stock. The incorporators are N. Y. Haughey, E. T. Canby and G. W. Kimball. It is not stated where the place of business will be.

Brewer Indorsed.

The democratic convention of Lowndes county to elect delegates to the congressional convention assembled at Hayneville. Resolutions to indorse the Kansas City platform and Hon. Willis Brewer's course in congress were passed. The delegates were instructed for Colonel Brewer.

Followed His Father's Example.

Andrew Thrasher, aged 41 years, committed suicide at Florence by shooting himself through the mouth with a 38-caliber pistol. Thrasher's father committed suicide two years ago by hanging himself in a barn. Andrew Thrasher had been in bad health some time, which is said to be responsible for his act.

Will Start Up in a Few Days.

The immense plant of the Alabama Bridge company, which was located at Decatur by the purchase of the United States rolling stock site about six months ago, and upon which a large force of mechanics has been at work ever since, is now running under test, and the whistle for starting up general work will blow in a few days.

Sustained Heavy Loss.

L. G. Jones, a leading groceryman of Talladega, sustained a loss of $2,000 last week in a singular manner. About 9 o'clock a heavy crash, like that of falling walls, was heard in his store room, and investigation disclosed the fact that the shelving on one side of the room had fallen down the entire length of the building, smashing show cases, crockery, glassware and wrecking everything on one side of the building.

Walter H. Matthews Dead.

Hon. Walter H. Matthews, state senator and democratic nominee for state auditor, died at his home at Guinn, Marion county, last Thursday afternoon. His death creates a vacancy on the state ticket, which will be filled by the state democratic executive committee.

Judge Matthews was one of the most prominent democrats in North Alabama. For twelve years he was probate judge of Marion county, an office held for twenty years by his father before him, and held also by his grandfather. He was subsequently elected tax collector, and then elected to the state senate and nominated for auditor.

Whitley's Queer Actions.

A story comes from Louisville that Norton D. Whitley, assistant auditor of Jefferson county, has been apprehended in that city suffering with mental aberration. Mr. Whitley has been missing for several days and before his disappearance it was noticed that he was acting queerly. He appeared in Louisville on July 7 and was alone. Two days later he was wading in a creek near that city, evidently searching for something, and he was heard to say repeatedly: "I can't find her." Investigation developed the fact that the young man was laboring under a halucination that a carriage containing his wife had turned over in the creek and that she had been drowned.

Independent Candidates.

In the probate court at Mobile petitions required by law were filed to have the names of William T. Hieronymus and William H. Holcombe placed on the ticket to be voted at the August election, the former for tax collector, and the latter for sheriff. Both ran before the democratic primaries for the same offices and were defeated.

Surveying a Railroad.

Two surveying corps are in the field establishing a line for a branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. The road will intersect the main line at Phelan two miles south of Cullman and will be extended through Walker county to the Ensley Southern Railway, near the Warrior river.

Arbacoochee Gold Fields.

The Arbacoochee gold fields in Cleburne county, eighteen miles from Anniston, are being worked this year more extensively and more successfully than ever before. Several Anistonians have bought mining property there which they are working profitably and the indications are that a regular mining boom is about to be inaugurated.

Mineral Expert in Limestone.

The government has a mineral expert, Mr. Lucas, in Limestone county visiting the iron and pyrites outcroppings in the county; also looking into the phosphate beds. He is much pleased with what he has seen, but has not made any official statement as to their values. Just across the line in the edge of Tennessee a man has located a valuable silver vein, and has samples of the ore here on exhibition. It is said by those familiar with the mineral to be very rich in silver and easily worked.

Contracts Have Been Signed.

Contracts have been signed between the operators and miners at the Galloway mines, Walker county, and the Brilliant mines in Marion county. Both of these mines will hereafter recognize the United Mine Workers of America. At the Brilliant the miners are to receive during eight months of the year an advance of 2½ cents per ton for mining over the price that will prevail during the four summer months, the summer basis being 55 cents per ton. The Galloway miners will receive the same pay as prevailed last year, which is 45 cents per ton as a basis.

George Hayes Suicides.

News reached Florence of another suicide in the northern end of the county, the rash victim being George Hiram Hayes, a young married man about 25 or 30 years of age. He was a son-in-law of Son Hyde, a prominent merchant and planter of the north end of the county. He went to the barn, tied a rope about his neck and climbed into the rafters preparatory to jumping off. His foot slipped, however, and he fell without breaking his neck, choking to death. He was dead when found. No reason is known here for the deed.

Sowell Nominated for Auditor.

The state democratic executive committee held a meeting in Birmingham Saturday and selected Hon. Thomas L. Sowell, of Walker county, to fill the vacancy on the state democratic ticket caused by the death of Judge W. H. Matthews, nominated for state auditor. Mr. Sowell won on the second ballot.

Mr. Sowell, the new nominee for state auditor, is about 45 years of age, and has been a figure in state politics for a number of years. He is at present state senator from the district composed of Walker, Fayette and Lamar counties, being one of the hold-over senators.

Silver Service for the Alabama.

The Mobile Press club are determined that the battleship Alabama shall be presented with a worthy testimonial from the people of Alabama. Under the auspices of the Press club there will be a grand entertainment at Monroe park, Mobile, July 30th. There will be a great military competitive drill, press clubs base ball game, unique contest of old fiddlers, athletic exhibitions, games, amusements, scientific sparring, open air concert by the famous "Spasm" band of New Orleans, and many other attractions.

This undertaking is for a noble cause. Every Alabamain who prizes that which is worthiest and proudest in the life of a people is urged to send fifty cents for a ticket, no matter whether he can attend the entertainment. The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of a silver service for the Alabama.

Water and Gas Works for Irondale.

Articles of incorporation were filed Saturday in the probate office by the Irondale Water, Light and Power company. The capital stock of the corporation is $100,000, and its purpose is to maintain water and gas works and an electrict light and power plant in the town of Irondale. The incorporators are F. W. Turpin, N. H. Sewall and R. R. Zell.

RUSSIAN MINISTER KILLED

Dragged Through Streets of Pekin and Finally Boiled to Death.

RUSSIANS MADE DESPERATE RESISTANCE

Minister Wu Receives an Unfavorable Cablegram—Situation Daily Growing Worse—All Foreigners Reported Killed.

A dispatch to the Chicago Record from St. Petersburg says:

"The Czar has received with great emotion the dreadful details of the catastrophe at Pekin. Tears coursed down His Majesty's cheeks as he read the cablegram from Admiral Alexeff at Port Arthur, confirming the horrible details of the assassination of M. DeGiers, which, merely in form of rumors, had already reached Russia.

"The admiral declares that the Russian envoy was dragged through the streets by the boxers, insulted, beaten and tortured, and then thrown into a great kettle and boiled to death. Then the remains were thrown to the dogs. While M. DeGiers was being disposed of the fanatic mob danced around the cauldron.

"Mme. DeGiers, Admiral Alexeff's advices declare, suffered a fate worse than death, and was beaten and tortured with sharp sticks until life was extinct.

"The legation officials are said to have been tortured fiendishly until death ended their sufferings. M. DeGiers and his legation resisted desperately, and his brave body guard killed many of the attacking mob. In the midst of his tortures the envoy is said to have heroically proclaimed his faith in Christianity, encouraged by the wife who so soon shared his martyrdom.

"The announcement of this intelligence to the relatives of the Russian martyrs in China was accompanied by heart-rending scenes. Count Lamsdorf received the friends of the murdered ones at the foreign office and unfolded to them the tragic story. The scenes of frenzied terror and grief that followed were unspeakable. The building of the foreign office was besieged by an excited throng, and the whole of St. Petersburg is full of lamentation."

APPEAL TO AMERICANS.

Government Urged to Send Adequate Forces to Act Effectively in China.

Following is an appeal of Americans in China, assembled in mass meeting in Shanghai, to their fellow citizens at home:

"Urge the government to send adequate forces to act effectively in concert with the other powers. At present the American forces are quite disproportionate to the interests involved. Our commercial interests in the northern provinces are paramount, and we consider it a humiliating policy to entrust to other powers the task, that of protecting Americans.

"Anti-foreign outrages are multiplying daily. Officials and missionaries are massacred. The fate of the ministers and their families at Pekin is not known, but a general massacre is apprehended. Wholesale massacres of native Christians continue. The whole country is terrorized. Trade is paralyzed.

"The speedy restoration of order and retribution are duties pressing upon all civilized powers. The consequences of delay will be disastrous. Not only are foreign lives and property placed in jeopardy, but the loss of influence will be incalculable.

"Give no credence to statements of the situation sent out by the Chinese government to its ministers abroad. The present outrages are the result of the weak and vacillating policy of the powers in the past. We urge immediate energetic and concerted action."

WANT TO FIGHT.

War Department Flooded With Applications for Enlistment.

Applications continue to come to the war department from persons who are anxious to serve in the army during a campaign in China. Saturday's mail brought a letter from Secretary Curley, of the National Rough Rider Military Encampment, dated at Shenandoah, Col., offering to raise a regiment of 1,000 men. Adjutant-General Corbin in reply has informed the writer that the executive has no authority to accept more organization than are now in the service; still, the men desiring China service may be enlisted individually by the army recruiting officers in the principal cities. The men can select their regiments.

SHOEMAKER USES A RAZOR.

After Killing His Wife and His Babe Eisen Takes His Own Life.

Poverty, coupled with ill health and a weak-minded wife for a helpmate, were probably the causes which impelled Louis Eisen, a shoemaker of Baltimore to kill his wife and a thirteen-months-old babe and himself, and to wound almost unto death his three-and-a-half-year-old son. He used a razor. A minute search of the apartments failed to discover a crust of bread or a scrap of meat. A little salt and a small quantity of milk were the only edibles in the place.

TRAIN THROWN FROM TRACK.

Fifteen Cars Roll Down a Fifteen-Foot Embankment.

There was a freight wreck on the Queen and Crescent at Glendale, Ky., Sunday, six miles from Lexington. A cow ran in front of the engine of a double-header. It derailed the engines and fifteen freight cars rolled down a fifteen-foot embankment and were almost totally destroyed. Both engines were injured. One turned over. The injured are: Clifton Stout, 13-year-old boy, seriously; Engineer, J. S. Marde, Fireman Joe Lanagan, Pat Mannon and Ed Norman, slightly bruised.

AMERICAN BLOOD SHED

Col. Liscum and Several Other Officers Killed at Tien Tsin.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS PROBABLE

To Deal With the Chinese Situation. United States Must Furnish Ten or Twelve Thousand Men for the March to Pekin.

The navy department Monday morning received official confirmation from Admiral Remy of the reverses of the allied forces at Tien Tsin on the morning of the 18th. The dispatch is dated Chee Foo, July 16, and says:

"Reported that allied forces attacked native city morning 13th, Russians on right with Ninth infantry and marines on the left. Losses allied forces large; Russians 100, including artillery colonel; Americans over thirty; British over forty; Japan fifty-eight, including Colonel French of the Twenty-fifth and Colonel Liscum, Ninth infantry, killed; also Captain Davis, marine corps. Captain Lemley, Lieutenants Butler and Leonard wounded.

"At 7 o'clock in the evening allied attack on native city was repulsed with great loss. Returns yet incomplete. Details not yet confirmed.

"REMEY."

Extra Session of Congress Probable.

A Washington dispatch says: That President McKinley will be forced by the situation in China to call an extra session of congress seems quite certain. He would much prefer not to do so, but developments in China are such that more troops than are available will be required for service there. The massacre of the envoys of the civilized nations shows either weakness of the Chinese government or its connivance in the outrage. The repulse of the allied force in Tien Tsin shows need of a far greater body of troops than was anticipated.

Cuba and the Philippines will need practically all the troops now there as a matter of precaution, and troops withdrawn from the Philippines must be replaced from this country. There are no troops here to be sent there.

Volunteers must be organized if the present policy in the Philippines is to be continued. The president is on his way to Washington.

By the end of this week a proclamation calling congress together is to be expected.

Sixty thousand men for the march to Pekin and twenty thousand more to keep open the lines of communication and if necessary to defend the bases of operation at Tien Tsin and Taku is the estimate of the number of troops that will be required in the Chinese campaign. Upon the basis of these figures, which it is said are those furnished by the commanders of the allied forces in China, this government will furnish between ten and twelve thousand soldiers.

Technically at Peace With China.

The decision of the administration at the end of an eventful day was that the United States government is still not at war with the government of China. The big happenings at Tien Tsin, coming on top of the stories of the last struggles at Pekin, have not affected the attitude of the administration on this point; the United States and China are technically at peace. But this statement should not be accepted as indicating a purpose on the part of the United States government to withhold its hand from the administration of swift and adequate punishment upon the Chinese without regard to station, who may be responsible for the outrages of the past few weeks. It means simply that the government of the United States feels that it can best accomplish their purpose by regarding the status officially as one of peace.

Col. Lanier Dead.

Col. John S. Lanier, former chairman of the democratic state central committee and agent commissioner of the state land office of Louisiana, died suddenly in Baton Rouge Monday.

Negro Highwayman Shot.

Will Johnson, a negro, was shot and mortally wounded by Lon Griel and Graham Willis, two well-known young white men of Bessemer. The negro who was shot, in company with Wes Daniels, had just robbed an aged negro a few minutes prior to the shooting.

Morgan Mathis, one of Rome's best known citizens, died, after a long illness. He was at one time sheriff of Floyd county.

MESSAGE TO MINISTER CONGER.

Secretary Hay and Minister Wu Attempting to Communicate With Pekin.

The Chinese Minister, at Washington, Mr. Wu, has undertaken to get through a cipher message from Secretary Hay to United Minister Conger at Pekin and to deliver back the reply of Minister Conger, if he be alive. Minister Wu forwarded the cipher dispatch, together with an extended explanatory message of his own, on Wednesday, and the results are now being eagerly awaited by both Secretary Hay and the Chinese Minister, although it is appreciated that some days must elapse before runners can carry out this plan of opening up communication between the American government at Washington and the American Minister at Pekin.

LOST HALF THEIR OFFICERS.

Lincolnshire Regiment Suffered Greatly at Nitrals Nek.

Lord Roberts has sent nothing further to the war department in London concerning the Nitrals Nek affair. A Pretoria dispatch, however, shows that the Lincolnshires lost half of their officers, including Major Roberts, who was wounded and taken prisoner. Stragglers continue to arrive at the camp, but few further details can be gathered. The British fought stubbornly until nightfall, when the cavalry turned their horses loose. The Boer report of the engagement places the British casualties at over 200.

A GHASTLY FIND.

Body of Murdered Man in Bushes Near Chattanooga.

A farmer made a ghastly find a few days ago on the Chattanooga dirt road, six miles south of Cleveland, Tenn. It was the remains of a white man, sixty years of age, hid in a clump of bushes near the road. A piece of an old quilt was tied over his head and a rope around his neck. There was a large hole in the side of the head and bruises on the face and body. The body was decomposed, and presented a horrible appearance and a sickening scene. There was no papers or other means by which he could be identified.

Train Robbers Captured.

Three of the robbers who held up Illinois Central train No. 4 at Mayfield creek, Kentucky, about ten miles south of Cairo, on the 11th inst., have been arrested and imprisoned by special agents in the employ of the company. The first one arrested was Michael Connelly, alias Doyle, who claims to be a resident of Portland, Oregon. He was caught at Charleston, Mo. The second man, Mike Conlan, was arrested near Wickliffe, Ky.

Another suspect was arrested at Cairo.

More Americans Killed.

During last week's scouting in the Philippines three Americans were killed and two wounded and thirty-five rebels were killed. Fifty rebels were captured and twenty-five rifles and fourteen tons of powder and ammunition taken. It will become necessary under the new code of proceedure which the commission expects to adopt to secure for the higher courts in Manila American judges speaking Spanish.

Railroad Must Pay.

Comptroller General Wright has issued a peremptory order against the Plant System demanding the payment of taxes on $750,000 worth of property in Georgia, which the state claims the company did not include in its recent property returns.

Senator Gear Dead.

United States Senator John Henry Gear, of Burlington, Iowa, died Saturday of heart failure in his apartments at the Portland, in Washington. While Senator Gear had been in bad health for a year or more, death came unexpectedly. He was in excellent spirits Friday night, and made engagements with some political friends for the following day.

Nebraska Prohibitionists.

The prohibition state convention of Nebraska nominated a full ticket, headed by L. O. Jones, of Lincoln, for governor.

West Virginia Republicans.

The republican state convention of West Virginia nominated the following ticket: Governor, A. B. White; auditor, Arnold S. Scherr; treasurer, Peter Silman; attorney general, Romero H. Freer; superintendent of schools, Thomas C. Miller; supreme judges, Henry Brannon and George Poffenbarger; electors at large, Benson B. McMakin and J. B. Lewis.

DAINTINESS IN NECKWEAR.

Collars, Scarfs and Boas That Are Favorites.

There never were so many pretty oddities and bewitching novelties in neckwear as this summer; so much so that there is a bewilderment, if not an embarrassment, of riches. One cannot go far astray to "the fashion" when practically everything is fashionable.

There is one mode, however, of dressing the neck that is distinctly out of date, and that is the high starched collar. For this mercy many women are truly thankful, as the fashion never was pretty, comfortable or becoming, yet those who disliked it were obliged to submit to its tyranny or to be out of the world. This season fulness reigns. Lace and chiffon are the approved materials, and are put together so exquisitely that they are a joy to behold, in addition to permitting at least as much comfort as the weather allows.

One charming example is composed of tucked tulle, mounted on a frame of extremely fine white silk wire. This is edged by a tiny ruching of white ribbon, and a large rosette of tulle with ribbon centre covers the fastening at the back. In front is a similar rosette, from which fall two long ends of the tucked tulle nearly a foot wide. Several rows of ribbon ruching are applied on each end. One advantage of this neck scarf is that the collar portion can be renewed whenever necessary as long as the ties remain fresh.

A fichu of cream mousseline de soie, trimmed with a number of rows of Chantilly or other lace, is an effective adjunct to the summer toilet. It is draped over the shoulders and caught in front under a large bow of white ribbon. The ends should fall nearly to the knee. A jabot of Irish lace has the transparent collar, with full ends of the lace appliqued on wash blond. A knot of the blond conceals the place where the ends are attached.

In simpler ties the butterfly bow of tulle or mousseline, edged with narrow lace of velvet ribbon, is popular. The bat wing bow of silk, too, is liked. Crepe de chine and chiffon scarfs, with fringed ends, are worn as "twice around" ties. They may be used without a separate stock by having a wire collar of firm white net, unlined. This supports the tie and prevents it from wrinkling.

Handsome fastenings are used for these long scarfs in many cases, and really good lace pins of the old-fashioned kind have emerged triumphantly from their long and ignominious seclusion in the jewel box. The favorite jeweled ring is hinged, and clasps the scarf easily and gracefully without crushing.

For evening or day there is a new boa that seems like the crest of a wave caught and made permanent. White silk muslin is accordion pleated—yards of it—and the middle third is then gathered in innumerable fine tucks in a space somewhat longer than enough to encircle the throat easily. A yard on each end is left ungathered, and the remaining length is gathered in two or three groupings to the edge. The ends are caught by a jeweled fastening, or tied by a large bow of white satin ribbon. Completed, it should be at least two and three-quarters yards in length.

The Trained Nurse.

The professional nurse is a great comfort—a modern improvement, without which the invalid and the sick wonder how the ancients would have lived. She is generally good-looking, and always attractive; when she wears her uniform—which is the greater part of the time—she is irresistible, and she is aware of it. She will confide to you that she dislikes to wear the insignia of her profession, and you are at liberty to believe it. She is immaculately clean—"antiseptically clean," to use her own expression.

If she dines with the family she will hold herself dignified and silent, with shoulders well thrown back, for the first night or two; since she wishes it understood that she considers it no condescension; after that she will speak as an oracle on all subjects—art, literature or medicine—and whether you agree with her or not, you will say that you do. She claims that she is nervous when the young doctor is present, but if you observe carefully it is seen that the doctor is embarrassed by her lofty demeanor. The household soon accommodates itself to her habits; the servant-girl runs with a smile when she desires a favor; your eldest son is at her elbow, and your second son is not far removed. And the day she leaves, and the gleam of her blue uniform is caught no more on the stairs, and her laugh is heard no more in the halls, the house is glum and dark as if the sunlight had forsaken it quite, and you catch yourself wishing that she might return. —J. K. Friedman, in Harper's Bazar.

The Pretty Foliage Toques.

Ivy berries and variegated ivy leaves are the materials of one of the pretty foliage toques now so much in vogue. Mignonette, which seems always half foliage, half flower, is in great demand for these toques. Cherry blossoms, almond blossoms, grapes with their wide leaves and curly tendrils, pink and white may, bramble blossom and fruit, both red and white, are all used in millinery. It used to be a canon of aesthetic dress that no flower should be worn that is not in season, but that is all over now. Roses and poppies combine with lily of the valley in ornamenting the headgear of the smart, and heliotrope is mixed up with lilac, though nature never lets them see each other except through the glass of a hothouse in this part of the world. It would appear that the correct, up-to-date reply to cavillers on this subject is that the flower out of season here is in full bloom in South Africa.

Narrow Velvet Clasped With Jewels.

Quaintly pretty cravats are being introduced. They are echoes of the period from which the new sleeves are drawn, when gentle fancies rather than blatant effects were studiously encouraged, and girls wore ringlets falling from a centre parting, and little waist belts of narrow velvet, demurely crossed in front and clasped with a cameo brooch above a full bodice and a full skirt. One of these new cravats is of narrow velvet ribbon and has threaded on it little gold or enamelled slides, completed at the ends with gold bosses edged with tassel fringe. Sometimes three bands of velvet, trimmed with slides, encircle the neck, and have no dependent ends, and often, as a repetition of the same pleasing idea, the full lace or mousseline sleeves are held in at the wrists with other little bands.

Germany's Feminine Novelties.

The woman is coming to the front no less triumphantly in German fiction than in that of England or of the United States, says the Westminster Gazette. The proprietors of the popular illustrated weekly, Ueber Land und Meer, offered three prizes for the best three "novelettes." The prize jury, which included such eminent literary experts as Dr. Fulda, Richard Voss and Baron von Ompteda, laboriously examined the merits of no fewer than 900 competitive stories. All the three first prizes have been unanimously allotted to ladies. There is no suspicion of gallantry in the verdict, for the jury were ignorant of the names of the authors until their sealed envelopes were opened after the judgment was given.

For Thin Arms.

To develop overslim arms, bathe every morning in soft, cold water, to which a little ammonia, alcohol or vinegar has been added. Dry with a crash towel, then rub with the hand until the arms tingle. After that should come a gentle massage with almond oil or cold cream, rubbing up from the wrist to the elbow, down from the shoulder to the elbow. Tight sleeves at night often are responsible for thin arms.

Big Chiffon Rosettes.

Chiffon rosettes gain in size, and are perched at the extreme front of the hat or toque. The large black picture hats have big choux of tulle, the edges sprinkled with paste or sequins, and the folds round the crown are usually fixed with glittering pins or buckles.

Crepon is still popular where mourning is concerned, no fabric giving such good service.

One-button kid gloves are worn with the new sleeve, which has the dainty undersleeve banded closely at the wrist.

The new collar band is quite straight around, having no rounded form at the sides, but it is trimmed as elaborately as you like.

Short sleeves have reintroduced bracelets, and the shops are full of pretty designs. Both the bangle and heavy clasped variety are seen.

Pink is one of the most popular colors of the season, and the varying tints in the different materials are more beautifully soft than ever before.

For mourning pretty blouse waists are made of black net run through with black chenille and worn with a long net sash finished with chenille fringe.

Tulle hats are the order of the day. Both high and low crowns are fashionable. The beauty of these hats depends upon their construction rather than upon any possible decoration.

Hand stitching is indeed one of the new features of finish on our gowns and in the expert labor it requires will outdo all others in the way of extravagance. While it cannot be so accurate as machine stitching, it has an air which stamps your gown as chic. Bands of cloth and silk are covered with hand stitching.

The newer frocks have most of them a crush belt of some kind. One of these gowns, having a broad pointed collar, so broad that the effect is almost like a yoke, has a belt of the material, a blue figured silk, crushed a little around the waist and above pointed to match the collar and fitted, having something the effect of a corselet.

A pretty waist arrangement which is popular this summer is a sash of black tulle carried snugly around the waist, fastened at the back with a pretty buckle, then falling in long ends to the edge of the skirt. The ends are finished with pleatings of the tulle. This sash completes a pretty light costume when there are touches of black, as, for instance, a pretty pink or blue lawn with black embroidered figures.

There are any number of little strap belts, three narrow straps, black leather, gray suede, black velvet, or any of a variety of materials, the straps held apart with clasps and brought together in front with small buckles. Some of these are over silk, but more of them are without the additional bulk. The clasps and ornamentations are in gold or silver or enamel. Single narrow bands of the leather to match are for the neck, to go on the outside of the collar.

APPEAL TO AMERICANS.

Government Urged to Send Adequate Forces to Act Effectively in China.

Following is an appeal of Americans in China, assembled in mass meeting in Shanghai, to their fellow citizens at home:

"Urge the government to send adequate forces to act effectively in concert with the other powers. At present the American forces are quite disproportionate to the interests involved. Our commercial interests in the northern provinces are paramount, and we consider it a humiliating policy to entrust to other powers the task, that of protecting Americans.

"Anti-foreign outrages are multiplying daily. Officials and missionaries are massacred. The fate of the ministers and their families at Pekin is not known, but a general massacre is apprehended. Wholesale massacres of native Christians continue. The whole country is terrorized. Trade is paralyzed.

"The speedy restoration of order and retribution are duties pressing upon all civilized powers. The consequences of delay will be disastrous. Not only are foreign lives and property placd in jeopardy, but the loss of influence will be incalculable.

"Give no credence to statements of the situation sent out by the Chinese government to its ministers abroad. The present outrages are the result of the weak and vacillating policy of the powers in the past. We urge immediate energetic and concerted action."

WANT TO FIGHT.

War Department Flooded With Applications for Enlistment.

Applications continue to come to the war department from persons who are anxious to serve in the army during a campaign in China. Saturday's mail brought a letter from Secretary Curley, of the National Rough Rider Military Encampment, dated at Shenandoah, Col., offering to raise a regiment of 1,000 men. Adjutant-General Corbin in reply has informed the writer that the executive has no authority to accept more organization than are now in the service; still, the men desiring China service may be enlisted individually by the army recruiting officers in the principal cities. The men can select their regiments.

SHOEMAKER USES A RAZOR.

After Killing His Wife and His Babe Eisen Takes His Own Life.

Poverty, coupled with ill health and a weak-minded wife for a helpmate, were probably the causes which impelled Louis Eisen, a shoemaker of Baltimore to kill his wife and a thirteen-months-old babe and himself, and to wound almost unto death his three-and-a-half-year-old son. He used a razor. A minute search of the apartments failed to discover a crust of bread or a scrap of meat. A little salt and a small quantity of milk were the only edibles in the place.

AMERICAN BLOOD SHED

Col. Liscum and Several Other Officers Killed at Tien Tsin.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS PROBABLE

To Deal With the Chinese Situation. United States Must Furnish Ten or Twelve Thousand Men for the March to Pekin.

The navy department Monday morning received official confirmation from Admiral Remy of the reverses of the allied forces at Tien Tsin on the morning of the 18th. The dispatch is dated Chee Foo, July 16, and says:

"Reported that allied forces attacked native city morning 13th, Russians on right with Ninth infantry and marines on the left. Losses allied forces large; Russians 100, including artillery colonel; Americans over thirty; British over forty; Japan fifty-eight, including Colonel French of the Twenty-fifth and Colonel Liscum, Ninth infantry, killed; also Captain Davis, marine corps. Captain Lemley, Lieutenants Butler and Leonard wounded.

"At 7 o'clock in the evening allied attack on native city was repulsed with great loss. Returns yet incomplete. Details not yet confirmed.

"REMEY."

Extra Session of Congress Probable.

A Washington dispatch says: That President McKinley will be forced by the situation in China to call an extra session of congress seems quite certain. He would much prefer not to do so, but developments in China are such that more troops than are available will be required for service there. The massacre of the envoys of the civilized nations shows either weakness of the Chinese government or its connivance in the outrage. The repulse of the allied force in Tien Tsin shows need of a far greater body of troops than was anticipated.

Cuba and the Philippines will need practically all the troops now there as a matter of precaution, and troops withdrawn from the Philippines must be replaced from this country. There are no troops here to be sent there.

Volunteers must be organized if the present policy in the Philippines is to be continued. The president is on his way to Washington.

By the end of this week a proclamation calling congress together is to be expected.

Sixty thousand men for the march to Pekin and twenty thousand more to keep open the lines of communication and if necessary to defend the bases of operation at Tien Tsin and Taku is the estimate of the number of troops that will be required in the Chinese campaign. Upon the basis of these figures, which it is said are those furnished by the commanders of the allied forces in China, this government will furnish between ten and twelve thousand soldiers.

Technically at Peace With China.

The decision of the administration at the end of an eventful day was that the United States government is still not at war with the government of China. The big happenings at Tien Tsin, coming on top of the stories of the last struggles at Pekin, have not affected the attitude of the administration on this point; the United States and China are technically at peace. But this statement should not be accepted as indicating a purpose on the part of the United States government to withhold its hand from the administration of swift and adequate punishment upon the Chinese without regard to station, who may be responsible for the outrages of the past few weeks. It means simply that the government of the United States feels that it can best accomplish their purpose by regarding the status officially as one of peace.

Col. John S. Lanier, former chairman of the democratic state central committee and agent commissioner of the state land office of Louisiana, died suddenly in Baton Rouge Monday.

Negro Highwayman Shot.

Will Johnson, a negro, was shot and mortally wounded by Lon Griel and Graham Willis, two well-known young white men of Bessemer. The negro who was shot, in company with Wes Daniels, had just robbed an aged negro a few minutes prior to the shooting.

Morgan Mathis, one of Rome's best known citizens, died, after a long illness. He was at one time sheriff of Floyd county.

MESSAGE TO MINISTER CONGER.

Secretary Hay and Minister Wu Attempting to Communicate With Pekin.

The Chinese Minister, at Washington, Mr. Wu, has undertaken to get through a cipher message from Secretary Hay to United Minister Conger at Pekin and to deliver back the reply of Minister Conger, if he be alive. Minister Wu forwarded the cipher dispatch, together with an extended explanatory message of his own, on Wednesday, and the results are now being eagerly awaited by both Secretary Hay and the Chinese Minister, although it is appreciated that some days must elapse before runners can carry out this plan of opening up communication between the American government at Washington and the American Minister at Pekin.

LOST HALF THEIR OFFICERS.

Lincolnshire Regiment Suffered Greatly at Nitrals Nek.

Lord Roberts has sent nothing further to the war department in London concerning the Nitrals Nek affair. A Pretoria dispatch, however, shows that the Lincolnshires lost half of their officers, including Major Roberts, who was wounded and taken prisoner. Stragglers continue to arrive at the camp, but few further details can be gathered. The British fought stubbornly until nightfall, when the cavalry turned their horses loose. The Boer report of the engagement places the British casualties at over 200.

A GHASTLY FIND.

Body of Murdered Man in Bushes Near Chattanooga.

A farmer made a ghastly find a few days ago on the Chattanooga dirt road, six miles south of Cleveland, Tenn. It was the remains of a white man, sixty years of age, hid in a clump of bushes near the road. A piece of an old quilt was tied over his head and a rope around his neck. There was a large hole in the side of the head and bruises on the face and body. The body was decomposed, and presented a horrible appearance and a sickening scene. There was no papers or other means by which he could be identified.

Train Robbers Captured.

Three of the robbers who held up Illinois Central train No. 4 at Mayfield creek, Kentucky, about ten miles south of Cairo, on the 11th inst., have been arrested and imprisoned by special agents in the employ of the company. The first one arrested was Michael Connelly, alias Doyle, who claims to be a resident of Portland, Oregon. He was caught at Charleston, Mo. The second man, Mike Conlan, was arrested near Wickliffe, Ky.

Another suspect was arrested at Cairo.

More Americans Killed.

During last week's scouting in the Philippines three Americans were killed and two wounded and thirty-five rebels were killed. Fifty rebels were captured and twenty-five rifles and fourteen tons of powder and ammunition taken. It will become necessary under the new code of procedure which the commission expects to adopt to secure for the higher courts in Manila American judges speaking Spanish.

Railroad Must Pay.

Comptroller General Wright has issued a peremptory order against the Plant System demanding the payment of taxes on $750,000 worth of property in Georgia, which the state claims the company did not include in its recent property returns.

Senator Gear Dead.

United States Senator John Henry Gear, of Burlington, Iowa, died Saturday of heart failure in his apartments at the Portland, in Washington. While Senator Gear had been in bad health for a year or more, death came unexpectedly. He was in excellent spirits Friday night, and made engagements with some political friends for the following day.

Nebraska Prohibitionists.

The prohibition state convention of Nebraska nominated a full ticket, headed by L. O. Jones, of Lincoln, for governor.

West Virginia Republicans.

The republican state convention of West Virginia nominated the following ticket: Governor, A. B. White; auditor, Arnold S. Scherr; treasurer, Peter Silman; attorney general, Romero H. Freer; superintendent of schools, Thomas C. Miller; supreme judges, Henry Brannon and George Poffenbarger; electors at large, Benson B. McMakin and J. B. Lewis.

DAINTINESS IN NECKWEAR.

Collars, Scarfs and Bows That Are Favorites.

There never were so many pretty oddities and bewitching novelties in neckwear as this summer; so much so that there is a bewilderment, if not an embarrassment, of riches. One cannot go far astray to "the fashion" when practically everything is fashionable.

There is one mode, however, of dressing the neck that is distinctly out of date, and that is the high starched collar. For this mercy many women are truly thankful, as the fashion never was pretty, comfortable or becoming, yet those who disliked it were obliged to submit to its tyranny or to be out of the world. This season fulness reigns. Lace and chiffon are the approved materials, and are put together so exquisitely that they are a joy to behold, in addition to permitting at least as much comfort as the weather allows.

One charming example is composed of tucked tulle, mounted on a frame of extremely fine white silk wire. This is edged by a tiny ruching of white ribbon, and a large rosette of tulle with ribbon centre covers the fastening at the back. In front is a similar rosette, from which fall two long ends of the tucked tulle nearly a foot wide. Several rows of ribbon ruching are applied on each end. One advantage of this neck scarf is that the collar portion can be renewed whenever necessary as long as the ties remain fresh.

A fichu of cream mousseline de soie, trimmed with a number of rows of Chantilly or other lace, is an effective adjunct to the summer toilet. It is draped over the shoulders and caught in front under a large bow of white ribbon. The ends should fall nearly to the knee. A jabot of Irish lace has the transparent collar, with full ends of the lace appliqued on wash blond. A knot of the blond conceals the place where the ends are attached.

In simpler ties the butterfly bow of tulle or mousseline, edged with narrow lace of velvet ribbon, is popular. The bat wing bow of silk, too, is liked. Crepe de chine and chiffon scarfs, with fringed ends, are worn as "twice around" ties. They may be used without a separate stock by having a wire collar of firm white net, unlined. This supports the tie and prevents it from wrinkling.

Handsome fastenings are used for these long scarfs in many cases, and really good lace pins of the old-fashioned kind have emerged triumphantly from their long and ignominious seclusion in the jewel box. The favorite jeweled ring is hinged, and clasps the scarf easily and gracefully without crushing.

For evening or day there is a new boa that seems like the crest of a wave caught and made permanent. White silk muslin is accordion pleated—yards of it—and the middle third is then gathered in innumerable fine tucks in a space somewhat longer than enough to encircle the throat easily. A yard on each end is left ungathered, and the remaining length is gathered in two or three groupings to the edge. The ends are caught by a jeweled fastening, or tied by a large bow of white satin ribbon. Completed, it should be at least two and three-quarters yards in length.

The Trained Nurse.

The professional nurse is a great comfort—a modern improvement, without which the invalid and the sick wonder how the ancients would have lived. She is generally good-looking, and always attractive; when she wears her uniform—which is the greater part of the time—she is irresistible, and she is aware of it. She will confide to you that she dislikes to wear the insignia of her profession, and you are at liberty to believe it. She is immaculately clean—"antiseptically clean," to use her own expression.

If she dines with the family she will hold herself dignified and silent, with shoulders well thrown back, for the first night or two; since she wishes it understood that she considers it no condescension; after that she will speak as an oracle on all subjects—art, literature or medicine—and whether you agree with her or not, you will say that you do. She claims that she is nervous when the young doctor is present, but if you observe carefully it is seen that the doctor is embarrassed by her lofty demeanor. The household soon accommodates itself to her habits; the servant-girl runs with a smile when she desires a favor; your eldest son is at her elbow, and your second son is not far removed. And the day she leaves, and the gleam of her blue uniform is caught no more on the stairs, and her laugh is heard no more in the halls, the house is glum and dark as if the sunlight had forsaken it quite, and you catch yourself wishing that she might return.—J. K. Friedman, in Harper's Bazar.

The Pretty Foliage Toques.

Ivy berries and variegated ivy leaves are the materials of one of the pretty foliage toques now so much in vogue. Mignonette, which seems always half foliage, half flower, is in great demand for these toques. Cherry blossoms, almond blossoms, grapes with their wide leaves and curly tendrils, pink and white may, bramble blossom and fruit, both red and white, are all used in millinery. It used to be a canon of aesthetic dress that no flower should be worn that is not in season, but that is all over now. Roses and poppies combine with lily of the valley in ornamenting the headgear of the smart, and heliotrope is mixed up with lilac, though nature never lets them see each other except through the glass of a hothouse in this part of the world. It would appear that the correct, up-to-date reply to cavilers on this subject is that the flower out of season here is in full bloom in South Africa.

Narrow Velvet Clasped With Jewels.

Quaintly pretty cravats are being introduced. They are echoes of the period from which the new sleeves are drawn, when gentle fancies rather than blatant effects were studiously encouraged, and girls wore ringlets falling from a centre parting, and little waist belts of narrow velvet, demurely crossed in front and clasped with a cameo brooch above a full bodice and a full skirt. One of these new cravats is of narrow velvet ribbon and has threaded on it little gold or enamelled slides, completed at the ends with gold bosses edged with tassel fringe. Sometimes three bands of velvet, trimmed with slides, encircle the neck, and have no dependent ends, and often, as a repetition of the same pleasing idea, the full lace or mouseline sleeves are held in at the wrists with other little bands.

Germany's Feminine Novelties.

The woman is coming to the front no less triumphantly in German fiction than in that of England or of the United States, says the Westminster Gazette. The proprietors of the popular illustrated weekly, Ueber Land und Meer, offered three prizes for the best three "novelettes." The prize jury, which included such eminent literary experts as Dr. Fulda, Richard Voss and Baron von Ompteda, laboriously examined the merits of no fewer than 900 competitive stories. All the three first prizes have been unanimously allotted to ladies. There is no suspicion of gallantry in the verdict, for the jury were ignorant of the names of the authors until their sealed envelopes were opened after the judgment was given.

For Thin Arms.

To develop overslim arms, bathe every morning in soft, cold water, to which a little ammonia, alcohol or vinegar has been added. Dry with a crash towel, then rub with the hand until the arms tingle. After that should come a gentle massage with almond oil or cold cream, rubbing up from the wrist to the elbow, down from the shoulder to the elbow. Tight sleeves at night often are responsible for thin arms.

Big Chiffon Rosettes.

Chiffon rosettes gain in size, and are perched at the extreme front of the hat or toque. The large black picture hats have big choux of tulle, the edges sprinkled with paste or sequins, and the folds round the crown are usually fixed with glittering pins or buckles.

Crepon is still popular where mourning is concerned, no fabric giving such good service.

One-button kid gloves are worn with the new sleeve, which has the dainty undersleeve banded closely at the wrist.

The new collar band is quite straight around, having no rounded form at the sides, but it is trimmed as elaborately as you like.

Short sleeves have reintroduced bracelets, and the shops are full of pretty designs. Both the bangle and heavy clasped variety are seen.

Pink is one of the most popular colors of the season, and the varying tints in the different materials are more beautifully soft than ever before.

For mourning pretty blouse waists are made of black net run through with black chenille and worn with a long net sash finished with chenille fringe.

Tulle hats are the order of the day. Both high and low crowns are fashionable. The beauty of these hats depends upon their construction rather than upon any possible decoration.

Hand stitching is indeed one of the new features of finish on our gowns and in the expert labor it requires will outdo all others in the way of extravagance. While it cannot be so accurate as machine stitching, it has an air which stamps your gown as chic. Bands of cloth and silk are covered with hand stitching.

The newer frocks have most of them a crush belt of some kind. One of these gowns, having a broad pointed collar, so broad that the effect is almost like a yoke, has a belt of the material, a blue figured silk, crushed a little around the waist and above pointed to match the collar and fitted, having something the effect of a corselet.

A pretty waist arrangement which is popular this summer is a sash of black tulle carried snugly around the waist, fastened at the back with a pretty buckle, then falling in long ends to the edge of the skirt. The ends are finished with pleatings of the tulle. This sash completes a pretty light costume when there are touches of black, as, for instance, a pretty pink or blue lawn with black embroidered figures.

There are any number of little strap belts, three narrow straps, black leather, gray suede, black velvet, or any of a variety of materials, the straps held apart with clasps and brought together in front with small buckles. Some of these are over silk, but more of them are without the additional bulk. The clasps and ornamentations are in gold or silver or enamel. Single narrow bands of the leather to match are for the neck, to go on the outside of the collar.

LATE STATE NEWS.

State Fair Promoters Get Liberal Offer and It Now Seems Certain.

A state fair seems absolutely certain. Secretary John W. O'Neill has received a proposition from Captain Falkner, representing the owners of the lease, which is liberal and which will be accepted by the committee in charge of the fair movement. The proposition is known to cover a period of six years and the remuneration is based upon the profits of the association. If there are no profits there will be no rent, and if there are profits the association is to pay half of them for rent.

As soon as the proposition is accepted and the grounds are leased for six years, then active steps will be taken toward getting things in shape for the fair this fall. A permanent association will be formed and the movement will go forward with a rush.

The new fair association will be formed strictly upon business lines, and no premiums will be offered unless there is money in the treasury to make the offer good. In a word, the new association will be conducted on the highest plane. The best business men of Birmingham will be at the head of it and the purpose will be to make the fair an annual feature.

Candidates in Marshall.

The army of candidates in Marshall county has been dubbed "Coxey's army," as they move across the country in a body from one appointment to another. For the nine offices to be filled there are now out eighty-three candidates, who have a joint canvass, going in one body. Heretofore the audience at no place of public speaking has equalled the number of candidates.

The farmers are busily at work, and report, since the rains, a better prospect for cotton than at this time last year.

Republicans Open Headquarters.

Chairman F. F. Conway, of the republican campaign committee, has opened headquarters in he Drennen building, opposite the postoffice, in Birmingham, and will begin an active canvass of the state at once.

The following executive and advisory committee has been appointed: Judge C. W. Buckley of Montgomery, J. H. Bingham of Birmingham, J. W. Davidson, Judge T. B. Martin and W. H. Harney.

Looking After a Colony.

Capt. P. Sid Jones, of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, is in Ocean Springs, Miss., looking after a new colony which he has started in that place. Captain Jones is doing considerable colonization work, and he expects to bring down from the bleak northwest a large number of people. He is also interested in establishing smaller industries along the lines, an excelsior factory being one of the latest factories intended.

FIFTEEN PEOPLE DROWNED.

Cloudburst at Coleman, Texas, Does Great Damage to Life and Property.

A clounburst occurred at Coleman, Tex., at an early hour Monday and meagre reports indicate that a dozen lives were lost in the flood. There have been tremendous rains throughout the vicinity of Coleman for two days past and all of the streams are overflowed. The tracks of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad are under water and a large property loss has resulted from the storms.

A late report from Coleman says it is known that fifteen people were drowned, among them being John Fuleisstine and Joe Spath. Both were engaged in rescuing four little girls, each having two on their horses when all were washed away. Ten bodies have been recovered and search is being made for others. Spath was one of the leading citizens of this place. It is believed that several lives have been lost along the course of the creek in the valley below Coleman.

Consecration of Dr. Barnwell.

Consecration of Rev. R. W. Barnwell, bishop-elect of Alabama, will take place at Selma, July 25th. Bishop Thompson, of Mississippi, will be the consecrator, assisted by Bishops Nelson, of Georgia, and Weed, of Florida.

THE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Summary of Current Events From all Sections of Alabama.

HON. WALTER H. MATTHEWS IS DEAD

Democratic Committee Fills the Vacancy—Suicide at Florence—New Iron Company Incorporated. A Merchant's Loss.

Young Hanlin Drowned.

While bathing in the surf at the Isle of Palms, near Charleston, S. C., Arthur Hanlin, son of Major William C. Hanlin, the well known deputy collector living in Birmingham, was drowned.

Incorporated in Delaware.

The Alabama Iron and Steel Company has been incorporated at Wilmington, Del., with $100,000 capital stock. The incorporators are N. Y. Haughey, E. T. Canby and G. W. Kimball. It is not stated where the place of business will be.

Brewer Indorsed.

The democratic convention of Lowndes county to elect delegates to the congressional convention assembled at Hayneville. Resolutions to indorse the Kansas City platform and Hon. Willis Brewer's course in congress were passed. The delegates were instructed for Colonel Brewer.

Followed His Father's Example.

Andrew Thrasher, aged 41 years, committed suicide at Florence by shooting himself through the mouth with a 38-caliber pistol. Thrasher's father committed suicide two years ago by hanging himself in a barn. Andrew Thrasher had been in bad health some time, which is said to be responsible for his act.

Will Start Up in a Few Days.

The immense plant of the Alabama Bridge company, which was located at Decatur by the purchase of the United States rolling stock site about six months ago, and upon which a large force of mechanics has been at work ever since, is now running under test, and the whistle for starting up general work will blow in a few days.

Sustained Heavy Loss.

L. G. Jones, a leading groceryman of Talladega, sustained a loss of $2,000 last week in a singular manner. About 9 o'clock a heavy crash, like that of falling walls, was heard in his store room, and investigation disclosed the fact that the shelving on one side of the room had fallen down the entire length of the building, smashing show cases, crockery, glassware and wrecking everything on one side of the building.

Walter H. Matthews Dead.

Hon. Walter H. Matthews, state senator and democratic nominee for state auditor, died at his home at Guinn, Marion county, last Thursday afternoon. His death creates a vacancy on the state ticket, which will be filled by the state democratic executive committee.

Judge Matthews was one of the most prominent democrats in North Alabama. For twelve years he was probate judge of Marion county, an office held for twenty years by his father before him, and held also by his grandfather. He was subsequently elected tax collector, and then elected to the state senate and nominated for auditor.

Whitley's Queer Actions.

A story comes from Louisville that Norton D. Whitley, assistant auditor of Jefferson county, has been apprehended in that city suffering with mental aberration. Mr. Whitley has been missing for several days and before his disappearance it was noticed that he was acting queerly. He appeared in Louisville on July 7 and was alone. Two days later he was wading in a creek near that city, evidently searching for something, and he was heard to say repeatedly: "I can't find her." Investigation developed the fact that the young man was laboring under a halucination that a carriage containing his wife had turned over in the creek and that she had been drowned.

Independent Candidates.

In the probate court at Mobile petitions required by law were filed to have the names of William T. Hieronymus and William H. Holcombe placed on the ticket to be voted at the August election, the former for tax collector, and the latter for sheriff. Both ran before the democratic primaries for the same offices and were defeated.

Surveying a Railroad.

Two surveying corps are in the field establishing a line for a branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. The road will intersect the main line at Phelan two miles south of Cullman and will be extended through Walker county to the Ensley Southern Railway, near the Warrior river.

Arbacoochee Gold Fields.

The Arbacoochee gold fields in Cleburne county, eighteen miles from Anniston, are being worked this year more extensively and more successfully than ever before. Several Anistonians have bought mining property there which they are working profitably and the indications are that a regular mining boom is about to be inaugurated.

Mineral Expert in Limestone.

The government has a mineral expert, Mr. Lucas, in Limestone county visiting the iron and pyrites outcroppings in the county; also looking into the phosphate beds. He is much pleased with what he has seen, but has not made any official statement as to their values. Just across the line in the edge of Tennessee a man has located a valuable silver vein, and has samples of the ore here on exhibition. It is said by those familiar with the mineral to be very rich in silver and easily worked.

Contracts Have Been Signed.

Contracts have been signed between the operators and miners at the Galloway mines, Walker county, and the Brilliant mines in Marion county. Both of these mines will hereafter recognize the United Mine Workers of America. At the Brilliant the miners are to receive during eight months of the year an advance of 2½ cents per ton for mining over the price that will prevail during the four summer months, the summer basis being 55 cents per ton. The Galloway miners will receive the same pay as prevailed last year, which is 45 cents per ton as a basis.

George Hayes Suicides.

News reached Florence of another suicide in the northern end of the county, the rash victim being George Hiram Hayes, a young married man about 25 or 30 years of age. He was a son-in-law of Son Hyde, a prominent merchant and planter of the north end of the county. He went to the barn, tied a rope about his neck and climbed into the rafters preparatory to jumping off. His foot slipped, however, and he fell without breaking his neck, choking to death. He was dead when found. No reason is known here for the deed.

Sowell Nominated for Auditor.

The state democratic executive committee held a meeting in Birmingham Saturday and selected Hon. Thomas L. Sowell, of Walker county, to fill the vacancy on the state democratic ticket caused by the death of Judge W. H. Matthews, nominated for state auditor. Mr. Sowell won on the second ballot.

Mr. Sowell, the new nominee for state auditor, is about 45 years of age, and has been a figure in state politics for a number of years. He is at present state senator from the district composed of Walker, Fayette and Lamar counties, being one of the hold-over senators.

Silver Service for the Alabama.

The Mobile Press club are determined that the battleship Alabama shall be presented with a worthy testimonial from the people of Alabama. Under the auspices of the Press club there will be a grand entertainment at Monroe park, Mobile, July 30th. There will be a great military competitive drill, press clubs base ball game, unique contest of old fiddlers, athletic exhibitions, games, amusements, scientific sparring, open air concert by the famous "Spasm" band of New Orleans, and many other attractions.

This undertaking is for a noble cause. Every Alabamain who prizes that which is worthiest and proudest in the life of a people is urged to send fifty cents for a ticket, no matter whether he can attend the entertainment. The proceeds will be devoted to the purchase of a silver service for the Alabama.

Water and Gas Works for Irondale.

Articles of incorporation were filed Saturday in the probate office by the Irondale Water, Light and Power company. The capital stock of the corporation is $100,000, and its purpose is to maintain water and gas works and an electrict light and power plant in the town of Irondale. The incorporators are F. W. Turpin, N. H. Sewall and R. R. Zell.

RUSSIAN MINISTER KILLED

Dragged Through Streets of Pekin and Finally Boiled to Death.

RUSSIANS MADE DESPERATE RESISTANCE

Minister Wu Receives an Unfavorable Cablegram—Situation Daily Growing Worse—All Foreigners Reported Killed.

A dispatch to the Chicago Record from St. Petersburg says:

"The Czar has received with great emotion the dreadful details of the catastrophe at Pekin. Tears coursed down His Majesty's cheeks as he read the cablegram from Admiral Alexeff at Port Arthur, confirming the horrible details of the assassination of M. DeGiers, which, merely in form of rumors, had already reached Russia.

"The admiral declares that the Russian envoy was dragged through the streets by the boxers, insulted, beaten and tortured, and then thrown into a great kettle and boiled to death. Then the remains were thrown to the dogs. While M. DeGiers was being disposed of the fanatic mob danced around the cauldron.

"Mme. DeGiers, Admiral Alexeff's advices declare, suffered a fate worse than death, and was beaten and tortured with sharp sticks until life was extinct.

"The legation officials are said to have been tortured fiendishly until death ended their sufferings. M. DeGiers and his legation resisted desperately, and his brave body guard killed many of the attacking mob. In the midst of his tortures the envoy is said to have heroically proclaimed his faith in Christianity, encouraged by the wife who so soon shared his martyrdom.

"The announcement of this intelligence to the relatives of the Russian martyrs in China was accompanied by heart-rending scenes. Count Lamsdorf received the friends of the murdered ones at the foreign office and unfolded to them the tragic story. The scenes of frenzied terror and grief that followed were unspeakable. The building of the foreign office was besieged by an excited throng, and the whole of St. Petersburg is full of lamentation."

Chinese News Grows Worse.

Such news as came to Washington Sunday from China was distinctly bad. It consisted of a cablegram to Minister Wu from Sheng, the imperial director of posts and telegraphs at Shanghai, according to the minister, and was in reply to the urgent message he himself had sent him asking him to secure some news from the Chinese capital. This cablegram Minister Wu regarded as of sufficient importance to carry in person directly to Secretary Hay, who was waiting at his home for news. The message as translated from the cipher, was as follows:

"Pekin news of July 7 says that General Tuan Fuah Sang, in disobedience to imperial orders, was about to use guns. Legations and foreigners made defense. A final attack was about to begin on the 7th of July."

It is surmised that Mr. Goodnow's news is from Sheng, who is certainly in a position to secure the first news from Pekin Aside from the gloomy forecast given of the end of the terrible struggle of the legations against the inevitable, the significant feature of the message is the coupling of the fate of the imperial government with that of the foreign ministers.

All Foreigners Killed.

A Shanghai dispatch says: An official telegram was received from the governor of Shan Tau saying that a breach was made in the wall of the British legation at Pekin after a gallant defense and when all the ammunition had given out. All foreigners were killed.

Seven Deaths on the Voyage.

The transport Hancock arrived at San Francisco twenty-four days from Manila, via Nagasaki. She brought 101 general passengers and 547 soldiers. Five deaths and two suicides occurred on the voyage.

Bryan to Be Notified.

The date, August 3, on which Mr. Bryan is to receive official notification of his nomination by the democrats is satisfactory to him. It is doubtful if he will leave Lincoln much before that time, though he does not himself know just what his program will be. He does not, however, expect to make any speeches in advance of his notification.

THE INDIANS ARE SUFFERING

Because of the Drought in State of Arizona.

The prolonged drought, probably unprecedented in the history of Arizona, has greatly augmented the sufferings of the famine-stricken Pimia Indians on the Sacotan reservations. Members of the tribe have told Superintendent Cowan of the Indian Agency, that their cattle are dying rapidly from starvation and thirst.

Most of the Indians now depend for food upon the few who still have provisions and the supply cannot last long. They are emaciated and suffering, and unless the $[illegible] Congressional appropriation can be used at once private subscriptions or similar relief measures must be taken.

SUFFERING FROM POISON.

As Well as Hunted by Railroad Detectives.

John Nelson, the suspected train robber, who gave battle to ten detectives in front of his home at St. Louis and escaped after wounding George Murray, chief of detectives of the Illinois Central, is suffering from poison as well as being hunted by detectives. He was bitten by a moccasin just after he had embarked with his companions in a small boat after the Wickliffe train robbery. It is now believed he was approaching delirium when he made his fight Friday. By watching for a man with a snake bite the detectives hope to succeed in locating Nelson.

CHINESE REFORM PARTY.

Great Membership in This Country. Large Fund Raised.

Lung Kough, a Chinese, from San Francisco, has been in Phoenix, Arizona, for several days in the interest of the Po Wong Woey, or Chinese reform party. He asserts there are 140,000 members scattered throughout the country, and that $20,000,000 has been subscribed and sent to China to aid in the expulsion of the powers and effect a settlement of international disturbances.

Texas Deluged by Rain.

A special from Dallas says: Northern Texas has been deluged by rain for more than twelve hours, and the indications are that the storm has only begun.

The downpour at Dallas was terrific most of the day. The streets were like creeks, and many basements were flooded. The Trinity river is rising and bulletins from Fort Werth and other points indicate that large volumes of water are coming down from the upper parts of the river. Wire reports show that the rain has been general and is likely to continue through the night. Railroad operations are delayed because of washouts and slow running necessitated from water-soaked road-beds.

Counterfeits in Montgomery.

A very dangerous counterfeit of $1 bills have made their appearance in Montgomery, Ala., and the secret service men are on the lookout for the criminal who executes the counterfeit. The notes or bills are of the new dollar silver certificates, and the "one" is taken out and the figure "5" is substituted, so that the bill reads "five" silver dollars instead of "one" silver dollar. Besides this change there is nothing in the bill to show that it has been raised, and the work is adriotly done.

It is said that these bills were first discovered in Nashville, and at about the same time in Huntsville, Birmingham and Anniston.

Their Hair Turned White.

Dispatches from Tien Tsin report that a number of ladies there have become white-haired through the horrors of the siege.

Shooting Starts Again at St. Louis.

Herman Baude, an employe of the Union Ice company in St. Louis, Mo., was shot and mortally wounded by William E. Herman, a motorman for the St. Louis Transit company, Saturday. Charles Young, a striking street railway man, was also shot by Hermann, but not seriously wounded. Hermann had entered the drug store to make some purchases when Wm. Gray, a striker, stepped into the place and told the druggist not to sell to Hermann, as he was a "scab."

Boers for Texas.

The Southern Pacific road is trying to induce a colony of Boers to settle along its line in southwestern Texas. It is stated that agents of the Boers have been in Texas recently and made investigations of the general conditions of the country and that they were much pleased with land, climate and other conditions.

APPEAL TO AMERICANS.

Government Urged to Send Adequate Forces to Act Effectively in China.

Following is an appeal of Americans in China, assembled in mass meeting in Shanghai, to their fellow citizens at home:

"Urge the government to send adequate forces to act effectively in concert with the other powers. At present the American forces are quite disproportionate to the interests involved. Our commercial interests in the northern provinces are paramount, and we consider it a humiliating policy to entrust to other powers the task, that of protecting Americans.

"Anti-foreign outrages are multiplying daily. Officials and missionaries are massacred. The fate of the ministers and their families at Pekin is not known, but a general massacre is apprehended. Wholesale massacres of native Christians continue. The whole country is terrorized. Trade is paralyzed.

"The speedy restoration of order and retribution are duties pressing upon all civilized powers. The consequences of delay will be disastrous. Not only are foreign lives and property placd in jeopardy, but the loss of influence will be incalculable.

"Give no credence to statements of the situation sent out by the Chinese government to its ministers abroad. The present outrages are the result of the weak and vacillating policy of the powers in the past. We urge immediate energetic and concerted action."

WANT TO FIGHT.

War Department Flooded With Applications for Enlistment.

Applications continue to come to the war department from persons who are anxious to serve in the army during a campaign in China. Saturday's mail brought a letter from Secretary Curley, of the National Rough Rider Military Encampment, dated at Shenandoah, Col., offering to raise a regiment of 1,000 men. Adjutant-General Corbin in reply has informed the writer that the executive has no authority to accept more organization than are now in the service; still, the men desiring China service may be enlisted individually by the army recruiting officers in the principal cities. The men can select their regiments.

SHOEMAKER USES A RAZOR.

After Killing His Wife and His Babe Eisen Takes His Own Life.

Poverty, coupled with ill health and a weak-minded wife for a helpmate, were probably the causes which impelled Louis Eisen, a shoemaker of Baltimore to kill his wife and a thirteen-months-old babe and himself, and to wound almost unto death his three-and-a-half-year-old son. He used a razor. A minute search of the apartments failed to discover a crust of bread or a scrap of meat. A little salt and a small quantity of milk were the only edibles in the place.

TRAIN THROWN FROM TRACK.

Fifteen Cars Roll Down a Fifteen-Foot Embankment.

There was a freight wreck on the Queen and Crescent at Glendale, Ky., Sunday, six miles from Lexington. A cow ran in front of the engine of a double-header. It derailed the engines and fifteen freight cars rolled down a fifteen-foot embankment and were almost totally destroyed. Both engines were injured. One turned over. The injured are: Clifton Stout, 13-year-old boy, seriously; Engineer, J. S. Marde, Fireman Joe Lanagan, Pat Mannon and Ed Norman, slightly bruised.

Chairmanship Offered to Campau.

Daniel Campau, of Detroit, says that the Democratic National Committee had asked him to accept the Chairmanship of the National Democratic Campaign Committee. Mr. Campau says he will soon give the committee an answer.

Will Support Bryan.

J. Haskins Hobson, state chairman of the populist party in Virginia, announces his purpose to support Bryan and Stevenson, and says he will use his utmost influence to prevent the putting up of another electoral ticket in this state.

Distinguished Georgian Dead.

Hon. Milton Pettus Reese, after lingering for several days in an unconscious state, breathed his last at Washington, Ga., Sunday. Mr. Reese had been in declining health for the past two years, suffering from some nervous trouble; recently he suffered from paralysis which terminated in death. Mr. Reese was one of Georgia's most distinguished citizens and lawyers.

AMERICAN BLOOD SHED

Col. Liscum and Several Other Officers Killed at Tien Tsin.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS PROBABLE

To Deal With the Chinese Situation. United States Must Furnish Ten or Twelve Thousand Men for the March to Pekin.

The navy department Monday morning received official confirmation from Admiral Remy of the reverses of the allied forces at Tien Tsin on the morning of the 13th. The dispatch is dated Chee Foo, July 16, and says:

"Reported that allied forces attacked native city morning 13th, Russians on right with Ninth infantry and marines on the left. Losses allied forces large; Russians 100, including artillery colonel; Americans over thirty; British over forty; Japan fifty-eight, including Colonel French of the Twenty-fifth and Colonel Liscum, Ninth infantry, killed; also Captain Davis, marine corps. Captain Lemley, Lieutenants Butler and Leonard wounded.

"At 7 o'clock in the evening allied attack on native city was repulsed with great loss. Returns yet incomplete. Details not yet confirmed.

"REMEY."

Extra Session of Congress Probable.

A Washington dispatch says: That President McKinley will be forced by the situation in China to call an extra session of congress seems quite certain. He would much prefer not to do so, but developments in China are such that more troops than are available will be required for service there. The massacre of the envoys of the civilized nations shows either weakness of the Chinese government or its connivance in the outrage. The repulse of the allied force in Tien Tsin shows need of a far greater body of troops than was anticipated.

Cuba and the Philippines will need practically all the troops now there as a matter of precaution, and troops withdrawn from the Philippines must be replaced from this country. There are no troops here to be sent there.

Volunteers must be organized if the present policy in the Philippines is to be continued. The president is on his way to Washington.

By the end of this week a proclamation calling congress together is to be expected.

Sixty thousand men for the march to Pekin and twenty thousand more to keep open the lines of communication and if necessary to defend the bases of operation at Tien Tsin and Taku is the estimate of the number of troops that will be required in the Chinese campaign. Upon the basis of these figures, which it is said are those furnished by the commanders of the allied forces in China, this government will furnish between ten and twelve thousand soldiers.

Technically at Peace With China.

The decision of the administration at the end of an eventful day was that the United States government is still not at war with the government of China. The big happenings at Tien Tsin, coming on top of the stories of the last struggles at Pekin, have not affected the attitude of the administration on this point; the United States and China are technically at peace. But this statement should not be accepted as indicating a purpose on the part of the United States government to withhold its hand from the administration of swift and adequate punishment upon the Chinese without regard to station, who may be responsible for the outrages of the past few weeks. It means simply that the government of the United States feels that it can best accomplish their purpose by regarding the status officially as one of peace.

Col. Lanier Dead.

Col. John S. Lanier, former chairman of the democratic state central committee and agent commissioner of the state land office of Louisiana, died suddenly in Baton Rouge Monday.

Negro Highwayman Shot.

Will Johnson, a negro, was shot and mortally wounded by Lon Griel and Graham Willis, two well-known young white men of Bessemer. The negro who was shot, in company with Wes Daniels, had just robbed an aged negro a few minutes prior to the shooting.

Morgan Mathis, one of Rome's best known citizens, died, after a long illness. He was at one time sheriff of Floyd county.

MESSAGE TO MINISTER CONGER.

Secretary Hay and Minister Wu Attempting to Communicate With Pekin.

The Chinese Minister, at Washington, Mr. Wu, has undertaken to get through a cipher message from Secretary Hay to United Minister Conger at Pekin and to deliver back the reply of Minister Conger, if he be alive. Minister Wu forwarded the cipher dispatch, together with an extended explanatory message of his own, on Wednesday, and the results are now being eagerly awaited by both Secretary Hay and the Chinese Minister, although it is appreciated that some days must elapse before runners can carry out this plan of opening up communication between the American government at Washington and the American Minister at Pekin.

LOST HALF THEIR OFFICERS.

Lincolnshire Regiment Suffered Greatly at Nitrals Nek.

Lord Roberts has sent nothing further to the war department in London concerning the Nitrals Nek affair. A Pretoria dispatch, however, shows that the Lincolnshires lost half of their officers, including Major Roberts, who was wounded and taken prisoner. Stragglers continue to arrive at the camp, but few further details can be gathered. The British fought stubbornly until nightfall, when the cavalry turned their horses loose. The Boer report of the engagement places the British casualties at over 200.

A GHASTLY FIND.

Body of Murdered Man in Bushes Near Chattanooga.

A farmer made a ghastly find a few days ago on the Chattanooga dirt road, six miles south of Cleveland, Tenn. It was the remains of a white man, sixty years of age, hid in a clump of bushes near the road. A piece of an old quilt was tied over his head and a rope around his neck. There was a large hole in the side of the head and bruises on the face and body. The body was decomposed, and presented a horrible appearance and a sickening scene. There was no papers or other means by which he could be identified.

Train Robbers Captured.

Three of the robbers who held up Illinois Central train No. 4 at Mayfield creek, Kentucky, about ten miles south of Cairo, on the 11th inst., have been arrested and imprisoned by special agents in the employ of the company. The first one arrested was Michael Connelly, alias Doyle, who claims to be a resident of Portland, Oregon. He was caught at Charleston, Mo. The second man, Mike Conlan, was arrested near Wickliffe, Ky.

Another suspect was arrested at Cairo.

More Americans Killed.

During last week's scouting in the Philippines three Americans were killed and two wounded and thirty-five rebels were killed. Fifty rebels were captured and twenty-five rifles and fourteen tons of powder and ammunition taken. It will become necessary under the new code of procedure which the commission expects to adopt to secure for the higher courts in Manila American judges speaking Spanish.

Railroad Must Pay.

Comptroller General Wright has issued a peremptory order against the Plant System demanding the payment of taxes on $750,000 worth of property in Georgia, which the state claims the company did not include in its recent property returns.

Senator Gear Dead.

United States Senator John Henry Gear, of Burlington, Iowa, died Saturday of heart failure in his apartments at the Portland, in Washington. While Senator Gear had been in bad health for a year or more, death came unexpectedly. He was in excellent spirits Friday night, and made engagements with some political friends for the following day.

Nebraska Prohibitionists.

The prohibition state convention of Nebraska nominated a full ticket, headed by L. O. Jones, of Lincoln, for governor.

West Virginia Republicans.

The republican state convention of West Virginia nominated the following ticket: Governor, A. B. White; auditor, Arnold S. Scherr; treasurer, Peter Silman; attorney general, Romero H. Freer; superintendent of schools, Thomas C. Miller; supreme judges, Henry Brannon and George Poffenbarger; electors at large, Benson B. McMakin and J. B. Lewis.

DAINTINESS IN NECKWEAR.

Collars, Scarfs and Boas That Are Favorites.

There never were so many pretty oddities and bewitching novelties in neckwear as this summer; so much so that there is a bewilderment, if not an embarrassment, of riches. One cannot go far astray to "the fashion" when practically everything is fashionable.

There is one mode, however, of dressing the neck that is distinctly out of date, and that is the high starched collar. For this mercy many women are truly thankful, as the fashion never was pretty, comfortable or becoming, yet those who disliked it were obliged to submit to its tyranny or to be out of the world. This season fulness reigns. Lace and chiffon are the approved materials, and are put together so exquisitely that they are a joy to behold, in addition to permitting at least as much comfort as the weather allows.

One charming example is composed of tucked tulle, mounted on a frame of extremely fine white silk wire. This is edged by a tiny ruching of white ribbon, and a large rosette of tulle with ribbon centre covers the fastening at the back. In front is a similar rosette, from which fall two long ends of the tucked tulle nearly a foot wide. Several rows of ribbon ruching are applied on each end. One advantage of this neck scarf is that the collar portion can be renewed whenever necessary as long as the ties remain fresh.

A fichu of cream mousseline de soie, trimmed with a number of rows of Chantilly or other lace, is an effective adjunct to the summer toilet. It is draped over the shoulders and caught in front under a large bow of white ribbon. The ends should fall nearly to the knee. A jabot of Irish lace has the transparent collar, with full ends of the lace appliqued on wash blond. A knot of the blond conceals the place where the ends are attached.

In simpler ties the butterfly bow of tulle or mousseline, edged with narrow lace of velvet ribbon, is popular. The bat wing bow of silk, too, is liked. Crepe de chine and chiffon scarfs, with fringed ends, are worn as "twice around" ties. They may be used without a separate stock by having a wire collar of firm white net, unlined. This supports the tie and prevents it from wrinkling.

Handsome fastenings are used for these long scarfs in many cases, and really good lace pins of the old-fashioned kind have emerged triumphantly from their long and ignominious seclusion in the jewel box. The favorite jeweled ring is hinged, and clasps the scarf easily and gracefully without crushing.

For evening or day there is a new boa that seems like the crest of a wave caught and made permanent. White silk muslin is accordion pleated—yards of it—and the middle third is then gathered in innumerable fine tucks in a space somewhat longer than enough to encircle the throat easily. A yard on each end is left ungathered, and the remaining length is gathered in two or three groupings to the edge. The ends are caught by a jeweled fastening, or tied by a large bow of white satin ribbon. Completed, it should be at least two and three-quarters yards in length.

The Trained Nurse.

The professional nurse is a great comfort—a modern improvement, without which the invalid and the sick wonder how the ancients would have lived. She is generally good-looking, and always attractive; when she wears her uniform—which is the greater part of the time—she is irresistible, and she is aware of it. She will confide to you that she dislikes to wear the insignia of her profession, and you are at liberty to believe it. She is immaculately clean—"antiseptically clean," to use her own expression.

If she dines with the family she will hold herself dignified and silent, with shoulders well thrown back, for the first night or two; since she wishes it understood that she considers it no condescension; after that she will speak as an oracle on all subjects—art, literature or medicine—and whether you agree with her or not, you will say that you do. She claims that she is nervous when the young doctor is present, but if you observe carefully it is seen that the doctor is embarrassed by her lofty demeanor. The household soon accommodates itself to her habits; the servant-girl runs with a smile when she desires a favor; your eldest son is at her elbow, and your second son is not far removed. And the day she leaves, and the gleam of her blue uniform is caught no more on the stairs, and her laugh is heard no more in the halls, the house is glum and dark as if the sunlight had forsaken it quite, and you catch yourself wishing that she might return. —J. K. Friedman, in Harper's Bazar.

The Pretty Foliage Toques.

Ivy berries and variegated ivy leaves are the materials of one of the pretty foliage toques now so much in vogue. Mignonette, which seems always half foliage, half flower, is in great demand for these toques. Cherry blossoms, almond blossoms, grapes with their wide leaves and curly tendrils, pink and white may, bramble blossom and fruit, both red and white, are all used in millinery. It used to be a canon of aesthetic dress that no flower should be worn that is not in season, but that is all over now. Roses and poppies combine with lily of the valley in ornamenting the headgear of the smart, and heliotrope is mixed up with lilac, though nature never lets them see each other except through the glass of a hothouse in this part of the world. It would appear that the correct, up-to-date reply to cavillers on this subject is that the flower out of season here is in full bloom in South Africa.

Narrow Velvet Clasped With Jewels.

Quaintly pretty cravats are being introduced. They are echoes of the period from which the new sleeves are drawn, when gentle fancies rather than blatant effects were studiously encouraged, and girls wore ringlets falling from a centre parting, and little waist belts of narrow velvet, demurely crossed in front and clasped with a cameo brooch above a full bodice and a full skirt. One of these new cravats is of narrow velvet ribbon and has threaded on it little gold or enamelled slides, completed at the ends with gold bosses edged with tassel fringe. Sometimes three bands of velvet, trimmed with slides, encircle the neck, and have no dependent ends, and often, as a repetition of the same pleasing idea, the full lace or mousseline sleeves are held in at the wrists with other little bands.

Germany's Feminine Novelties.

The woman is coming to the front no less triumphantly in German fiction than in that of England or of the United States, says the Westminster Gazette. The proprietors of the popular illustrated weekly, Ueber Land und Meer, offered three prizes for the best three "novelettes." The prize jury, which included such eminent literary experts as Dr. Fulda, Richard Voss and Baron von Ompteda, laboriously examined the merits of no fewer than 900 competitive stories. All the three first prizes have been unanimously allotted to ladies. There is no suspicion of gallantry in the verdict, for the jury were ignorant of the names of the authors until their sealed envelopes were opened after the judgment was given.

For Thin Arms.

To develop overslim arms, bathe every morning in soft, cold water, to which a little ammonia, alcohol or vinegar has been added. Dry with a crash towel, then rub with the hand until the arms tingle. After that should come a gentle massage with almond oil or cold cream, rubbing up from the wrist to the elbow, down from the shoulder to the elbow. Tight sleeves at night often are responsible for thin arms.

Big Chiffon Rosettes.

Chiffon rosettes gain in size, and are perched at the extreme front of the hat or toque. The large black picture hats have big choux of tulle, the edges sprinkled with paste or sequins, and the folds round the crown are usually fixed with glittering pins or buckles.

Crepon is still popular where mourning is concerned, no fabric giving such good service.

One-button kid gloves are worn with the new sleeve, which has the dainty undersleeve banded closely at the wrist.

The new collar band is quite straight around, having no rounded form at the sides, but it is trimmed as elaborately as you like.

Short sleeves have reintroduced bracelets, and the shops are full of pretty designs. Both the bangle and heavy clasped variety are seen.

Pink is one of the most popular colors of the season, and the varying tints in the different materials are more beautifully soft than ever before.

For mourning pretty blouse waists are made of black net run through with black chenille and worn with a long net sash finished with chenille fringe.

Tulle hats are the order of the day. Both high and low crowns are fashionable. The beauty of these hats depends upon their construction rather than upon any possible decoration.

Hand stitching is indeed one of the new features of finish on our gowns and in the expert labor it requires will outdo all others in the way of extravagance. While it cannot be so accurate as machine stitching, it has an air which stamps your gown as chic. Bands of cloth and silk are covered with hand stitching.

The newer frocks have most of them a crush belt of some kind. One of these gowns, having a broad pointed collar, so broad that the effect is almost like a yoke, has a belt of the material, a blue figured silk, crushed a little around the waist and above pointed to match the collar and fitted, having something the effect of a corselet.

A pretty waist arrangement which is popular this summer is a sash of black tulle carried snugly around the waist, fastened at the back with a pretty buckle, then falling in long ends to the edge of the skirt. The ends are finished with pleatings of the tulle. This sash completes a pretty light costume when there are touches of black, as, for instance, a pretty pink or blue lawn with black embroidered figures.

There are any number of little strap belts, three narrow straps, black leather, gray suede, black velvet, or any of a variety of materials, the straps held apart with clasps and brought together in front with small buckles. Some of these are over silk, but more of them are without the additional bulk. The clasps and ornamentations are in gold or silver or enamel. Single narrow bands of the leather to match are for the neck, to go on the outside of the collar.

A TRIP TO TEXAS.

As I think that perhaps a few notes made during my recent trip to Texas would interest the readers of The Banner, I am glad to be able to give them to you.

Leaving Clanton on the night train there is not much to be said until after our arrival at New Orleans next morning. After leaving New Orleans we passed through a very rich country, the crop being mostly sugar-cane.

When we entered the State of Texas we found plenty of level country, and it was much the same as in other States, some was rich land and some was poor. It was much drier than it has been in Alabama, it had not rained in two weeks before we got there.

Arrived in San Antonia we found the climate splendid, and while it is hotter than it is here there was a fine breeze all the time. I am satisfied the climate will suit my son's health and he will probably get well; my reason for thinking so is I found many people who went there far weaker than he is are now apparently sound and well.

I made a trip out to the old Alamo and stood on the ground where David Crockett and his comrades were killed. I also went to the head of the San Antonia river and saw what is known as David Crockett's home. It is now in ruins, only some of the walls standing about four feet high.

At San Antonia I was much struck by finding the stores and saloons all wide open on Sunday. There is no Sunday law there, although of course some places of business were closed, the owners closing them on account of their religious convictions that it is right to do so.

On the return journey I went to Austin, the capital of Texas. The climate was much about the same as that of San Antonia. I went to the capitol, it is one of the most magnificent buildings I have ever seen. It cost the State about six million dollars, the State disposing of three million acres of land, valued at $2 per acre, for the erection of the building.

From conversations I had with several Texans, I found that one great drawback to poor people emigrating to Texas was the great syndicates and corporations who own such large tracts of fine land which cannot be obtained by poor people. If I had to make a suggestion to people thinking of going to Texas, I would say don't go unless you can form a colony and buy and settle a large tract yonrselves.

Health is good. Farmers are badly behind with their work.

We are glad to say we are having a nice Sunday School here, and we hear that we are soon to have a singing school taught by J.S. Jones of Coopers. We like to see the good work go on.

J. R. Taylor is the happy man now; it is a boy; the mother is getting along well.

We regret to state that P. M. Jones's farm on Coosa river was badly damaged by the river rising.

B. T. Taylor has moved back to our neighborhood from L. E. Gulliborn's sawmill.

Guess Who

conty or state. Nothing could be more reasonable than that individuals of a commnity pay according to their means for all public privileges and blessings; no man rears a family of children for himself, for they soon become the property of the community in which they live. They will either be a blessing or a curse where they live; every child is an heir of the community in which it lives, moves and has its being; the happiness and common welfare of all demand that all our children be educated, prepared, armed and equipped for true and intelligent citizenship. No man has a right to rear a family of ignorant children and turn them loose on society totally unfit for the duties of this life. It will not be denied that there live in every settlement fathers who seem to have no interest in the education of their children who neglect it altogether; these children are heirs of the locality, state and county, and the majority of the best citizens should rule and have a tax raised to educate their children. When any citizen will not do his duty voluntarily, it is right that he be required to do so by law. While a majority of the best citizens of a community may rise to the honest discharge of the great duties and responsibilities resting upon them, there are others who selfishly refuse to do anything for the public and common good. Allow me to ask the question, ought not the people who live in the country have the same right to tax themselves as those who live in the cities? We answer yes. Who complains of taxation for the support of the magnificent public schools of Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile? They are the pride and boast of the people, and no false economy is allowed to cripple their influence, and no narrow sighted policy to impair their usefulness; the idea prevails with some that those who live in the country do not need an education as much as those who live in the cities. We shall conclude by saying that every community should educate its children and this can best be done by local taxation. Let every citizen of our county study this subject well and be prepared to act intelligently on this all important subject of the present hour.

A Good Cough Medicine.

Many thousand have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. If afflicted with any throat or lung trouble, give it a trial for it is certain to prove beneficial. Coughs that have resisted all other treatment for years, have yielded to this remedy and perfect health has been restored. Cases that seemed hopeless, that the climate of famous health resorts failed to benefit, have been permanently cured by its use. For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Young Women

The entry into womanhood is a critical time for a girl. Little menstrual disorders started at that time soon grow into fatal complications. That female troubles are filling graveyards proves this. Wine of Cardui establishes a painless and natural menstrual flow. When once this important function is started right, a healthy life will usually follow. Many women, young and old, owe their lives to Wine of Cardui. There is nothing like it to give women freedom from pain and to fit young women for every duty of life. $1.00 bottles at druggists.

Miss Della M. Strayer, Tully, Kans. "I have suffered untold pain at menstrual periods for a long time, was nervous, had no appetite, and lost interest in everything, in fact was miserable. I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui, with Thedford's Black-Draught, when needed, and to-day I am entirely cured. I cannot express the thanks I feel for what you have done for me."

A TRIP TO TEXAS.

As I think that perhaps a few notes made during my recent trip to Texas would interest the readers of The Banner, I am glad to be able to give them to you.

Leaving Clanton on the night train there is not much to be said until after our arrival at New Orleans next morning. After leaving New Orleans we passed through a very rich country, the crop being mostly sugar-cane.

When we entered the State of Texas we found plenty of level country, and it was much the same as in other States, some was rich land and some was poor. It was much drier than it has been in Alabama, it had not rained in two weeks before we got there.

Arrived in San Antonia we found the climate splendid, and while it is hotter than it is here there was a fine breeze all the time. I am satisfied the climate will suit my son's health and he will probably get well; my reason for thinking so is I found many people who went there far weaker than he is are now apparently sound and well.

I made a trip out to the old Alamo and stood on the ground where David Crockett and his comrades were killed. I also went to the head of the San Antonia river and saw what is known as David Crockett's home. It is now in ruins, only some of the walls standing about four feet high.

At San Antonia I was much struck by finding the stores and saloons all wide open on Sunday. There is no Sunday law there, although of course some places of business were closed, the owners closing them on account of their religious convictions that it is right to do so.

On the return journey I went to Austin, the capital of Texas. The climate was much about the same as that of San Antonia. I went to the capitol, it is one of the most magnificent buildings I have ever seen. It cost the State about six million dollars, the State disposing of three million acres of land, valued at $2 per acre, for the erection of the building.

From conversations I had with several Texans, I found that one great drawback to poor people emigrating to Texas was the great syndicates and corporations who own such large tracts of fine land which cannot be obtained by poor people. If I had to make a suggestion to people thinking of going to Texas, I would say don't go unless you can form a colony and buy and settle a large tract yourselves.

S. M. Adams.

Health is good. Farmers are badly behind with their work.

We are glad to say we are having a nice Sunday School here, and we hear that we are soon to have a singing school taught by J.S. Jones of Coopers. We like to see the good work go on.

J. R. Taylor is the happy man now; it is a boy; the mother is getting along well.

We regret to state that P. M. Jones's farm on Coosa river was badly damaged by the river rising.

B. T. Taylor has moved back to our neighborhood from L. E. Gullaborn's sawmill.

Guess Who

THE SCHOOL AND THE COMMUNITY.

county or state. Nothing could be more reasonable than that individuals of a community pay according to their means for all public privileges and blessings; no man rears a family of children for himself, for they soon become the property of the community in which they live. They will either be a blessing or a curse where they live; every child is an heir of the community in which it lives, moves and has its being; the happiness and common welfare of all demand that all our children be educated, prepared, armed and equipped for true and intelligent citizenship. No man has a right to rear a family of ignorant children and turn them loose on society totally unfit for the duties of this life. It will not be denied that there live in every settlement fathers who seem to have no interest in the education of their children who neglect it altogether; these children are heirs of the locality, state and county, and the majority of the best citizens should rule and have a tax raised to educate their children. When any citizen will not do his duty voluntarily, it is right that he be required to do so by law. While a majority of the best citizens of a community may rise to the honest discharge of the great duties and responsibilities resting upon them, there are others who selfishly refuse to do anything for the public and common good. Allow me to ask the question, ought not the people who live in the country have the same right to tax themselves as those who live in the cities? We answer yes. Who complains of taxation for the support of the magnificent public schools of Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile? They are the pride and boast of the people, and no false economy is allowed to cripple their influence, and no narrow sighted policy to impair their usefulness; the idea prevails with some that those who live in the country do not need an education as much as those who live in the cities. We shall conclude by saying that every community should educate its children and this can best be done by local taxation. Let every citizen of our county study this subject well and be prepared to act intelligently on this all important subject of the present hour.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles

"I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form." For sale by Clanton Drug Co. and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

A Good Cough Medicine.

Many thousand have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. If afflicted with any throat or lung trouble, give it a trial for it is certain to prove beneficial. Coughs that have resisted all other treatment for years, have yielded to this remedy and perfect health has been restored. Cases that seemed hopeless, that the climate of famous health resorts failed to benefit, have been permanently cured by its use. For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call on Clanton Drug Store and get a trial bottle free. Regular size 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed, or price refunded.

Young Women

The entry into womanhood is a critical time for a girl. Little menstrual disorders started at that time soon grow into fatal complications. That female troubles are filling graveyards proves this. Wine of Cardui establishes a painless and natural menstrual flow. When once this important function is started right, a healthy life will usually follow. Many women, young and old, owe their lives to Wine of Cardui. There is nothing like it to give women freedom from pain and to fit young women for every duty of life. $1.00 bottles at druggists.

Miss Della M. Streyer, Tully, Kans. "I have suffered untold pain at menstrual periods for a long time, was nervous, had no appetite, and lost interest in everything, in fact was miserable. I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui, with Thedford's Black-Draught, when needed, and to-day I am entirely cured. I cannot express the thanks I feel for what you have done for me."

AGRICULTURAL.

What to Make a Study Of.

To be successful the farmer should heed the following requisites of successes: Thorough cultivation, proper rotation of crops, clean farming, good drainage, a knowledge of the injurious and beneficial insects, their methods of injury and attack, and the prompt application of the proper remedy.

A Point in Growing Radishes.

It is of little use to try to grow radishes and turnips for table use on old ground that has been long in cultivation. They are very apt to be wormy, and we have never found any treatment that would prevent it. Select a piece of land which is in grass and has been so for several years, and no matter if the grass is nearly run out. Plow just before the time of sowing the seed, and sow about 400 pounds of some good fertilizer on it broadcast, then harrow it in well and sow radish or flat turnips in drills about nine inches to one foot apart, thinning to proper distance at first hoeing. They grow so quickly that if put in early in the spring they can be out of the way in time to follow with a later crop. Rutabaga turnips for table use should not be sown until about the first of July, as they are better if grown very quickly. They should be in rows two and one-half to three feet apart, and thinned to nine inches or a foot apart in the row.—Boston Cultivator.

Teaching Agriculture.

Farmers who educate only the muscles will be always men of muscle and not men of brains. If agriculture can be taught in the schools, then it should be taught, and it should be taught in the young children's schools. In city and town schools it would be elective, but in the rural schools it should be compulsory. A course in the science of agriculture should be introduced into every common school. There are now subjects taught in the schools which might well be dispensed with, and courses in agriculture substituted. Only the science of agriculture should be taught, leaving the practice to home instruction. The school work should be very simple, very natural, and nothing but what is understood. The pupils will then be learning in the school what they are practicing at home, and their farm life will become more attractive. If the best of our youth are to be drawn toward agriculture, it must be agreeable to them. The result will be that larger crops will be produced, and a finer race of men developed.—Farmer's Guide.

Hive Stands.

In making stands for hives we make them six inches high and the length and width of the hive, using common seven-eighths inch lumber. If the ground in front of the hives is kept free from weeds and tall grass the style "a" will do. But if the bees cannot be given much attention it will be better to make them after style "b." The slanting projection will prevent the hive entrance from becoming obstructed, and the loaded bees that miss the alighting board and drop in front of the hive can crawl up to the entrance.

Cultures For Butter Making.

The chief factor in determining the value of butter is always the flavor. This is also the most difficult thing to secure in practice. Results of investigations have shown that the flavor of butter whether good or bad is mostly a result of the fermentations which have taken place in the cream. Feed of the cows, kind of churn used or manner of churning has little effect on the flavor.

The fermentations are due to the growth of certain bacteria. Those that cause bad results come mostly from dirt and filth. They cause a decay of the milk similar to the decay of animal or vegetable bodies, and the products produced largely give the taints to milk and the bad flavors to butter. The fermentation which gives good butter flavor is a pure souring of the cream. The buttermaker has it within his power to make butter with almost the same flavor the year around by observing cleanliness and using good starters to ripen the cream. In some samples of butter shown at the Iowa Stock Breeders' Convention, made from a combination of four kinds of bacteria used as a starter and representing the common sources of contamination by dirt, this butter was judged to be worth ten cents less per pound than another sample made from portion of the same cream with the nt kind of fermenting.—C. H. Eckles in New England Homestead.

The Time to Pasture Clover.

V. Stevens, one of the best and practical farmers and feeders, Whitney's Swine Advocate: practice to allow clover to head before turning hogs d then I pasture it just keep down the clover so bu turned under for wheat. p begin pasturing early and keep your clover our be, and do not give any labor grain food, five or six good sized hogs or twice as many shoats will do very well on an acre. If you wait until the clover begins to bloom, it will feed two or three times as many pigs. I think that a good clover pasture is indispensable in raising healthy swine, but I always give some grain to my hogs all the time they are in pasture, as the clover will go twice as far, or twice as many hogs can be kept per acre. The hog in his normal condition is a grass-eating animal, and to keep him through the summer season wholly upon the more concentrated and heating foods is as unnatural as it would be to keep cows in the same manner. While upon pasture, hogs will tramp down and root up more clover than they will eat, and for this reason I would never begin pasturing in the spring until the clover has made a good start. If you want hogs to do well on clover avoid concentrated foods as much as possible before putting them in pasture, so that their stomachs will be distended and they will have the capacity to eat clover greedily and thrive upon it."

Wormy Apples.

There is nothing new about wormy apples except the way to avoid having them. There are several species of grubs or worms which work in apples, but the one which does nearly all the damage is the core worm. The core worm is the offspring of the codlin moth, and this is the insect which a man wants to fight in his apple trees.

The best general remedy for the core worm or codlin moth, according to information furnished by the Vermont experiment station, is paris green. Some apple growers use London purple, others use white arsenic, but they amount to the same thing. They all poison the core worms. Other insecticides like hellebore, kerosene or sulphur are not effective in this case.

In the hands of the average man paris green is the best medicine for the codlin moth. The poison should be thoroughly mixed with water at the rate of a quarter of a pound to the barrel—that is, about one pound of paris green to 160 to 200 gallons of water. About a pound of lime ought to be added to each barrel of water, which will prevent scalding of the foliage. It should be applied with a spray pump and fine nozzle.

In case bordeaux mixture is used on the tree the paris green may be added directly to that solution at the rate already recommended.

The first spraying for the codlin moth should be made as soon as the blossoms fall, or within a week afterward. It is very important to do this before the little apples begin to hang down their heads, as after that time they do not catch and hold the poison.

Shading Frames For Garden Plants.

It has always been a source of considerable trouble to protect newly transplanted vegetables from blighting effects of too much sun and wind, especially in the South, where the sun grows very hot about transplanting time. My neighbors use foliage, twigs and shingles planted slantwise, broadsides against the northwest, but these devices are troublesome and unsatisfactory at best. Another way costs a little time and trouble at first, but saves 90 per cent. of the plants and gives satisfaction all around. I make ten-foot frames as shown in the illustration. The material required for each is two ten-foot laths, two three-foot poles of any convenient thickness for crosspieces, and four fourteen-inch weatherstrips for legs. These frames can be turned off by any handy man in ten minutes, say six to the hour. I put two hooks in the middle of each lath and upon these fasten strips of tow sacking, which can be adjusted in less time than it takes to gather twigs or put up shingles for one bed.

This frame method has several advantages besides neatness. It not only shields the tender plants from the direct rays of the sun, but keeps the newly watered ground moist for hours, thereby allowing slow evaporation, instead of caking by sudden exposure to sun and wind. On windy days I let the sacking down against the windward side. Six frames answer throughout an entire season for an acre garden, as they can readily be moved from bed to bed as soon as the young plants are sufficiently hardened off. Everyone knows that a good start is essential to success, especially with tender plants like cauliflower, red cabbage and eggplant. I have had whole beds of cabbage stunted by too sudden exposure to hot sun, northwest winds and caking of newly watered ground. —Emil O. Peterson, in New England Homestead.

Poultry Notes.

Keep the roosts saturated with kerosene and vermin will not be likely to trouble the fowls.

Gather the droppings during the summer and store them for next season's use on the garden.

Don't try to keep several pure breeds of fowls. Keep only one and let that one be the best of the kind.

If the hens are confined in yards a box of lettuce should be sowed for them at intervals of two weeks.

Young turkeys should never be allowed to leave the coop in the morning until the grass is perfectly dry.

Remove all the old nests and litter from the house and burn them, then scald and whitewash every part.

If the little chicks are lousy rub a little grease on under part of mother's wings and the trouble will soon end.

Eggs should be gathered and consumed or marketed every day. Eggs in summer are unfit for table use when over twenty-four hours old.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

A most remarkable case of migration among birds is that of the plovers, which start from Nova Scotia and go to the northern shore of South America in practically one continuous flight. Comparatively few of these birds rest at Bermuda and the Barbadoes.

During the past winter, which has been marked by uncommonly high temperatures in the Northern Hemisphere, a similar elevation of temperature appears to have occurred in the Southern Hemisphere, which, of course, has its summer when we have our winter. In South America, South Africa and Australia exceedingly hot weather was experienced while our part of the world was enjoying a mild winter.

Studies of the zodiacal light made at sea lead Mr. F. J. Bayldon, formerly of the British Navy, to remark that the air over the Pacific Ocean appears clearer and better adapted to celestial observation than that lying over the Atlantic Ocean. Honolulu is admirably situated for clearness of air, and it may become an important outpost in astronomy. It has already been selected as one of the chief points for the study of the vibrations of the earth.

There are some wet spots on what is known as "the dry land." In the Kameruns, West Africa, the meteorologists have just reported a small area over which three hundred and seventy-two inches of rain fell in a single year. Even this is droughty, compared with Cherra-punji, among the hills of Assam, where the record shows a mean annual rainfall of four hundred and seventy-five inches, or nearly forty feet. In Oregon, where they have eighty inches of rain, the Californians say the people are "web-footed." The water-soaked Hindus and Africans should develop fins and gills.

Before the Biological Society in Washington recently, Mr. H. W. Olds presented the results of his studies of bird music. Wonderful as it seems, he said, it is a fact that some of the birds use the human musical scale. He showed by example how the songs of certain birds are unmistakably governed by the intervals that compose our scale. Sometimes bird musicians, like their human compeers, wander from the key. He thought that there was no escape from the conclusion that birds are subject to a musical evolution which parallels our own.

The filtration of the water supply of cities by means of sand filter-beds, or mechanical contrivances, has rapidly advanced in this country during the past ten years; but it is far more general in Great Britain than in the United States. Mr. Allen Hazen, an authority on sanitary engineering, avers that the fact is fully established that the death rate from typhoid fever is materially lowered by the filtration of the water supply. In Great Britain cities containing an aggregate population of more than 10,000,000 people use a sand-filtered water supply, and the result, it is claimed, is shown in London's freedom from typhoid. In the United States only one-tenth of the towns and cities have filtered water.

The Taiping Rebellion.

The new Boxer outbreak ominously recalls the Taiping rebellion, which began in 1850 and lasted over a period of fourteen years, being the result of a popular outcry against the existing dynasty and a general dissatisfaction owing to the reforms which had been promised being unfulfilled.

The province of Kwang-se was the first to rise in open revolt, and chose for a leader Hung-sew-tseusu, whose energy of character and political and religious enthusiasm speedily gained for him the support of the discontented. Seizing on the longing for a return of an absolutely Chinese dynasty, he proclaimed himself Emperor, under the title of Teen Wang, or the Heavenly King. Having embraced Christianity, he professed to abhor the vices of the rulers both in their laws and in private acts. Crowds gathered to his standard. Without much difficulty he succeeded in subduing the neighboring provinces.

The war which England proclaimed against the Tartar dynasty, and in which France joined in, seemed to aid and abet his scheme, but upon the complete victory of the allies a combined force was sent out against the rebels under the late General Gordon, which was successful in utterly defeating Teen Wang, with whose fall the whole rebellion came to an end in July, 1864.

Heroes in the Monkey Kingdom.

One species of monkey, the African mandrill, has won immunity from captivity by consistent and incorrigible viciousness and intractability. Thousands of the tribe fought, bled and died in the cause, and, like the old guard, they died but never surrendered. There should be a monument to those mandrills who made way for liberty in Winkelreid style, and showed the big grasping baboons and the frightened chimpanzees and the smaller Asiatic hordes that the tailless invaders might capture their bodies, but couldn't subdue their proud spirit. Now, as a result of ancestral heroism, innumerable mandrills are sportively swinging by their tails in African forests, serenely sure that they will not be disturbed.

"They're a bad lot, the mandrills. It don't pay to bother with them," say the dealers; but the Banderlogs know that the mandrills are heroes.—New York Sun.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS:

SOME REMARKABLE PIES.

Little Known Varieties For the Lovers of a Standard Dessert.

Marvellous ingenuity has been shown in the invention of certain pies that are more or less local and that in a few more years will doubtless have become absolutely unknown. In farming districts, where pie is considered a necessary article of diet in at least two out of three meals, when the season of small fruits has passed, housewives have only apples and dried fruits to fall back upon with which to make pies. So it is not strange that some recipes quite unknown to urban families should have been devised. There, too, in pies as in preserves, variety is counted of consequence. In localities where elderberries are made into jelly and marmalade they are also used for pies. Even in the summer, when other more palatable fruits abound, quantities are stewed for this purpose. They are also dried or canned to use in the same way in winter or spring.

Pies made of dried apples, stewed and mashed, are common in springtime in various parts of the United States, but, as far as I can learn, it is less customary to make them of a mixture of dried apple sauce and green currants. I have been told that the sour leaves of both wood and field sorrel (Oxalis and Rumex) are sometimes pressed into service in pie-making in some of the Canadian provinces. In parts of the West farmers' wives gather the green fruit of the wild frost-grape for pies, though this is more "to make a change," as they say, since the grapes blossom and mature so late that in most places there must be other fruits before the grapes are large enough to cook.

Another desert in Ohio was vinegar pie. A pie pan was lined with crust as for custard pie. This was filled with a mixture of cold water, richly sweetened, slightly thickened with flour, to which was added sufficient vinegar to give a strongly acid flavor. A pinch of cinnamon was sprinkled over the liquid after it was poured into the crust, then slender strips of pie dough were fastened across to make a tart. If baked in a properly heated oven the liquid, as it cooked, thickened into a stick paste.

The cream pies of my day, still surviving in the part of Ohio where I was reared, were very different from the cream cakes of the bakeries. The piepan was lined with crust, then it was filled with rich cream that had been well-sweetened. Into this was sifted very slowly from a dredging-box a little flour—perhaps a dessertspoonful to one pie. About a dessertspoonful of butter was cut up into small bits and scattered over the cream. A pinch of cinnamon was added. This made an indigestibly rich, but delicious dessert. Another queer Northern Ohio dish is known as cheese pie. A cup of the curd obtained from sour milk by draining off its whey is beaten with two eggs, a little sweet milk and "sugar to taste." Then flavor with cinnamon and bake in a crust in a deep pieplate.—American Kitchen Magazine.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Peanut Wafers—Chop fine one pint of shelled and skinned peanuts, add three well-beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of milk, pinch of salt and one cup of sugar creamed with two tablespoonfuls of butter. Then add flour to make a soft dough, roll thin, cut into strips and bake in a moderate oven. These last some time if kept under lock and key.

Cod Creams—Pound one-half pound of cod to a fine consistency with an ounce and a half of bread crumbs; mix with a beaten egg and half a gill of stiff white sauce. Add a dash of pepper and a heaping saltspoonful of salt and rub through a sieve. Butter small molds and fill three-fourths full of the mixture. Steam twenty minutes. They may be served with or with it a white sauce.

Kidney with Mushrooms—Skin, halve and core the kidneys, after they have been blanched; sprinkle them with salt and pepper; egg and crumb them twice; fry them in plenty of fat till a good brown; keep them hot. Peel and trim a large mushroom for each half kidney; fry it till tender in the same fat as the kidneys. Lay a mushroom on a hot dish, place on it a slice of tomato heated in the oven, then a half kidney.

Smothered Asparagus—Split stale biscuits, scoop out the centers and put the tops and bottoms into the oven to dry. Cut off the tender tips of one bunch of asparagus, boil in salted water until tender, drain and chop fine. Scald one cupful of milk, add two well-beaten eggs; when it thickens add one tablespoonful of butter, pepper and salt to taste, and the chopped asparagus. Let it just come to a boil, take from the fire, fill the biscuits, replace the tops, set in the oven for three minutes and serve.

The earliest Greek coins bore a lion or tortoise on the obverse, and punch marks on the reverse.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DI VINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: God's Saving Grace—Religion is an Active Principle Which Works Constantly For the Welfare of Body and Mind and Soul—Hope For Sinners

(Copyrighted)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dr. Talmage is now traveling in Norway, where he has been deeply interested in the natural phenomena and the quaint social life of that wonderful land. In this sermon he argues, contrary to the opinions of many, that religion is an active principle which works constantly for the welfare of body and mind and soul. His text is Luke xiv. 34, "Salt is good."

The Bible is a [illegible] of [illegible] similes. It employs [illegible] pictures storks and eagles and doves and [illegible] corns and sheep and [illegible] sycamores and [illegible] and [illegible] gates and almonds and [illegible] jewels, pearls and [illegible] and chrysoprases. Christ [illegible] illustrations. The lilies that He pictures in His discourse are down to-day, the fowls in His discourses are not [illegible] species of birds, but warm with [illegible] from wing tip to wing tip, the fish He points to are not dull about the gills, as though long [illegible] tured, but a-squirm in the wet net just brought up on the beach of Tiberias. In my text, which is the peroration of one of His sermons, He picks up a crystal and holds it before His congregation as an illustration of divine grace in the heart when He says what we all know by experiment, "Salt is good."

I shall try to carry out the Saviour's idea in this text and in the first place say to you that grace is like salt in its beauty. In Galicia there are mines of salt with excavations and underground passages reaching, I am told, 280 miles. Far underground there are chapels and halls of reception, the columns, the altars and the pulpits of salt. When the king and the princes come to visit these mines, the whole place is illuminated, and the glory of crystal walls and crystal ceilings and crystal floors and crystal columns, under the glare of the torches and the lamps, needs words of crystal to describe it. But you need not go so far as that to find the beauty of salt. You live in a land which produces millions of bushels of it in a year, and you can take the morning rail train and in a few hours get to the salt mines and salt springs, and you have this article morning, noon and night on your table. Salt has all the beauty of the snowflake and water foam with durability added. It is beautiful to the naked eye, but under the glass you see the stars, and the diamonds, and the white tree branches, and the splinters, and the bridges of fire as the sun glints them. There is more architectural skill in one of these crystals of salt than human ingenuity has ever demonstrated in an Alhambra or St. Peter's.

It would take all time, with an infringement upon eternity, for an angel of God to tell one-half the glories in a salt crystal. So with the grace of God; it is perfectly beautiful. I have seen it smooth out wrinkles of care from the brow; I have seen it make an aged man feel almost young again; I have seen it lift the stooping shoulders and put sparkle into the dull eye. Solomon discovered its therapeutic qualities when he said, "It is marrow to the bones." It helps to digest the food and to purify the blood and to calm the pulses and quiet the spleen, and instead of Tyndall's prayer test of twenty years ago, putting a man in a philosophical hospital to be experimented upon by prayer, it keeps him so well that he does not need to be prayed for as an invalid. I am speaking now of a healthy religion—not of that morbid religion that sits for three hours on a gravestone reading Hervey's "Meditations Among the Tombs"—a religion that prospers best in a bad state of the liver! I speak of the religion that Christ preached. I suppose, when that religion has conquered the world, that disease will be banished, and that a man 100 years of age will come in from business and say, "I am tired; I think it must be time for me to go," and without one physical pang heaven will have him.

But the chief beauty of grace is in the soul. It takes that which was hard and cold and repulsive and makes it all over again. It pours upon one's nature what David calls "the beauty of holiness." It extirpates everything that is hateful and unclean. If jealousy and pride and lust and worldliness lurk about, they are chained and have a very small sweep. Jesus throws upon the soul the fragrance of a summer garden as He comes in saying, "I am the Rose of Sharon," and He submerges it with the glory of a spring morning, as He says, "I am the light."

Oh, how much that grace did for the three Johns! It took John Bunyan, the foul mouthed, and made him John Bunyan, the immortal dreamer; it took John Newton, the infidel sailor, and in the midst of the hurricane made him cry out, "My mother's God, have mercy upon me!" It took John Summerfield from a life of sin and by the hand of a Christian maker of edge tools led him into the pulpit that burns still with the light of that Christian eloquence which charmed thousands to the Jesus whom He once despised. Ah, you may search all the earth over for anything so beautiful or beautifying as the grace of God! Go all through the deep mine passages of Wieliczka and amid the underground kingdoms of salt in Hallstadt and show me anything so transcendently beautiful as this grace of God fashioned and hung in eternal crystals.

Again, grace is like salt in the fact that it is a necessity of life. Man and beast perish without salt. What are those paths across the western prairie? Why, they were made there by deer and buffalo going to and coming away from the salt licks. Chemists and physicians all the world over tell us that salt is a necessity of life. And so with the grace of God, you must have it or die. I know a great many speak of it as a mere adornment, a sort of shoulder strap adorning a soldier, or a little frothing dessert brought in after the greater part of the dinner is eaten, a kind of [illegible] medicine to be taken after [illegible] but must all [illegible] a necessity [illegible] without [illegible] a necessity [illegible] strife of [illegible] he draws [illegible] load and [illegible] him to [illegible] So far from that I discover the grace of God to be the first and the last necessity. It is food we must take or starve into an eternity of famine. It is clothing, without which we freeze to the mast of infinite peril. It is the plank and the only plank on which we can [illegible] shoreward. It is the ladder, and the only ladder, on which we can climb up into the light. It is a postive necessity for the soul. You can tell very easily what the effect would be if a person refused to take salt into the body. The energies would fail, the lungs would struggle with the air, slow fevers would crawl through the brain, the heart would flutter, and the life would be gone. Salt, a necessity for the life of the body; the grace of God, a necessity for the life of the soul!

Again, I remark that grace is like salt in abundance. God has strewn salt in vast profusion all over the continents. Russia seems built on a salt-cellar. There is one region in that country that turns out 90,000 tons of salt in a year. England and Russia and Italy have inexhaustible resources in this respect. Norway and Sweden, white with snow above, white with salt beneath. Austria, yielding 900,000 tons annually. Nearly all the nations rich in it—rock salt, spring salt, sea salt.

Christ, the Creator of the world, when He uttered our text, knew it would become more and more significant as the shafts were sunk, and the springs were bored, and the pumps were [illegible] tals were [illegible] abundant. [illegible] for all [illegible] everything [illegible] sort for [illegible] light for [illegible] Around [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JULY 22.

Subject: Peter's Confession and Christ's Rebuke, Matt. xvi., 13-26—Golden Text: Matt. xvi., 24—Memory Verses, 24-26—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

13. "Cæsarea Philippi." A city three or four miles east of Dan, near the eastern source of the Jordan River. "Whom do men say?" Christ did not ask this question (1) for information or (2) because He desired the applause of men, or (3) because He intended to form His course according to the reply, but (4) because "He desired to ground His disciples in the deepest faith." "The Son of Man." This was a title He frequently applied to Himself, but it was never applied to Him by the apostles. It expressed His human, visible side.

14. "Some say," etc. People held different opinions concerning Christ. Some said John the Baptist returned to life. Some, Elias, who was to be the forerunner of the Messiah; others, Jeremias, "in accordance with the tradition that Jeremiah was to come and reveal the place where the sacred vessels were concealed," and others, one of the prophets.

15. "Whom say ye." This was the decisive moment in which the separation of the New Testament from the Old Testament theocracy was to be made. The hour had come for the utterance of a distinct Christian confession.

16. "Simon Peter answered." He spoke for all the apostles. "Thou art the Christ." "The Messiah. "The Anointed One. Messiah is the Hebrew and Christ is the Greek for "anointed." He was the One who was anointed by the Father as Prophet, Priest and King. "Son of the living God." "God is here styled the living God, because He is the author of all life and existence; hence, self-existent, eternal."

17. "Blessed art thou." Peter and the apostles were blessed because they had broken away from Jewish prejudices and had really accepted Jesus as the Christ. "Bar-Jonah" (R. V.). "The son of Jonah. Bar means son. "Flesh and blood." No human being hath revealed it unto thee. Such knowledge does not originate in the human mind. [illegible] Christ Himself. "My Father." God

18. "Thou art Peter." "Petros," the Greek word for stone, or a piece of rock. This name had been given him by Jesus when Jesus first met him. John 1:42. "And upon this rock." In the Greek this "petra," or rock in mass. This verse has elicited much discussion. Regarding it there are four principal views, all of them supported by good authorities. 1. That Peter was the rock on which Christ was to build His church. 2. That Peter and all true believers are the rock. 3. That the confession Peter had just made was the rock. 4. That Christ had reference to Himself when He said "upon this rock." It seems to me that the true view is the last one stated. Christ is the foundation of His church. He is the tried stone, the precious cornerstone, the "sure foundation." Isa. 28:16. "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." 1 Cor. 3:11. It was as though Christ had said, Thou art "Petros," a stone, a fragment of a rock; but upon this "petra," this solid rock, which is Myself—the Christ, I will build My church.

In support of the other views the following quotation may be cited: 1. "Peter as one of the apostles and a representative of all, filled with living experience and faith in Jesus as the Messiah, is a rock," one of the great foundation stones on which Christ is rearing His building, His enduring and glorious church. Com. Eph. 2:20; Rev. 21:14."—Peloubet. 2. "Every one who possesses a like faith is, according to the measure of his faith, a Peter, that is, a rock; and Christ builds His church on this rock, that is, on the living experience of faith in the Christ, inspired in the hearts of men by the Spirit of God."—Abbott. 3. "Upon this very rock—this true confession of thine—that I am the Messiah, who is come to reveal and communicate the living God, that the dead, lost world may be saved—upon this very rock, Myself, thus confessed, will I build My church."—Adam Clarke. "My church." The word for church properly denoted a congregation or assemblage of people called out.—Morison. "The gates of hell." "The kingdom of Satan."—Lange. The gates are the entrance into Hades (R. V.), the realm of death; but Hades—the "underworld" (Lange), or death, shall have no power over My church; it shall stand forever."

19. "The keys of the kingdom of heaven." Keys are a symbol of power and authority. Peter and the other apostles were to be the representatives of Christ's church on earth, and they were given power and authority to organize and establish His church after His death. Peter actually unlocked the kingdom of heaven to the Jews on the day of Pentecost when three thousand were converted, and a little later to the Gentiles. Acts 10:34-48. They also received the key to the interpretation of the Old Testament scriptures. "Shalt bind." This is an explanation of the gift of the keys. To bind meant to forbid or to declare forbidden; to loose meant to allow, or to declare allowable. "Bound in heaven." Shall receive the authority and sanction and approbation of God. They were to be guided in the organization of the church by Christ and the Holy Spirit. The apostles had knowledge and authority which no one after them needs or can rightly claim.

20. "Tell no man." The time had not come yet to proclaim Him publicly.

21. "Jesus began to show." Heretofore He had spoken obscurely, but He now speaks plainly. "Of the elders." The detailed enumeration of these parties proves that there was a general conspiracy on the part of all the Jewish authorities.

22. "Peter took Him." Aside apart from the rest. "Rebuke Him." He only began; he was soon interrupted. This shows Peter's boldness, and his inability to be in the wrong. "Lord, shall never be unto Thee." (R. V.) This was so contrary to the commonly accepted idea of the Messiah and the coming kingdom that Peter was not ready to accept it.

23. "Get thee behind Me, Satan." Satan means adversary. Jesus did not call His apostle a devil, but He saw in this suggestion a repetition of the old temptation by which He was offered the glory of the kingdoms of the world without His coming to the cross. "Thou art a stumbling-block unto Me." (R. V.) A hindrance instead of a help. "Thou mindest not." (R. V.) Thou dost not understand or discern the things of God; thou art wholly taken up with the thought that My kingdom is of this world.

24. "Will come after Me." Will follow My directions and be My disciple. "Deny Himself." Christ shows the apostles the nature of His kingdom. They must "abstain from all indulgences which stand in the way of duty." "Take up His cross." Whoever would follow Christ must be ready to endure affliction and even death for His sake.

26. "What is a man profited." The question implies that there is no profit. "Gain." Succeed in obtaining. "The whole world." Its honor, wealth and the enjoyment of all its pleasures.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c

A Flying Postal Service

There are several small islands in the Pacific ocean that belong to England. A vessel was wrecked during a storm on one of these islands, and it was necessary to get word to Auckland. Carrier pigeons were used. They carried the messages and brought return messages. This success led to the buying of a large flock of carrier pigeons, who were trained for the work on these islands. Each bird can carry four messages, each written on paper of a certain quality and size. When four messages are ready, a bird is sent off. Each message costs either one shilling or sixpence. These pigeons are private property.

It is told of Col. Hare, who is now the commander of the Thirty-third regiment in the Philippines, but who formerly led the Seventh cavalry, that when he first arrived in Manila he was asked by Gen. INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JULY 22.

Subject: Peter's Confession and Christ's Rebuke, Matt. xvi., 13-26—Golden Text: Matt. xvi., 24—Memory Verses, 24-26—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

13. "Caesarea Philippi." A city three or four miles east of Dan, near the eastern source of the Jordan River. "Whom do men say?" Christ did not ask this question (1) for information, or (2) because He desired the applause of men, or (3) because He intended to form His course according to the reply, but (4) because "He desired to ground His disciples in the deepest faith." "The Son of Man." This was a title He frequently applied to Himself, but it was never applied to Him by the apostles. It expressed His human, visible side.

14. "Some say," etc. People held different opinions concerning Christ. Some said John the Baptist returned to life. Some, Elias, who was to be the forerunner of the Messiah; others, Jeremias, "in accordance with the tradition that Jeremiah was to come and reveal the place where the sacred vessels were concealed," and others, one of the prophets.

15. "Whom say ye." This was the decisive moment in which the separation of the New Testament from the Old Testament theocracy was to be made. The hour had come for the utterance of a distinct Christian confession.

16. "Simon Peter answered." He spoke for all the apostles. "Thou art the Christ." The Messiah. The Anointed One. Messiah is the Hebrew and Christ is the Greek for "anointed." Jesus was the One who was anointed by the Father as Prophet, Priest and King. "Son of the living God." "God is here styled the living God, because He is the author of all life and existence; hence, self-existent, eternal."

17. "Blessed art thou." Peter and the apostles were blessed because they had broken away from Jewish prejudices and had really accepted Jesus as the Christ. "Bar-Jonah" (R. V.). The son of Jonah. Bar means son. "Flesh and blood." No human being hath revealed it unto thee. Such knowledge does not originate in the human mind. "But My Father." God only can reveal Himself.

18. "Thou art Peter." "Petros," the Greek word for stone, or a piece of rock. This name had been given him by Jesus when Jesus first met him. John 1:42. "And upon this rock." In the Greek this "petra," or rock in mass. This verse has elicited much discussion. Regarding it there are four principal views, all of them supported by good authorities. 1. That Peter was the rock on which Christ was to build His church. 2. That Peter and all true believers are the rock. 3. That the confession Peter had just made was the rock. 4. That Christ had reference to Himself when He said "upon this rock." It seems to me that the true view is the last one stated. Christ is the foundation of His church. He is the tried stone, the precious cornerstone, the "sure foundation." Isa. 28:16. "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." 1 Cor. 3:11. It was as though Christ had said, Thou art "Petros," a stone, a fragment of a rock; but upon this "petra," this solid rock, which is Myself—the Christ, I will build My church.

In support of the other views the following quotation may be cited: 1. "Peter as one of the apostles and a representative of all, filled with living experience and faith in Jesus as the Messiah, is a rock, one of the great foundation stones on which Christ is rearing His building, His enduring and glorious church. Com. Eph. 2:20; Rev. 21:14."—Peloubet. 2. "Every one who possesses a like faith is, according to the measure of his faith, a Peter, that is, a rock; and Christ builds His church on this rock, that is, on the living experience of faith in the Christ, inspired in the hearts of men by the Spirit of God."—Abbott. 3. "Upon this very rock—this true confession of thine—that I am the Messiah, who is come to reveal and communicate the living God, that the dead, lost world may be saved—upon this very rock, Myself, thus confessed, will I build My church."—Adam Clarke. "My church." The word for church properly denoted a congregation or assemblage of people called out.—Morison. "The gates of hell." "The kingdom of Satan."—Lange. The gates are the entrance into Hades (R. V.), the realm of death; but Hades—the "underworld" (Lange), or death, shall have no power over My church; it shall stand forever.

19. "The keys of the kingdom of heaven." Keys are a symbol of power and authority. Peter and the other apostles were to be the representatives of Christ's church on earth, and they were given power and authority to organize and establish His church after His death. Peter actually unlocked the kingdom of heaven to the Jews on the day of Pentecost when three thousand were converted, and a little later to the Gentiles. Acts 10:34-48. They also received the key to the interpretation of the Old Testament scriptures. "Shalt bind." This is an explanation of the gift of the keys. To bind meant to forbid or to declare forbidden; to loose meant to allow, or to declare allowable. "Bound in heaven." Shall receive the authority and sanction and approbation of God. They were to be guided in the organization of the church by Christ and the Holy Spirit. The apostles had knowledge and authority which no one after them needs or can rightly claim.

20. "Tell no man." The time had not come yet to proclaim Him publicly.

21. "Jesus began to show." Heretofore He had spoken obscurely, but He now speaks plainly. "Of the elders." The detailed enumeration of these parties proves that there was a general conspiracy on the part of all the Jewish authorities.

22. "Peter took Him." Aside, apart from the rest. "Rebuke Him." He only began; He was soon interrupted. This shows Peter's boldness, and his liability to be in the wrong. "This shall never be unto Thee." (R. V.) This was so contrary to the commonly accepted idea of the Messiah and the coming kingdom that Peter was not ready to accept it.

23. "Get thee behind Me, Satan." Satan means adversary. Jesus did not call His apostle a devil, but He saw in this suggestion a repetition of the old temptation by which He was offered the glory of the kingdoms of the world without His coming to the cross. "Thou art a stumbling-block unto Me." (R. V.) A hindrance instead of a help. "Thou mindest not." (R. V.) Thou dost not understand or discern the things of God; thou art wholly taken up with the thought that My kingdom is of this world.

24. "Will come after Me." Will follow My directions and be My disciple. "Deny himself." Christ shows the apostles the nature of His kingdom. They must abstain from all indulgences which stand in the way of duty. "Take up His cross." Whoever would follow Christ must be ready to endure affliction and even death for His sake.

26. "What is a man profited." The question implies that there is no profit. "Gain." Succeed in obtaining. "The whole world." Its honor, wealth and the enjoyment of all its pleasures.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

Northerners all going for me good Yankees. By you know that as a rule the Yankee does a good deal less swearing and does not say near so many smutty things on the average as the Southern man, any way that is my observation to date. Again, there are quite a number of Yankee Baptists on board and we have had preaching, prayer meeting, lectures, etc., as well as singing and dancing. Dr. Van Allen, a Baptist M. D., of Springfield, Mass., tells me that the laymen and the ladies all speak in these prayer meetings and at every meeting.

My mother-in-law pleased. I just tell you she ought to be here. There is sugar in everything, even the cheese, and not one half enough in the pie, pudding and cake, while no salt is in anything; I eat soda crackers and bacon and drink beer and wish for my mother-in-law all the time. Though I guess she would jump off of this thing while it is rocking so bad, as I have seen her roll out of a buggy when there was not near so much roll to the buggy, though she had a plenty.

Keeping up with my wife. Here is the way I am doing it; it is 1:30 p.m., ship time, but I have left my watch with same time as I had in Alabama, and I see it is 8:20. I have just had my dinner (lunch they call it here), and she has just about eaten her breakfast and is looking I know this very moment, for crumbs under the table, grease on the children's hands, and sand on the floor left by Mary the cook, or Graham the dude, (our only boarder). She would be pleased here, there is no sand or 'dust,' though the smell might stagger her.

I have just had a long talk with a business girl from Kansas. It is real refreshing to talk to a woman who knows all about debits and credits, discounts and exchange; quotations made on base, shaving notes, time checks and mortgages; who made her own money, and is spending it on this trip; who does not dress for dinner but dines in her breakfast outfit.

Chicken killed yesterday. I have heard of people who would not eat chicken, etc. unless it was killed the day before. I wish that fellow was here now; I think all these were killed yesterday, but perhaps the yesterday was in May, or April or March. So it is with all fresh meat on board ship. Friend, do not eat it, stick to bread, bacon and beer.

We are told to have all letters ready by to-morrow, Wednesday, the 11th, and I will close this, not that I have "run out of soap" but for the Editor's sake. I could say a great deal more. We are in a nice crowd; all cultivated and genteel; no drinking and scarcely any swearing. T. U. CRUMPTON.

Heartburn.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the hous, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—MRS. CURTIS BAGBY, Rookwalter, Ohio. When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich heartburn is likely to follow, and especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let six hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, indicating that you have eaten too much, take one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the heartburn may be avoided. Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It is the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists. Guaranteed.

After many intricate experiments, scientists have discovered methods for obtaining all the natural digestants. These have been combined in the proportion found in the human body and united with substances that build up the digestive organs, making a compound called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and allows all dyspeptics to eat plenty of nourishing food while the stomach troubles are being radically cured by the medical agents it contains. It is pleasant to take and will give quick relief. Campbelle Drug co.

AN APPEAL TO LABOR

To Organize and Federate for the Common Good.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor issued from Denver, Col., an appeal to all wage-workers to organize and federate. It says:

"Throughout our country a struggle is raging between the oppressor and the oppressed, the possessors of wealth and the laborers; the concentration of industry and wealth is the order of the day. Every worker must suffer disastrous results until they organize and federate to protect and promote their mutual interests.

"In this combination and concentration of wealth the possessors permit no sectional or state lines to interfere with their power, and it therefore behooves the toilers, the wealth producers to unite and federate regardless whether they are located east, west, north or south; irrespective of sex, politics, color or religion. The hope of the workers, the prayer of all our people, for justice and right and the perpetuation of republican institutions lies in organized labor.

"Recognizing these essential truths, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor appeals to all wage-workers of whatever trade or calling to organize unions where they do not exist, to join those already organized, to form unions and international unions of their respective trades and callings and to affiliate in one common bond of labor upon the broad platform and under the proud banner of the American Federation of Labor.

"In calling upon the workers to unite and federate we aim to do no one wrong, but establish rights for all."

THE WAR IN MEXICO.

General Torres Makes Detailed Report of the Campaign.

General Luis Torres, governor of Sonora and commander-in-chief of the forces against the Yaquis in Mexico, has made a detailed report of the progress of the campaign to President Diaz and Minister of War Reyes. From an interview with him it is gathered that the Yaquis have been pretty well scattered and broken up into small bodies, and are not seriously troublesome at present. Several batches of prisoners have been sent to Guadalajara, Irapuato and other places, with the view of making useful citizens out of them.

Jones Satisfied With the Outlook.

Chairman Jones of the Democratic National committee says: "I am perfectly satisfied with the conditions with which we are to enter upon the campaign. Differences have been and are being settled, and the different factions of the party have patched up their differences and are now working in harmony.

"Regarding China, there is a general feeling that the president should use all means in his power to protect the United States citizens and property there, but I don't believe the people will accept the situation as an excuse to acquire territory there, as has been done in the Philippines."

Sandy Hook Carelessness.

Captain Burg of the Savannah Line steamer City of Birmingham reports that when passing Sandy Hook, shortly after noon Saturday bound in from Savannah, a shell, which was fired from Sandy Hook proving grounds, struck the water between his vessel and the shore, about 150 feet from the vessel and richocheting, passed over his vessel about midships. There was great excitement aboard the vessel at what was considered a very narrow escape.

Were Safe July 20.

The minister of foreign affairs at Brussels, M. Fabreaux, has received the following telegram from Shanghai:

"A telegram from the governor of Shan Tung announces that the ministers were safe July 20. They were under the guardianship of the Chinese authorities.

"Li Hung Chang arrived at Shanghai Saturday."

Whatever anyone may think about the feasibility of abolishing corporal punishment, there is no one in the country who does not think that a school that is orderly without whipping and scolding is vastly better than one in which order is secured by either. What more is needed? asks the Journal of Education.

UNITED STATES TO MEDIATE

Between the Imperial Government and the Powers Under Conditions

WHICH MUST FIRST BE MET BY CHINESE

It Is Stated on Good Authority That the United States Has Made Certain Conditions Regarding Ministers and Missionaries.

President McKinley has listened to the appeal of the Chinese government as transmitted through Minister Wu, and has signified his willingness to mediate between the Imperial government and the powers, but only upon conditions which must first be met by the Chinese government.

The exact terms proposed by the United States cannot be stated, but it is expected that publication will be made of the text of the Chinese appeal and of the president's message. It is not known, however, that this is entirely consistent with the statement of principle laid down by Secretary Hay in his identical note to the powers, and moreover it accepts as truthful the Chinese statements relative to the safety of the foreign ministers at Pekin.

The United States' answer does not go to the length of the French answer to a similar appeal in laying down conditions which the Chinese government could not meet, even if so disposed, if it is actually struggling for existence.

It does, however, look to the immediate relief of the foreign missionaries in Pekin, and moreover to the protection of all foreigners, missionaries and traders in China, and to the restoration of order.

The imperial edict made public Monday at the state department shows that the imperial government has already taken the first step toward doing what the United States requires as the principal condition for the exercise of its good offices in enjoining the viceroys, magistrates and leading men to stop the disorders and protect foreigners. Our government will await the result of this before proceeding further.

To Prove Ministers are Alive.

The Chinese minister to England, Sir Chih Shen Lo Feng Luh, has communicated to the press the following dispatch from Sheng, director general of Chinese telegraphs, and Tao Tai of Shanghai, dated Shanghai, July 23:

"Information from Pekin dated July 18 says that the Tsung-li-Yamen deputed Won Jui, an under secretary of the department, to see the foreign ministers and he found every one well, without any missing, the German minister excepted. General Wung Lo is going to memorialize the throne to send them all under escort to Tien Tsin in the hope that the military operations will then be stopped."

BOYCOTT IN DALLAS.

Organized Labor Helping to Prosecute Street Car Strike.

A Dallas, Tex., dispatch says: Union motormen are prosecuting vigorously the strike on the Dallas Consolidated Street Railway, backed by the entire organized labor forces of the city. W. D. Mahon, of Detroit, Mich., the international president, is to go to Dallas to take charge of the strike.

The State Federation of Labor assembled in Dallas for a four days' meeting in executive session. The Dallas Typographical Union has passed a resolution fining any member riding on the Consolidated system $5 for each offense.

Yellow Fever in U. S. Barracks.

Yellow fever has broken out in the barracks of the Seventh United States Cavalry and the First United States Infantry in Pinar del Rio, Cuba. There have been nine deaths during the present month, and eleven cases are now under treatment in the hospitals. General Lee has ordered the army moved three miles into the country, and quarantine will be strictly enforced.

ALABAMA NEWS SUMMARY.

Eleven Negroes Find a Watery Grave in Warrior River.

Eleven negro men were drowned in Warrior river, near Akron, at about 8 o'clock Monday afternoon by the capsizing of a skiff. This occurred at government lock No. 5, now being constructed by Christie, Lowe & Hayworth. These contractors received this news by telegram from Akron, sent by P. T. Donohoe, who is superintendent of the work at lock No. 5. These negroes were employed by these contractors. At present the name of only one of the eleven can be learned, and that by a telegram from George Greene to his wife, Mary Greene, saying George Moore was among the number drowned.

Mob's Work at Huntsville.

After being repulsed by a volley from rifles in the hands of deputy sheriffs, a mob of one thousand determined men resorted to a unique plan Monday and smoked Sheriff Fulghum out of the Madison county jail, took Elijah Clark from his cell and hanged him to a tree near the Dallas mills and avenged an assault on Susie Priest, a poor factory girl. The negro was carried to the girl and identified and then taken to Moore grove and swung to a limb, his body being riddled with bullets and shot.

Governor Johnston stated that he would exert every effort to punish the men who were in the mob that lynched Clark at Huntsville. He did all in his power to prevent the lynching of the negro and had directed that court should be convened at once to try him. Had the negro not been lynched he would, in all probability, have been given a trial this week.

Democrats Waited Too Long.

The democrats of Shelby county seem to have gotten themselves into something of a muddle and defeat at the August election is one of the probabilities that now confront them.

For some unaccountable reason the ticket for county officers put out by the democrats of that county was not certified to the office of probate judge within the time prescribed by law and for that reason the probate judge refuses to have their names printed on the official ballot.

The only way the democrats can vote for the nominees will be to write their names on the blank lines, which the law directs shall be provided.

Ban on Fair Grounds Removed.

The Birmingeam Trades' Council's committee, appointed to confer with representative citizens, who are interested in the holding of a state fair, has recommended to the Council that the ban against the fair grounds be withdrawn, the citizens interested in the movement of a state fair being men who are friendly to organized labor, and at all times acknowledge that class of labor. The recommendation of the committee was adopted by the council and the boycott on the grounds, which proved so disastrous to the last fair association, was taken off.

Prisoners Attempt to Escape.

Prisoners in the county jail at Anniston made an evident attempt Sunday night to set fire to the building. The fire was seen by passing policemen, who aroused the jailer and the fire was extinguished without damage. The prisoners had stuffed a mattress into a stove pipe hole in one of the cells and set fire to it.

MESSAGE FROM CONGER

Minister Wires That Legations Are Still Holding Out at Pekin

UNDER SHOT AND SHELL FROM CHINESE

Secretary Hay Says Its Authenticity is Not Doubted—Quick Relief Only Can Prevent a General Massacre of Foreigners.

A Washington dispatch says: United States Minister Conger is alive in Pekin. An official cipher cable dispatch has been received from him through the Chinese minister, Wu Ting Fang. Minister Conger cables from the British legation in Pekin. He says he is under continued shot and shell from Chinese troops and that quick relief only can prevent a general massacre. Minister Conger's official dispatch, as translated and given out by the state department, is as follows:

"In British Legation, Pekin.—Hay, Washington, care Wu Ting Fang: Under continued shot and shell from Chinese troops. Quick relief only can prevent general massacre.

"CONGER."

The message from Minister Conger is not dated, but it is understood it was sent from Pekin on July 18.

The cablegram was received by Wu Ting Fang at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning. It was in the state department cipher, and was transmitted through the Tsung Li Yamen and the Shanghai Taotai. Immediately upon receipt of the message, Minister Wu hastened to the state department with it, where Secretary Hay caused it to be deciphered at once. There was a great outburst of joy in Washington when it became known that Minister Conger is still alive.

The dispatch was in reply to Secretary Hay's cable inquiry to Mr. Conger on July 11, and as both messages were in the American cipher code, they were regarded by the officials as above the suspicion as having been tampered with in the course of transmission through Chinese channels.

It was telegraphed by Secretary Hay to the president, who responded with a wholesome expression of gratification, and word of it was sent to the various cabinet officers. They gathered in Secretary Hay's office and an impromptu cabinet conference was held in the diplomatic chamber, mainly for the purpose of exchanging congratulations and of taking a survey of the situation to see if it had been materially changed by this important development.

The consultation brought about no pronounced changed of policy, for it was felt that every energy had been bent toward meeting the situation and that there was absolutely nothing more that could be done. After all the cabinet officials felt, and so stated, that the message was an evidence of friendliness and good faith of the pro-foreign element of the Chinese and that wisdom dictated a course which would continue to utilize this friendship. The government accepted the message as authentic.

A message was also sent by Secretary Long to Admiral Remey, conveying the intelligence of the desperate situation in Pekin and instructing him to "use and urge every possible endeavor for relief."

This message, Secretary Long explained, meant for Admiral Remey to himself "use" and to "urge" upon the commanding officers of the other powers the use of every endeavor for the relief of Pekin.

Kentucky Farmer Murdered.

Robert Bryant, a prominent and wealthy farmer, was killed at Owensboro, Ky., Sunday by Samuel Kelly. Bryant was 70 years of age and Kelly 60. Kelly is a bachelor and is Bryant's brother-in-law, and has been making his home at Bryant's two years or more. It is said that Kelly quarreled with Bryant, and that the latter took a little grandchild and went out to the barn to avoid trouble. Kelly got a double-barrel shotgun and followed him. He walked within a few feet of Bryant and called to him. Just as Bryant turned facing Kelly the latter fired. Kelly was arrested.

Judge Robert Trippe Dead.

Judge Robert Trippe, a member of the confederate congress, and at one time a judge of the supreme court of Georgia, died in Atlanta Sunday.

Ex-Representative George M. Curtis of Iowa has been tendered the appointment of First Assistant Postmaster General vice Perry S. Heath resigned.

BECKHAM NOMINATED.

The Kentucky Democrats Name the Present Governor as Their Standard-Bearer.

The Hon. J. C. W. Beckham was nominated for governor of Kentucky by acclamation by the democratic state convention at Lexington shortly before 4 o'clock Friday morning, after an all night's session.

The only object of the convention was the nomination of a candidate for governor to fill the unexpired term of William Goebel, who was assassinated last January.

The names of Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, Judge James D. Black and Judge James P. Tarvin were presented.

About 3 a. m., when the call of the counties was almost completed, Charles Metcalf withdrew the name of Judge Black and moved that the nomination of Beckham be made by acclamation.

Judge Tarvin withdrew his own name and seconded this motion. The name of Pryor was also withdrawn, and Governor Beckham was nominated by acclamation.

The nominee of the convention is only 30 years old, unmarried and with his cleanly shaven face looks even younger than 30. He has served three terms in the legislature and was the candidate for lieutenant governor last year with William Goebel, succeeding to the governorship on the death of Mr. Goebel. The term is four years in Kentucky and he is now a candidate for the unexpired term of three years.

The platform adopted endorses the platform of the national democratic convention of Kansas City and the administration of Governor Beckham; recommended the amendment of the Goebel election law; declared that law and order must and shall prevail in Kentucky, and denounced the action of Governor Bradley in using and personally commanding the military force of the state to control the election of November, 1899, in violation of the constitution and laws of the commonwealth.

CASUALTIES IN PHILIPPINES.

Many Filipinos and Americans Were Killed and Wounded.

It was officially reported at Manila last week that 100 Filipinos were killed and 130 wounded or surrendered.

Several Americans were killed and wounded.

Captain Charles B. Roberts, of the Thirty-fifth Volunteer Infantry, who was captured by the Filipinos last May, has arrived in Manila on parole. He will not return to captivity.

Señor Buencamino last Thursday sent to Aguinaldo by means of Aguinaldo's mother, the amnesty resolutions adopted by the meeting of the representative Filipinos on June 21, together with General MacArthur's answer to them, and other documents bearing upon the restoration of peace. It is understood that Aguinaldo will summon his advisers, and that a reply may be expected within a month.

SHIPS COLLIDE.

The Campania Cut the Bark Embleton in Twain.

A dense fog hung over the Irish channel Sunday morning, says a London cablegram, and the Cunard Line steamer Campania, en route from New York to Liverpool, struck the Liverpool bark Embleton, bound for New Zealand, amidships, cutting her in twain. The Embleton sank immediately. Seven of the crew were rescued, but it is believed the other eleven members of the ship's company, including the captain, were drowned.

Cuban Elections.

It is understood that the president and General Wood have agreed upon September 15 as the time for holding the election in Cuba for delegates to the constitutional convention that is to be called for the purpose of formulating a constitution for an independent government for Cuba.

Mobile Man on Warpath.

Wheeler McCurdy, night clerk of the Royal Hotel, established a reign of terror on lower Daughin street in Mobile Saturday night, attacking John Wacker, a barkeeper, with a Winchester rifle loaded with buckshot. He missed Wacker, but shot Sam Wylie through the brain and John Hyland in the neck. He then went outside and shot William L. Ross, a young merchant, through the legs. He fired also at former City Clerk Louis D. Chaudron, and aimed at a man named Timberlake, who dodged around a corner. He then discharged his gun up the street, which was crowded with the usual Saturday night crowd.

At this point Policeman Hoyle put the man under arrest. Earlier in the evening Wacker and McCurdy had had a quarrel, and Wacker had given McCurdy a beating. McCurdy got his gun and entered the barroom and opened fire. Wylie is unconscious and his death may occur at any time.

Susan B. Anthony Will Speak.

Miss Susan B. Anthony, the famous woman's suffragist from the north, will speak at the negro race conference of colored men to be held in Montgomery this week. Rev. W. H. Nixon, the colored preacher, and his associates, have received a notice of her acceptance. The announcement that she is to speak at the colored conference will be exceeded in interest only by the attention that her address will attract. The conference meets Wednesday. The conference is held by negroes to discuss the negro question.

Killed for Squeezing His Hand.

Alex Motherwell was shot by Ed Cuttey, a former police officer at Sheffield, a few days ago. He was shaking hands with Cuttey and squeezed his hand, to which Cuttey objected, saying he would shoot him (Motherwell). The latter thinking that Cuttey was not in earnest, said: "Ed, you wouldn't shoot me, would you?" whereupon, it is stated, Cuttey fired, the bullet striking Motherwell in the abdomen. Motherwell lived thirty-six hours.

Old Days Recalled.

Prof. W. H. Councill, president of the Agricultural and Mechanical College for Negroes, at Normal, entertained the Kelly family at dinner Saturday in the old building occupied by the family fifty years ago. The building is now a part of the college. It was the family homestead nearly a hundred years. A rich dinner was was served in the old dining room at the same old table used by the family half a century ago, and Prof. Councill acted as chief waiter.

Tragedy at Prattville.

John Ray was shot and probably fatally wounded by George Coker at Prattville Sunday morning. The bullet, which was fired from a Winchester rifle, also struck Jackson Dennis. It appears that the two young men, Coker and Ray, had had a previous difficulty which was renewed by Coker with the result as stated. Jackson Dennis was a bystander and was accidentally struck by the flying bullet.

Birmingham's Building Boom.

Birmingham's building boom continues without the slightest abatement. The records of the chief of the fire department show that already twenty-two building permits have been issued during the present month for the construction of buildings, amounting to $32,908. At the present rate the total amount of building operations in the city during the year will approach, if it does not exceed, half a million dollars.

Republicans Endorse Harrison.

The republican executive committee of Russell county met in Girard and decided to support General George P. Harrison for the senate. Their action was a disappointment to the independent ticket, who had hoped that the committee would endorse General Harrison's opponent, a Phenix City citizen.

Cement Plant at Demopolis.

The determination of A. G. Barnes and associates to erect a cement plant at Demopolis was brought about by the showing made of the lime rock of the community. This was found to contain in marked degree just what was desired. The plant will cost $40,000.

Dr. Crowe Makes Appointments.

Dr. G. B. Crowe, populist nominee for governor, has announced appointments for speeches by himself at the following places: Brookwood, Tuscaloosa county, July 25; in Cherokee county, July 27 and 28; in Clay county, July 30 and 31; at Vincent, Shelby county, August 2; in St. Clair county August 3 and 4

STATE PRESS ASSOCIATION

Interesting Meeting of Alabama Editors Held in Birmingham.

ABOUT 150 MEMBERS IN ATTENDANCE

Rufus N. Rhodes Re-Elected President—Rountree Again Made Secretary—Essays and Orations Delivered—To Pike's Peak.

The twenty-ninth annual convention of the Alabama Press Association convened in Birmingham last week. The first session was called to order in the commercial club rooms by President Rufus N. Rhodes. The attendance at this meeting was very large, there being about one hundred and fifty members of the association, accompanied by their wives and daughters, present.

Dr. B. D. Gray, pastor of the First Baptist church, opened the meeting with prayer, after which President W. H. Kettig of the Commercial club welcomed the visitors to the city in behalf of the club.

Erwin Craighead, of the Mobile Register, responded to the address of welcome.

President Rhodes delivered his annual address, in which he called attention to the work of the secretary of the association, saying that Secretary Rountree had arranged an outing for this year that was the best ever planned for the Alabama editors. He referred to Mr. Rountree's connection with the State Fair Association, which conducted the state fair in this city last year and which failed to pay a great many of the Alabama newspapers for advertising the fair. He said that Mr. Rountree had suffered much greater financial loss than any of the editors of the state, and that all the connection he had with the fair association was to act as secretary under the direction of a board of directors.

He congratulated the Alabama editors on the better appearance of their papers and better run of advertising they seem to be getting, and also upon the greater independence they were showing in their editorial utterances.

The following resolution was introduced by Mr. Jemison:

"Whereas, there has been some criticism growing out of the failure of the State Fair Association in carrying out contracts with the state papers to advertise the fair; and

"Whereas, our fellow member and brother of the press, J. Asa Rountree, was the secretary of said fair association, acting under a board of directors or control and was in no way responsible for said failure, the same should not be visited upon him; therefore,

"Be it resolved, that it is the privilege and pleasure of this body to exonerate and acquit him of any blame attaching to the unfortunate failure of the fair association to meet its obligations,

"Resolved further, that this resolution be spread upon the records of this association."

Adopted by a rising vote.

The first paper on the programme was one by General J. B. Stanley of the Greenville Advocate on "What Is News; How to Tell It, and What Not to Tell." General Stanley argued against printing sensational news of all kinds, saying the editor should allow nothing to go in his paper which he would not like for his family to read. C. J. Hildreth followed Mr. Stanley and argued along the same line.

Mrs. Mildred Pierce of the Citronelle Times read the annual poem. She did not call it a poem, however, saying that she preferred to devote her paper to woman in business. The paper she had prepared was a very able presentation of the question. Mrs. Pierce does not believe in women going into active competition with men in all branches of work. She believes it detracts from her womonly character and causes her to be less respected by men.

C. H. Greer of the Marion Standard read a paper on "The Dark and Bright Side of Newspaper Life."

Mrs. Lila Carlisle Crawford read a very interesting paper on "Reminiscences of Alabama's First Press Association.

Mrs. R. D. Johnston, of Birmingham, who is at the head of the Boys' Industrial school at East Lake, was introduced to the association by President Rhodes. Mrs. Johnston spoke of the work that had been done towards building the school and of the success with which its promoters had so far met, and appealed to the newspapers to assist in the work.

The following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That the thanks of the Alabama Press Association are hereby extended to Mrs. R. D. Johnston for her interesting address, and hereby pledge hearty co-operation with the good women who are engaged in the noble work of building a reform industrial school for boys, and will do its utmost to make it the success which conditions in the state suggest it should be."

Major W. W. Screws, of the Montgomery Advertiser, historian of the association, made his report. He briefly reviewed the early history of newspapers in Alabama. Major Screws has been at work on a history of Alabama newspapers for a number of years, and it is his intention to publish a book on this subject just as soon as he can get all the data necessary.

The second day's session of the convention of the association opened with the main assembly room of the Commercial Club crowded and the hall and adjoining rooms well filled. The meeting was called to order by President Rufus N. Rhodes.

Mr. Thomas M. Owen was extended the courtesy of the floor on motion of Major Screws, who stated that he was mistaken when he said the first paper published in Alabama was in Huntsville, Mr. Owen having discovered that a paper called the "Mobile Sentinel" was established in Fort Stoddard in 1811.

Mrs. Robert M. Rawls, of the Athens Courier, submitted the "Annual Essay," who pictured an ideal strength in womanhood. She said that the physical development should go hand in hand with mental development. Lack of gymnastic practice in the educational institutions for women was said to account for the frail strength of many college bred women.

"Are Ready Prints Injurious to Weekly Papers?" was the subject of a paper by J. C. Williams, of Our Mountain Home, Talladega. He first told of the inauguration of the patent outside. During the war, he said, Mr. Kellogg found it impossible to get his paper out in full, so he went to Chicago and got one side printed from a daily paper, thus conceiving the idea of the patent outside. Mr. Williams was opposed to the patent outside, taking a strong stand for all home print.

Mr. C. H. Frye, of the Pratt City Herald, took issue upon the proposition, saying that many persons took only their weekly papers and had a right to expect a review of the happenings of all the world, in addition to the news of the home town, and this could be afforded on limited means only by the patent outsides.

The proposition was generally discussed, Mr. Yerby and Mr. O'Neill speaking, the former favoring the patent outside and the latter all home print. Mr. Judson said that conditions governed the matter. J. H. F. Moseley, of the Labor Advocate, said he could scarcely run his paper without the co-operation of the association.

The annual oration was then delivered by Mr. I. A. Levy, of Falkville.

A resolution was offered making those who had been members of the association twenty-five years life members and relieving them of dues. The resolution was offered by Frank Miles, of Union Springs.

A resolution was offered pledging the assistance of the association to the Alabama Historical Association in its efforts to collect and preserve matters of a historic character. Adopted.

The following officers were re-elected:

Rufus N. Rhodes, president; W. E. W. Yerby, vice president; Tom Garner, second vice-president; J. A. Rountree, secretary; W. M. Bunting, treasurer; H. S. Doster, of the Prattville Progress, orator; Charles Greer, poet; Mrs. B. H. Frye, annual essayist; W. W. Screws, historian.

Delegates to the national association, which convenes in Buffalo next May, were chosen as follows: W. W. Screws, Jacob Pepperman, I. Levy, Robert Rawls, W. M. Bunting, Mrs. Mildred Pierce, Rufus N. Rhodes, Charles Greer, John C. Williams, E. O. Neeley, J. B. Stanley, Rev. S. P. West, J. A. Rountree, C. J. Hildreth, J. H. F. Moseley. Each delegate was allowed to select his own alternate.

Major Screws invited the association to meet in Montgomery next time, and that place was unanimously selected.

The committee on resolutions reported through Jacob Pepperman, indorsing the movement to secure a silver service for the warship Alabama, thanking Mr. Rountree for faithful service; thanking Major W. W. Screws for valuable work as historian; thanking the railroads of Alabama for courtesy; thanking the Commercial club of Birmingham, the Birmingham Railway & Electric company, hotels and the members of the Birmingham Press club for courtesies, and extending thanks to the officers of the association for faithful services. The report was adopted.

The committee on memorial had no report, and adjournment was taken, after prayer by Rev. S. P. West.

Wednesday night the editors left on their trip to Pike's Peak.

ALLEGED PLOT IN MANILA.

Discovery of the Secret Service Department.

The Secretary of War has been furnished with copies of some interesting documents relating to an alleged plot against the authorities in Manila, which were discovered in the district of San Miguel.

The Secret Service Department, under Lieutenant Charles B. Trowbridge, Eleventh cavalry, early in June stumbled upon an insurgent recruiting office situated in an isolated locality, where the work might be carried on without attracting notice. One room of the house was fitted up as an office, and a large quantity of black forms bearing the headline "Republica Filipinas" were found.

In a cupboard which had been securely fastened Trowbridge and his men discovered a large quantity of papers, all of recent date, the latest being June 7. They consisted of orders from Aguinaldo and letters of encouragement and instruction from the leader and other insurgent chiefs. A document which excited a great deal of interest was one which contained the details of a plot arranged evidently early in June to excite an uprising in Manila. The plan contemplated an attack upon the force in the city and the seizure of arms and ammunition.

FINLEY TALKS.

He Thinks the Testimony of Culton a Flat Failure.

Said Charles Finley, ex-secretary of state of Kentucky, in speaking of the trial of Caleb Powers, at Georgetown, Ky.:

"If bringing the men from the interior of Kentucky to Frankfort and permitting them to petition the legislature is a crime I am guilty. Every other republican leader in Frankfort, including Governor Taylor, is equally guilty.

"Citizens of the state have a right to petition the legislature, and that is what these mountaineers we have heard so much about did. It is a fact that they did not all return to their homes at once. This was nothing unusual. Culton's testimony was a flat failure. He did not show up as a star witness at all. I am interested in seeing what sort of instructions the judge gives the jury."

REVOLUTION IN COLUMBIA.

United States Will Send Warship to Isthmus of Panama.

The government is now wishing that it had a warship at a convenient point on the Isthmus of Panama, though only a week ago the Machias was relieved from that place and started homeward.

The smouldering revolutionary movement in that section of Colombia has broken out again, according to advices to the state department, and heavy fighting is going on between Colon and Panama. So far the insurrectionists have been induced to respect the towns of Panama and Colon and confine their hostilities to the country outside.

Lee Has New Command.

Orders issued at the war department Saturday consolidate the departments of Havana and Pinar del Rio and Mantanzas and Santa Clara into one department to be known as the Department of Western Cuba, with headquarters at Quemados, and designate the departments of Santiago and Puerto Principe as the Department of Eastern Cuba, with headquarters at Santiago. General Fitzhugh Lee is assigned to command the former and Colonel Whiteside, tenth cavalry, to the command of the latter.

Florida Republicans.

The following candidates were nominated by the republicans at Ocala: Governor, J. N. Combs, of Franklin county; secretary of state, George W. Allen, of Monroe; judge of the supreme court, M. B. McFarlane, of Hillsborough; comptroller, J. W. Powell, of Polk; treasurer, W. G. Robinson, of Alachua; attorney general, Fred Cubberly, of Levy; commissioner of agriculture, O. C. Butterick, of Hernando. Hon. Jno. M. Cheney, of Orlando, supervisor of the census for the Ocala congressional district, was nominated for congress by acclamation.

Clayton Nominated.

The third district democratic convention held at Eufaula renominated H. D. Clayton for congress by acclamation. Mr. Clayton is now serving his second term in congress. He is the son of the late Gen. H. D. Clayton. One of his brothers, Bertram Clayton, a West Pointer, is the democratic congressman from one of the Brooklyn districts of New York.

ENDEAVORERS IN LONDON

Ten Thousand Delegates Attend the World's Convention of the Society.

GREAT GROWTH OF MOVEMENT.

The Report of Secretary Baer Shows That the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor Has 59,712 Local Societies With 3,500,000 Members—President and Secretary Re-elected.

London (By Cable).—Great enthusiasm marked the World's Convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor at the Alexandria Palace grounds. Even the intense heat could not dampen the ardor of the delegates. General Secretary John William Baer said in his annual report on "Worldwide Christian Endeavor:"

"No one thing that I know of proves more certainly that God is in the Christian Endeavor movement than its remarkable numerical growth. In 1881, one society with fifty members; in 1900, near 60,000 societies, with over 3,500,000 members. Nineteen years ago, one country, America, giving birth to our society; to-day every nation and land flies the Christian Endeavor banner.

"We find in the land of its nativity, the United States of America, the largest number of Christian Endeavor societies. The enrollment is 43,202 societies. Great Britain (and these figures include England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales) comes next with about 7000 societies.

"There are now over 4000 societies in Australasia. The Dominion of Canada marshalls nearly, if not quite 4000 societies. China, poor, bleeding storm-wrecked, was the first foreign country to take from the United States the Christian Endeavor seed; and, while the growth has been slow, comparatively, China to-day has not less than 148 societies. India has 459, and Germany has 168 societies.

"Africa's 130 societies, with many of their members in arms, are passing through trying times. As it was in 1898 during the American-Spanish war so it is to-day during the British-Boer hostilities, the Christian Endeavor pin adorns the uniform of the opposing forces.

ALEXANDRIA PALACE, LONDON.

"France responds to-day with 69 societies, Jamaica with 120, Mexico, 110; Madagascar, 93. Japan's 73 splendid and vigorous societies are worthily represented at this convention by the Rev. Tasuke Harada, the president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor of Japan. Turkey has 60 societies, Spain, 36.

"But time would fail me to go through the long list, comprising European countries, South American republics, missionary lands and the islands of the sea. The total enrollment outside of the United States and Canada is 12,540 societies, and this figure, augmented by the greater number in the United States and Canada, makes an interdenominational, international and interracial brotherhood for Christ and the church of 59,712 local societies, with a total membership of 3,500,000."

The Rev. Francis E. Clark, President of the Society of Christian Endeavor, delivered the presidential address. He spoke of Christian Endeavor in the Far East. "In progressive Japan, in distracted China, and with hopeful beginnings in Korea." His tour of the world, Mr. Clark said, had convinced him that the Christian Endeavor tree would bear fruit in any soil."

The Rev. Francis E. Clark and John Willis Baer were elected, respectively, World's President and Secretary of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor.

Young Girls Killed by a Train.

Josie Zoble, aged sixteen; Katie Schaf, nineteen, and Mary Wheeler, sixteen, while out riding started to cross the tracks of the Big Four Railroad about five miles from Shelbyville, Ill., when they were struck by the locomotive of the White City Flyer and instantly killed.

Bunion Causes a Woman's Death.

Mrs. Hiram Schultz, who lived on a farm about a mile west of Washington, N. J., died from gangrene, resulting from the poisoning of a bunion on her right foot. The trouble set in a month ago and the big toe was amputated, but it failed to save her life.

More Marine Lieutenants.

Judge-Advocate-General Lemley, at Washington, has decided that the President has the authority to appoint sixteen more second and first lieutenants in the United States Marine Corps.

A Notable Negro Dead.

Cornelius Harris, the negro member of the Grand Jury which indicted President Jefferson Davis, of the Confederate States, immediately after the civil war, died at his home at Newport News, Va. Harris was said to be the only surviving member of that jury. He was a Justice of the Peace for several years.

Tornado Destroys a Town.

Peoria, Texas, was destroyed by a tornado. Mrs. John Nelson and her two children were fatally hurt.

4. The Sunday-school for all classes, L. H. Reynolds.

4:30. Report of committees.

4:45. Open discussion by delegates and visitors. Has the convention been productive of good? Adjournment.

Turn-Round Topics.

It seems that we will have some more dry weather, after so much rain; crops will soon be suffering badly in this section if it continues dry. In places the ground is so hard that one can hardly hoe it, and a great deal of cotton needs to be plowed and can't be until it rains.

Prof. J. N. Goss has also a fine school at Corinth church.

Mrs. Daisy Connell, after spending awhile at Cross Roads, is again here with her mother, Mrs. Kendrick.

The grand revival meeting at Shady Grove Methodist church closed Sunday night with several accessions.

Mr. J. E. Goss, of Gullahorn's mill, visited home-folks Sunday.

Mr. W. F. Connell attended the big picnic at Grand View Saturday.

We are sorry to say that Mr. Ocie Todd has to go to Montgomery in care of the physicians for four weeks to have his jaw treated.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kendrick spent Sunday in Clanton.

Mr. M. C. Williams visited Clanton on business last Friday.

David Kendrick visited Elmore and Wetumpka Saturday.

Miss Genevra Goss attended the revival meeting at Concord last week.

A Swindling Scheme.

For some years past the treasury department has received from time to time letters from all parts of the country asking for information regarding certain large sums of money which, it is alleged, are on deposit in the treasury department awaiting distribution to heirs or persons of great wealth in Europe and America.

Among these noted claims is one of the heirs of a man of the name of De Haven, who is alleged to have loaned the government of the United States large sums of money during the Revolutionary war. Another well known case is that of the Robert Morris estate, the heirs of which, it is said, are entitled to receive from the government several millions of dollars. The Durkee claim also is well known in the department and involves several millions of dollars. The latest one is that of the heirs of Anneke Jans, who are said to be entitled to receive from the United States something like $90,000,000, which sum, it is said, has been received from Holland and now awaits proof of relationship.

It is stated at the treasury department that all of these claims are spurious and that they are made the basis of confidence games by agents who work upon the credulity of the uninformed. Agents, it is said, are selling bonds to raise money to prosecute these claims against the government, realizing something like $10 per $1,000 promised in case of success. The treasury department is powerless to proceed against these impostors.—Washington Post.

A Joke on Offenbach.

Offenbach, the famous opera bouffe composer, had an insatiable thirst for success and fame combined with a vanity that occasionally played him a sorry trick.

Once he was going down the Rhine on a steamer, among whose passengers was the Duke of Nassau, a fact of which the composer was in blissful ignorance.

As the steamer approached its last stopping place the bank of the river was seen to be covered by a dense throng of people who were shouting and waving their hats. A band on the pier was playing a march from one of Offenbach's operas.

As the boat touched the pier Offenbach stepped to the rail and bowed and waved his hat to the people in acknowledgment of this flattering ovation.

"It is glorious to be received in a foreign land like this!" he remarked to his companions.

But his self complacency received a rude shock the next instant when the duke's adjutant appeared and said, in a rough and unfeeling manner:

"Get out of the way, will you, and let his highness show himself!"

Beauty and Education.

Why is it that woman has always been more beautiful than man? In human beings the attractive qualities have always been on the side of the female. Why is it? Without wishing to cast any aspersion on the members of the superior sex, we may fairly answer that it is because they have hitherto been the less educated. But woman's ideas are changing. She has listened to the voice of the tempter, whispering in her ear all sorts of sweet fallacies about equality of the sexes, intellectual development and its necessity, and the like, and she has yielded to the temptation. And the result of this will be that she will lose her beauty. She will suffer in appearance as man has done and is doing, and in the course of time the extremely civilized races of mankind will be ugly—irretrievably and lamentably ugly.—Pearson's Magazine.

A Famous Pearl.

The beautiful pearl known as the Great Southern Cross was found in Western Australia in the year 1884. It consists of nine pearls joined together in the form of a cross, in which shape it was found by a man named Clarke. It is said that the finder and the first purchaser of it buried it for some time, superstitiously regarding it as a heavenly miracle. It was, however, ultimately taken up from its burial place and sold for $1,000, since which time it has frequently changed hands and is now valued at $50,000. At the Colonial and Indian exhibition in England it attracted a good deal of notice and is probably the only natural cross ever found.

Cannibals and Pork.

In the New Hebrides human life has been made safe by the introduction of pigs into the island. The cannibals are said to prefer roast pork to roast man, and as the porcine tribe increases among the natives they may give up their feasts on human flesh altogether excepting when something unusual happens, such as entertaining a king of some other cannibal island or on state occasions of rare ceremony.

Touch on the Joker.

The contributor wrote a joke about a plumber whose bills were always normal. "That," said the editor, rejecting it, "is not a joke; it's a lie."

The contributor tried again with a story of the plumber whose charges left nothing to be desired on the score of size. "That," said the editor, who had suffered, "is not a lie. Neither is it a joke."—Scraps.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles

"I have been in the drug business for twenty years and have sold most all of the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form." For sale by Clanton drug co. and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

A Life And Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at J. S. Johnson, Jr. Drug Store

Young Women

The entry into womanhood is a critical time for a girl. Little menstrual disorders started at that time soon grow into fatal complications. That female troubles are filling graveyards proves this. Wine of Cardui establishes a painless and natural menstrual flow. When once this important function is started right, a healthy life will usually follow. Many women, young and old, owe their lives to Wine of Cardui. There is nothing like it to give women freedom from pain and fit young women for every duty of life. $1.00 bottles at druggists.

Miss Della M. Streyer, Tully, Kans. "I have suffered untold pain at menstrual periods for a long time, was nervous, had no appetite, and lost interest in everything, in fact was miserable. I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui, with Thedford's Black-Draught, when needed, and to-day I am entirely cured. I cannot express the thanks I feel for what you have done for me."

View of the Imperial Palace at Pekin.

The Chinese imperial palace is the principal architectural feature of the Forbidden City, and is itself more forbidden still. To reach the palace it is necessary to pass three great walls. First, there is the great sixty-foot thick wall of the entire city. Within this is the wall of the Imperial City, six miles in circumference. Within this again is the wall of the Purple Forbidden City, which is sacred to the Emperor and his family. The Purple Forbidden City, or Tze-Kin-Cheng, is nearly square, its sides facing the four points of the compass. Two walls running from north to south divide the space into three parts. The central part contains the principal building. To this division the chief entrance is the Wu Mun, or Meridian Gate. Inside this gate is a large court, and running through it an artificial stream, spanned by five bridges of sculptured marble. Another gate at the end of the bridges gives admission to the Palace of Supreme Peace, or Tai-ho-tien, the principal hall of audience. Here the dignitaries of the empire meet and kow-tow to His Majesty. To kow-tow is to kneel thrice and knock your forehead on the ground nine times. To the innermost palace no man is admitted. It is here that the emperor lives, surrounded by his uncounted wives.

The Modern State of the Salt Industry.

Interesting Processes.

CONSPICUOUS among the natural resources of the State of Michigan are the forests which cover a considerable extent of its surface and the large deposits of salt which underlie a great portion of its area. In the vicinity of Manistee where the "salt blocks" which form the subject of the present article are located, this deposit consists of a stratum of rock salt, which is from twenty-five to thirty feet in thickness. Salt blocks are usually built in connection with sawmill plants, with a view to making use of the refuse as fuel, and for this reason the city of Manistee has of late years become such a large producer of salt that about half of all this commodity manufactured in the State is made at that point.

As soon as the site of a well has been selected, a cellar is excavated and planked up and a derrick, usually about eighty feet high, is erected and the work of drilling commences. The first operation is to sink a section of ten-inch pipe, by means of a sand pump, to a depth of about 400 feet, from which point the well is continued by inserting an eight-inch pipe within the ten-inch pipe and driving it down to the rock formation, the eight-inch pipe extending from the rock up through the ten-inch pipe to the surface of the ground. From the rock formation down, the rock is drilled without any pipe casing, except through such portions as are liable to cave. Salt well No. 5 at Manistee, which is described in the present article, is fairly typical of the wells in this vicinity. The ten-inch pipe reaches to a depth of 400 feet, the eight-inch pipe to a depth of 616 feet, where the rock formation is encountered. The bed of rock salt, which is thirty feet in thickness, reaches to a depth of 1985 feet, making a total depth of 2015 feet. The yield pumped from this well amounts to from 2000 to 2400 barrels of brine in twenty-four hours.

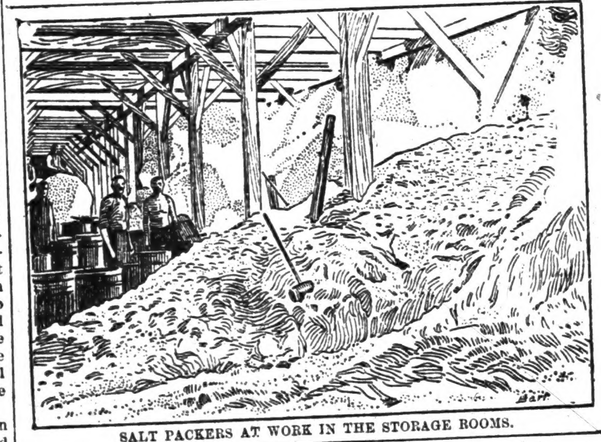
Part of the salt manufactured in this plant is made by the vacuum-pan process. In operating the plant the pans are first filled by gravity, after which the gravity supply pipe is closed, and the valve in the pipe connecting with the settlers is opened, the brine being drawn into the pans by the vacuum therein as the evaporation proceeds. The water and the air pumps are inserted, steam is admitted to the steam belt, and the process of manufacturing salt begins. The atmospheric pressure being removed from the surface of the brine, the latter boils violently at a temperature which seldom rises above 150 degrees Fahrenheit. The brine rushes upward through the tubes, and under the rapid evaporation the brine becomes so dense that it can no longer hold the salt in solution. Fine crystal grains are formed, as the liquid circulates through the large three-foot opening in the steam belt, and falling to the bottom of the pan they pass to the foot of the elevator, whence they are taken up and dumped into the drainage bins. After the salt has remained in these bins for a period of sixteen to eighteen hours, it is drawn off into carts, wheeled to the storage bins and dumped. It is customary to use the pans for not longer than twelve consecutive hours, at the end of which period they are emptied, boiled out with fresh water, and cleaned. One of the pans is run during the day and the other during the night, each pan making in a twelve-hour run from 600 to 700 barrels of salt, the combined production being from 1200 to 1400 barrels a day.

In the manufacture of salt it is a recognized necessity that a large quantity must be kept in storage, and for this purpose the salt is dumped into vast storerooms which measure from 200 to 300 feet in length, and the same in width; the amount in store frequently aggregated 400,000 barrels. As these rooms are from sixteen to twenty feet



SALT PACKERS AT WORK IN THE STORAGE ROOMS.

The accompanying diagrams and photographs represent the modern state of the art. As the brine is pumped from the well, it is delivered to the storage cisterns, from which it falls by gravity to the settlers, and from the settlers to the grainers. In the settlers it is heated to a temperature of about 170 degrees Fahrenheit. Upon being allowed to cool, the gypsum, which, if it were not removed, would form a coating on the steam pipes in the grainers, is precipitated, and as soon as precipitation is completed the brine is drawn to a long box running across the head ends of the grainers, and from the box it is fed to the grainers as required. The latter are long, shallow tanks, near the bottom of which, and extending throughout their full length, is a series of steam pipes. The brine being admitted to the grainers, the steam is turned on, the liquor soon acquires a high temperature, and rapid evaporation takes place. To assist the precipitation of the grains of salt, the surface of the brine is agitated at frequent intervals by means of a series of paddles which are operated by a lever at the end of the grainer. The salt accumulates at the bottom, until in the course of twenty-four hours there will be a layer from six to eight inches deep. The salt is lifted from the grainer by means of long-handled, perforated shovels, and is deposited on the runaway. As soon as it is thoroughly drained, it is shoveled into carts, run out over the storage bin, and dumped.

The plant under consideration consists of five wells, three cisterns each eighteen feet wide by 100 feet long and eight feet deep, and six settlers twelve feet wide, 175 feet long, and eight feet deep, capable of holding about 24,000 barrels. When these cisterns and settlers are all full, they hold enough brine to manufacture over 10,000 barrels of salt.

deep the salt becomes tightly packed, and has to be worked loose by packers with picks, shovels, grubhoes, etc., who proceed to quarry, break up and pack the salt into barrels. With the coarser grades of salt made in the grainers this is not a difficult matter, but the finer grained, vacuum-pan salt becomes compact and very hard, and the packer soon finds himself confronted by a wall of salt twenty feet in height and as white, if not as hard, as marble. To undermine and bring down this mass of salt is a dangerous operation, and involves long delays; and to overcome these difficulties, the companies have used a compressed-air driven spiral auger, which is ten inches in diameter and provided with a double spoon point. The auger is mounted on a truck and the back end of the shaft is attached to a three-horse-power rotary air drill machine. A row of holes is driven into the salt wall at a height of ten inches from the floor for a distance of six feet into the mass, the holes being drilled as closely together as possible. After an interval of one to three hours, a fall of salt takes place, a mass equal to 400 or 500 barrels of salt being brought down in each section. The saving of labor by the use of the compressed-air drill is shown by the fact that sufficient salt can be undermined and caved in this manner in one-half day to keep the packers at work for two or three days following. —Scientific American.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY

Subject: Practical Charity—The Benevolence of Dorcas Extolled—Her Work Contrasted With Present Day Methods—Woman God's Handmaiden.

[Copyright 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dr. Talmage, who is still traveling in Northern Europe, has forwarded the following report of a sermon in which he utters helpful words to all who are engaged in alleviating human distresses and shows how such work will be crowned at the last; text, Acts ix, 39, "And all the widows stood by him weeping and showing him the coats and garments which Dorcas made while she was with them."

Joppa is a most absorbing city of the Orient. Into her harbor once floated the rafts of Lebanon cedar from which the temples of Jerusalem were builded, Solomon's oxen drawing the logs through the town. Here Napoleon had 500 prisoners massacred. One of the most magnificent charities of the centuries was started in this seaport by Dorcas, a woman with her needle embroidering her name ineffaceably into the beneficence of the world. I see her sitting in yonder home. In the doorway and around about the building and in the room where she sits are the pale faces of the poor. She listens to their pliant, she pities their woe, she makes garments for them, she adjusts the manufactured articles to suit the bent form of this invalid woman and to the cripple that comes crawling on his hands and knees. She gives a coat to this one; she gives sandals to that one. With the gifts she mingles prayers and tears and Christian encouragement. Then she goes out to be greeted on the street corners by those whom she has blessed, and all through the street the cry is heard, "Dorcas is coming!" The sick look up gratefully in her face as she puts her hand on the burning brow, and the lost and the abandoned start up with hope as they hear her gentle voice, as though an angel had addressed them, and as she goes out the lane eyes half put out with sin think they see a halo of light about her brow and a trail of glory in her pathway. That night a half-paid shipwright climbs the hill and reaches home and sees his little boy well clad and says, "Where did these clothes come from?" And they tell him, "Dorcas has been here." In another place a woman is trimming a lamp; Dorcas bought the oil. In another place a family that had not been at table for many a week are gathered now, for Dorcas has brought bread.

But there is a sudden pause in that woman's ministry. They say: "Where is Dorcas? Why, we haven't seen her for many a day. Where is Dorcas?" And one of these poor people goes up and knocks at the door and finds the mystery solved. All through the haunts of wretchedness the news comes, "Dorcas is sick!" No bulletin flashing from the palace gate telling the stages of a king's disease is more anxiously waited for than the news from this benefactress. Alas, for Joppa there is wailing, wailing! That voice which has uttered so many cheerful words is hushed; that hand which has made so many garments for the poor is cold and still; the star which had poured light into the midnight of wretchedness is dimmed by the blinding mists that go up from the river of death. In every forsaken place in that town, wherever there is a sick child and no balm, wherever there is hunger and no bread, wherever there is guilt and no commiseration, wherever there is a broken heart and no comfort, there are despairing looks and streaming eyes and frantic gesticulations as they cry, "Dorcas is dead!"

They send for the apostle Peter, who happens to be in the suburbs of the place, stopping with a tanner of the name of Simon. Peter urges his way through the crowd around the door and stands in the presence of the dead. What demonstration of grief all about him! Here stand some of the poor people, who show the garments which this poor woman had made for them. Their grief cannot be appeased. The apostle Peter wants to perform a miracle. He will not do it amid the excited crowd, so he orders that the whole room be cleared. The apostle stands now with the dead. Oh, it is a serious moment, you know, when you are alone with a lifeless body! The apostle gets down on his knees and prays, and then he comes to the lifeless form of this one all ready for the sepulcher, and in the strength of Him who is the resurrection he cries: "Tabitha, arise!" There is a stir in the fountains of life, the heart flutters, the nerves thrill, the cheek flushes, the eye opens, she sits up.

We see in this subject Dorcas, the disciple, Dorcas the benefactress, Dorcas the lamented, Dorcas the resurrected.

If I had not seen that word disciple in my text, I would have known this woman was a Christian. Such music as that never came from a heart which is not chorded and strung by divine grace. Before I show you the needlework of this woman I want to show you her regenerated heart, the source of a pure life and of all Christian charities. I wish that the wives and mothers and daughters and sisters of all the earth would imitate Dorcas in her discipleship. Before you cross the threshold of the hospital, before you enter upon the temptations and trials of to-morrow, I charge you in the name of God and by the turmoil and tumult of the judgment day, O woman, that you attend to the first, last and greatest duty of your life—the seeking for God and being at peace with Him! When the trumpet shall sound there will be an uproar and a wreck of mountain and continent, and no human arm can help you. Amid the rising of the dead and amid the boiling of yonder sea and amid the live, leaping thunders of the flying heavens calm and placid will be every woman's heart who hath put her trust in Christ—calm notwithstanding all the tumult, as though the fire in the heavens were only the gildings of an autumnal sunset, as though the awful voices of the sky were but a group of friends bursting through a gateway at even time with laughter and shouting. "Dorcas the disciple!" Would God that every Mary and every Martha would this day sit down at the feet of Jesus!

Further, we see Dorcas, the benefactress. History has told the story of the crown; epic poet has sung of the sword; the pastoral poet, with his verses full of the redolence of clover tops and a-rustle with the silk of the corn, has sung the praises of the plow. I tell you the praises of the needle. From the fig leaf robe prepared in the garden of Eden to the last stitch taken on the garment for the poor the needle has wrought wonders of kindness, generosity and benefaction. It adorned the girdle of the high priest, it fashioned the curtains in the ancient tabernacle, it cushioned the chariots of King Solomon, it provided the robes of Queen Elizabeth, and in high places and in low places, by the fire of the pioneer's back log and under the flash of the chandelier—everywhere—it has clothed nakedness, it has preached the gospel, it has overcome hosts of penury and want with the war cry of "Stitch, stitch, stitch!" The operatives have found a livelihood by it, and through it the mansions of the employer are constructed.

Amid the greatest triumphs in all ages and lands I set down the conquests of the needle. I admit its crimes; I admit its cruelties. It has had more martyrs than the fire; it has punctured the eye; it has pierced the side; it has struck weakness into the lungs; it has sent madness into the brain; it has filled the potter's field; it has pitched whole armies of the suffering into crime and wretchedness and woe. But now that I am talking of Dorcas and her ministries to the poor I shall speak only of the charities of the needle. This woman was a representative of all those who make garments for the destitute, who knit socks for the barefooted, who prepare bandages for the lacerated, who fix up boxes of clothing for missionaries, who go into the asylums of the suffering and destitute bearing that gospel which is sight for the blind and hearing for the deaf, and which makes the lame man leap like a hart and brings the dead to life, immortal health bounding in their pulses.

What a contrast between the practical benevolence of this woman and a great deal of the charity of this day! This woman did not spend her time idly planning how the poor of the city of Joppa were to be relieved. She took her needle and relieved them. She was not like those persons who sympathize with imaginary sorrows and go out in the street and laugh at the boy who has upset his basket of cold victuals, or like that charity which makes a rousing speech on the benevolent platform and goes out to kick the beggar from the step, crying, "Hush your miserable howling!" Sufferers of the world want not so much theory are practice; not so much tears as dollars; not so much kind wishes as loaves of bread; not so much smiles as shoes; not so much "God bless you," as jackets and frocks. I will put one earnest Christian man, hard-working, against 5000 mere theorists on the subject of charity. There are a great many who have fine ideas about church architecture who never in their lives helped to build a church. There are men who can give you the history of Buddhism and Mohammedanism who never sent a farthing for evangelization. There are women who talk beautifully about the suffering of the world who never had the courage, like Dorcas, to take the needle and assault it.

I am glad that there is not a page of the world's history which is not a record of female benevolence. God says to all lands and people, "Come, now, and hear the widow's mite rattle down into the poor box." The Princess of Conti sold all her jewels that she might help the famine stricken. Queen Blanche, the wife of Louis VIII. of France, hearing that there were some persons unjustly incarcerated in the prisons, went out amid the rabble and took a stick and struck the door as a signal that they might all strike it, and down went the prison door, and out came the prisoners. Queen Maud, the wife of Henry I., went down amid the poor and washed their sores and administered to them cordials. Mrs. Retson, at Matagorda, appeared on the battlefield while the missiles of death were flying around and cared for the wounded. Is there a man or woman who has ever heard of the civil war in America who has not heard of the women of the sanitary and Christian commissions or the fact that before the smoke had gone up from Gettysburg and South Mountain the women of the north met the women of the south on the battlefield, forgetting all their animosities, while they bound up the wounded and closed the eyes of the slain? Dorcas the benefactress.

I come now to speak of Dorcas the lamented. When death struck down that good woman, oh, how much sorrow there was in the town of Joppa! I suppose there were women there with larger fortunes, were women perhaps with handsomer faces, but there was not grief at their departure like this at the death of Dorcas. There were not more turmoil and upturning in the Mediterranean Sea dashing against the wharves at that seaport than there were surgings to and fro of grief because Dorcas was dead. There are a great many who go out of life and are unmissed. There may be a very large funeral, there may be a great many carriages and a plumed hearse, there may be high sounding eulogiums, the bell may toll at the cemetery gate, there may be a very fine marble shaft reared over the resting place, but the whole thing may be a falsehood and a sham.

The church of God has lost nothing; the world has lost nothing. It is only a nuisance abated. It is only a grumbler ceasing to find fault. It is only an idler stopped yawning. It is only a dissipated fashionable parted from his wine cellar, while on the other hand no useful Christian leaves this world without being missed.

The church of God cries out, like the prophet, "Howl, fir tree, for the cedar has fallen!" Widowhood comes and shows the garments which the departed had made. Orphans are lifted up to look into the calm face of the sleeping benefactress. Reclaimed vagrancy comes and kisses the cold brow of her who charmed it away from sin, and all through the streets of Joppa there is mourning—mourning because Dorcas is dead.

Has that Christian woman who went away fifteen years ago nothing to do with these things? I see the flowering out of her noble heart. I hear the echo of her footsteps in all the songs over sins forgiven, in all the prosperity of the church. The good that seemed to be buried has come up again. Dorcas is resurrected!

After awhile all these womanly friends of Christ will put down their needle forever. After making garments for others some one will make a garment for them; the last robe we ever wear—the robe for the grave. You will have heard the last cry of pain. You will have witnessed the last orphanage. You will have come in worn out from your last round of mercy.

I do not know where you will sleep nor what your epitaph will be, but there will be a lamp burning at that tomb and an angel of God guarding it, and through all the long night no rude foot will disturb the dust. Sleep on, sleep on! Soft bed, pleasant shadows, undisturbed repose! Sleep on!

Asleep in Jesus! Blessed sleep
From which none ever wake to weep!

Then one day there will be a sky rending and a whirl of wheels and the flash of a pageant, armies marching, chains clanking, banners waving, thunders booming, and that Christian woman will arise from the dust, and she will be suddenly surrounded—surrounded by the wanderers of the street whom she reclaimed, surrounded by the wounded souls to whom she had administered!

Daughter of God, so strangely surrounded, what means this? It means that reward has come; that the victory is won; that the crown is ready; that the banquet is spread. Shout it through all the crumbling earth! Sing it through all the flying heavens! Dorcas is resurrected!

In 1855, when some of the soldiers came back from the Crimean war to London, the Queen of England distributed among them beautiful medals, called Crimean medals. Galleries were erected for the two houses of Parliament and the royal family to sit in. There was a great audience to witness the distribution of the medals. A colonel who had lost both feet in the battle of Inkermann was pulled in on a wheel chair; others came in limping on their crutches. Then the Queen of England arose before them in the name of her Government and uttered words of commendation to the officers and men and distributed those medals, inscribed with the four great battlefields—Alma, Balaklava, Inkermann and Sevastopol. As the Queen gave these to the wounded men and the wounded officers the bands of music struck up the national air, and the people, with streaming eyes, joined in the song:

God save our gracious queen!
Long live our noble queen!
God save the queen!

And then they shouted "Huzza! Huzza!" Oh, it was a proud day for those returned warriors! But a brighter, better and gladder day will come when Christ shall gather those who have toiled in His service—good soldiers of Jesus Christ. He shall rise before them, and in the presence of all the glorified of heaven He will say, "Well done, good and faithful servant!" And then He will distribute the medals of eternal victory, not inscribed with works of righteousness which we have done, but with those four great battlefields, dear to earth and dear to heaven—Bethlehem, Nazareth, Gethsemane and Calvary!

INTERNATIONAL LESSONS FOR JULY

Subject: The Transfiguration—Golden Text, Matthew 17:5—Memory Verses, 1-5—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

32. Above an eight-mile stretch of the Mississippi river, from Memphis to Vicksburg, the water is from 200 to 300 feet deep, and in places it is even deeper than that. The Mississippi is the swiftest in its course of all the great rivers of the world. The Amazon, which is well known as the Gulf Stream of South America, has a speed at various places of from three and a half to five miles an hour, with its waters at a temperature of 81 degrees Fahrenheit for a distance of 3,000 miles towards the north. As far as 40 degrees north latitude it preserves even in winter the heat of summer. The influence of the Gulf Stream of warm water upon the climate of Europe is such that it washes cannot be overestimated. It covers the ocean with a mantle of warmth and serves to temper the rigors of our European winters. The existence of this great ocean stream was first discovered by Ponce de Leon, a Spaniard.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JULY 29.

Subject: The Transfiguration, Luke ix. 28-36—Golden Text: Luke ix., 35—Memory Verses, 33-35—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

28. "About an eight days after." Matthew and Mark say six days. There were six full days and the fractional days at the beginning and the end making "about" eight. "These sayings." The sayings of the last lesson. Edersheim supposes the great confession occurred on the Sabbath, and the transfiguration on the night after the Sabbath one week later. There is no intimation as to how the intervening week was spent. "Peter and John and James." These same apostles witnessed His agony in the garden. He took these three (1) because He needed witnesses to prove the fact when the time came to reveal His glory to the world, and (2) for the purpose of encouraging and establishing them in the truths of His kingdom. "Into a mountain." The place of the transfiguration scene is unknown, but it was probably Mount Hermon, not far from Cæsarea Philippi. This is the opinion of nearly all modern authorities. "To pray." It was the habit of Jesus to go alone in the night to pray. Before He chose the Twelve, and after feeding the five thousand, we see Him praying in the night. This time it was a "prayer meeting."

29. "As He prayed." He was doubtless praying for strength to carry on His work and for the enlightenment of His disciples; the transfiguration was the answer. "His countenance was altered." Matthew says, "His face did shine as the sun." It would appear that the light shone not upon Him from without, but that it shone out of Him from within; it was one blaze of dazzling, celestial glory; it was Himself glorified. "Raiment became white and glistering" (R. V.) Mark says: "Exceeding white as snow." His face shone with divine majesty, and all His body was so irradiated by it that His clothes could not conceal His glory, and became white and glistening as the very light with which He covered Himself as with a garment.

30. "Moses and Elijah." (R. V.)—Moses was a representative of the law; he was the founder of the Jewish dispensation, which for centuries had been preparing the way for Christ; he was a type of Christ, and had foretold His coming (Deut. 18:15-18); and through Him had been instituted the sacrifices which Christ fulfilled and which explained His coming death which so troubled the disciples. Elijah was the representative of the prophets. They had foretold the coming and the suffering of Christ, and Elijah was the one who was to prepare the way of the Lord by his character and spirit reappearing in John the Baptist, the forerunner of Jesus.

31. "Who appeared in glory." In like glory with Jesus; with glorified bodies. "And spake of His decease." Or departure, or exodus from the world; including, no doubt, His death, resurrection and ascension. "Which He was about to accomplish" (R. V.) This conversation would enable the disciples to see the importance and necessity of that which was to them the greatest mystery—the suffering and death of their blessed Master.

32. "Were heavy with sleep." It was in the night, and the time when they usually slept. Our English version implies that they fell asleep and were awakened to see His glory, while the original implies that, though heavy with sleep, they kept fully awake. "Were fully awake" (R. V.) Even though they may have been asleep at first when He was transfigured before them" they were fully awake. "Saw His glory and the two men." The brilliancy of their countenances and the dazzling brightness of the garments. It was a reality. It was not a dream, they were fully awake.

33. "As they departed." Peter must have seen that they were about ready to leave. "Peter said." Peter is always ready to speak. "It is good for us to be here." Peter spoke the truth. The apostles would be stronger, and more useful because of the divine manifestations. It is always good for us when the Lord especially manifests Himself to us; when we see His glory. "Let us make three tabernacles." Or booths, from the bushes of the mountains; such as were made at the feast of the tabernacles. He greatly desired to have the heavenly visitants remain with them. "Not knowing what he said." Peter's plans were frequently in opposition to those of the Lord. He was so amazed and bewildered by the glory of the heavenly manifestations that he know not what he said. How many times do we speak unwisely because we do not stop to consider our words.

34. "While he thus spake." Here was the response to Peter's suggestion, a wise answer to a foolish prayer; denying the petition in order to grant something better. "There came a cloud, and overshadowed them." Matthew says a "bright" cloud. A cloud had frequently been the symbol of the divine presence. "They feared." This glorious manifestation of God's presence caused them to tremble. It is very likely that the transfiguration took place in the night, in which case the light of Christ's countenance, the dazzling brightness of his garments, and the glory of the cloud, would have a marked effect, because of the absence of the solar light. "Entered into." It was first above them and then seemed to descend over them and envelop them.

35. "A voice." The voice of God the Father. It revealed nothing new, but confirms the old, for it was the same voice which had been heard at his baptism. This would show to Peter and the apostles present that they did not need to detain Moses and Elijah in order to add to their happiness. "This is My beloved Son." Matthew adds, "In whom I am well pleased." They had Jesus with them, and He was more than all the hosts of heaven would be without Him. "Hear Him." He is superior even to Moses, the great lawgiver. Moses himself had made such a statement. Deut. 2:15. He is superior to Elijah and the prophets, and is the One to whom they pointed. Hear Him; attend to His instructions and obey His words.

36. "When the voice was past." The disciples fell on their faces, and were sore afraid.—Matthew. They feared as they entered into the cloud, but now when they heard the voice of God, probably as loud as thunder (see John 12:29), and full of divine majesty such as mortal ears were unaccustomed to hear, they fell flat to the ground on their faces, being sore afraid; an effect which manifestations of this kind commonly had on the prophets and other holy men to whom they were given. It was so with Abram (Gen. 15:12); and Ezekiel (Ezek. 1:28); and Daniel (Dan. 8:17, 10; 8, 9); and John (Rev. 1:17); and I have known people nowadays, when under the direct illumination of the Spirit, to lose their strength and fall to the ground. In this condition the three disciples lay until Jesus came and touched them and raised them up, dispelling their fears.

Boers Repulsed.

A Pretoria dispatch says: The Boers made a determined attack Saturday to destroy a post at the Railhead, thirteen miles east of Heidelberg, which they attcked with three guns and a pompon and surrounded. They were however beaten off after a sharp engagement before reinforements summoned from Heidelberg had arrived.

Illiteracy in European Armies.

The armies of Russia and Servia have 79 per cent of their soldiers illiterates, unable to read or write. Two other European countries have at letst 40 per cent. illiterates in their armies, namely Italy, with 45 per cent., and Hungary, 40 per cent. In Sweden and Denmark there is not a single illiterate in the army of either country. From the latest army return it is learned that 97 per cent of Great Britain's soldiers can read and write, and that 30 per cent possess a liberal education.

Vienna has become the center of the artificial bird manufacturing industry, and during the past three years its shops have turned out 750,000 of these necessary adjuncts to the milliners' art, all of which were fashioned from the feathers of domestic fowls.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

at Dumfries, 40 miles away.

In order to appreciate the trip I took through the Trosachs, one must read Scott's Rob Roy and Lady of the Lake. Though it was raining all the time ladies and men stood on the open upper deck of the little lake steamer to view the green grandeur of the mountains; bare of timber, but grass, green, blue and red, alternated from base to crest, and great gray rocks stood out in places breaking the other wise unbroken strech of mountain pasture where goat and sheep browsed in happy security, while old Ben Lomond stood sentinel shaking the clouds and fogs every now and then from his brow, and the sun would come out and radiate the already radiant view.

It required a large number of carriages (that is omnibuses) to carry our party, and I walked awhile and rode awhile, dropping out of a forward coach, and when tired taking the next one. In walking I picked up some peat out of a bag that someone was preparing for winter use. Saw the rough stone house where Rob Roy's wife was born, and his old home. I plucked some brown heather from the mountain side and remembered Scott's allusion to it so often. I saw a face, a bonnie Scotch lassie's face, at the farm house window while I was walking the mountain route and I knew then how Burns found his poetic inspiration inspiration. I would have ventured nearer and tried some of her Scotch dialect but I did not like the look of a big shepherd dog in the yard. After five miles we came to Stronachlocker and took little steamer through Loch Katrine passing "Ellen's Isle." As before stated reached Stirling, saw the castle.

Imagine a great solid rock, whose top contains five acres, perpendicular on all sides, save one. The one sloping side we ascend and find ourselves inside of this stupendous castle.

Saw the room of poor Mary, Queen of Scotts. Saw the peep hole out of which the jailer allowed her to look over the plain that extends for 26 miles in all directions, the finest piece of plain in all Scotland. Saw the old pulpit of John Knox. Saw the window from which the wicked King James, threw the equally bad Earl of Douglas' body after having him murdered. His family have put in a stained glass window there in his memory. All of this is history, but when one sees it he can't refrain from repeating it.

The Duke of Montrose owns nearly all of this county, and he gets one shilling (25c) for each passenger that goes through the Trosachs; what must his income be. This castle was built in 1160 A. D. this makes it 840 years old and it looks like it is good for 400 years more. It is 320 feet from base of hill to top of castle. Saw the rock upon which many heads were cut off. Could write a book about this castle and the eleven battles fought there, but I am tired and know you are too. I went through Dunfermline (the former home of my old friend Lucien Julien Walker, now with the Age-Herald) and on to Edinburgh.

Good bye until next time.

T. U. CRUMPTON.

The Snore.

A certain poet thus breaks forth: "Oh, the snore, the beautiful snore, filling the chamber from ceiling to floor; over the coverlet, under the sheet, from her twee dimpled chin to her pretty feet; now rising aloft like a bee in June, now sunk to the wail of a cracked bassoon; now flutelike subsiding, then rising again, is the beautiful snore of Elizabeth Jane."

Stage Fright.

When Bob Burdette started out to lecture, he struck the same town as Henry Ward Beecher, who sent for him.

"Well, young man, how do you like it?"

"Mr. Beecher," he replied, "it is awful. I nearly die every night from nervousness."

"Let me console you, then. The longer you lecture the more nervous you'll get." And Bob declared it to be true.—Saturday Evening Post.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Jemison, Ala., July 28, 1900

Editor BANNER.—I appeal to all liberty loving citizens to consider well the important issues before the people at this time and do not let your party zeal blind you to the real condition of things. We are often misled by listening and accepting as truth the analysis of these great questions given by these silver-tongued orators, when we should study them ourselves and know their relations to our interest and country's interest. We sometimes hear good men say stay out of politics, but it seems to me we ought to have more good men in politics to cry down fraud, dishonesty, impurity and especially immorality. But while we have wrenched ourselves from England's tyranical rule, yet we need a Patrick Henry to cry out "Give me liberty or give me death." and there is one thing we poor and illiterate Democrats should remember, that we will be no more than Pops, or convicts when we come to the polls to vote unqualified and I do think that if we have gotten a thimble full of sense left, we will turn down men where there is any doubt as to how they stand on the constitutional convention question and vote for men who stand up and speak out against it, let him be Democrat or Populist. Now, a word in conclusion to ministers, moral men and men who look forward to the destiny and protection of their race, turn down a man that has gone into the courts and plead guilty to an offense that will bring reflection and disgrace on the white race for generations to come.

To the voters of Chilton county.

Please accept my many thanks for your courtesy and proposed support while in the race for Sheriff. I am now out of the race in favor of C. J. Stewart, a man I find to be highly esteemed by all who know him, and a man thoroughly competent in every respect, and according to my best judgment the choice of the majority of Chilton county.

I learn the tickets are now printed and my name is on it, but save your vote, gentlemen, by casting it for C. J. Stewart for Sheriff. In man you will never have cause to regret voting for. Best wishes to the Banner and its many readers.

I am as ever,

Thorsby, Ala., July 31, 1900

Thorsby is busy with the grape crop at present, the depot at train time is crowded with the fruit shippers and lookerson, you know there will always a crowd collect araound a few busy men to watch the work go on. The small boys are also very much in evidence with their five cent papers of grapes, they do a right smart business with the traveling public; in a few instances the "T. B." are cute enough to get the fruit first, and then are so slow in getting out their money that the train pulls out and the small boy is left weeping; however, such instances are comparitively rare.
